Cardinal's Condition Good; May Be Able to Say Mass

ROME (NC) — Cardinal Stritch, who had his right arm amputated above the elbow to save his life shortly after he arrived in Rome, was recovering so rapidly by weekend that he had returned to solid diet and was sitting up for short periods.

With a resilience that delighted all and surprised some, the Cardinal snapped back to his old energy and dynamism. Medical judgment supported his statement that there is no reason why he cannot return to an active life.

The day after his arrival here to take up his post as Pro-Prefect of the Sacred Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith, the Cardinal was hospitalized for treatment of a thrombotic occlusion (blood clot) in the major artery of his right arm.

THE OPERATION, which took 35 minutes, was performed by Dr. Pietro Valdoni, Italian cardiovascular specialist, at the Clinica Sanatrix here.

Present during the operation were Dr. Ralph Bergen, the Cardinal's personal physician, and Dr. John Keeley, circulatory specialist and professor of surgery at Loyola University's Stritch School of Medicine.

Also present were Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, personal physician of Pope Pius XII, and Vatican physician Dr. Filippo Rocchi.

Before going to the anesthesia room the Cardinal received Holy Communion. A major relic of the arm of St. Francis Xavier was kept in his room the night before the operation.

Upon receiving news of the Cardinal's illness, the Pope sent him a message conferring his blessing and expressing his wishes for a speedy and full recovery. He also gave his consent for the operation although it was not required and was asked for as a matter of courtesy.

The decision to operate was made by Drs. Valdoni, Rocchi, Bergen and Keeley following the arrival of the latter two from the U. S. and a consultation among them.

The operation was the first time in the 70-year-old Cardinal's life that he had been hospitalized except for one brief period for a tonsillectomy.

THE PAIN in the Cardinal's right arm, which he had felt slightly for some time, had not been serious until a few days before his arrival in Naples while he was on board ship. Treatments were applied by the ship's doctor and the night of his arrival in Rome, Vatican doctors were consulted.

As the Cardinal's ship, the S.S. Independence, docked at Naples, it flew from its mainmast the yellow and white Papal flag in honor of its distinguished passenger.

As the Cardinal received the greetings of priests and laymen in the ship's lounge, it was evident that he was not well. His episcopal ring was on his left hand and it was this hand that he extended to those welcoming him. His right hand was kept tucked inside his coat front.

DESPITE THE LOSS of his arm, the Cardinal may be able to celebrate Mass by availing himself of an instruction issued here in 1920 by the Sacred Congregation of Rites with the approval of Pope Benedict XV. The instruction lists the special conditions to be observed by priests who have received permission to celebrate Mass despite their handicap.

The essential condition is that a priest without a right arm must be assisted by another priest who will help him in all stages of the Mass.

The infirm priest will trace the sign of the cross with his left hand over himself, the sacred vessels and the people present. When the celebrant is to hold his hands together in front of his chest, the infirm priest will use his left hand alone, unless he can avail himself of an artificial right hand.

The assistant priest will turn the pages of the missal and will, for precautionary reasons, assure the stability of the chalice with the fingers of his left hand whenever the celebrant covers or uncovers it.

The instruction also deals with the regular celebration of the Mass with special reference to the Consecration and Communion.

OPERATION A SUCCESS: Cardinal Stritch is helped ashore upon his arrival in Naples enroute to assume his new post as Pro-prefect of the Sacred Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith. The 70-year-old prelate was rushed to a hospital in Rome where his right arm was amputated.

Bishop Issues Directive On Use of Lourdes Water

LOURDES (NC)—A notice covering the proper use of Lourdes water and the sale of religious articles at Lourdes has been issued by Bishop Pierre-Marie Theas of Tarbes and Lourdes.

Lourdes water, the Bishop wrote, should be used according to the words of Our Lady to St. Bernadette, when she said, "Go and drink at the spring and wash in it." To save the water, therefore, in any sort of religious container, instead of using it to drink or for bathing, the Bishop said, would not be respecting its purpose.

The water should never be sold nor should it be contained in any object, pious or otherwise, which is sold. The Bishop said that he was referring to rosaries, crucifixes and other pious articles which are sold containing some Lourdes water.

It is an abuse to ornament such things as ash trays, cigarette cases, perfume bottles and the like with the picture of Our Lady of Lourdes, the Bishop said. In most instances, this picture is added simply to make the object more easily sold.

