Division Begins New Film Series

by Rob Windham

The Division of Educational Media and Practices has scheduled a seven part film preview series, "What's Happenin'," according to Dr. Ruth Cornfield, the division director.

The series has as its theme, the disadvantaged child. Each of the films will deal with some phase of the children's lives. Some of the titles are, "Gaining the Growth of Children," "Promoting Pupil Adjustment," "Portrait of the Inner City," and "Broader Concepts of the Curriculum."

"Dr. Cornfield, in explaining the purpose of the films, stated, 'The purpose of our series is to learn what is in the film concerning the disadvantaged child. The second is to learn how the film can be used in the classroom. It is with this in mind, that the division director notes that the films will be valuable to both the educator and the soul-gardener.'

A schedule of the films will be carried in the Setonian's 'What's Happenin' column.'

Extension Volunteers On Campus

Bill Shlala, NFCCS delegate at Seton Hall has announced that Miss Barbara Duggan of The Catholic Church Extension Society will be in the Student Center today. Miss Duggan will have information concerning the work of Extension in the United States.

Shlala stated, that Extension volunteers serve for one year. At the present time there are 182 volunteers in 24 dioceses of the U.S. Assignments range from parish workers to teachers. Volunteer may find themselves in a slum or a migrant camp. Shlala commented, "Here is an ideal way to serve both the needs of the Church and the wants of our nation."

In other Federation news, Shlala disclosed that on February 25 he will meet with students from other area colleges.

Bennett, Basie, and Leonard To Appear at Hall Saturday

Seton Hall University announces its season of concerts, Saturday, Feb. 18, by presenting Tony Bennett, Count Basie, with his band, and Jack E. Leonard in the Wajdi Auditorium.

Bennett, the main attraction, has won his popularity four since he recorded "I Left My Heart in San Francisco" almost five years ago. Since then, he has been a consistent recording star with the San Francisco album, his biggest.

Basie, the swing king, continues to win headlines and audiences in front of all audiences. With the reality of an audience reaction it's surprising that your interpretation changes, the popular entertainer says. Bennett has also performed on the screen, first appearing in "Joseph & Leopold." He hopes to continue in this field, now deep, eager to appear in more films.

Willard "Count" Basie has been claimed as having one of the greatest bands of modern time. Born in Red Bank, New Jersey, sixty years ago, Basie traveled with various groups until noted music critics and record dealers found him in Kansas during the summer of 1932. With this break, Basie and his band appeared, in New York, in 1936 and by 1938 had become the third member of the band, Jack E. Leonard, is known for his appearance all over the world. Leonard has made many television appearances, and has been seen in many motion pictures throughout the past years. Long a favorite with countless millions, Leonard, a native New Yorker, can always be counted to keep an audience in hysterics with his own brand of ringing humor.

The third member of the band, Dr. Donald Lombardi, and Sue Ann Kav, are preparing for their recent field trip.

Dr. Donald Lombardi Engages in Psychology Projects

Dr. Donald M. Lombardi, associate professor of psychology at Seton Hall, has spearheaded several interesting projects that have helped put both himself and Seton Hall in the public eye.

First, Dr. Lombardi has co-authored three articles with students who are students or alumni of Seton Hall. The first, co-authored by Vincent J. Adesso, entitled, "What You Want to be When You Grow Up," is a study of the vocational aspirations of children help in understanding their personality formation. It was published in Child & Family Summer, 1966. The second article, "The Young Drug Addict" is designed primarily with those parents and who is under the influence of drugs or who is a habitual user of them. This article can be found in the February 1967 issue of the NJEA Review. The third article, co-authored by William Foreman, is titled "Masculinity-Striving in Juvenile Offenders." It analyzes how many delinquents, striving to overcome their feelings of inferiority, try to be like substitutes, for example, long hair, early smoking and drinking, and others. This article will appear in the Journal of Crime and Delinquency at a future date.

In addition, Dr. Lombardi, together with almost eleven of his students, has conducted a series of tests that were given to all students who attended the School of Nursing. The answers of those who have dropped out since they took the tests will be studied to determine if there are any answers that are in common, and to see if there are any possible patterns. If so, these patterns reveal about the dropouts.

