PLENARY COUNCIL MEETS HERE

Many Business Men Attend 7th Annual Mk't. Convention

During the Easter vacation the Seventh Annual Marketing Convention brought to the Seton Hall campus many prominent men and women from the business world. Those who attended gained a better insight on the importance that marketing has on the American way of life. The Master of Ceremonies, Edward Miller, assistant to the Publisher of Life magazine, started proceedings off by introducing Charles Smith, Pres. of the National American Marketing Association. Mr. Smith spoke on "Growing Importance of Marketing as a Management Function."

Next, Mr. John F. O'Connor, Eastern Regional Sales Manager of the Ford Motor Co. talked on "Selling in the Future." In the advertising field Dr. Darrell B. Lucas spoke on "Advertising in the Future." Dr. Lucas stressed the power that advertising has on the public. Selling of the "mousetrap" variety was brought out by Fred Jenkins, who is Pres. of Fred Jenkins Realty in Cedar Grove, N. J. Mr. Jenkins commented that everything the American public has had to be sold to them. An item, no matter how good it is, has to be sold; a demand has to be created for it.

Many Door Prize Winners

Over 100 door prizes were given to those attending and many students walked away with assorted prizes. All the females attending received orchids. The main prize was the use of a brand new 1957 Ford Fairlane. This prize was made possible through the courtesy of Avis, Rent-a-car system of Newark, through its representative, William Ayres. The use of the Ford, for four days was won by Robert Evans of Madison, N. J., a senior at Seton Hall night school. The value of the prize was over $80. The car was given to Bob Evans during the convention with all expenses paid including gas, oil, insurance, and all the miles Bob wanted to put on the Ford.

Panel Discussions

In the afternoon there were six panel discussions in the library. These discussions were on an informal nature with both students and speakers participating. Many different aspects of marketing, including Traffic Management, Foreign Marketing, American Women in Retailing, Industrial Marketing, Advertising, and Sales & Sales Promotion.

Many thanks go to the Marketing Club of Seton Hall for the fine work they have done in making the convention a success especially the club's President, Larry Orlando. Again praise goes to the Chairman of the Convention, Joseph Potocki, Publicity Director, Joseph Savino, Assistant Directors of Publicity Jack Catillo and James Alexander. Others who have done fine work are: John Gleason, Guest Committee; Robert Hebert, Door Prize Committee; Alphonse Paradise and Neal Franks, Ticket Committee; Michael Kaluszney and Charles Bowman, Touring Committee; and William Brickner in charge of the Luncheon Committee.

SHU Glee Club Holds Its Annual Concert Which Ends Season

Singing before a large and enthusiastic audience, the SHU Men's Glee Club presented their 31st Annual Concert here, last Saturday night at the Gymnasium.

Under the direction of Rev. Joseph E. Flusk, the Glee Club presented a varied program designed to please everyone's taste in music, from the lover of "barbershop harmony" to the lover of the religious classic.

Highlighting the concert were the soloists in the presence of Vincent Wu, tenor and Walter Patrick, baritone and President of the Glee Club. Mrs. Carmen Varrchi Fedarico, daughter of the late Glee Club Director, Dr. Mario Varrchi provided solo entertainment from the female side. Francis Wu, Club Accompanist, played two fine piano pieces which rounded out the program on the instrumental side.

The concert concluded one of the busiest seasons for the Glee Club in recent years, with no fewer than 11 concerts given at various women's colleges in this area, an appearance on radio, and the addition of several new songs to their repertoire.

The party following the concert for Glee Club members and their friends also brought the social aspect of the Club's activities to a close, with the exception of the formal banquet to be held in June.

All Divisions to Meet and Hold Discussions

The Second Annual Plenary Student Council meeting will be held on Sunday, May 19, 1957, in the Science Building Amphitheater on the South Orange campus. This meeting, encompassing all divisions of Seton Hall University, is the most important meeting of student government of the entire school year.

Frosh Class Dance Has Fine Response

A round of applause is due to the Freshman class for the support of their dance but most of all, praise is due the student committees that made it possible. First, Frank X. Keegan and Joe Bozzone, for their organization and overall supervision as General Co-Chairmen. Next, praise is due the entertainment committee of Pat Tommaro and Joe Tracy for their selection of fine music and entertainment. Everyone was pleased with the original souvenir booklet composed by Bill Noble and Vivian Lorenzo. Admiration was shown by everyone for the splendid and unique decorations that were arranged under the able direction of John Russamano and Gerry Labatti, assisted by Norby Belfor.

The services performed by the ticket committee of Tom O'Brien and Tony DeGaio also deserved praise. Last but not least, credit is due the effective publicity directed by Phil Guidino and Charlie Moss.

Under the chairmanship of Fred Colton and Bob Pingarro, schedules have been drawn up and sent to the divisions of Paterson, and Newark, as well as the Nursing School and the Evening division in Newark. Each of these divisions has been assigned a topic for which they will be responsible. Each topic will be discussed in separate panels and the report will be given by an appointed panel member. All club and class officers will be in attendance together with student council members and representatives.

On the agenda are scheduled talks by Dick Morago, president of the South Orange Student Council, and by Fred Duffy, president of the Senior class in South Orange. An invitation has been sent to Mr. Roy M. McNulty, president of Seton Hall University, to address the students at the meeting, and this will be the highlight of the program.

The program will begin at 8 p.m. with Mass and will continue in the chapel followed by a banquet in the cafeteria. After the breakfast, the members will proceed to the Amphitheater in the Science Building where the meeting will begin immediately after registration.

During the course of the day there will be a group discussion and talks by various committees. The program will end at 5 p.m.

All underclassmen are invited to attend this very important meeting because it will give them a chance to see their representatives in action and to hear from the national speakers who will be attending the meeting.

Ed Club Meets

On Friday May 10, the Education Club held a meeting in the Little Gym. Ed. Majors, principal of Ivy Junior High School spoke in the assembly on an educational topic. After the discussion a social was held and refreshments were served. All students were invited.

Seventh Annual Military Ball To Be Held Saturday, May 18

The seventh annual Military Ball, which promises to be the most successful of any yet presented by the ROTC, will be held on Saturday evening, May 18. The dance a formal affair, will have music provided by Hans Schmid and the Flamingoes with the intermission band being Tom Sepe and the Esquimaux.

The highlight of the Ball will be the crowning of the Queen of the Military Ball. Selection of the Queen will take place during the course of the evening by a group of prominent judges. The semi-finalists will have been chosen from photos submitted by the ROTC cadets.

Richard S. Inzeremonia, general chairman of the dance, stated that an elaborate floor display will be set up at the entrance to the gym. Dancing will be from 9 to 1; and are now on sale for $3.50 and are obtainable at the table. Outside of the Quad Hall.

The Military Ball is one of the most popular social events of the entire social season, as has been shown in the past by the fine attendance. As is the custom, refreshments will be distributed to the couples.

Everyone connected with the dance is working very hard to insure its success. A beautiful dance booklet is being prepared and plans are being made to have the gym brightly and lavishly decorated.

Let's All Join

Word has been received by the Setonian that a great majority of the organizations on the campus are being run by a "clique." We decided to investigate and find that this unfortunately is true. We even found how this clique was organized and how it operates.

We found this clique composed of faithful members who are present at their organizational meetings, who give willingly of their time, energy, and efforts, and who sincerely believe that the more one puts into his organization, the more he will get out of it. We even found that the members of the Setonian belong to this clique.

There is a way in which we can break up this terrible situation. If everyone starts attending meetings regularly, takes more interest in organizational activities, makes helpful, constructive suggestions, and accepts responsibilities to serve on committees, he will become a member of the clique. If every student does this the clique can no longer exist.

