New 'University Fee' Covers Student Union

A new 'University Fee' to provide in part for the services to be rendered by the Student Union building will be charged all full-time campus students beginning in September, according to an announcement by the Very Rev. Msgr. Edward Fleming, Executive Vice-President.

All science majors in the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Education will pay $70 per semester; students in any other curricula will pay $60 per semester.

Included as science majors are the following: Biology, Chemistry, Natural Sciences, Pre-Medicine and Pre-Dentistry, in the College of Arts and Sciences; and Biological Science, Physical Science and General Science in the School of Education.

Undergraduate and graduate part-time campus students will be charged a $10 University Fee.

The 'University Fee' covers such services as: admissions, registration, course counselling, library, gymnasium, placement bureau, student union, student activities, laboratories and vocational guidance. It does not include, however, the Laboratory Fee.

In the past, non-science majors were charged $20 per semester for Student Personnel Services (including admissions, registration, course counselling, library, gymnasium and placement bureau); $5 per semester for Student Activities; and a $20 fee (payable once) for Vocational Guidance. This amounted to $25 per semester after the vocational guidance fee was paid the first semester.

Thus, the new 'University Fee' combines the above services, and adds the Student Union, for an increase of $35 per semester. Since most science majors take two labs per semester ($50), the new university fee in addition to lab fees will total $120 per semester.

The new 'University Fee' attempts to combine all fees to avoid multiplication and cover costs of the student union building, Msgr. Fleming, in Rome for the Mother Seton Beatification, was not available for comment.

Undergraduate and graduate part-time campus students will be charged a $10 University Fee.

The 'University Fee' covers such services as: admissions, registration, course counselling, library, gymnasium, placement bureau, student union, student activities, laboratories and vocational guidance. It does not include, however, the Laboratory Fee.

Kunitz Lectures To Packed House; Then Visits With Honors Classes

Stanley Kunitz, Pulitzer Prize-winning Poet, spoke on the theme "Freedom and Imagination" to an overflowing audience in the Science Amphitheater Monday evening, March 11.

Mr. Kunitz presented a series of observations about the problems, political and personal, of the artist in modern society. Among the problems he discussed, was Premier Khrushchev's "war" on modern artists in the Soviet Union.

In his hour talk, Mr. Kunitz also blamed the ambiguity of modern art on the chaos and violence of our society. The "beat poet" was seen as an "interesting sociological phenomenon."

The noted poet believes that art has the unique ability of searching the depths of our society. He made an entreaty for man to turn towards the arts for truth about society, stating that artists may be liars but their art never lies.

Kunitz was brought to Seton Hall by the Rev. Albert Hakimi, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

New S.C. Constitution Offers Direct Election Of President

Student Council will vote next week on a new Constitution. It was submitted by a Constitutional Revisions Committee headed by Bill Ragolia, parliamentarian.

- Several innovations are included in the document:
- direct election of a Student Body President and four other officers by the entire student body;
  - additions of two representatives per class to the student council, bringing the class total to five;
  - exclusion of all student organizations and clubs from the council; and

• inclusion of all four Class Presidents as voting delegates.

A two-thirds vote of all the delegates in the present Council is required for passage.

If the Constitution is approved, it will modify the campus political structure. The Council will be headed by a President, Vice-President, two Secretaries, and a Treasurer, elected at-large by the students of each class. This move is designed to make student government directly responsible to the will of the students.

The new Council will be composed of approximately 30 delegates: five officers, four class presidents, and five representatives from each class. Senate Delegates of the National Student Association (NSA) and the National Federation of Catholic College Students (NFCCS), and a Parliamentarian, will also sit on the Council as non-voting members.

Class organization remains unchanged, except for the two extra Council representatives. Class elections will be held approximately ten days after the Student Body elections to avoid confusion.

Bob Gaccione, Student Council President, urged the Council to vote in favor of the new Constitution. "The new document," he said, "is modern and more suited to the campus-political situation as it exists today." "Seton Hall has come a long way since the days of the Veterans; the Constitution they created is no longer applicable today."

Students Crusade Against Discrimination In Sudan

Seniors Kevin Marks and Nick Scalera have undertaken a "crusade" against the persecution of Christian missionaries by the African Republic of Sudan. Letters addressed to the Secretary General of the United Nations urging an "immediate investigation" of conditions in the Sudan have been mimeographed and distributed with envelopes to the student body. The situation in Sudan involves a clash between the federal government and thousands of Christian Missionaries. Since 1966, the Sudanese government has imposed severe limitations on the work of religions in the interests of national unity. In 1966, a law forbade admission of new missionaries to Sudan; in 1967, Missionary schools were confiscated, religious classes were banned, and entering school buildings was for-bidden; in 1969, dispensaries run by the sisters were closed; in 1961, the Verona Sisters were told to quit the management of the Juba government hospital; and in 1962, the Orphanage of Rejaf was closed.

