CATHOLIC COLLEGE NEWSPAPERS ENTER NATIONAL SURVEY

Ridder, Kieran, Lomax
And Pegler Added
To Honorary Committee

"The Ram" of Fordham University and "The Tower" of Catholic University are the most recent entries in the Intercollegiate Press Survey, it was announced today by S. Douglas Murray, director of the project.

Other entries received during the past week include publications from St. Mary's College of California, St. John's College of Brooklyn, the University of Dayton and St. Mary's College of Texas. In addition to Murray, the Survey is being supervised by William A. Considine, James R. Durkin, Maurice J. O'Reilly and Joseph A. O'Connor.

The Survey committee is now completed. It was further disclosed, with the addition of Charles H. Ridder, publisher of the Catholic News. The committee also includes such press notables as John Kieran of the New York Times, Stan Lomax of the Mutual Networks, and Westmore Pegler, feature columnist of the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain.

JUNIOR LEAGUE HOLDS RECEPTION

Archbishop To Be Honored Sunday

A reception for His Excellency, the Most Reverend Thomas J. Walsh, S.T.D., J.C.D., Archbishop of Newark, will be held in the Little Theatre on Sunday, March 9, at 3:00 P. M., at which "Paca Street," a short play about Mother Seton, will be presented by the members of the Seton Junior League.

Following a speech of welcome by Rev. Dr. James F. Kelley, the Moderator of the Seton Junior League, Rev. Charles B. Murphy, will sum up the past year's activities of the group. Miss Grace Curran, featured soloist, will sing "O Mio Bambino Care."

In "Paca Street," the part of Mother Seton is being taken by Miss Corinne Murphy. In the four other roles are Miss Helen Hanson as Cecile O'Conway, Miss Dorothy Brunner as Annina, Miss Ruth Abos as Mrs. Howard, and Charles J. Silber-nagel, 43, as Ex-Governor Howard.

The action takes place about 1809 at Mother Seton's girlhood home on Paca Street. An anonymous Sister of Charity was the author.

The play centers about the decision facing Cecile O'Conway, a young girl about to enter the convent. She is offered numerous worldly possessions by the wealthy Mr. and Mrs. Howard, but she refuses after talking with Mother Seton.

JOURNALISM LECTURE

Joseph DiFilippo, associate editor of the ITALIAN TRIBUNE, was the guest lecturer in journalism on Wednesday. DiFilippo spoke on the problems of the weekly newspaper and especially the nationalist newspaper. DiFilippo is a well-known political columnist and has been associate editor of the TRIBUNE for the past two years. The TRIBUNE is the largest Italian-American newspaper in New Jersey.

PARISHES HEAR HALLERS DEBATE

Lend-Lease Bill Topic

Two intra-club debates on subjects of current interest highlighted the activities of the Brownson Club this week.

Gerard F. McCune and John P. Synan, upholding the affirmative, were adjudged the winners of the debate on the question: "Resolved: That the Lend-Lease Bill Should Be Adopted," over Thomas J. Higgins and Edward

FR. CAREY REVEALS BALL COMMITTEE

Date Will Be Announced

Appointment of the following men to the committee for the annual "White and Blue" formal was announced this week by the Reverend James A. Carey, moderator of the yearbook: Joseph A. W. MacMahon of Summit, James J. Flynn of Orange, Valentine A. Farley of Maplewood, Robert F. Duffy of Newark, Franklin M. Rogers of Irvington, Thomas J. Fahey of Harrison, John P. Devin of Kearny, John J. O'Neill of Newark, Edward B. Ryan of Richmond Hill, New York, Frank A. Fagg of West Orange, John T. McQuade of Spring Lake and James J. Forsythe of Newark.

The date for the dance, held annually to help defray the cost of publishing the yearbook, will be announced later.

PARKING REGULATIONS

The Student Council decided at a meeting held last Wednesday afternoon, to enforce vigorously the campus parking regulations. George H. Callahan, 42, heads a group of volunteer workers who will do the enforcing. Penalties for parking in restricted areas, the Reverend Thomas J. Gilhooly, moderator of the Student Council, revealed, will include, for first offenses, a large sticker warning on the windshield, for second offenses, two stickers; and for third offenses, the owner will be prohibited from driving his car on the campus.