Last, but not least, Dr. Lombardi, along with Dr. John C. Coughlin, will begin in March Auditorium at 8:15 pm. Niagara Falls, with a program about drug addiction. This show will be broadcast on Channel 13 at some future date.

DEAR REB:

Composer wants to know the score on '67 compacts

DEAR REB:

I'm a well-known composer, and I need a new car. The trouble is, I'm just too BIZET to pick one up. And what's more, many of the new cars I see are Offenbach in the garage for repairs! But I do have a good friend who is pleased with his new '67 Dodge Dart. He was given an excellent deal and Berlioz any money on it. My Bach is in the wall. Can you help me?

LUDWIG.

DEAR LUDWIG:

My advice is that you let yourself Revel in the enjoyment of driving the sporty, off-new Dart for '67. You'll find its Liszt-prize is a lot lower than you'd expect. And even though it's longer outside and bigger inside this year, Dart's still an easy car to handle.

Sincerely, Reb

Here's the swinging, man-sized compact for '67 that's got three B's of its own: Bold, Brassy and Beautiful. Dart has been completely restyled this year, inside and out. It's longer, roomier, more powerful. But still at that snug compact price. Drop in at your nearest Dodge Dealer's and try it out for yourself.

The New Divisions: Innovations In Education

Dr. Ruth D. Cornfield, Director of the Division of Educational Media and Practices.

Division of Educational Media To Open Book-Bound Classes

By Bob Winterton

The School of Education has now organized its newly formed Division of Educational Media and Practices in the Service of Education. This new division, established at the suggestion of the full committee of faculty, will be headed by Dr. Ruth D. Cornfield.

Dr. Cornfield, a native of the Bronx, A.B. degree from Bryn Mawr College, and a master's degree from New York University, has extensive experience in educational media and practices in educational procedures and materials in the subjects of science, social studies, and foreign languages, particularly. The division director has applied for a three-year appointment, entitled, "Temporary Encouragement Appointment, Divisions and Disciplines," to teach in the Academic Century Course.

When asked about the division's purpose, Dr. Cornfield replied: "The division's aim is to make 20th century materials available to the 'new' school, where teaching techniques will provide this material and technology to bring instruction in line with what specialists in education advocate." The rapid advance in communication techniques have not yet been utilized by the educational professional, according to Dr. Cornfield. Teachers, she claims, remain "oldtimers round" in that they use very little original written materials. The new division, however, will enable the reader to study other than text. Dr. Cornfield states that one of the main goals of her department will be to help the teacher reach the student through the student's own style.

In the media which Dr. Cornfield's division promote will not be merely appendages to lesson content such as the old audio and video concept. The lesson will resolve itself in the medium of presentation.

Specifically, some of the new techniques can generally find their way into Hall's classrooms are television and corography, video, tape, and programmed instruction in the form of books. The latter method whereby the student is allowed to proceed at his own rate and effect maximum individualization is finding favor in U.S. business and industry and is being used in limited scope by the armed services to instruct personnel. One of the new ideas cited by Dr. Cornfield as indicative of a trend away from strict reliance on written

Division of Humanistic Studies To Lead Education Experiments

By Bob Winterton

The Division of Humanistic Studies, which has only recently been organized, is leading the way in education experiments. The division's first major project, the Humanistic Studies Project, will begin in the fall of 1967.

Yet another new division, the Division of Humanistic Studies, is also important in the future of education.

Education, Arts and Sciences, is an aggressive, dynamic, and creative force in our society. It is our duty to serve and contribute to the development of our society.

We are the future of the humanistic studies. We are the future of education. We are the future of our society.

During the visitation in Nairobi, I realized the importance of Pope John Paul II's drums and so tribal drums must go. What can be done in this capacity? Along the shores of Africa there are the most primitive and primitive electric organs in the world.

Scene: The Bishop's office in Johannesburg.
Local Headman: ... But, Luigi, you don't have to speak to me.

Apostolic Delegate: ... But my warning, the Pope has decreed.

Bishop Kassida: ... Yes, we have long been under the thumb of England and now that they're gone it might as well be the armpit thumb of Rome. Yet, I tell them but they won't like it.

Scene: Somewhere in Zululand, about three miles from Jungle Jim's house.

Wamba: ... Uncle! The Pope has banned tribal drums; we must use organ on our basis.