Since that time, Christian missionaries have been denied residence permits and thousands have been expelled from the country for alleged meddling in internal political affairs.

Marks and Scalera have argued that such actions are clearly discriminatory and threaten the existence of the Catholic Church in Sudan. They point to Sudan's disregard for her own constitution which guarantees freedom of religion and to the United Nations Charter on Human Rights which preserves freedom of conscience.

Student Artwork To Be Exhibited In Library April 8

A student art exhibit will be held on April 8 in McLaughlin Library. It is designed to promote artistic endeavors among students.

The yearly exhibit will be conducted by both Mr. Kraft, the head of the Archaeological Museum, and the newly formed Seton Hall Art Club. The paintings will be judged in the following categories: water colors and tempera, pen and ink, oils, sculpture and mosaics. Three professional artists will award first, second and third place ribbons to the best paintings.

All paintings may be entered by April 1, to Mr. Kraft or at the call desk in the library. The exhibit will open on April 8 and run for two months.

Peace Corps Test This Sat.

The next Peace Corps placement test will be given this Saturday, March 23. The test is not competitive and anyone with the equivalent of a high school education is eligible.

There is no passing score. The test helps the Peace Corps determine the overseas assignment for which applicants are best qualified. Volunteers must be American citizens at least 18 years old.

In this area, there are testing centers in Newark (Room B-89, Federal Building), Jersey City (Main Post Office, Montgomery Street, Montclair (Main Post Office), and Plainfield (Main Post Office).

Those who are interested should fill out a Peace Corps Questionnaire and send it to the Corps or bring it to the test center. Questionnaires are available at Post Offices and from the Peace Corps, Washington 25, D. C.

Council Recommends Waive Of Pre-Requisite Courses; Steve Allen Gets Banner

The Student Council passed a motion recommending that students who pass exams for core-curriculum subjects before registration receive credit for that subject. The resolution, sponsored by Bill Bagolia, would also permit students who pass exams in pre-requisite subject, to take the advanced subject without getting credit for the pre-requisite.

The measure was designed to allow students who have a good knowledge of a particular subject, to bypass a course and use the extra credits in his major.

Signs on Parkway

A motion to petition the Garden State Parkway to erect "Seton Hall University" signs at exit 145 North and South-bound was passed. Bob Siciliano introduced it.

Another bill mandated the Council to send a Seton Hall pennant to the Steve Allen Show, to be posted on the board along with other college banners.

Investigation of Bursar

Council will investigate why the Cashier's Office charges extra credits for ROTC courses, according to a resolution introduced by Vinny Lupo. Lupo claimed that students in the first and second year ROTC program, are charged two credits in a 1 1/2 credit subject.

In other action, a motion questioning the delay in receiving report cards was defeated. Council was informed that Seton Hall sends marks to an IBM office and that they, not SHU, are responsible. With the new computers in Bayley Hall, all marks will be processed on campus; this should eliminate the delay.

Professors Of Biology To Present Research Paper In Washington

Dr. Ramon S. Grillo and Dr. Paul Urso of the Department of Biology, will present a paper entitled "A quantitative study of cell proliferation in the newt, Triturus viridescens," at the Diamond Jubilee Meeting of the American Association of Anatomists. The lecture will be given in Washington, D. C. on April 10 by Dr. Grillo.

Work on this subject was started in April of 1962. However, Dr. Grillo has been interested in Amphibians since his studies in graduate school. Amphibians have large cells and chromosomes which make it easier to study the cytology of these animals. Radioactive isotopes were used as tracers in determining the rate of proliferation (division) of cells.

Observation was also made of the chromosomal content of the dividing cells with respect to their DNA content. As a result of the study, a large number of variables was shown to exist, and these must be thoroughly investigated before any conclusions can be reached. Further investigation is now being carried out in order to check these variables.

In keeping with the research program of the Biology Department, bi-monthly research seminars have been instituted in order to communicate, evaluate and stimulate research activities in the respective fields of the members of the faculty.

"If I had it to do over again, would I take Army R.O.T.C.?"