"BUCK PRIVATES"

Catherine de Hueck, Russian noble woman who escaped from her native land at the time of the Red Revolution and who is now engaged in social service work in Harlem, has appealed to Seton Hall College students for discarded clothing to distribute to the needy. In particular, she has called upon the Bayley Society, campus Catholic Action group, to assist her.

Douglas C. Rackley, a Freshman who is a member of the Bayley Society, has been appointed chairman of a committee engaged in procuring the clothes from students. Those who desire to assist in this charitable undertaking are urged to contact Rackley.

Her father, a brother and twenty other relatives of the Baroness were killed by the Communists during the Revolution. Imprisoned on their estate in Finland and sentenced to death by starvation, the Baroness and the remaining members of her family escaped and joined the Anti-Communist forces. The Baroness, when only nineteen, served as a nurse and an interpreter with the British forces in World War I.

Continuing her fight against Communism, the Baroness established her first Friendship Houses in Toronto and in Ottawa, Canada, in both cases under the direction and guidance of diocesan authorities. These centers provide cultural opportunities and recreational facilities for underprivileged inhabitants of slum districts.

In 1938, at the invitation of three eminent priests, the Baroness started her Friendship House in Harlem, where there was a great need of Social Catholic Action to combat the growing influence of Communism.

She has been working there ever since, as well as living there. The results of her endeavors have been widely publicized in the American Catholic Press. She is an Apostle of Catholic Action, in action.

From the sacramental character received in Baptism and Confirmation flows the obligation of the laity to participate in the apostolate of the Hierarchy. This participation leads to real Catholic Action, which attacks the greed and selfishness responsible for present day evils and seeks to establish a social order based upon the principles of Christ. But material suffering must be alleviated before social reforms can be instituted. The corporal and spiritual works of mercy are, accordingly, a part of Catholic Action.

Far too many students neglect their obligation to engage in Catholic Action. They are content to remain "buck private" in the Army of Christ.

No "buck private" is the Baroness. She has now given Seton Hall men an opportunity to share in her work, to win their promotions, by assisting her in the work of clothing deserving unfortunates. Resolve now to win your stripes in the Army of Catholic Action by helping in this work. Stop being a "buck private".

rambling with Allardice

Gratitude is the oil that prevents friction between the human parts of an organization. We want to express our personal feeling of deepest thanks to those boys, our own classmates, some of them, who have brought to Seton Hall national recognition in the field of basketball. But, besides telling them how grateful we are to them, we feel that it is only right and just to do the same to the men who have guided them, arranged their games, and to the un-sung heroes of the locker-rooms, the managers. To them, too, "Thanks, for an undefeated season."

One of the greatest figures in American journalism, Horace Greeley, of "Go west, young man, go west" fame, editor of the New York Tribune, is the butt of many humorous stories. One in particular, told to us by our co-worker, Maurice O'Reilly, strikes us as representative of them all. It seems that Mr. Greeley wrote an exceptionally atrocious hand, and it was customary to make anyone who applied for a job as type-setter set one of his hand-written editorials. If this he did with few mistakes, he was hired. Once a young man applied, was given the usual test, and passed without a mistake. He was hired. For about six months he was the wonder of the composing room. He made no mistakes in setting Mr. Greeley's almost undecipherable editorials. So, the rest of the compositors decided to do something about this wonder-child. They bought a chicken, inked its feet, and walked it back and forth over a piece of copy-paper. After the sheet was a maze of black chicken tracks, they gave it to the genius of the composing room to set, telling him that it was one of Greeley's editorials. For many hours the setter puzzled over this gem, setting laboriously what he thought Mr. Greeley had written. Finally, stuck on one particular symbol, in despair he took the sheet to Greeley. "Mr. Greeley," said the setter, "I can't quite make out this one word. What is it, please?" To which Greeley answered, and in all seriousness, "Unconstitutional, you see."

It has been remarked that the general mein and behavior of the students here at Seton Hall is most favorable. At games our students have shown themselves to be real gentlemen, in name and action. The sportsmanship of Setonians has drawn praises from even visiting teams and visiting rooters. Here at Seton Hall we have shown that there is nothing effeminate in being true gentlemen, rather to the contrary. There are, as in every barrel of apples, a few who would taint the rest. To these, we simply say, Seton Hall is no place for you, we are gentlemen here.

