

Seton Hall University

eRepository @ Seton Hall

---

Newspapers

Seton Hall Law Archives

---

9-21-2011

The Redirect

Editorial Staff

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarship.shu.edu/law\_newspapers

Part of the Law Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Editorial Staff, "The Redirect" (2011). Newspapers. 15.
https://scholarship.shu.edu/law\_newspapers/15

Inaugural Issue

SHU's Different
Sort of Paper

THE REDIRECT

"The Law is a Ass"

New Generation of Children Emotionally Scarred By Re-release of The Lion King

Tear-jerking heartache, now in 3-D.

Tweets of Wrath

On Tuesday, the third of four major manufacturers of press conference backdrops was forced to close its doors. After 46 years of business, Allied Paper Printing, Inc. could not weather the recent decline of by-video press conferences. Former CEO Rich Nichols, when reached for comment said, "With the advent of Twitter and Facebook, we just can't compete. Back in the good old days, when a celebrity cheated on his wife, he'd call us to print up a backdrop so that he could make peace with America. It just cuts us out of the picture." The final backdrop producer, United Paper One, could not be reached quickly enough for print because in protest, it refuses to communicate electronically. When reached for comment, Twitter founder and CEO Brent Collins simply replied, "They're dunzo. Eating dinner. Sorry I'm not sorry. #SuckIt."

Congress Cancels Science After Viewing "Rise of the Planet of the Apes"

In what many in the scientific community are calling "totally not cool," Congress has outlawed any and all forms of science in favor of preserving humanity from damn dirty apes. When reached for comment, Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, D-NV, said "After very little debate, Republicans and Democrats were able to come to a resolution which outlaws any more of that sciency-nonsense that will get us killed. But either way, James Franco was delightful." Resolution 62342 was presented to President Obama with a demand from both the House and Senate that the bill be signed. House Speaker John Boehner, R-OH stated, "Hollywood has spoken. No more playing God." The President didn't immediately sign the bill as he was busy re-watching The Matrix. After the film was over, the President signed the bill as well as an executive order that forbade the use of computers and machines. The President stated in his address, "We must be resolved. So America, put down your chemistry sets and computers, and get back to sports."

A Royal Bank Screw-up

In a sad reversal of fortune, Nigerian Prince Abr'u Achmanai survived yet another day in poverty as his $100 USD dollars sit trapped in an inaccessible overseas bank account. When reached for comment, Prince Achmanai said, "I've been trying for years to free up my inheritance to no avail. I've sent nearly 30 billion emails and no one ever replies." The Redirect has been asked to request that its readers send donations to Prince Achmanai via Paypal in the meantime so that he may provide food and shelter to his family. All payments can be sent to thi5.is.ser.i0usly.n0t.a.\$cam@nigerianprince.net.

Being American Now A Disability Under ADA

The Supreme Court has determined that being an American constitutes a disability under the Americans with Disabilities Act. Justice O'Connor, on recall from her townhouse in Martha's Vineyard, authored the unanimous opinion holding that all Americans are disabled. "I've been out there," she wrote, "the people... they're... just sick. Dancing with the Stars?! It's sad."

New Jersey Breaks Spirit of Out-of-State Driver

1L student Janice Powell, a native of Missouri, was floored by New Jersey driving upon arriving in the state. When reached for comment, she stated, "I was driving my car, packed full of my things, just minding my own business when this guy just cut me off for no reason! He almost caused a pile up!" New Jersey native, Redirect consultant, and all around bad driver Mike Riser advised that "driving in Jersey ain't for the faint of heart. It's kill or be killed, baby." Miss Powell subsequently sold her car in favor of commuting via the PATH system. However, after being threatened by a fellow commuter and viewing a man defecating in the middle of Penn station, Miss Powell transferred to Missouri State School of Law vowing never to return to "that hell hole."

Adele's Ex-boyfriend Feels Super Sorry

Pop singer Adele's former boyfriend feels like "bloody hell" after hearing the singer's latest album "21." Englishman Roger Curry stated in a press release that for him "it isn't oooverrrrrrrr." "I know I'm a douche," Curry stated, "but I didn't know how big of a douche I was until I heard Eunice's album." (Wisely, "Eunice Derpshire" performs as Adele.) Curry plans to sue the singer for defamation of his good-to-moderate character. "She heard that I found a girl, and I'm married now, but she came over uninvited and punched me in the face. Not ok. Now I'm known as 'that guy.' Contrary to popular belief, we couldn't have it all."

Rivera Throws Record 602nd Doodle into the Trash

Horoscopes

Aries 3/21-4/19

On Thursday, that fireball is jussssst going to miss you. Sorry about Friday.

Taurus 4/20-5/20

You'll take the time to meet new people. Unfortunately, they weren't listening to that story about your cat.

Gemini 5/21-6/21

The sun will rise on your new day, punishing you and your hangover.

Cancer 6/22-7/22

You'll find yourself drawn to electronics, then repulsed by the Facebook messages from men with mustaches.

Leo 7/23-8/22

Try the soup. No really, it's hot, but it's soothing at the same time.

Virgo 8/23-9/22

Lucky for you, the homeless man at Penn Station will pull his pants back up just in time for you to miss the show.

Libra 9/23-10/23

Even though Hurricane Irene destroyed your home, it will be kind of cool seeing your stuff float through Newark this week.

Scorpio 10/24-11/21

You'll be delighted to see that there are no new definitions to the word "smush" in the latest edition of Webster's Dictionary.

Sagittarius 11/22-12/21

The Port Authority raised your monthly PATH membership by $11/month. Compensate by finally cancelling that $29/month membership to the gym you never visit.

Capricorn 12/22-1/19

Your Fantasy Football team will be nothing this week unless you start Peyton Manning.

Aquarius 1/20-2/18

Though you pride yourself as always being honest, the bartender isn't even looking. Just take the $20.

Pisces 2/19-3/20

Desperate times call for desperate hook-ups. Yeah he's like 38. Yeah he goes to Tulane Law. Yeah he was convicted of murder. But what makes you think you should have such high standards?

Student Voices: Late Announcement of Fall Fest

Most students were unaware until Monday that Fallfest would be held on Friday, conflicting with their prior plans. What do you think?

"I'm 0 for 8 on SHU Law social events. I don't plan on breaking my streak any time soon."

"I don't mind at all. I was committed to drinking by myself on Friday night anyways."

"It was DTS or Bahama Mama's anyway. DTS it is."

Law School Patio Renovations Sponsored by Phillip Morris

Disney Supports Tea Party

Have a thought?

Have some news that you'd like reported? Feel free to contact The Redirect at the.redirect.shu@gmail.com