Look at it this way. I like the idea of doing challenging work. That's why I volunteered for Special Forces. So you can see why I felt pretty good when the Army assigned me to Europe. There I really feel I'm doing something for the cause of my country in these important times. How many jobs can you think of that start you off with this kind of responsibility? My wife's here, too, and she loves it. We got a chance to travel. We meet the people, learn new languages, customs. And there's a pretty active social life, too. But above all, I'm an officer with a job to do and with responsibility on my shoulder. I like it that way, and I have a hunch that my leadership training and experience will help me out whatever I do. Take it from me, if you're already half-way towards your commission, see it through. It's a good deal. I know."

In Mock Interview

AKPsi 'Career Day' Stresses Company Aid

When you are being interviewed for a job have a clear idea of your abilities and how you hope to apply them with this company. Talk more about what you can do for the company and less about what you hope to get out of the company. Know the company's business before you go for an interview.

These were some of the points brought out in a mock interview at the sixth annual Career Day sponsored by Alpha Kappa Psi, March 11.

Mr. Kenneth Hickman, a personnel officer of an accounting firm, took the part of the employer in the interview. John C. Kelly, a senior in business administration, played the role of the job applicant. After the interview, Mr. Hickman gave a critique pointing out where Kelly had made a good impression and where his questions and answers had missed the mark.

Ford Speech

At a general morning session in the science amphitheater, speeches were delivered by Mr. Thomas Ford of Clohesy and Ford, a law firm, and Mr. Hayden Jones, a comptroller for the Bendix Corporation.

In the afternoon, sectional meetings were held on marketing, finance, economics, law, management and accounting. Several representatives of industry participated in each sectional meeting.

Finance Assoc. Hears F.R. Officer

G. G. Hacker, Federal Reserve Bank Supervisor, spoke before the Finance Association at its fourth meeting of the year last week.

He outlined the Federal Reserve System, its effect on the nation's economy, and explained the primary tools of the monetary policy used by the Federal Reserve.

Mr. Hacker was accepted as a life member in the Association by Prof. Clarence Lewis, club moderator. He expressed his appreciation for such an honor.

Joe Bevacqua, club president, announced that the club will sponsor a joint business club meeting on April 3.

Puccini's 'Tosca' Sunday

Zinka Milanov and Daniele Barioni will sing the leads in Puccini's "La Tosca" in the Fourth Annual Opera Benefit for the Scholarship Endowment Fund. The opera will take place on Sunday, March 24 at 6 p.m. at the Mosque Theatre in Newark.

Tickets for the affair may be obtained at the Office of Special Events or at Bamberger's. The prices are $10 for orchestra seats, $7.50 and $6 for the dress circle, $5 and $4.50 for the mezzanine and $2.75 for the balcony.

Also in the performing cast are Ramon Vihay, Paul Franke, George Cehanovsky and Salvatore Baccioni. The orchestra will be conducted by Maestro Giuseppe Bant-boschek.

Sudan 'Crusade'

and worship.

Last week, the Setonian decried Sudan's action as being "inconsistent with the goals of the United Nations, and more importantly, with the natural rights of man." "If the UN is to be successful, it must check religious persecution wherever it exists."

"It is our hope," Scalera said,

"that this Crusade for religious freedom begun at Seton Hall can be carried on simultaneously by the other colleges of the nation."

The campaign has received favorable reaction so far. It has been sanctioned by the Rev. Robert Fennell, Director of Student Affairs; several professors have been generous in allotting class time for a brief talk; and the Inter-Fraternity Council has offered its support.

United Frat Rush Week Program Tabled By IFC

A motion to establish a unified Rush week program was tabled by the Inter-Fraternity Council at its March 12 meeting.

Thomas Walker, representing Alpha Kappa Psi, explained that a Rush Week program including fraternity displays in the Student Union building and meetings for rushers, is necessary. He thought it would make the students aware of the true ideals of fraternal spirit.

Brian Vesley, of Phi Kappa Theta, moved to table the resolution noting that the IFC's new Constitution will most likely include such a program.

Tau Sigma Phi was added to the list of probationary fraternities. It had been appointed as historian to compose a booklet on the history and ideals of the Inter-Fraternity Council. The booklet is scheduled for completion by the end of this semester.

A Letter For Freedom

If Sudan's discriminatory action against Christian missionaries goes unchecked, the United Nations might just as well close down. What began in 1956 as religious intolerance has become religious persecution in 1963. Outright violations of freedom of worship deny the natural rights of man and contradict the Sudanese Constitution and the UN Charter on Human Rights.