THE SCRANTON GAME:

That was some game Friday night . . . George Rooney was out front waging a one-man battle shoveling snow . . . Jack Syman had his hands full taking care of the lobby prior to the game. Boy, can he wield a mop . . . Heard Dr. Kelley say that two ladies came all the way from Long Island to see the game. They left five o'clock and arrived here at eight . . . Met some boys from Scranton, Gene Moran, Jack and Joe McGrail, and Paul Burke, to mention a few . . . Dick Levins made eyes at a feminine Scranton rooter. He found out later that the fellow with her was Lou Yanton, captain and guard on the 1940 Tommies football team; he's an amateur boxer also. To quote Levins: "Why do I always do these things." Bob Luther's date wore boots. When the going was close at the end of the game, Red Corbett's date, Dot Borkstrom, in her excitement pounded his arms into soreness . . . Bud Gallagher was there with Shirley McAfee.

THE BALTIMORE GAME:

Joe Donovan, Sports Editor of the Newark Star-Ledger, gave us a nice write-up Monday . . . Did you see the three students from the Class of 1953? . . . Bert Kenah, 40, was there, uniform and all . . . Joe Amberg spent the time prior to the game's start bubbling about "Kevin" called her up as soon as he woke Saturday morning . . . Rose Connors uses the system of getting to know the girl's mother first, and then the girl. From where we sat, he seemed to spend more time speaking to her mother . . . The protege of Harry Purcell, 40, came in third in the Foul-Shooting Contest. Harry was down on the floor encouraging the kid, just as he once did when he was coaching third on the baseball team . . . We noticed Bobby Holm place his gum behind the post of the basket, just before the game. That was the nineteenth time Bobby did it, and we won nineteen times . . . Of course this isn't the reason we won, but it's interesting to note . . . Joe Dougherty was there with Evelyn.

We noticed a girl who tried to make the J. V. Team. She took a vacated seat between Bud Foley and Larry O'Connor, and then turned on the old personality smile . . . We don't know how she made out, but we do know that she rooted for Canisius, Scranton, and Baltimore in that order because "I don't like Seton Hall." At least, that's what she says.

HALLIGHTS:

Don Rackley and Lou Gallo have proved themselves to be real Knights of Setonia by collecting old clothes for the Baroness' Friendship House . . . Those giving up cigarettes for Lent, one quietest has formed a pool whereby the one who doesn't smoke for the longest time collects four dollars. There's a girl in East Orange who's keeping a scrapbook of Bobby Fisher's activities . . . Jim Forsythe will be heading for Philadelphia, Chestnut Hill, and Kay soon. The Glee Club is giving a concert down there . . . Speaking of Glee Clubs, our own club is looking forward to the Georgian Court concert next Tuesday . . . The Brownson Society is being re-organized again. Everything but the Moderator . . . Ask Joe Ber-raro and Cornelius Caruso to put on their song and dance. Mighty good act . . . Our hats are off to the "print shop" boys who were up all night last week getting out the Baltimore program . . . In order to prove to Mr. Kummer that he was out all night, Al Bellucci fell asleep in English class . . . Pete Orsini and John Cullen are feuding over a hair situation. Pete calls John "Alfalfa," and since Pete's recent haircut, John calls him "Hair-les" . . . Jerry Florio swears the train hit him. He's even considering suing the company.

For tops in soda-jerking we nominate Al Benson of Grunings . . . Hasn't Al Negratti got two nice friends, one blonde and one brunette . . . Jim Grady and Frank Delaney both like Marian, but they're two different girls . . . Heard "Doc" King tried to get that picture of the Junior Prom Queen from Dick Levins in class the other day . . . Whenever Jim Sullivan is with a femme, there is Jack Palmer. Does Jim need help? . . . Next to Dot Fitzgerald comes Hedy Lamarr to Gene (Frosh) Heiser . . . Bud (Dark Eyes) Zimmerman is off girls for Lent; and they are cooperating. Jimmy Coughlin was at the "Katie" Gibbs Prom, at the Waldorf with Ginny Mathews . . . Since boarder Bob Rainer won a Crow-Caiting Championship, the boys have been feeding him crumbs.