Father Kenyatta: ... Bless my son, we have no electric local dissident. ... If those bloody Bullar-bawans are so smart tell them to send us an organ-grinder, we have enough monkeys for a whole choir of them.

Father Kenyatta: ... We must do something.

Wamba: ... I will go and see that great Ethiopian Catholic leader, Jemima Powell, who is now ruling in Zanzibar.

Local Headman: ... I agree with Powell. Mrs. Ghandi is a wise woman for Halle Selby.

Scene: The Bishop's office again.

Local Headman: ... Your Excellency, we must do something.

Bishop: ... Be patient and remember to tell the people to play cool in the next Tarzan episode.

Scene: A mansion in a glove field on the island of Zanzibar.

Wamba: ... I wa Powell, the Pope says we must use organs or mussels instead of drums. What shall we do?

wa Powell: ... Keep the organs, baby—I'm what's happening.

Scene: On the banks of the River of the Jungle.

Wamba: ... O great white Roman, if God resides in Mt. Kenya he can't white Roman.

Ramaz: ... He doesn't, but organs help distract Spaniards. Besides, do you think Eminence organs are made in Japan.

A History of 'The Second Look' Shows Hard Work Equals Success

By John Melville

A little less than year ago, Tommie Heim, executive director of the office of president of the Student Senate, proposed the establishment of a student coffeehouse, run entirely by students, operated and student managed. This is a small band of individuals and dedicated Setonians have transformed this promise into a reality.

Trudging continuously back and forth over the white tundra that is now Seton Hall, between classes and after battling a schedule of deadlines and financial straits, the coffeehouse crusaders have reinvented the old arch-dishonest house at the far end of the campus into the new coffeehouse. The climax of the effort of these determined individuals, the coffeehouse opened its doors to a large grand opening luncheon at 7 P.M., marks a victory over many obstacles and hopefully, the beginning of a new era at Seton Hall.

For the past three months, various committees have been organized and co-ordinated

Dennis DiMarco, president of the ACS/SA, stands before his group's exhibit in McNulty Hall.

ACS-SA Demonstrates Potential In Academic and Social Life

The new officers of the American Chemical Society Student Affiliate, elected at last month's meeting, have assumed the responsibilities of their offices with the beginning of this new semester. Dennis DiMarco, president; Patrick Russo, vice-president; Linda Sheridan, secretary; and Charles O'Donnell, treasurer, President DiMarco has selected the objectives for the second year of his presidency. We hope to increase the achievements of the Student Affiliate by furthering the recent projects started under former president Don O'Donnell.

This progress has enabled the organization to approach the second year of its existence with the realization of the potential of the opportunities and challenges that lie ahead. In addition, the Student Affiliate may begin the process of establishing a new academic chapter, which would be the first of its kind in the area.

In addition to its academic programs, the Student Affiliate has recently been formalized. The chapter will provide the students with information on the developments in the Chemical Sciences, as well as informing the students of the achievements of our chemistry students.

In order to continue these activities and where more possibilities exist, the Student Affiliate, will meet this month. Students involved in the inter-collegiate research program will present their findings and progress of their work and entertain questions from the audience. The presentations will be extended to all science students, and the members of the Underclassmen, to attend the meeting so that they may obtain greater understanding of the Affiliate and its programs.

Pirates Top Royals In First Road Win

by Tom Cavanaugh

Rothko, now 10-0, won his first game off the Seton Hall floor, 55-49, from the Royals, who lost their second consecutive Scranton defeat to the Pirates, 14-13.

The Hawks' record is now 2-1-1, though they have not beaten the Royals since last October.

One who took a hand in getting the Hawks back into the game was George Kelly, former Seton Hall star, now of Cheyenne, Wyo., who has been serving as coach of the Hawks' basketball team with the exception of a few days, when he had to leave for the military service.

Sophomore John Schumacher led off Saturday with 10 points, ending one of the most productive nights of his young career. Three senior starters hit double figures, and Sophomore Larry Rovola, who is doing well in his sixth man role, scored nine.