The somber statistics were presented in last week's Setonian. They showed Sudan as a country with two faces: one of peace, one of hate. It cannot endure with both.

We, as Catholic students in a Catholic University, have an obligation to fight religious persecution wherever it exists. We cannot selfishly turn our backs on 400,000 fellow Catholics who have no way to help themselves. The old adage that a person should clean his own house first, before trying to clean his neighbor's, is parrot-minded, un-altruistic, and un-Christian. No one's asking you to travel to Sudan to solve her problems; we merely ask that you send a letter to the Secretary General of the United Nations so that he can send someone to investigate the conditions in Sudan. So much has been said about the brotherhood of man, yet so little has been done.

If you have not yet done so, please obtain a letter of protest in the cafe, sign it, and mail it immediately. If enough student respond, we may spur action.

The Setonian has sent the complete information about this "crusade" to the United States Student Press Association, an organization of all the nation's college newspapers. Press releases will be sent to all member colleges for publication in order to attempt a simultaneous campaign throughout the country. We trust it will be successful.

N.Y. Students Protest New Tuition Mandate

NEW YORK CITY (CPS)—Students throughout New York state marched on their state capitol, Albany, on Monday, March 11, to protest the imposition of tuition at the state university and the threat of tuition at the New York City University system.

The march was the culmination of weeks of campus rallies and letter-writing campaigns designed to pressure the state legislature into rescinding the free-tuition mandate to the state education law. The mandate was removed in 1961 giving the option of charging tuition to the State University Board of Trustees and the City University Board of Higher Education.

The duty to restore the mandate began in 1961 but it reached a peak in January, when the state university announced a uniform $400 tuition to go into effect this September. The City Board of Higher Education is on record as opposed to charging tuition in the City University, but there are indications that the Board may be forced to charge tuition if there is a decrease in state financial aid this year.

The State University, as part of its report on the tuition question, recommended that the governor cut back on state aid to teacher education at the city colleges. Although Governor Nelson Rockefeller has held to his policy of "home rule" for New York City on the issue of tuition, and has repeatedly declared that he would not withhold state aid for education in the city, he implied in his recent budget message a threat to take into account the City University's refusal to charge tuition when allocating state aid.

To Restore Tuition
A cut in state aid is seen here as an inevitable harbinger of tuition charges.

The campaign to restore the state university to tuition-free status—thus insuring the free tuition status at the city university has gained the support of several non-student groups. A "Legislative Citizens Task Force," initiated by four New York City Democrats, is coordinating the adult campaign. Organized labor has also supported the students, and the alumni organizations of the city colleges are behind the students.

The "march" on Albany is scheduled to coincide with a move to discharge one of the bills repealing the state university's right to charge tuition. Several such bills are currently bottled up in committee. A bill has not been discharged from committee in the New York legislature in 25 years and not many predict the success of a motion to discharge.

The tuition charge at the state university's 61 colleges breaks a precedent established when the university was founded with 24 member colleges in 1948. The City University, consisting of four senior colleges and three junior colleges, has not charged tuition for 116 years.

SHU Decried As Vast Wasteland; Student Interest In Culture Lacking

Dear Sirs:
"Greetings, Pilgrim, your search is ended" is one of the newest of the Madison Avenue cliches. This well-known phrase is the solution to that earth-shaking question of what is the best coffee on the market. This coffee, however, is not the fruit of my search. I am still wandering about—candle in hand—looking for the answer to my problem. Although the coffee break is a respite from my quest, I must move on, "Excelsior!"

I look out of my window at the world. It spreads before me as a vast mountain range. I realize that in the future I will be forced out of my little sanctuary of school and home into this Alpin world that is modern society. Where can I go to be outfitted for this expedition on the slopes of society? My most accessible storehouse would seem to be Seton Hall University. I am assured that I can find there the necessary academic background. This I have found to be true. But is this academic superiority enough to make me totally prepared for my climb up the slope of Society? Where can I culturally dress for my trek to the mountains? I look again to Seton Hall.

"Greetings, Pilgrim, your search is ended." What is my search? I am on a pilgrimage to find culture at Seton Hall. My search led me to the chamber music concerts sponsored by Seton Hall University. I came to the conclusion that the concerts were so ill-attended by students that a real appreciation of music did not exist among the people from whom I intended to glean a certain degree of culture. My quest also led me to attend several offerings of the Setonia Film Society. I sat there and was shocked that the majority of the audience was completely oblivious of the aesthetic value of the presentation before them. On leaving the theater, I hoped to hear some profound remarks on the film. The only comment I heard was, "That was a pretty good picture, huh?" What a marvelously profound observation on the artistic value of the opus!