Some one wrote a letter to the Editor inquiring if Joe Dowling was out of love again? Ask Joe, fellow.

The Extension School is quite the place these days, with Grand Knight Gerry Dalton and some other little Knights taking courses . . . Phil Rekon has been going around in a fog of late because of a new femme in Bayonne . . . Al Gallo is still up in the air about Madeline . . . Frank "Lloyds of London" Sepik will give you any odds on anything . . . Jim Grady spends most of his time looking for ads . . . Jim Glancey lost ten pounds chasing the elusive paramicum in Bio Lab . . . Speaking of Labs, they're calling Elmer Smith, Bring-em-Back Alive Smith, ever since he captured that live mouse in Organic Lab . . .

If you want to get you-(Stewed)-abaker car plastered-Park behind Bayley Hall . . . Herr Herr is not a laugh but a freshman student in Father Strack's class . . . Silbernagel is now strutting the boards for the Junior Seton League . . . Congratulations to Robert Herbert, Editor-in-Chief of the Forian, well-known New Jersey Magazine . . . Baseball practice is getting under way-even in the dining room . . . Although Meunzen collected tickets on the balcony for the last week's ball game, he sure got an eye full.

THIS WEEK'S PLUG:

Don't forget the "mite-box" in the Bayley Office. It's for the Pax Romana, an international organization of Catholic students which is trying to aid refugee Catholic students.

walking
with Joe Kane

The Seton Hall basketballers wound up their second straight undefeated season last Saturday night, and, despite the un-sportsmanlike attitude of the defeated Baltimore team, that record stands. And what a record! It definitely places the Pirates in the top-ranking spot as candidates for the Writers' Tournament in Madison Square Garden are being lined up. The Committee, which will select the eight teams to compete, will have met by the time you read this column, but I would like to put forth my plug in anticipation of their choice.

The Setonians have certainly worked hard for an invitation to this tournament and should be chosen. Any team that has run up a string of 42 consecutive victories and which has on its team a boy who is rated by experts as "All-American" timber, surely deserves the chance to pit its strength against the other outstanding teams of the country. If and when the Pirates are chosen, I predict that they will be the hit of the tournament. Their colorful style of play, led by the sensational Bob Davies, will keep the opposition on the run and the spectators on the edge of their seats. Congratulations, boys, it has been a long, hard road and you deserve the glory that comes your way.

While I'm looking into the future, I'd like to make a prediction concerning the track team. Harry Coates' one mile and two mile relay teams, although they have been running into hard luck all season, will break out one of these days and show their heels to the rest of the pack as they round into the form that is expected of them. This column predicts that they will hit their peak in time for the Penn Relays, and then watch their smoke.

You have probably noticed from reading the bulletin board that the bowling alleys are now open to the students. Jim Coughlin, who has been placed in charge, requests that you please cooperate with him in keeping the alleys in good condition. Here is your opportunity to show your appreciation for facilities available in the Gym, and, at the same time, have yourself a good time. I'm sure you fellows realize Jim's position, and will aid him in every way.

TRACKSTERS ENTER COLUMBUS MEET

Setonia Looms As Favorite in Mile Relay

Harry Coates has announced that the Seton Hall College track team will compete in three events in the New York Knights of Columbus Meet tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden.

Due to the large number of entries received, the officials have placed the various teams in different classes. A Varsity Mile Relay team will be chosen from the following: Ted Janiak, Bill Gannon, Pete Wilson, co-captain Bill Slack, and Leo Walczuk. The team will compete against such teams as Rhode Island State, Villanova, Tufts and St. Francis. On past performances of the season this Setonian quartet looms as one of the favorites in the event.

Seton Hall's crack two mile team, which posted the season's second fastest time, will have a chance to avenge its Boston defeat in this meet. The competing team is to be chosen from among the following: Henry Sangier, Carmen Boya, Bob Ranier, co-captain Bill Slack and Bill Gannon.

SETONIA TAKES CANISIUS AS LAST MINUTES FADE

Davies and Pine Star For Hallers; Gauchat, Niland High for Griffs

After being held in check for almost 38 out of the 40 minutes of playing time, the White and Blue cagers defeated a fighting Canisius quintet in the Gym last week. By taking the measure of the men from Buffalo the Pirates ran their victory streak to forty straight.