Strangely enough, you would be surprised to know how anxious the present clique is that you do this.

BLUE AND WHITE SPOTLIGHT

This week, we depart from our usual format of spotlighting a teacher to focus our eyes on a man whose accomplishments speak for themselves. Vice President in charge of instructions, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and author of "Saints Off Pedestals," we speak of Rev. Thomas W. Cunningham.

Born in Jersey City, Fr. Cunningham attended St. Joseph's Grammar School there, and then proceeded to St. Peter's Prep, also in Jersey City. In 1927, he entered Seton Hall and after two years, completed his remaining years of study at Immaculate Conception Seminary in Darlington.

Fr. Cunningham, who possesses an M.A. and a Ph. D. from Fordham University, was ordained in 1935. From 1937 to 1940, he was an instructor of ethics in the University College and curate at St. John's in Orange. Fr. Cunningham came to the South Orange campus in 1940, acting as an English instructor and chairman of that department.

As a sidelight, Fr. Cunningham was our last dean of the college, when Seton Hall became a university in 1950. He has served as moderator of the Dramatic Society, the Setonian, the Cross and Crescent, the Brownson Debating Society, the Bailey Society, and the Literary Society. At present, he is a member of the Modern Language Association, the American Catholic Historical Association, the National Catholic Education Association, the Catholic Forum of Newark, and the Medieval Academy.

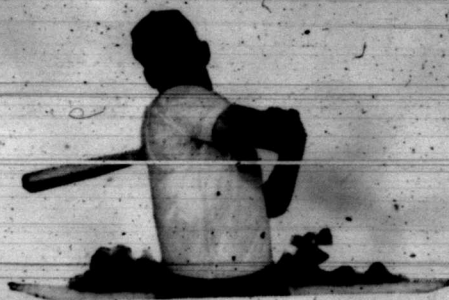

Besides all this, Fr. Cunningham appears in Who's Who in America, Who's Who in Education, and the Dictionary of Scholars. In addition to the aforementioned book, Father has had twenty-five published articles, thirty published reviews, and has conducted twenty-five radio shows and six television shows.

As we can all see, Fr. Cunningham is an exceptional man. We should be proud to know such a man and we should all look up to him as an example.

Literary Club Offers Faculty Discussion Concerning INDEX

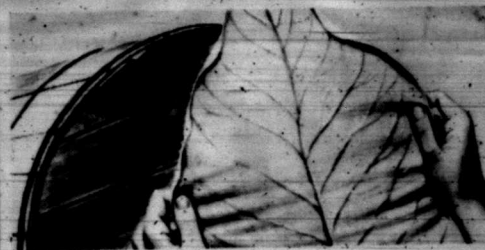

The recently formed Literary Club, held its first Discussion Group on Monday, May 13, at 2:30 in the Lecture Hall of the Library. The topic was an exposition of the Index. The INDEX was discussed from three different points: Literature by Mr. Clift, History by Mr. Stephens, and theological by Father Hakim. A general discussion group followed in which questions were accepted by the speakers from the audience.

In another phase of its activities, the Literary Club plans to put out a magazine before the end of the semester. Articles are being accepted from all students, on the second floor of B building at the Literary Club office. Articles, short stories, and Poetry will be considered by a Board of Editors. All efforts will be appreciated.

Alpha Kappa Psi Elections Produce Ten New Officers

Alpha Kappa Psi, one of the two business fraternities of Seton Hall University, on Monday, April 29, held its elections for next year's officers.

Here are the results of those elections:

AK Psi Fraternity Grows In Members And New Activities

The Gamma Pi Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, first and oldest business fraternity, is the 82nd member of the National Chapter and Seton Hall's first fraternity.

Alpha Kappa Psi was founded at New York University on October 5, 1904. Its objects are to further the individual welfare of its members; to foster research in the fields of commerce, accounts, and finance; to educate the public to appreciate and demand higher ideals therein; and to promote and advance in colleges courses leading to a degree in business administration.

Gamma Pi sponsors professional programs with speakers from the business world, industrial tours, research projects and educational films, for the benefit of its members. Alpha Kappa Psi maintains a placement bureau to assist graduating seniors and alumni members to make desirable business connections.

Like every other college chapter, Gamma Pi holds a number of social events throughout the year, which culminates with the Spring Cotillion, held this year at the Hotel Vanderbilt in New York.

On April 28, the following men were accepted as brothers in Gamma Pi Chapter: John Cornetta, Edward Larkin, Edward Kennedy, Vincent Plaza, Robert Dalhausser, Philip Glidone, Raymond Costigan, John Hall, Ralph Vargas, Robert White, Arthur Rennings, Charles Bowman, Joseph Williams.

Almost any one in the school of Business Administration is eligible for membership providing his scholastic average is 2.0 or higher. First semester freshmen and seniors, however, are not eligible.

International Relations Club

The International Relations Club recently returned from a weekend at Princeton University where they took part in the Intercollegiate United Nations Session. Seton Hall represented Poland and worked on such problems as the race problem in Africa, underdevelopment of underdeveloped nations, waterway rights, and international law.

Mathematics Club

Wednesday evening, May 1, the Mathematics Club held its regular meeting at which time nominations for next year's officers were made. One more meeting will mark the end of another year of interesting and profitable activities for the members of the Math Club.

One of the highlights of this term was the participation at the Eastern Colleges Science Conference held at Georgetown, The Math Dept. was represented by Dr. Andrushki and 8 members of the Math Club. Of the nine mathematics papers presented, three were given by the Seton Hall students.

At the meeting of April 12, Victor Mitchell, '56, gave a talk on his experiences in graduate work which proved interesting to all those present.

Accounting Club

At the last meeting, new officers were elected for the coming year. Those elected were: President, Edward Kennedy; Vice President, Steve Radics; Secretary, John Lo Giudice; Treasurer, Bill McKee; Student Council representative, Joe Albert. Plans are being made for the annual dinner to be held after exam week.

We would like to remind all Accounting majors that the club is open for membership at all times. So in the Fall let's see a big turnout for the first meeting.

Brownson Debating Society

The Brownson Debating Society held a state-wide high school debate tournament on May 4 at the South Orange campus. Kenneth Herbert was the chairman of the event. St. Joseph's Prep of Philadelphia won the tournament last year.

Pre-Legal Society

The St. Thomas More Pre-Legal Society had Mr. Hingze of the FBI as a speaker on April 30th. He spoke on the history, training, and future of the organization. The starting salary for an agent of the FBI is $3,500. They prefer men with a law degree. About 25 men attended the meeting.

Marketing Club

The Marketing Club is holding its annual banquet on May 16, at the Marlboro Inn in Montclair, N. J. A full course, turkey dinner will be served at 6:30 P.M. Following the dinner, a representative from General Electric will speak to those in attendance. Sports films will be shown to top off the evening. Jim Alexander, chairman of the banquet, has set the price for the dinner at $4.00, a very small sum for such a good time. Tickets will be sold in all Marketing classes within the next few days. Let's get out and make it a big success.

Congratulations to all the Newly Elected Class Officers

Joe Seton Says-

By CARMEN A. FERRANTE

Moon over Ft. Lauderdale and your tennis shoes are filled with the warm white coral sands. A grand Easter vacation in the land of sunshine and the Elbo Room was had by an enthusiastic Seton Hall contingent composed of Mike Velardo, Dick Monago, Gary Nardino, D. Kevin Byrne, Jim McMann, Fred Duffy, Bill Bricker, and Colgate's Bruce Erb.

