Hate Proves Importance Of Schools

VATICAN CITY—The importance of Catholic schools can be "judged by the hatred displayed for them by the Church's enemies," Pope Paul VI said.

In his closing remarks after the first audience of the new school year, the Pope said that the schools present a challenge to the faithful. The schools, he said, are also a source of joy to the families and the society at large.

The Pope's remarks came on the occasion of the opening of the new school year. He said that the schools are not only a place of learning but also a place of witness to the faith.

"The schools are a source of joy for the families," the Pope said. "They are a place where the faith is transmitted from generation to generation."

The Pope also said that the schools are a source of hope for the future. "The schools are a place where the future is shaped," he said. "They are a place where young people can learn about the world and about themselves."

The Pope's remarks were well received by the faithful. Many said that they were inspired by the Pope's words and that they were determined to support the schools.

The opening of the new school year was marked by the presence of many members of the Church hierarchy. Among them were the Archbishops of Rome, Milan, and Turin, as well as the Bishops of the dioceses of Italy.

The Pope's remarks were also broadcast on television and radio throughout the country.

Bishop Wright Scores Indifference To Holy Father's Social Teachings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bishop John J. Wright of the Diocese of Wheeling, West Virginia, has sharply criticized the Catholic Church's indifference to social problems. The bishop said he felt it was time for the Church to take a more active role in solving the social problems facing the nation.

Wright, speaking at a conference of Catholic bishops in Washington, charged that the Church has not done enough to address the needs of the poor and the downtrodden. He said that the Church's failure to act on social issues is a reflection of its own failure to live up to its own teachings.

The bishop said that the Church's teachings on social issues are clear and consistent, but that the Church's actions do not reflect its teachings.

"We have a duty to be the voice of the voiceless, the advocate of the oppressed," Wright said. "We cannot ignore the suffering of our fellow human beings, especially those who are weakest and most vulnerable."
1957 in Archdiocese of Newark and Diocese of Paterson

by William F. Zulch Jr.

NEWARK — The year 1957 was a challenging one for the Church in both the Archdiocese of Newark and the Diocese of Paterson. The year was marked by a number of significant events and activities that exhibited a dynamic leadership with a resultant communitarian spirit.

The year was marked by the ordination of two new bishops in the Archdiocese of Newark, and the installation of two new bishops in the Diocese of Paterson. The new bishops were welcomed with a sense of excitement and hope for the future.

In the Archdiocese of Newark, Bishop John J. McSharry was installed as the new Archbishop of Newark. Bishop McSharry was greeted with a warm welcome from the clergy and the faithful of the Archdiocese. His installation marked a new era of leadership for the Archdiocese.

In the Diocese of Paterson, the new bishops were Bishop Thomas J. McCarrick, who was installed as the new Bishop of Paterson, and Bishop Martin J. Boland, who was also installed as the new Bishop of Paterson. Bishop McCarrick was welcomed with a sense of excitement and hope for the future.

Expert Says Cause and Cure Of Alcoholism Lies in Family

WASHINGTON (DC) — The family is the key to solving the problem of alcoholism, several experts agreed at the national convention of the Catholic Alcoholics Anonymous Federation here last week. The conference was sponsored by the Federation, a national organization of Catholic Alcoholics Anonymous groups.

According to the experts, the family is the key to solving the alcoholism problem. They emphasized the importance of understanding the family's role in the development of alcoholism and the need for family support in the recovery process.

The experts also highlighted the need for education and outreach programs to raise awareness about the family's role in alcoholism and to provide resources and support for families affected by alcoholism.

One of the experts, Jane Doe, said, "The family is the key to solving the alcoholism problem. We need to educate families about the role they play in the development of alcoholism and provide them with the tools they need to support their loved ones in recovery."

Another expert, John Doe, added, "Family members often feel isolated and alone when dealing with alcoholism. We need to provide them with a supportive community and resources to help them through this difficult time."

The conference also featured panel discussions and workshops on various aspects of alcoholism, including the role of the church, the importance of preventive education, and the need for greater funding for research.

The experts concluded that by focusing on the family, we can make significant progress in solving the alcoholism problem. They urged all individuals and organizations to support these efforts and work together to create a better future for those affected by alcoholism.
Every Family a Holy Family

The Advocate January 11, 1968

In many instances neither is a third option. The Church accepts birth control, but only in certain circumstances. It decries abortion, but not under all conditions. It recognizes various forms of contraception, but not all. Thus, while it has made some progress, it still has much to do. In the United States alone, 20 million couples engage in extramarital sex each year. Of these, 10 million are married and 10 million are single. The result is that a large number of these couples are practicing contraception. However, the Church has not yet found a solution to this problem.

The Pope has stated that the Church is ready to accept birth control in some cases. In a recent interview with the New York Times, he said: "We believe that the Church should offer a moral plan to the couples who want to use contraception." He also indicated that the Church is willing to accept the use of contraception in certain cases, such as when the mother is pregnant or when the child is sick.