This game started off in a most unusual manner, at least for the followers of Setonia. Instead of our own fast breaking team getting off to a whirlwind start, it was the Griffins who took charge early in the game, piling up a 9-2 lead. Canisius kept up the pace and at the half they held an eight point edge over the Pirates, who just couldn't seem to get going. Starting the second half on the short end of a 27-19 score, the Pirates fought hard and finally overcame what seemed to be an impossible lead with a few minutes to go. Then, with a finishing spurt that makes for a championship team, the Russelmen took the contest by a 52-47 count.

It was Bob Davies who led the team to victory; although closely guarded, Bob scored 14 points to lead in that department.

FENCERS EXTEND WINNING STREAK

Take Two More On Southern Trip

The Seton Hall College fencing team made a successful invasion of the South last week when they extended their winning streak with decisive victories over two Dixie institutions. They defeated the University of Virginia 22½ to 4½ and the University of North Carolina 20½ to 6½, chalking up their 54th and 55th consecutive victories.

The Pirate reserves took charge of both meets while the senior varsity men looked on. Never were they in any trouble, for they won in all weapons with ease. Sophomores Boutsikaris, Bellucci, Prokop and Gillen did well in their bouts.

INTRA-MURAL BOXING

An Intra-Mural Boxing Tourney will be held on March 28 at 7:45 P. M. in the Seton Hall gymnasium. Under the guidance of Mr. Di-Filippo, the Physical Education students will include gymnastic exhibitions, tap dancing acts and exhibition fencing bouts in their presentation.

The group of students who signed for the tournament will please report to Mr. Di-Filippo on Monday in the Auxiliary Gymnasium.

SCRANTON ALMOST TOPPLES HALLERS

Pine Sinks Winning Shot

The Seton Hall cagers kept their winning streak intact by a one point victory over a strong Scranton quintet in the Gym last Friday night. By virtue of this narrow victory the Pirates fought their way to within one game of an undefeated season.

Coach Russell started his famed all-junior five, hoping that they would throw off the strain which plagued them in the Canisius game. But, before the boys could shake off their unusually tense style of play, a determined Scranton five took a two basket lead. After five minutes of play the score was all tied up at 6-6, with the White and Blue moving to a two point lead at the end of the quarter, and eventually to a three point advantage at the half. With a 24-21 score in their favor at the outset of the third period, the Pirates lost the lead and fell behind 35-34. As the fourth period progressed the Setonia quintet found itself on the short end of a 35-38 score. Then, with a short time to go, Bob Davies sunk a field goal and followed with a foul toe to tie up the old ball game. Kenzie Pine in the fleeting seconds dropped in a free shot which a very short time later was the ultimate margin of victory.

Again it was Bob Davies who led the Pirates in the scoring column, with Pine, Ruthenberg and Holm in the supporting roles. Wallace and Thomas were the leading scorers for the Scranton team with 11 and 10

CAGERS SWAT BEES TO CLIMAX SEASON; SLATE KEPT CLEAN

Three Foes Leave Game Via Foul Route; Davies Scores 15 Points

By Edmund P. Rezekko

One of the most thrilling basketball games of the year climaxed Seton Hall's season last Saturday night when the Pirates edged out Baltimore University 45-44. One point behind, and fifty seconds remaining, Bob Davies, Setonia's brilliant forward, became the hero around these parts when he grabbed the ball and scored on a lay-up shot. This goal proved to be the winning basket, insuring the Haller's 18th win this season and the 42nd consecutive victory in a three-year campaign. The victory left Seton Hall the only undefeated college team in the East.

The game was bitterly fought from start to finish with thirty-four fouls committed, twenty-two being charged against the Marylanders. The Pirates capitalized on the Bees' miscues and made good on 21 of 27 free throws.

Bobby Fisher opened the evening's scoring when he dropped in a field goal. Soon Nat Winitzsky of the Maroon ripped the cords with a long shot to tie the score. Two foul shots by John Ruthenberg, a field goal by Holm and a free throw from the foul stripe by Fisher left the score 7-4. Jack Oland and Dick Edell cut the Setonia lead 7-6 but Bob Davies looped in two shots and the score board read 11-6 in the Blues' favor.