"Cultured Students?"
Are there any cultured students at Seton Hall? Are there any interesting sophisticated (rather than sophomore) students? Where are our creative people of the future? Are there any artists (sculptors, painters), poets, novelists, playwrights, or any of the other creative people here? Where can I find these people so that I might be permitted to admire their works? Can I meet here other students who appreciate the arts and enjoy the discussion of the beauty that man has achieved? Where and with whom can I discuss the latest book I have read? Are there other students who long for this intellectual and cultural rapport that I seek? When will someone come up to me and say, "Greetings, Pilgrim, your search is ended?"

An aspirant.

Illinois Reverses Housing Stand On Discrimination

(CPS) The University of Illinois administration has reversed its stand on the listing of off-campus housing after a determined campaign by student groups.

After March 15, owners of private rental housing in Urbana will have to sign a pledge of non-discrimination to be listed on the central University Housing Division lists. No such pledge was required previously, but the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People repeatedly charged that Negro and foreign students were discriminated against by many landlords.

Provides Central Listing

The University, by providing a central listing service for the landlords, was tacitly accepting a discriminatory situation, the NAACP charged. Officials offered before Christmas to send out a "voluntary" pledge of non-discrimination, but only about 60 of the 1,500 landlords returned it.

The Illinois student senate then passed a bill calling for the pledge to be made mandatory for university listings. Administration spokesmen rejected the request.

"Ad Hoc" Committee

An "ad hoc" committee—Students Acting for Non-discrimination—was formed to initiate direct opposition to the university administration's policy. Leaders of the committee were Jim Hendrick, student senate president, Rennie Davis, chairman of the Liberal Discussion Group, and Bill Smith, president of the local NAACP.

The Daily Illini, student newspaper, gave strong editorial backing to the committee—and the administration finally reversed its stand, 10 days after refusing to do so.

Nick Nips Kramer For Scoring Title

Barry Kramer failed to pass Seton Hall's Nick Werkman in his bid to win the major college scoring championship after his three game performance in the NCAA tournament. Nick finished the season with a 29.54 scoring average. Kramer averaged 29.34.

The N.Y.U. ace scored 37 against Pittsburgh U. in the first round game at the Palestra. Then in the second round at College Park Md., Kramer got 24 in the Violets' defeat to powerful Duke. At this point Kramer's average stood at 29.4. Against West Virginia in the NCAA consolation game he needed 34 points to pass Werkman. Kramer got 29 points, getting only 6 field goals.

Golfers Head For The Links With 5 Returning Lettermen

By Philip Wiesner

The Seton Hall varsity golf team will open its 1963 season on April 8 with a match against the Hall's traditional rival, St. Peter's of Jersey City.

The team will compete in 15 other matches against such strong teams as Army, Villanova, N.Y.U. and Princeton. The team also plans to play in the Metropolitan Tourney in which it is pitted against the colleges of the New York City area. The team's prospects for a successful season, seem good. The burden will rest on the returning lettermen including Ed Rackowski, Ed Madama and Bob Baer, Seniors; and Ed Schubert and Jack Welch, Juniors. These five played on the team last year and are almost certain to be the guiding force of the golf team as the season progresses.

There are other prospective linksmen, who may yet find a spot on the team, but this can only be determined after practice sessions.

This year the team will be under the reins of Mr. Nicholas Menza. He is an assistant professor of Physical Education on the South Orange Campus and is an experienced golfer. Also notable is the change of the team's base of operations from Crestmont Country Club to Braidburn Country Club. Braidburn is a beautiful course known for its long holes and tricky greens. This course is the tentative site for the 1963 New Jersey state amateur championship.

Next Week: An interview with the coach.

Pirate Basemen Start Season With New, Strong Schedule

Florida is currently the scene of baseball's spring exhibition games. The New York Yankees, Mets, and most of the major league teams are getting in shape here for the coming season. The Sunshine State has been invaded by newspaper men such as Bill Dougherty and Hy Goldberg of the Newark News and Jim Ogle of the Star Ledger. At the same time, Seton Hall University is preparing for another season but not in Florida. South Orange is the training grounds for the Buccaneers, and here is a report from a far traveling reporter.

Carroll In-16th Year

Besides being a big American sport since the end of the 19th century, baseball has been played by Seton Hall teams since 1885. This season will mark Coach Owen Carroll's 16th at the Hall. He sports an excellent record of 177-82-3 for a .694 mark.