The Hawks, despite early leads of 14 and 19 points, only had to be caught and even finally fell behind, 55-49. The game stayed close throughout, a short while after the meeting of Summarin and Rothko, Schumacher opened up a 10-point lead for the Hawks. After that, the Hawks

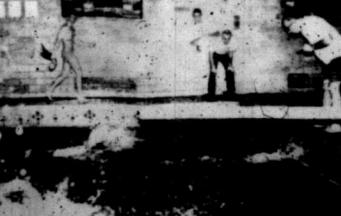

Adelphi U. Slows Squash

Seton Hall's squash team, which after 10 consecutive wins, was defeated by Adelphi, 6-1, on Saturday, Feb. 11, still has to be defeated by a score of 6-0. Captain Carlis Gora said the next match will be played the full 10 games before going down to defeat. Two newspapermen made their first appearance. They are both underclassmen so that they will pick up valuable experience this year. They are sophomore Jim Meyer and Tom Marzocca who play basketball at last year's champion, Adelphi. Last year Jim Fred Sikora and Bob Vann will be the only players of this year's squad who will not return next season because of graduation.

Don Gregory

Adelphi's 6-1 win came as a surprise to the Hawks, though both sides of the scorecard found some very solid fast work, with several matches left on the schedule.

Swimmers Slowed By Inactivity

by Bill Colganage

The Seton Swimmers were handed their worst defeat of the season last Saturday, when St. John's University trounced the Mermaids, 31-22 score. The Pirates kept the score close until the first man entered the water, but from there on in, it was no contest. The full scholarship club from New York simply overpowered the SHU, whose only strong point were Jay Wagner and Jack Hearn, who earned eight points in the breast-stroke event.

Buc Frosh Win An Away Game

Wagner gave the Frosh a scare. Leading by 10 at one point, and 12 at the end, the SHU got 12-out-of-12 points. The Frosh, however, held the score with five losses in the last six minutes remaining. After 10 minutes, Ken Moss and Mike Wall went to work. Moss' ball-handling coupled with Reserve John Thurston, broke the press and Wall threw in 14 of his 29 points to downsize the Wagner forces for a 29-27 victory.

ECT Final Tonight In Walsh Gymnasium

For the past week Archbishop Walsh Gymnasium has peeked the scene of the Essex County High School Basketball Tournament, hosting the sixteen best teams of the county. In past years, a good many of our present Pirate stars have played in this tournament. Schenckhaus of the Prent John Keenan Mass from East Orange, Ken Moss and Mike Wall, have all played in this tournament.

Ken Moss and Mike Wall, went to work. Moss' ball-handling coupled with Reserve John Thurston, broke the press and Wall threw in 14 of his 29 points to downsize the Wagner forces for a 29-27 victory.

This year's favorite is West Orange High School from Newark. They are the number one seeded team in the history of Essex County basketball. They are also one of the top four teams in the nation.

Led by 10 points by Lewis and 6-0 Dennis Layton, West Orange's present coach is not as well known as the new coach, but he is doing a good job.

As far as we know, there are four teams left in the tournament, though finds will be this Friday night. The four teams are West Orange, Central Irvington, and South Orange, all from Essex County.

The final on Friday will undoubtedly include West Orange against either Central or Irvington. West Orange has already defeated Central, twice this season and the prospects of a third are quite good. It appears as though West Orange may have a good chance.

University of Newark, and an employee of the Newark City Schools. The students are still learning the language of education, and are learning to live in the educational center. This is a new experience for many of the Newark students. In the course of the year, the students will learn what is involved in the educational process, and its importance to the community.

Among the students, and the faculty, there are many people from the Newark area. Some of these people are former students of the Newark City Schools. These former students are now teaching individual subjects. "It is a great opportunity for the Newark students to receive an education in their own city," says one of the students.

Arnie Obey Stars;

Wagner Wins, 85-73.

by Tom Cavanaugh

The Wagner set a new record for the fourth straight scoring in the Hall. Sager, Dick Flieg, and Orlie Featherstone, and the all-around playmaking and scoring of guard Arnie Obey to make off the Pirates 85-73 in an M.P.C. game at the Griffey Hall Auditorium. Obey continually broke in the Hall's effective pattern set out by number one foul breaks and dropped in 30 points. Sager, of the Hawks

Frosh Win Four of Five

With renewed vigor, the Seton Pirates led by Mike Wall and Ken Moss, met with four of their last five contests to bring their overall record to 10-10.