At 7½ minutes before the close of the first half the score read 18-15 in favor of the visitors. Foul shots prevailed in the next scoring as the board showed a tie at 24-all. John Ruthenberg dropped one in from the penalty stripe as the half ended 25-24.

The Pirates came out hustling in the second half and appeared to have control of the situation. Scoring by Pine, Davies, and Ryan, who replaced Fisher, gave the Setonians a nine-point lead at 35-26. Successive goals by Oberhaus and Ryan boosted the Baltimore score to 35-32. Ryan then disturbed the cords for another shot as Oland went out on

Writer Finds "What's Watt" In New Library Lighting

By Maurice J. O'Reilly
There will be no blackout at Seton Hall. When the new College Library opens it will have one of the finest lighting units of any college in the country. This is not an unfounded rumor, but the firm opinion of Emil A. Kern, the electrical engineer now installing the equipment.

The lighting unit is in the shape of a cross. In the outline of this cross there are 48 forty watt lamps and 4 twenty watt lamps. Through the center of the cross runs a unit consisting of 65 forty watt bulbs.

You probably read that over again. "Only forty watt and twenty watt bulbs," you ask. "What are they trying to do, help set an optometrist up in business?"

The answer is a firm but polite no. Your reporter failed to mention that the lamps were fluorescent lamps, that latest imitation of a lightning bug, where light without heat is produced.

If your reporter doesn't melt while waxing scientific may he have the permission of describing a fluorescent tube. It is a tube coated with a fluorescent, or light giving, material, in this case, zinc beryllium silicate. At the end of the tube are electrodes which lead to the current. Since, however, the current would be too strong if it went directly from one electrode to the other, a transformer, or, in some types of glass, modified circuit breaker, is introduced. When the current is turned on a drop of mercury within the glass tube vaporizes, a direct circuit between each of the electrodes results, and the coating fluoresces.

The glass is especially made, however, to trap the ultra-violet rays. Otherwise, Father Murphy, his assistants, and users of the Library would acquire a Florida tan.

Father Murphy doesn't mind the tan. He is just afraid that reports might circulate that Seton Hall runs a mass of fresh air courses.

Mr. Kern ran up against many constructional difficulties, due to the unusual shape of the library and the fact that part of the room had been blocked off for classrooms. It was necessary to install a steel beam fifty-three feet long for supporting the central lighting unit. Special reflectors had to be made to throw as much light as possible on the reading tables.

There are three types of reflectors used: an angle reflector to be used on the walls, an asymmetric, an off-angle reflector, also to be used on the walls, and a concentric reflector to be situated overhead in the central lighting unit. Each reflector, with its fluorescent tube, is covered with Czechoslovakian opal glass, one of the most expensive types of glass.

Englishman (eating a fish cake for the first time): "I say, old chap, something has died in my biscuit."

He: "Since I met you, I can't eat, I can't sleep, I can't drink."

She: "Why not?"

He: "I'm broke."

—Rattler—

Once there was a fellow who smoked many Camels that his nerves got so steady that he couldn't move.

And just one more rhyme:
Because you didn't get your Valentine
Don't think that I'm to blame,
I put the stamp on upside down
And instead of went, it came.

Sergeant: Say you're sure got a lot of nerve to come down in a parachute with this 100-mile-an-hour gale blowing!

Bookie: I didn't come down in a parachute. I went up in a tent.

An Englishman spending a holiday in Paris was endeavoring to work off some of his French in a cafe.

Garsone: "he said, after a lengthy study of the menu, 'Je desir Consommé Royal et un piece of pang et burri.'"

The waiter said helpfully, "I'm sorry, sir. I don't speak French."

"Very well," snapped the diner irritably. "For heaven's sake send me someone who can!"

BAYLEY SOCIETY

George E. Gieger, 43, Paul J. Hayes, 44, and Francis J. Niemece, 44. President Leo E. Conroy, 42, announced that the Bayley Society will be represented at a general meeting of the National Federation of Catholic College Students to be held on April 27 at Georgian Court College. Twenty-five delegates from Seton Hall will attend the business meeting at Georgian Court College to be followed by a lecture and a dance.