The Hall will open its 30-game season on Sunday, March 31 at Setonja Field. Dartmouth College will meet on that date for the first time since 1915.

Veteran Cast

Preparing for the opener is a veteran cast with only Ted Fiore, now in the Cincinnati chain, and relief star Joe Tosias being the main losses.

Navy, Vermont and Syracuse University join Dartmouth as the new additions to the Pirate sched.

ule. Navy is being met for the first time, while Vermont was played last in 1908 and Syracuse in 1922. Navy and Syracuse will be met on the road; Vermont comes to South Orange on April 16th.

New York State Trip

The Pirates will also meet Ithaca (a College World Series entry last June), Cornell and Colgate. These teams, along with the Orangemen of Syracuse will be on the Hall's New York state schedule. Villanova, Princeton, Army, Rutgers, New York University, St. John's and Delaware are other top eastern powers.

In the Collegiate Baseball League the Buccaneers nine will face such strong opponents as Fairleigh Dickinson, Bridgeport and Upsala.

PARKINGSON'S FIVE

AMONG MY KINFOLK

My favorite cousin, Mandolin Glebe, a sweet, unspoiled country boy, has just started college. Today I got a letter from him which I will reprint here because I know Mandolin's problems are so much like your own. Mandolin writes:

Dear Mandolin (he thinks my name is Mandolin too), I see by the college paper that you are writing a column for Marlboro Cigarettes. I think Marlboros are jim-dandy cigarettes with real nice tobacco and a ginger-peachy filter, and I want to tell you why I don't smoke them.

It all started the very first day I arrived at college. I was walking across the campus, swinging my paper valise and singing traditional airs like Blue Tail Fly and Death and Transfiguration, when all of a sudden I ran into this here collegiate-looking fellow with a monogram on his breast pocket. He asked me was I a freshman: I said yes. He asked me did I want to be a BMOC and the envy of all the in crowd. I said yes. He said the only way to make these keen things happen was to join a fraternity. Fortunately he happened to have a pledge card with him, so he pricked my thumb and I signed. He didn't tell me the name of the fraternity or where it is located, but I suppose I'll find out when I get active.

Meanwhile this fellow comes around every week to collect the dues, which are $100, plus a $10 fine for missing the weekly meeting, plus a $5 assessment to buy a headstone for Spot, the late, beloved beagle who was the fraternity mascot.

I have never regretted joining the fraternity, because it is my dearest wish to be a BMOC and the envy of all the in crowd, but you can see that it is not cheap. It wouldn't be so bad if I slept at the frat house, but you must agree that I can't sleep at the house if I don't know where the house is.

I have rented a room which is not only grotesquely expensive, but it is not at all the kind of room I was looking for. I wanted someplace reasonably priced, clean, comfortable, and within easy walking distance of classes, the shopping district, and San Francisco and New York. What I found was a bedroom in the home of a local costermonger which is dingy, expensive, and uncomfortable—and I don't even get to use the bed till 7 a.m. when my landlady goes out to mow his costers.

Well anyhow, I got settled and the next thing I did, naturally, was to look for a girl. And I found her. Harriet, her name is, is a beautiful creature standing just under seven feet high and weighing 385 pounds. I first spied her leaning against the statue of the Founder, dozing lightly. I talked to her for several hours without effect. Only when I mentioned dinner did she stir. Her milky little eyes opened, she raised a brawny arm, seized my nose, and carried me to a chic French restaurant called Le Chipjoint where she consumed, according to my calculations, her own weight in chteaubrand.

After dinner she lapsed into a tor, or from which I could not rouse her, no matter how I tried. I banged my glass with a fork, I pinched her great pendulous jowls, I rubbed the legs of my corduroy pants together. But nothing worked, and finally I slung her over my shoulder and carried her to the girls dorm, slipping several discs in the process.

Fortunately, medical care for students is provided free at the college infirmary. All I had to pay for were a few extras, like X-rays, anaesthesia, forceps, hemostats, scalpels, catgut, linen, towels, amortization, and nurses. They would not, however, let me keep the nurses.

So, dear cousin, it is lack of funds, not lack of enthusiasm, that is keeping me from Marlboro Cigarettes—dear, good Marlboros with their fine blend of choice tobaccos and their pure white Selagrate filter and their soft pack and their flip top box.

Well, I must close now. My pencil is wore out and I can't afford another. Keep 'em flying.

Ye, cousin Mandolin Glebe