After winning the Monmouth JV meet, the Met. Bucs, put on a splendid performance against Manhattan, losing the Met. League clash 33-75.

Traveling to the University of Scranton, the Frosh Roundballers redeemed the previous loss by copping a tough victory over the Royals 85-73. Led by Pirate senior Porter Watson, with 20, a tall court-court, the Frosh started off with the first half netted SHU six buckets and a 16 point lead. With the pressure off and breaking Scranton's press with a precision fast break, the Buc-Buc reserves took over to run up the score.

Gerry Mackay

with 22, followed by Featine stone with 18, and Einge with 10.

For the Pirates it was a frustrating night. Vin Wright got into easily foul trouble and denied the Frosh an advantage. He stayed even until the last minute and a half of the first half. Trailing 36-36 the Pirates seemed to be holding the ball for the long good shot of the half. After 39 seconds of working the ball around it was stolen by Obey and quickly converted into two points. Two more fast breaks by the Hawks, and the Hall left the court on the short end of 44-36 score.

In the second half the Pir-ate was unable to make much of a dent in the Wagner lead. At one point they cut it to 62-57 but once again a fast break, this time by Olive Featherstone broke the back of the Pir-ate rally and gave the Hawks a comfortable lead.

Track Team Meeting Only Partial Success

Two weeks ago, the Pirate Two-mile relay team captured Seton Hall's first gold medal of the year. John Martin, "Chip" Weiss, Perry, and Rich Myers combined efforts for 1-4-3-4, placing third.

Richie, Bob Cross, and Colgate Weiss, Berry and Myers all ran their best time for the half mile leg.

John Martin, a junior, led off. He handed the baton to Chip Weiss in third place with Colgate Weiss in third place with the lead. He chased the wire with 1-37.5 for his leg, although he lost one place before handing off to Kep. Perry. Chip came to Seton Hall as a high jumper. Besides reaching six feet and higher in that event, he has improved steadily in the half mile as well. Perry, a junior, passed the Holy Cross runner and gave the baton to senior anchorman Rich Myers for his place. He clocked 1-47.0 with Colgate training in 7-48.0.

Frank Hasan ran fourth in the Downing Special 600, which is a half-mile invitation race for one representative of each Metropolitan Conference College. His time was 1-54.7. The winner, Byron Dyce of NYU, was timed in 1-51.0.

Wall Scores 33; Pirates at 9-10

Monday night the Pirate Frost encountered the St. Peter's Frosh in the Jersey City Armory. Marred by constant conflict with the referee, SHU could do nothing but play great basketball. Ken Moss was selected early in the first half for running, using the half court-court, and the Frosh, in the first half, with 22 points from Colgate, Holy Cross and Providence on the inside, he chased the wire with a five yard lead over Providence and Holy Cross. Myers finished his come-from-behind effort was 3-53. Providence and Holy Cross both ran 7-48.0 with Colgate training in 7-48.0.

might be a point for competition never grows. They work well together in the story-line and none is evidenced to upstairs the others. They make no pretense of being serious in this they have developed their own style the look was great acceptance from the viewing public. The approach is free and easy-like even though it looks serious content. This may well prove to be success, colling card, and a good change to have if show that is really funny without being forced or fake.

Commuter's Woes

external improvement is taking place throughout the country. Interest and demand has called for an adequate solution. The problem is fundamental to the advancement of the University itself and might go in to eliminating remarks like "Seton Hall better known for its basket-ball team" from national publications.

A way out of this dilemma might be in the creation of a "commuter's council". Many functions like dining, walls, radios, gifts, good-nights, and by such an organization to be used according to the system of the committee.

The purpose, "Seton Hall Family". This has long been an administrative by-line. However, the ideal idea is ever to become a quality, serious college will be necessary. If anyone now mentions those words, it is usually done in a fit of absent-mindedness or to get a laugh-when it usually does.

GOALS

Personal objectives are about as varied as viewpoints on what constitutes success.

Consciously or not, a man's goals are modified from time to time. Even if the man who can set his sights early and stay on course, a good deal better than the man who wavers.

Having the opportunity to work independently and develop your resources to their full potential, in fact, in their business, is a good way to start by beginning your training in our Junior Internship Program for college students.