J. Shanahan. The debate was held at Our Lady of the Valley High School of Orange on February 25. James J. Forsythe acted as chairman.

On February 27 the topic, "Resolved: That the United States Should Conscript Industry in the Present Emergency" was debated before a capacity audience at the Saint Aloysius Alumni Association of Jersey City. The negative, taken by Synan and Higgins, was declared the winner over the affirmative, presented by McCune and Granville F. Peach. The debate was presided over by James J. Flynn.

capacity before the Securities and Exchange Commission and of the higher courts.

A native son of Massachusetts, Madden was born in Worcester in 1882. He received his B.C.S. degree, summa cum laude, from New York University in 1911. In 1921 Holy Cross College bestowed an honorary M.A. degree on Madden. He has also been honored with a Sc. D. degree by the University of Newark.

Immediately after his graduation in 1911, Madden joined the School of Commerce of N. Y. U. From 1917 to 1922 he served as head of the Department of Accounting Instruction. From 1922 to 1923 Madden was assistant dean of the School of Commerce. He has been dean of the school since 1925.

For his outstanding work in international finance, King Leopold II of Belgium decorated Madden with the Commander Order of Leopold II. King Carol has also honored him with the Commander Order of the Crown of Rumania.

Madden was president of the Alexander Hamilton Institute from 1929 to 1935. He served as national president of the Theta Nu Epsilon from 1925 to 1928, and of the Alpha Kappa Psi Fraternity during 1920 and 1921. He is also a brother of the Delta Mu Delta and Beta Gamma Sigma fraternities.

Madden is the author of the well known studies of international finance, "Foreign Securities," "International Capital Markets," and "America's Experience as a Creditor Nation."

Now residing in Orange, New Jersey, Madden is married and has five daughters. A convert to Catholicism, he is a close friend of Doctor Kelley. His hobby is sailing. Madden is a member of the Quill Club and the Lotus Club of New York, as well as of many business and accounting organizations.

GLEE CLUB

Carl A. Wagner, 42, tenor soloist of the Glee Club, will sing "His Sorrow Thy Young Days Shaded," an old Irish melody, and "Siciliana," by Mascagni.

Gabriel D'Amato, 43, will play as a piano solo "Ritual Fire Dance," from the Spanish ballet, "Amor Brujo," by de Falla.

The "Woodpecker Song" by Edo Di Lazzaro is well known as a popular song, having been first on the Hit Parade in the fall of 1940. The "Cantate Domini" by J. Leo Hassler is a stirring example of late sixteenth century church music.

BALTIMORE

personal fouls, the first of three Bees to leave the game via this route. Ross, of the Maroon, dropped in another field goal to shrink the Haller lead. Edell then left the game and Ruthenberg made good on a foul shot. Schaeffer looped one in from an angle to make the score 40-39, still in the Pirate favor.

"Pretty Boy" Whilitsky, Bee captain, then left the game on personals. Ryan dropped in a foul shot, while Schaeffer came through with another great shot to put the Marylanders in front 42-41. Bobby Holm then made good on two foul shots to put his team back in the lead. The crowd was now cheering wildly, no one having the slightest notion of how the fray would end. With both teams scrambling madly for the ball Schaeffer ripped the nets with a lay-up shot that put Baltimore in the lead 44-43. Holding a one-point lead with 50 seconds left to play, the Baltimoreans attempted to freeze the ball in an effort to end the Pirate streak. Wiseman of the Bees was forced out of bounds and Baltimore took possession of the ball. Bob Davies grabbed the ball on the throw-in and scored on a lay-up shot as the sounding of the buzzer for a substitution broke through the excited shouting of the now frenzied crowd. A dispute arose from the Baltimore bench protesting the basket. The referee ruled that there was no sixth man on the court. The rule book stated that play continues until the referee's whistle blows. Davies' basket was declared good.

Baltimore was given possession of the ball with fifteen seconds to go. They worked the ball down to mid-court, where Oscar Schaeffer desperately threw the ball in an attempt to turn the tide. The ball bounced off the rim into Setonia possession. The game ended a few seconds later and Seton Hall finished another great season.

Davies led the evening's scorers with 6 field goals and 3 fouls for 15 points, while Schaeffer of the Bees followed with 14. Ryan and Holm scored 8 for the Hallers.