Tony Giodano, Jerry De Lane, Joe Garaffa, and Al Lombardi proved that Florida wasn't quite enough when they crossed the Caribbean to finish their vacation in sultry Cuba.

Warm congratulations and good luck to Dr. Michael Dattero, former Seton Hall student and graduate of New York College of Podiatry, who is now teaching at the University's Jersey City Division. Also a special note of thanks to Mrs. Dattero, whose hospitality is out of this world.

Three valuable members of the Glee Club were almost left behind at the St. Joseph's concert in Brooklyn when the bus pulled away. Jim Milway, Bob Pingarton, and Joe Quinn, were saved from oblivion in Flatbush when they were retrieved by faithful secretary Paul Strezski.

A great time had by all at the Junior Prom and Picnic. Many thanks to Jim Caddigan, prom chairman and Leo Bauman, picnic chief for the fine job.

Congratulations to 1957 Galleon Editor Gary Nardino. The Galleon was "put to bed" in mid-March and will be in the hands of the student body before graduation.

This news instigated your reporter to make a few inquiries around the campus. The investigation revealed that no one could remember when the Galleon enjoyed such an early publication date or when a Galleon editor managed to graduate with his class. Kudos to Gary for pulling off both feats.

Setonian Manny Alfano, celebrated musician and actor, getting a television spot on the Arthur Godfrey Talent Scout Show. Manny making the wailing sounds with his "Volts" and the well known "Jets". Good Luck, Manny!

Jim McMann will probably end his junkets to various girl's colleges in outlying areas. Some circles have it that Jim had to travel 1,400 miles to Florida to find Roberta McCone and he was right nearby at St. E's all the while.

John Musilli failed to make Ohio during the Pascal hiatus. Adorable Adele still pining away.

Not overly enthralled by the Lauderdale atmosphere, friend Dick Monago shunned a Grosse Point, Michigan lass for ever-faithful Miss Nonnie.

CONGRATS AND GOOD LUCK

To the new Alpha Kappa Psi officers: Joe Walsh, president; Joe Savino, vice-president; Ron Meserindino, secretary; Norm Prinz, treasurer; Bob Smith, student council representative.

It's Orchids and Cigars for Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sealera on the birth of a pretty daughter, Anna Marie.

To Paul Strezski on his recent appointment as Editor-in-Chief of the 1958 Galleon.

Phil Oterocong is a proud uncle.

To Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trequit on their new and fourth resemblance: Michele Marie a 9 lb. 5 1/2 oz. queen.

To John Musilli, Commercial Arts major on being awarded the AWGFT-TV Scholarship to the graduate school of Boston University. John's studies will lead to the M.S. degree in television production direction.

To Jack Milano, on being accepted at Harvard Law School and to Dick Monago on his acceptance at the University of Illinois graduate school of Industrial and Labor relations.

To Marjorie Meyer of the urban division on being crowned Queen of the Marlin Beach Hotel in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida.

To Sam Cudello on his election as Company Commander of the Pershing Rifles. His other officers are: Gene Laughlin, Frank Hoffman, Frank Gilligan and Emil Sopoliga.

THANKS FOR LOOKING AND HAVE A GOOD WEEK

Junior Prom 'Huge Success'

"One of the best ever," this phrase similar to it could be heard Friday night, May 3rd after the annual Junior Prom.

The Class of 1957 held their affair in the Palm Terrace Room of the Hotel Roosevelt in New York City.

Upon entering the Palm Terrace Room, large goblets with the words "Seton Hall University Junior Prom 1957" were presented to the ladies as favors.

During the evening the prom-gours were serenaded by the distinctive style of Warren Covington and the Commanders, Dick Martin and his band provided the music during the former's intermission. The Prom started at 8 p.m. and lasted until 1 a.m.

Thanks to Jim Caddigan and his very capable committee, which consisted of: Ed Mikala, Entertainment; Joe Walsh, House Chairman; Gene Leibman and Vince Ganes, Tickets; and Dick Neffrand, Joe Savino, Bookends.

Divinity Doings

By Robert Coffe

The Divvy softball season is in high gear now. There are eight teams in this unusual league. The positions of the teams are as follows: Comedians (Richie Hallinan); 4-6, the P.B.'s (Aeden Kenny); 4-1, Yankees (Doodles, John Tubridy); 2-1, Dusters (Bob Gutkowski); and LeVites (Tom Comerford); 2-3, Asotics (Bob Brennan); 2-4, Mug-wumps (Ken Herberster); 1-2 and the Masters (Ken Fay); 1-4. These standings are as of April 30. The name for the last-place team was optimistically assigned before the season began. Some of the other teams ran through more names than games in the first two weeks. The list was so scratched up it looked like a much used racing form. Some of the rejected names were the Pixies and the WCCYO. No one has yet discovered the significance of all those initials. Many theorized that it was merely the first half of a Polish name. Wait around though for further news of a contest to "Name That Team."

If you think the names are unusual you really ought to see the players. (Yes, this means YOU!) It brings to mind Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors."

It's the only league where a ground ball can develop into a home run. It has also happened that more men have rounded the bases thanks to opposition pitching than have gone around on their own athletic merit. Some of the scores resemble tallies from one-sided football games.

As could be expected in an amateur production, the rules are violated with reckless abandon at each encounter. One of the classics up to the present time was a diagonal run through the diamond from third to first on a fly ball. As if this wasn't bad enough in se, there was another player on second. It's things like this that make the games interesting at least.

Bill Clark is at the edge of doom. He is one of the umpires in the league. He's "as crooked as a ram's horn." He's the only umpire who can make a decision that is disputed by both sides. The only thing good about Bill is that he doesn't make any new enemies on the field; he just keeps the old ones fresh. Bill thinks the strike zone is from the knees to the ground and the shoulders to the sky.

Joe Ryan is the only player in the history of the league who goes to bat every time with a cigarette in his mouth. He throws up a smoke screen around the ball and belts it out for a home run. There is nothing in the rules against this, so . . .

In some of the close games, the arguments are hot and ridiculous. One night the Levites argued with the Dusters from 6:55 to 7:10 about whether the game should end at 7 or not.

The dispute concerning the relative merits of Dali and da Vinci (pronounced da Wink!) has at last been settled in a very indefinite definitive way. The distinguished Dr. Sullivan (classical scholar and multi-linguist) cleared his throat and announced conclusively at a recent Art Appreciation session that: "de gustibus non est disputandum." Would that fine statement? Would that all dispute could be settled as readily.

Theme and Variation

By JACK McKINNEY

On the credit side:

Your local dealer probably has a new album by the Gerry Mulligan sextet, and if your financial condition permits I'd recommend you spend the "loot" for some of the finest jazz of this or any other year. "Jeru" is well represented in this set by six swinging examples of his musical philosophy which may well represent his peak performances on wax. The title is the "Mainstream of Jazz," and it is just that in the sense of being deep-rooted, vital and forceful jazz. Mulligan's sidekicks are Zoot Sims, tenor; Bob Brookmeyer, trombone; Bill Comeaux, Dave Bailey, drums; with Jon Eardley and Don Ferrara sharing trumpet chores. All the soloists are poignant, powerful, or pretty as the mood demands, and Ferrara is a welcome addition to the ranks of major trumpeters. Mulligan's talents are evidenced throughout, he swings so persuasively, his scores are not lean nor overstuffed, rather are full-bodied and conducive to blowing. Overall, there is a cohesiveness to the group which spreads a veneer of quality throughout the grooves. Highly recommended. (Emarcy 36101)