The Pope's statement is significant because it shows that the Church is willing to accept some form of contraception. However, it is not yet clear what form of contraception the Church will accept. The Pope has not yet specified which forms of contraception the Church will accept. In addition, it is not clear how the Church will enforce its new policy.

The Pope's statement is also significant because it shows that the Church is prepared to accept some form of contraception. This is a major step forward for the Church, which has traditionally been opposed to contraception.

The Pope's statement is also significant because it shows that the Church is ready to accept some form of contraception in certain cases. This is important because it shows that the Church is willing to accept some form of contraception in cases where it is needed.

In summary, the Pope's statement is significant because it shows that the Church is ready to accept some form of contraception in certain cases. This is a major step forward for the Church, which has traditionally been opposed to contraception.
International Group's Antagonism Waning

By Magie. G. G. Higgins
Director, Social Action
Department, N.C.W.C.

In several years I have no ticed a remarkable change in the attitude of the Roman Catholic Church toward some of its own leading groups and movements.
These changes have been particularly noticeable over the past year or two, a period that has seen the establishment of an effective International Group.

BURNING a recent report to E
Church officials, reminding them
of the need for cooperation between Catholics and the International Council of Catholic Social Science Bureaus, is the N.C.W.C.'s outline for the promotion of the group. This organization is expected to be formally established in the near future, and it is anticipated that its activities will be limited to the promotion of mutual understanding between Catholics and non-Catholics who are interested in the social sciences.

The International Group's
activities will be directed toward the promotion of social welfare measures in the United States and abroad. Its objectives will be aimed at improving the living conditions of all people, both Catholic and non-Catholic, and at eliminating social injustices.

The International Group will be composed of members from various Catholic and non-Catholic organizations, representing a wide range of activities in the social sciences.

The group will work toward the development of a unified approach to social problems, integrating the contributions of both Catholic and non-Catholic thinkers.

The International Group's
activities will be guided by the principles of the Catholic Social Teaching, which emphasize the importance of justice, mercy,
and solidarity.

The group will also work with government agencies and international organizations to promote the implementation of social welfare measures and to advocate for the rights of all people.

The establishment of the International Group is a significant step in the promotion of cooperation between Catholics and non-Catholics in the pursuit of social justice.

It is hoped that the group will help to create a more harmonious and just society, where all people are treated with equality and respect.

The Crisis in Labor

I believe every friend of labor should read Mr. Fr. Shefferman's article, "The Crisis in Labor," in the January issue of "The Advocate." The article is a valuable contribution to the understanding of the labor problem.

Mr. Shefferman presents a clear and comprehensive analysis of the labor crisis, and his proposals for its solution are well thought out and practical.

I was particularly impressed by his call for a more comprehensive approach to labor relations, one that acknowledges the complex nature of the problem and emphasizes the importance of cooperation between workers and employers.

I hope others will read and consider Mr. Shefferman's article, as it offers a valuable perspective on the labor crisis
and its potential solutions.

What Are Qualities Of Sorrows For Sin?

There are occasions when people are tempted to ask, "What are qualities of sorrows for sin?" As a spiritual director,
I have been asked this question
many times, and I have always found it important to provide a thoughtful and informative response.

The qualities of sorrow for sin include:

1. A deep sense of remorse
for the wrongdoing.
2. A desire to make amends
for the harm caused.
3. A commitment to live according to the teachings of the Church.

These qualities are important because they indicate a genuine conversion of heart and a willingness to strive for a more wholesome way of life.

In the end, it is important to remember that the qualities of sorrow for sin are not exclusive to Catholicism, but are found in many religious traditions. The key is to focus on the desire to do better and to strive for a more just and compassionate society.

Tips for Avoiding Christmas Stress

1. Take breaks throughout the day to enjoy the holiday season.
2. Practice mindfulness and meditation to reduce stress.
3. Limit your commitments and schedule for the holiday season.

By doing these things, you can avoid the stress and plethora of challenges that come with Christmas.

Anniversaries Point Up Mary’s Role in Church Unity Campaign

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The anniversaries of two key events in church unity efforts are being marked this year, highlighting Mary’s central role in fostering unity among Christians.

The first event, celebrated in September, was the signing of an agreement between the Vatican and the World Council of Churches, which aimed to promote peace and understanding among Christians. The second event, marked in October, was the establishment of the Pontifical Council for Promoting Christian Unity, which promotes dialogue and cooperation among Christian communities.

These anniversaries serve as reminders of the ongoing need for unity and cooperation among Christians, especially in light of the current global challenges.

Nauseous Code Violation Marks 'Farewell to Arms'

By William H. Morring

One is not surprised that the portrayals of extramarital affairs of Robert henley, the son of the famous British novelist and playwright, in NBC’s new musical of ‘Farewell to Arms’ is as popular as a used umbrella. As the great American writer of plays and fiction, Mr. Morring’s novel, with its major characters consumed by passion and the great love affair is going to be seen at its best in NBC’s adaptation. The character of Mrs. Wheeler, in her new role as a companion to the great American writer of the classics, is going to be seen as a kind of ‘Farewell to Arms’ in a new version of the great love affair. She is going to be seen in a new role as a companion to the great American writer of the classics, with the great love affair.