Shorty Rogers, along with Mulligan, and a very few others, has a genuine talent in all fields of musical endeavor, whether it be in conducting or writing film music, or leading his own quintet, or swinging a big band through its paces. His is one of the important voices in jazz, and on his latest Victor release he appears with a big band in a bristling set of originals that has all the power and expressiveness which has always set his work off from the banal. Some of his scores are 1956 vintage, others are from 1953-54. All are treats to these ears, and spotlight solo assignments from Bob Cooper, Art Pepper, Jimmy Giuffre, as well as the leader's trumpet. In all quite a powerhouse, but never overpowering. (Victor L.P. 1330)

Duke Ellington was recently introduced to the TV audience by Ed Morrow, and in the course of conversation Duke spoke of his latest long work, titled "A Drum Is A Woman." Duke's latest work may well be his best, and there is much to recommend it: it being a history of jazz in which Duke uses the simile of jazz and a woman. The work appears to be best suited for visual presentation, which it received recently over CBS-TV. Certainly Duke has offered us a memorable work and it may be quite an important step in the development of jazz. (Columbia L.P. 951)

On the debit side:

Much has been said in the past of the capabilities of drummer Buddy Rich, who is noted for his vitality and the seemingly inexhaustible energy he pours into a rhythm section. He is probably one of the best drummers in jazz, and that's why I feel it is a shame that his latest effort is such a meaningless and imitative program of the basic Count Basie band. (In that regard, Shorty Rogers did a much better imitation a few years ago and managed to preserve his own identity.) Overall, these are lackluster performances that offer nothing new or vital; it's been said a thousand times over, and it's beginning to pall. (Norgren 1086)

Tadd Dameron was one of the founding fathers of the Hop school of the middle 1940's and many of his compositions are considered "standards" on the jazz scene. Tadd has a new set on the Prestige Label which was warmly welcomed on the basis of previous performance, but soon rejected to the back of my collection on the basis of current performance. Tadd's assistants on the set are Joe Alexander, tenor, and Kenny Dorham, trumpet; among others. (Prestige L.P. 7037)

By JOHN FASANELLO

Ngo Dinh Diem, President of Vietnam, was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree by Seton Hall University on Sunday, May 12. President Diem arrived in the United States on May 8 and spent several days in Washington conferring with President Eisenhower before coming to South Orange, South Orange.

The Vietnam Chief Executive is one of the founding members and is still on the Advisory Board of Seton Hall's Institute of Far Eastern Studies. The degree was conferred by The Most Rev. Thomas A. Boland, Archbishop of Newark and President of the Board of Trustees of the University, following a 7 P. M. banquet.

Because of dissatisfaction with the French over the establishment of a provisional government in his homeland, Diem left Vietnam in 1950 and visited countries of Asia, Europe and the United States where he pleaded the cause of his country and asked for a real independence.

He remained for more than two years in the United States. In 1953 he returned to France because of the serious internal strife in his homeland. On June 19, 1954 following the French disaster at Dien Bien Phu, he received full military and civil powers from Bao Dai and agreed to form a new government in very difficult circumstances. He landed in Saigon on June 26.

He formed his first cabinet on July 7, 1954. The situation was very confused when the provinces of North Vietnam were suddenly evacuated by the French on July 2, and the Geneva negotiations divided the country at the 17th parallel and gave all of the northern section of the nation to the Communists.

One million refugees escaped from the north and placed their confidence in Diem who eliminated the Communist influence from the remaining part of the country.

On October 23, 1955 in a national referendum the people formed the Republic of Vietnam and elected Diem as President. He established a National Assembly and took the oath of office on October 26, 1956.

Spring is here in full force, and everyone is enjoying the sunshine and fresh air. Proms are being held all over the nation; and the final exams are not worrying everyone yet.

At the University of Kentucky a Navaho sand painting has been on display. Such paintings are made even today by "medicine men" to cure Indians of rheumatism, skin disease, stomach trouble, or sore throats. Modern physicians occasionally send Indian patients to a medicine man for treatment. The latter makes a painting with colored sand and chants an ancient rite. Many of these ailments have been cured because they were psychosomatic.

Tubes and Talk

On April 30, 1957, the staff of WSOU celebrated its ninth anniversary.

Rock Spring Corral Inn, in West Orange, N. J. Some forty members of the staff, along with guests, attended this affair. Monsignor John L. McNulty regretfully could not attend, due to a meeting with the United States State Department. He was represented by Rev. Edward J. Larkin. Among the guests were: Rev. Thomas J. Gillhooly, Director of WSOU and Chairman of the Department of Communication Arts, and Rev. Edward J. Fleming, Dean of the University College. Bob Wussler and Dick Busiglio were co-chairmen for the dinner and deserve a large vote of thanks for a job well done.

On May 12, 1957, Seton Hall University conferred an honorary degree on President Ngo Dinh Diem, President of Viet Nam. The degree was an honorary Doctor of Law. The ceremony was preceded by a dinner and at 8 P. M. WSOU was on the air to broadcast this special event.

Personal Notes from WSOU:

A belated congratulation goes to John Phillips for landing a job in the record library at WPAT, in Paterson, N. J. We would also like to congratulate, also belatedly, Bob Feaster for gaining a position as Promotion Director for the Brooklyn Dodger Farm System. Phil Painter has been found to be sound of mind and body and will be making the scene, after graduation. We are taking this opportunity to wish him all the best while working for Uncle Sam.

As a sidelight to the facts mentioned above in regards to the anniversary dinner, it can be said that this affair served to demonstrate the interest in WSOU which is possessed by all concerned. Not by their attendance alone but by the spirit which prevailed throughout the entire evening. Not to slight anyone, we would mention that this same spirit and interest is felt by others who for some previous commitment or extenuating circumstance could not attend the dinner. Many groups could be found talking over new ideas for the radio station. These ideas have probably existed before this meeting last week, but the gathering, which had been primarily social, provided an excellent opportunity to coordinate them.

Garnering a few Academy Awards plus the nation's financial backing, 'Around the World in 80 Days' comes along with great fanfare and tumult. It is one of those films that everyone has to see, but after viewing it, some will still question why. Why won't some like it? Let's see. On the credit side it sports some spectacular scenes, gorgeous color, stunning photographic effects, sparkling Perelman dialogue, 44 delightful cameos of assorted stars (Bea Lillie, Hermione Gingold and Fernandel are excellent to name a few), the wonderful performances of David Niven and Cantinflas and the florid Todd-Ao direction in a multi-million dollar splash. However, on the debit side, the production is too long to sustain interest; it eventually becomes a grind and you couldn't care less whether or not Niven wins his bet. Characterization, it has none. A glorified travelogue, glittering with international vaudeville and a host of extras, tries to make up for obvious shortcomings. The musical score is atrocious. Why this was selected over such outstanding films as 'Friendly Persuasion' and 'Giant' as the 'Best Picture of the Year' is beyond me. It is a limp effort, very far from being great. Thus we see the result when Mike Todd, the Barker for the 'greatest show on earth' (his idea) drumming up enormous trade for his mass entertainment, so much for the masses, it seems, that he omits those elements which a perceiving few would demand, to make his movie truly memorable. Such a tragic waste of money! One leaves the 'Ten Commandments' with somewhat of a glow; one leaves the Rivoli with quite a definite headache.

Perhaps one of the top five great foreign movies to hit the U. S. this year is the Italian 'Vittelloni'. It is a movie of sheer magnificence, one you want to see again. Relating the story of a few mid-twenty-year-old men who refuse to face responsibilities and just want to enjoy themselves, could be a dull chore save when you have the gifted genius of a Fellini (of 'La Strada' fame) to make it a masterpiece. Such a brilliant job of direction, acting, music, plot and characterization, should be well supported by the discriminating. One rarely gets a chance to watch films of this calibre today. Don't fail to see it!

Report Dr. H. Grady To Join Med School

The appointment of Dr. Hugh G. Grady as Professor and Director of Pathology of the Seton Hall College of Medicine was announced today by Dr. Charles L. Brown, Dean. Dr. Grady, who will join the Seton Hall faculty in June, is Scientific Director, American Registry of Pathology, Armed Forces Institute of Pathology.

A native of Philadelphia, he graduated from St. Joseph's College and received his medical degree from Jefferson Medical College in 1934. From 1936 to 1937 he was resident pathologist at Philadelphia General Hospital. For the next two years he was on the faculty of Jefferson Medical College. He was a research fellow for the National Cancer Institute at Harvard University in 1938. From 1939 until 1942 he held a research fellowship at the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Maryland.

He entered the Army in 1942 and was discharged in 1946 as a Lt. Colonel. Following his military service he returned to the faculty of Jefferson College for two years. He joined the Armed Forces Institute in 1946, serving as Chief of the Division of Pathology from 1954 to 1955.

Dr. Grady is a member of the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists, the International Academy of Pathology, the American Association of Cancer Research and the American Society of Experimental Pathology.

Vet's

Latest

By Ed Rosen

The Easter break is over, there are only two weeks to go before the final examinations start, and, suddenly, the '56-'57 scholastic year will be at an end. What kind of a year has it been? A year in which Korean Vet attendance hit its peak at Seton Hall... a year in which the Vets' Club finally held a buffet and dance... a year in which everyone seemed to contract Spring fever in February... and, remember, YOU ARE THERE! SETON HALL, 1957!

Attendance Reports

All joking aside, we have a word to pass on from the Veteran Coordinator's Office. The final Veterans attendance reports will be signed at the last regular meeting of each course prior to the final examinations. This attendance report will be a joint May-June report (about three days in June being included on the report) and cannot be officially filed at the Veteran Coordinator's Office in Bayley Hall until you have COMPLETED your LAST final examination. But be sure to have the report signed by each instructor prior to the commencement of the examinations themselves.

Vets' Club Dance

On the evening of April 27 the Veterans' Club held its annual buffet and dance at the Fiske Post (V.F.W.) in Cranford. Festivities commenced at 8:30 and when the doors were finally locked for the evening, some fifty-two couples were in attendance.

A buffet was served from 8:30 to 9:30 officially, but the buffet tables remained stocked with food for occasional foraging raids on the part of the guests for the remainder of the evening. Dancing was continuous until closing time and the price of all refreshments was also included on the $5.00 per couple ticket. Carmine Errico's combo supplied the music and did a very nice job.

From comments we overheard from various portions of the one hundred plus crowd, we ascertained that everyone had a fine evening's entertainment and that all were more than satisfied with a night which was even more of a success than anticipated. To those vets who missed the affair but desired to attend we can only supply the old baseball axiom, "Wait 'till next year!"

Hats Off to Committee

The Vets' Club entertainment committee did a bang-up job on preparations and we wish to give them a hats off salute. President Jim Bellino was in charge of party preliminaries, prepared the buffet himself, and had the final responsibility for all monetary obligations. Jim did a fine supervisory and active part of the total night's endeavors, plus selling many of the tickets for the affair. Tom Waldron, club treasurer, had his headaches lining up the cash and keeping affairs straight, plus helping out with final preparations together with his wife Betty-Ann. Frank Elmor and Barney Hand were towers of strength in the ticket sales department. The pair also were instrumental in securing reasonably-priced refreshments and a site for the affair respectively. Al Paladino did yeoman service as the refreshment supervisor the night of the dance. Joe Coakely many of the items which had to be transported to the Cranford site for the buffet and refreshments booth. To all these, as well as others whom we have unavoidably overlooked, we take our hats off for a night's entertainment for the social year's lowest price.

Able Band Director Of The ROTC Band Lt. Col. J. McKenzie

Lt. Col. John B. McKenzie, Army, Retired, is the energetic Band Director of the ROTC Band at Seton Hall University, South Orange, N.J. Colonel McKenzie of 43 Rutherford Place, Arlington, N. J., is responsible for the musical instruction and arranging of Seton Hall's forty five piece prize winning ROTC Band. Attesting to his able leadership and ability to turn college students, with diversified interests, into competent band musicians is the fact that Seton Hall University and Newark College of Engineering cadet bands both tied for first place in the 1956 Veteran's Day Parade held in Newark, N. J. Colonel McKenzie is the director of both bands.

"I can take any boy with no musical experience and ability, and have him playing a simple tune on any band instrument within a short time," explains Colonel McKenzie, who has had extensive experience as an Army Bandmaster. One of his biggest assignments during World War II was that of Chief of Special Services in the Northwest Service Command.

As Chief of Special Services, he organized and supervised U. S. Army Bands and Orchestras throughout Canada, parts of Alaska, and in the West Coast States.

Colonel McKenzie was first introduced to music via the trumpet when a youngster in Seattle, Washington. A neighborhood music teacher offered to teach him the fundamentals of music making, and Colonel Mac was on his way.

Since his father was an army officer, an infantry major and a veteran of the Spanish-American War, it was only natural for Colonel McKenzie to combine a military career with music, which he did with the 14th Cav Band in 1926.

Three SHU Students Earn Perfect Averages; Tell Their Objectives

The Setonian takes great pride in saluting three sons of Seton Hall who have achieved the height of scholarship by attaining a 4.0 average for the fall semester. This reporter interviewed the three men in an attempt to ascertain just what their attitudes, personal views and opinions are in regard to studies, goals and activities. The three are Alan J. King, Al Janoski and Thomas Hug.

Alan King

Al Janoski

Tom Hug

Alan J. King is a transfer student and has been a son of Seton Hall for the past three semesters. Alan is another man with a total average of 3.9. He is an Accounting major and expects to graduate in June of '58.

Alan is a Korean War veteran who is now fighting for high scholastic achievement and has apparently been victorious. An interesting note on Alan is that he works for a C.P.A. and puts in about 30 hours a week at it. Alone this would not be so startling but all that and a 4.0 too that's something.

Alan's plans for the future include marriage in August and graduate school after graduation. He plans and hopes to work for his M.A. in Business.

When we asked Alan about his personal views concerning studies he expressed the "you don't get anything for nothing" attitude, i.e., it takes hard work and plenty of push to make the grade. This seems to emphasize the view that genius is 99% perspiration and 1% inspiration. As a final remark Alan stated emphatically, "It can be done!"

Al Janoski, a student with a total average of 3.9, has reached the 4.0 peak for the third time in his college career. Al is a Pre Med major. He graduates in June and has already been accepted into the Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons. Some of the extracurricular activities in which Al engages are the QBE Fraternity, Chess Club, and the American Chemical Society. (Al is President of the Seton Hall Chapter of the Society).

We asked Al what, in his opinion, was a proper or healthy attitude necessary for high scholastic achievement. Al felt that one must develop a serious attitude toward studies if college work is to be of any personal benefit to a student. Moreover, he stressed the fact that the cultural aspect of college work is more important than simply striving for a "beepskin," which is unimportant by itself, the development of the whole man is the main thing. Al also stressed the importance of proper study habits and personal mental discipline. A fact that college students often fail to maintain after their fervor of freshman year has fizzled out.

Another winner of the four minute mile of higher learning is Tom Hug. Tom is a Social Studies major with a concentration in Political Science. He has completed the usual four years of college work in three (plus summer sessions). Tom expects to graduate in August of this year.