The Enemy Below

Presents: "Farewell to Arms."

A flight in the sky between a British and American plane over the river system of the United States. The British plane is flying at a great speed and is seen to be a danger to the American plane. The American plane is flying at a lower altitude and is seen to be a danger to the British plane. The two planes are engaged in a battle, with the British plane trying to destroy the American plane.

The Deep Six

Two Swiss Priests Established U. S. Capuchins 100 Years Ago

HE WERE the first Capuchins to establish the order in the United States. In 1870 two Swiss men, Father Joseph Burghardt and Father Joseph Boscovich, came to this country to establish a religious order that was to become the American Capuchin Order.

These two priests, who were members of the Capuchin order, had been sent to the United States by their superior, Father Superior General Joachim von Eberhard, to establish a religious order here. They arrived in New York City on February 17, 1870, and were greeted with great enthusiasm by the people of the city.

The two priests were assigned to the parish of St. John the Baptist, in New York City. They began their work by preaching sermons and teaching catechism classes. They soon began to attract a large number of people to their services.

In 1872, the two priests were joined by two other Capuchins, Father Ignatius Altmann and Father Michael Schmoller. They were assigned to the parish of St. Joseph, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. THE ADVOCATE
Immaculate, Eagles, Alysians, Quakersmen Capture Christmas Holiday Tournaments

PATERSON—To Pope Pius, Immaculate Conception, and St. Michael's of Hance, the 1957 Christmas season was particularly fruitful, as all four won major titles in their respective conferences.

The Eagles claimed their second title of the year, an event that no other school has been able to accomplish this year. Two other teams, St. Michael's of Hance and Immaculate, also captured tournament championships.

Immaculate got in on a foot against tough Catholic League, bassist. St. Michael's, backed by its powerful defense, was able to face the challenge and win.

The teams played a hard-fought battle, and both schools displayed excellent defensive play.

LoBalbo Has Another Powerhouse (What Else?) at St. Mary's (E)

ELIZABETH—In his own, unique fashion, Al LoBalbo seems to have molded another powerhouse basketball machine which must be considered the United County and NJSIAA Catholic "B" tournament this season.

LoBalbo's support may have varied, but his game never changed. He has been a steady performer for St. Mary's, a school known for its basketball tradition.

Another major obstacle to be overcome was the second St. Mary's game, played on Jan. 30, at the Elizabeth Athletic Center. LoBalbo had to be at his best, as the game would decide the outcome of the tournament.

LoBalbo was in top form, scoring 24 points and leading the team to victory. His performance was a testament to his ability and determination.

UNBEATABLE DEALS

Right From the Start: New England—New England was able to beat Providence College, led by Bill Roberts, in the first round of the tournament. Roberts was named Most Valuable Player for his outstanding performance.

Family Day
By Rev. Gabriel W. Hafford
Jan. 12 is Holy Family Day. This is a day that marks the anniversary of the birth of Jesus Christ, who is the Son of God, the Son of Mary and Joseph, the models of family living. It is a day for us to thank God for having given us such a great family, for Saint Mary’s School and Saint Joseph’s School, and for Saint John’s School. It is a day for us to reflect upon the importance of family life, both in the home and in the Church. It is a day for us to pray for the continued success of our schools and for the well-being of our families.

Minnesota Judge Has Puzzler: Science vs. Humane Society
AUSTIN, Minn. — Which is more important — the rendition of the science exam in science high school or the possibility that white mice may have been experimented on in the lab? "When mice are used in science experiments, it is said by those who favor it, that the animals are used for the benefit of mankind. When mice are not used, it is said by those who oppose it, that the animals are used for the benefit of mankind."

That is the question which the Minnesota district judge will have to answer in the next few weeks when twin whiles pulled from the lab moments before the Animals May Be Experiments on in Science High School was closed. The twin whiles were used to test the effectiveness of the new scientists on the market. The judge, J. B. Smith, ruled that the animals may be experimented on in the lab. "The scientists have the right to use these animals for their experiments."

Doctors and the judge both made it clear that the animals would not be used in any way that would cause them physical harm. "The animals will be used in a way that will not cause them physical harm."

The case is scheduled to be heard on Jan. 12. The judge will have to make a decision on whether the animals may be used in science experiments in the lab. The case is being watched by scientists and scientists alike.

Sponsor Hopeful Legislative Bill Will Act on School Board

TRISTON — Passed without a dissenting vote by the New Jersey Senate, but buried without action by the House Assembly this Federal Senators, the State Competitor Scholarship is expected to farr better this year according to its sponsors.

At the Sponsor's conference Wednesday, November 14, the bill was introduced to the Senate by Senator John P. McNulty, D-Union, chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

The bill, which has been introduced several times in the past, would require the state to provide bursaries for students who meet certain academic and financial criteria. It is hoped that this legislation will help to reduce the number of New Jersey students who are unable to afford a college education.

The bill would also provide for the establishment of a Scholarship Fund, which would be administered by the State Board of Education.

The bill is expected to be voted on in the near future and is hoped to be signed into law by the Governor.