What are his plans for the future? Tom will attend the Seton Hall School of Law on a scholarship this September. During his stay with us at the Hall he has been a member of the 45 Thomas More, Pre Legal Society, a fact indicative of his interest in and his choice of law as a career.

Tom expressed his views on scholastic achievement by quoting from "Columbia." He said, "Some things you learn to make a living, some things you learn to make a life." The latter part of this quotation is, in Tom's opinion, the essence of the undergraduate level. "One should learn," he said, "to formulate these basic concepts by which you live." Moreover, he pointed out that every necessary element of scholastic attainment of any degree interest if you have it, you make it, if you don't, you don't.

Appoint Dr. Forte Ass't Dean

The appointment of Dr. Frank S. Forte as Assistant Dean in Charge of Post-Graduate Education was announced today by Dr. Charles L. Brown, Dean of the Seton Hall College of Medicine. Dr. Forte succeeds the late Dr. Gerald J. Scetula.

Dr. Forte is a graduate of Fordham University and the Temple University School of Medicine. He interned at Alexian Brothers Hospital in Elizabeth and served a residency at the same institution. He has done post-graduate work in proctology at Columbia University, New York Post Graduate Hospital and Seton Hall.

Irvington and West Hudson, a member of the Board of the Essex County Blood Bank and a member of the Seton Hall Dental and Medical Anatomical Pathological Association.

Dr. Forte is an editor of the Journal of Proctology and has contributed many papers to national medical publications. Included among his hospital appointments are: Chief of Proctology, St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, attending in Proctology, Presbyterian Hospital, Newark, Chief of Proctology, W. Service, Martland Medical Center, Newark, attending Proctology, Chas. Maas Hospital, Newark, and Consultant to Proctology, Essex County Sanatorium, Verona.

He is a fellow of the American and International College of Surgeons, Founder and Past President of the New Jersey Proctologic Society, and the New Jersey College of Surgeons.

Prayer

Allow me, the intellect to distinguish the good and evil to eat the fruit of doing trees to burn my hands on discolorated fading sands drifting back into the nothingness of a black sea to be tied to a pole under which floods of tears and joy disperse
the one meaning I held is true Permit me this, to protest to that from which my senses emerge and fade
and then I shall live as a man

Junior Class Picnic Named as a Social Highlight of '57

"And A Good Time Was Had By All" would seem to be the appropriate theme of everyone.

The Junior picnic held last Saturday, May 11th, turned into one of the biggest successes of the social calendar this year. In attendance were some 75 couples who enjoyed the facilities of the Junior Camp in Boonton, N. J. Outdoors of a sunbather in the early afternoon, the weather held out fine for the entire affair. Refreshments were plentiful, but before the end of the evening a scarcity arose.

During the afternoon, there were games of softball, tennis, and badminton. The evening was taken up listening and dancing to the music of Tom Sepe and the Esquires who played a combination of jazz, Dixieland, and popular music.

Named Galleon Editor

It has recently been learned from Father Nead, the moderator of the yearbook, that next year's editor-in-chief of The Galleon will be Paul Strezewski. Father Nead said that Paul's past experience, namely his being associate editor of his high school yearbook, merited him the appointment from among a group of qualified candidates.

Mr. Strezewski is an English major at Seton Hall, and intends a future career in law. He was also stated that the theme of the yearbook will be a literary one.

Paul Strezewski

graduated from Don Bosco high school in Ramsey, N. J. in 1954. At Don Bosco, in addition to his being associate editor of the yearbook he was also one of the editors of the school newspaper. Upon entering Seton Hall, he immediately became an active member of the student community by joining the golf club. The year he exhibited in that organization led to his being elected secretary of the body in his junior year. Paul is on the news staff of the Setonian as well as being a member of Phi Beta Sigma, the honorary college fraternity on campus. In addition to these extracurricular interests, he is also one of the founding fathers of the Literary Club.

In a short interview with Mr. Strezewski it was learned that the associate editors of the 1958 Gal-

The Seton Hall College of Dentistry has been awarded a research grant of $12,408 by the Institute of Dental Research of the National Health Institute. It was announced last night by Dr. Merritt M. Maxwell, Dean.

The research project "Sensory Pathways from Dental Structures" will have as its specific aim the tracing of the central pathways activated by the moving jaw and the mechanical movement of teeth. The principal investigator will be Dr. Charles M. Berry, Professor of Anatomy at Seton Hall.

S.H. Tennis Squad Once Again Shows Championship Form

Boostered by a year's experience and the fine play of co-captains Bill Alexander and Jerry Kosmowski, the Seton Hall tennis squad has taken 6 out of 8 matches up to this writing (May 8). Their only two losses were to a powerful NYU team, 7-2, and Fordham, 9-0. Both these matches were in the early season and the boys feel they could give both clubs a better tussle now. Rain curtailed pre-season practices, which could account for the two losses.

The Pirates edged NCE, 5-1, 3 to 1, 3 in their season opener. Paul Choi, a talented performer from Korea, played and won in the #1 spot, defeating Chuck Reilly, 6-1, 6-0. Bob Von Wagner, a sophomore from Montclair, Tom Corscadden, another soph from Lyndhurst, and Jim McKenna, a tall Junior, also won their matches.

Doubles victories were taken by Von Wagner and Corscadden and co-captains Kosmowski and Alexander.

After dropping the consecutive losses to NYU and Fordham the boys really found their form and have beaten Stevens, 6-3, Trenton Teachers, 7-2; Kings Point, 6-3; Hofstra, 7-2 and Fairleigh Dickinson, 5-4.

The squad has already topped last year's record of 2 and 7 and should go on to a fine season. They are preparing for big matches with St. Peter's, Rider, and Upsala, and then will get ready for the Rider College Tourney on May 24 and 25.

This team has revived the sport of tennis here at the Hall and should be congratulated for their fine showing in intercollegiate play. With the sophomores getting the required experience and with the acquirement of a coach, Seton Hall could again be a leading tennis power in the east.

Golf Record 3-3

By Lawrence Parker

Setonia's golfers have progressed half way through their season. Of the thirteen scheduled matches, thus far, their record is 3-3.

The season opened against Fordham University on April the 13th at the Mapiewood Country Club. Our golfers defeated the Rams, 6-3, with Bob Cleveland's 41 being the low score for Seton Hall. Other winners for the Hall were Bob Mraz, Bruce Byrne, Jim Milway, and Benedict Lee.

St. Peter's Peacocks were beaten by our linksmen on the 16th of April by a score of 8-1. The low man for Setonia was Bob Mraz who had an 84. The match was held at Seton Hall's home course, Crestmont, West Orange.

A powerful Fairleigh Dickinson met us on April 15th and handed Setonia its first defeat of the year by a score of 6-3. Bob Cleveland was the low scorer with a 78.

On April the 22nd, the Pirates traveled to Beth Page, Long Island to meet Hofstra. Hofstra downed Setonia 8-1, with Bob Mraz being low man with an 84.

The next day, also at Beth Page, the team encountered St. John's University who handed Seton Hall its third defeat, 8-1. Bob Cleveland defeated his opponent and was Setonia's low scorer, bagging a 73.

New York University came to Crestmont on April the 26th and the Pirates defeated them, 9-3. Cecil Berge, New York University's number one-man played two Seton Hall golfers, due to one of his team mates not being able to attend. Berge, an Australian, was defeated by Milway and Parker on the best ball, 5-4. Milway defeated him in an individual match on the 26th hole.

Currently the team winners are Bob Cleveland and Ben Lee who have four victories and two losses apiece. Jim Milway and Bruce Byrne have three wins and three losses each.

The next big event on the golf calendar is the Inter-Collegiate Metropolitan Golf Tournament.

By KEN SMITH, Setonian Sports Editor

Although they are still in the running for a District 2, N.C.A.A. bid, the Pirates of Seton Hall University received a double setback when first they lost their hard-hitting second baseman, Kev Bartlik, for the season with a knee injury sustained against Fairfield, and then by dropping a 10-5 decision to St. John's, one of the teams they must beat out for a tournament slot.

Bartlik's loss will really hurt because the fiery Sophomore was doing such a great job, both with the bat and in the field. Kev had helped the Hall maintain their two-a game double play average through the first 10 games, and at the time of his injury was hitting .442, 19 for 43, with 10 R.B.I.'s. The fans liked the way Kev would cannonball line drives to all fields and they will be looking forward to his return next season.

The cleanup spot in the order was turned over early in the season to shortstop Joe Ritter and the flashy Soph has responded by walloping the ball at a .365 clip up until the time of this writing (May 8). Joe leads the club in runs scored and is among the leaders in R.B.I.'s with 10. He and Bartlik should make a great keystone combination in the next couple of years.

Curt Townsend, another Soph, and veteran of the squad at 26, inherited the leadoff spot from Ritter and has capably filled the slot. Although not hitting for a big average-Curt has been getting on base, and this is the job Ownie Carroll wants him to do. He also covers a lot of territory out in left field.

Also in the outfield, right field to be exact, is still another Soph, Richie Marks, who has displayed a phenomenal talent for throwing runners out at the plate. Richie nailed runners at home in three of the Hall's first four games, so now the opposition is wary about taking the extra base on anything hit to right field. Richie is hitting at .349, and leads the club in bases on balls with 11, a fact which attests to his fine batting eye.

Phil Samuels, the fifth second-year man to start, was off to a dismal start at the plate in the first few games and so Coach Ownie Carroll let him sit one out against St. Peter's. Phil responded the next day by blasting a home run against Upsala, which gave the Pirates a 3-2 win in the final of the Collegiate Baseball Tournament. Phil also hammered a long homer against Villanova.

These five newcomers have been steadied by the presence of the team captain, Charley Calcagno, who has three years of varsity experience behind him at third. As a Soph, Chas hit .333 and then last year pounded the ball at a .320 clip while leading the club in hits, doubles, R.B.I.'s, total bases, and walks. Charlie is currently hitting .335 and is among the leaders in all departments. His play around the hot corner has been very steady and is one of the chief reasons for the high number of double plays.

Coach Carroll has two capable receivers in Sam Caliele and Mike Sheppard and no matter who is doing the chores you will see one thing in common between the two: plenty of spark and hustle with both constantly chattering, always on top of the play, and yelling encouragement to his pitcher. At the moment Sam is outpitching Mike but on the whole it seems to be an even pick and that is why Coach Carroll alternates them each game. Mike received a slight concussion in the second battle with Villanova and was hospitalized overnight, but he should be back in the lineup soon.

Although Paul Szczec has been late in finding his batting eye, he is invaluable in center field. The curly-haired speedster takes off like a scared rabbit at the crack of the bat and very few balls get through the gaps when Paul is patrolling the middle pasture. Paul has recently been battling a virus bug and is expected to snap out of his slump as soon as he recovers.

The highlight of this year's club has been the pitching staff as 10 of the first 13 starters went the distance. Pre-season forecasts showed only one experienced hurler, Johnny Green, but a pair of Junior basketballers have taken up the slack. Julie Nicolai and Ron Berthasavage, both righthanders, have 7 of the first 10 victories. Nick has 4 wins and has given up only 5 runs in 34 1/3 innings, and pitched the big win over Upsala for the tournament championship. Jules has allowed only 20 hits while striking out 16 and walking 12.

Berthasavage 3-0 has yielded 8 runs, 7 earned, in his first four appearances, including a varsity debut shutout over Ithaca, 2-0. Ron has given up 25 hits in 29 innings with 17 strikeouts and 12 walks.

Johnny Green pitched well enough to win his first start, but was nipped by N.Y.U. 1-0. John took his lumps from Fordham but then righted himself with a 5-0 verdict over St. Peter's and a 10-1 3-hitter against Fairfield. He is still the big man on Carroll's staff.

Johnny Allen, Junior righthander, who has been plagued by an arm injury for two seasons, got his first varsity start against Villanova and whipped the Wildcats 8-2. John lost his control and dropped the 10-5 decision to St. John's but he should find himself and go on to pitch good ball.

This club is colorful and exciting to watch and should draw better crowds than have been turning out. Have you seen them yet?

Three Seniors End Careers As '57 Track Season Closes

is one of the two mainstays departing this June. Tom, an accounting major, came to the Hall after an outstanding three year track career at St. Augustine's High School in Brooklyn. Tom, who is a native of the City of Churches, won the Catholic High School of New York quarter-mile run as a Junior and then climaxed his prep career by winning the Private Schools quarter-mile crown.

In his first year of Varsity competition here at the Hall Tom ran a leg on the mile relay team which copped titles in the Penn Relays and the New York Athletic Club meet. To add to his laurels Tom won the New Jersey A.A.U. 600-yard run, and successfully defended this title as a Junior. While at R.O.T.C. summer camp at Fort Devens in his Junior year Tom won the 100-yard dash, a real switch from the long quarter-mile trip.

Tom says his greatest collegiate thrill came only recently when he ran a leg on the winning mile-relay team in the Queens-Iona Meet at Randall's Island. The Hall whipped some of the East's best squads and Tom has a right to feel proud about his part in this victory.

Uncle Sam will be Tom's boss for two years after he graduates for he will enter the service with an R.O.T.C. commission. His plans are indefinite after that but this personable young man should see a success just as he was here at Seton Hall.

Jack McQuarrie

This 5-6, 140 pound Senior is this year's manager of the track team but Jack would much rather be out there running than just performing the managerial chores. Jack did run in Blue and White colors for three years but a leg injury put him out of action for his entire Senior year.

The 21 year old is a product of Matawan High School in South Jersey where he participated in four sports, football, baseball, basketball, and track. In his Freshman year at the Hall he went out for track and won a spot on the Freshman Medley Relay Team.

In his Sophomore campaign Jack won a medal at the Knights of Columbus Meet in Madison Square Garden and then repeated this feat in his Junior year. Jack was also a competitor in the I.C.A.A. Championships during his Junior year.

Jack, who was strictly a sprint man while at the Hall, copped second place in the 60 yard dash at the New Jersey A.A.U. Championships.

Jack, a marketing major, plans to enter the Training Program at Western Electric Co. in New York upon graduation, but he also has his military obligation ahead of him.

Jack Heraut

The other co-captain of this year's edition of the Setonian cinder squad is Jack Heraut, who came to the Hall from St. Michael's High School in Jersey City. Jack won six letters while at St. Michael's, two in basketball and four in track. As a Senior he copped the City and State Catholic School Championship crown in the 440 yard run.

While at the Hall Jack has run on the mile-relay team for three straight years, under Coach Gibson. He was a member of winning squads in this year's New York Athletic Club Meet and also the big upset team which scored in the Queens-Iona Meet at Randall's Island. Like Tom Cahill, this event will long be remembered by Mr. Heraut.

Jack is a marketing major here at the Hall and upon graduation he intends to enter the army. One thing is for sure, those who follow the results of the Pirate track men will certainly find it strange to see the name Heraut missing from the mile-relay foursome.

Runners Pull Upset

On April 13th one of the major upsets of the collegiate season took place when an unrated Seton Hall squad copped the laurels in the 880 yard relay at the Queens-Iona Meet at Randall's Island. The Hall runners went all-out and gave Coach John Gibson a great performance as they fooled most of the authorities who had picked them to run out of the money. The startling victory made the season a success as the Pirates defeated such top ranked teams as Manhattan, Morgan State, Yale, and St. John's.

Pirates Nip Upsala

UPSALA

Phil Samuels' home run in the fifth inning gave Seton Hall University a 3-2 victory over Upsala in the Collegiate Baseball Tournament final at Viking Field, East Orange.

Samuels' blow gave Julie Nicolai enough margin for his third straight victory, Seton's sixth in eight games. Upsala's record went to 9-3.

Seton got its first two runs in the second with the help of pitcher Bill Seaman's wildness. Samuels walked, Nicolai singled and then Curt Townsend, Richie Marks and Charles Calcagno walked to force in two runs.

Upsala's Bob Ferris homered with none on in the third. The Vikings got their second run in the seventh on a walk to George Burnett, a single by Fred Raffa and a sacrifice fly by Ferris.

ST. JOHN'S

Seton Hall University's seven-game winning streak was broken when St. John's, hitting for distance, scored a 10-5 victory at Alley Pond Park.

St. John's, which raised its record to 11-3, knocked out two pitchers in a six-run second inning which led to Seton's third loss in 13 contests.

Johnny Allen retired two in the St. John's second before losing control and walking the next four for one run. Then Jim Riley doubled home three runs and Mike Ricigliano homered for the final two.

Jim Wilson also socked a homer for St. John's with one on in the seventh.

Three walks followed by Joe Ritter's triple launched Seton into a 3-0 lead in the first but the Pirates couldn't do much with Bob Demm after that.

ADELPHI

Seton Hall University exploded with 16 hits to defeat Adelphi College, 11-3, for its sixth straight victory. A three-run home run by Paul Szczec in the ninth put the finishing touch to Seton's eighth victory in 10 games. Pitcher Ronnie Berthasavage won his third straight game.

Rich Marks and Kevin Bartlik led the Seton Hall attack with a double and two singles each. Marks drove in three runs, including one in the second inning with his double that broke a 2-0 tie. Bartlik batted in two runs.

Sam, a 5'11", 200 lb. catcher for the Pirate baseball team has been playing for three years. At nine years of age, Sam held a ball and bat for the first time, and he has been putting them to good advantage ever since. By the time Sam was 13, he was a pitcher and hurled a no-hitter in unorganized little league ball. However Sam didn't let this go to his head and upon entering East Side High School he began catching. At East Side he participated in three years of varsity campaigns and received all-state honors.

Sam is currently batting .357 and is the Pirate's ace pitcher because of his great spirit and hustle.

In the Villanova tussle, Sam blasted one that cleared the wall and broke the 2-2 tie, by virtue of which Seton Hall went on to win by a score of 8-2. Likewise in the Ithaca game, Sam drove in two runs, which amounted to the margin of victory.

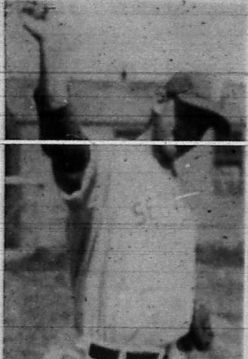

Sam is a 20-year-old Junior and an Accounting major. His future plans are graduation, marriage and then lending a helping hand to Uncle Sam.

Julie Nicolai

Hailing from Arts High School in Newark, Julius was basketball and baseball captain for three years. In basketball he was selected for the all-city team. Next year he will no doubt aid Honey Russell's quintet, but at the present he is doing very well with the Hall nine.

He inaugurated his career as a pitcher on the Freshman team by posting a 2-0 record for the season. Currently he is boasting a 4-0 re-ord with the varsity, with a sparkling performance against Upsala in which the Pirates came out on the long end of a 3-2 score. Being a pitcher, Julie is batting at a .333 clip quite the reverse of the adage that 'pitchers can't hit.'

Julie is a 21-year-old Junior and majors in Economics. Upon graduating in '58, Julie will be Navy-bound.

Sophomore-studded Pirate Baseballers Sweep To 10 Victories In 13 Games

ITHACA

Seton Hall's varsity baseball team received another excellent hurling exhibition, this time from Ronnie Berthasavage, to blank Ithaca College, 2-0, at Setonia Field on Friday, April 12. Sam Calleo, Pirate receiver, shared honors with his battery mate by singling home both runs in the second inning.

Berthasavage registered the Pirates' second whitewashing in two days, Julie Nicolai having shut out Hunter Thursday. This ran the scoreless skein of Pirate foes to 26 innings, the longest such spell since the sport was resumed at Setonia in 1946.

Berthasavage's showing was a pleasant surprise to Pirate students and friends. Better known for his court ability, he had pitched in only one game as a freshman and did not come out for the varsity last year. The Florence, N. J., athlete scattered five hits. He walked six but fanned seven.

Ithaca made one serious threat in the seventh. Singles by Roy Tetter and pitcher Basil Curry placed runners on first and third with one out. Perry Noun went down swinging and then Richie Marks made his second great play of the early season. Marks raced deep into foul territory in left field to make a one-handed stab of Johnny Peditto's long drive.

Kev Bartlik singled to center in the second inning and took third on raul szczen's line double to left. It was the latter's first hit of the season. Marks rolled out, the runners holding. Calleo then lined a single to left to provide the margin of victory.

FORDHAM

Fordham's baseball team blasted seven runs in the second inning and went on to a 9-4 decision over the Pirate nine at our field on Saturday, April 13. It was the Rams' fourth win without a setback.

Paul Hunter's variety of pitches shackled the Pirates with eight hits and beat Seton Hall for the second year in a row. The Ram righty, who was pitching overhand, side-arm and partly underhand, walked seven and struck out five. Seton Hall couldn't cash in on Hunter's wildness because the Pirate hitters got only one safety in each inning from the second to the seventh. Seton Hall had two safeties in the eighth, but scored only one run.

Johnny Green, the ace of last year's pitching staff, was the starting and losing pitcher. Green yielded five hits, walked two and was the victim of two costly errors in the second inning. Ed Szczenits, Bob Zuffa, Joe Freeman and lefty Frank Baier followed Green to the mound and the Rams scored only off Szczenits, getting two runs in the eighth.

Four of the Rams 12 hits came in the second inning when they scored seven runs and 11 men came to bat. After Tony Balsam grounded out, Jerry Savio walked to start the surge. Tom Delaney, Bill Brennan and Jerry Bochicco singled and the rally was fed hot. After a pop out, Jerry Muro singled and Hunter was walked intentionally, filling the bases.

Error costs 3

Don Haig then hit a long one to right field and Jake Jeffrey dropped the ball, allowing three runs to score. Another error by shortstop Joe Ritter allowed another run to score and that was the ballgame. Only three of Fordham's nine runs were earned and the seven in the second were the first scored off the Pirates in 27 innings.

Ritter walked, took second on an infield out and scored on Richie Marks second hit of the day in the fifth inning. Charlie Calcagno, who reached first on an error, and Marks, scored for the Pirates third and fourth runs in the seventh. Ritter's single and Calcagno's two-bagger in the eighth ended Seton Hall's scoring.

An error, sacrifice and two singles produced the Rams' last two runs in the fourth.

LIU

Seton Hall scored seven unearned runs and moved behind Julie Nicolai's pitching to a 7-2 victory over Long Island University on Monday, April 15. It was the second straight win for Nicolai, who fanned only one but blanked LIU with three hits over the first seven innings. Two more hits in the eighth gave the losers their two runs.