Bishop Theas' directive ended with a caution to merchants who advertise religious articles for sale as being already blessed. Such advertisements, he said, are wrong in two ways:

1. Religious articles should not be blessed in stores before they are sold.
2. Such advertising is motivated by a hope for gain, not from any sense of piety or devotion.

Streetcar Workers Greeted by Pope

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Pope Pius XII received about 1,000 streetcar workers and Cardinal Siri of Genoa in audience here.

The Pope reminded them of the Church's great love for the workers. He outlined the special qualities and virtues which they must have to work for the public good. He said a religious spirit and the active practice of Christianity would prove an unshakable basis for them in carrying out their daily tasks.

Charities May Be Sued

Churches Lose Immunity

TRENTON — Churches and other non-profit charitable organizations in New Jersey are now liable to damage suits initiated in New Jersey civil courts.

THE NEW JERSEY State Supreme Court voted 5-2 for that opinion, upsetting a legal precedent first established in England 119 years ago. Thus three suits—including one against St. Luke's Church, Hoboken—were thrown back to lower courts for retrial.

Justice Nathan L. Jacobs wrote the majority opinion upholding the immunity principle. Concurring with him were Justices Joseph Weintraub, John J. Francis, Haydn Proctor—all three appointed to the bench in recent years by Gov. Robert B. Meyner—and Justice William A. Wachenfeld.

Dissents were entered by Justices Harry Heber and Albert E. Burling.

IN HIS MAJORITY opinion, Jacobs traced the history of the immunity doctrine as it applies to charitable organizations. He said it stemmed from a decision made in England in 1839 and introduced in the United States in a Massachusetts court in 1876.

The New Jersey Supreme Court ruled on the matter for the first time in 1925, stating that it was public policy to protect charities to keep their funds from being diverted to purposes their contributors did not sanction.

Justice Burling, in his dissenting opinion, pointed out that the immunity principle has been upheld without question in the high courts of five other states since 1954. These states, he said, were Kentucky, Oregon, Nebraska, Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

Further, he said, 21 other states have upheld the immunity principle over the years. He emphasized the inherent danger to small hospitals, churches and other groups if the theory of immunity is upset.

He also pointed out that Illinois, while it has ruled that charitable institutions are liable to civil suits, also ruled that such suits are valid only when the defendant is insured against the results of such litigation.

JUSTICE JACOBS maintained that the principle is not stated in specific legislation but exists as common law. He said that the opinion making charitable organizations liable is in agreement with rulings given in 20 other states and the District of Columbia.

"The primary function of the law is justice and when a principle of the law no longer serves justice it should be discarded," he said. The immunity doctrine, he asserted, "operates harshly and disregards modern concepts of justice and fair dealing."

JUSTICE HEBER agreed that immunity may no longer be practicable, but registered a dissent because he said the constitutional system would be served better by leaving it to the legislative assembly, the elected representatives of the people. He maintained that only legislative action could upset the principle.

However, Jacobs contended that the courts could upset the immunity theory since the theory itself was established by the courts.

"The unmistakable fact remains," he said, "that judges of an earlier generation declared the immunity simply because they believed it to be a sound instrument of judicial policy which would further the moral, social and economic welfare of the people of

Excused Absences Refused

Parents Still Want Retreat For Bloomfield, Glen Ridge

By Joe Thomas

BLOOMFIELD — Do Catholic parents with children in public schools want their youngsters to get a religious education?

A resounding "Yes" was sounded here last week at a meeting at Sacred Heart auditorium to discuss a retreat for high school seniors — a retreat for which the Boards of Education in Bloomfield and Glen Ridge have refused to permit excused absences on the part of participating students.

ITEM: PRIOR TO the controversy, parents of 52% of the seniors at Bloomfield High and 42% of the seniors at Glen Ridge High had requested excused absences for their children through Sacred Heart church officials.

Item: Nearly 400 parents turned out for last week's meeting in the wake of the dual refusals to sanction absences — absences which would involve no more than three hours over a two-day period.

Item: Even before the meeting, an 11-member parents' committee was organized from eight affected parishes to work for a reversal of board policies.

Item: The parents themselves approached parish priests arranging the retreat and asked that discussion of the problem be included on the agenda for the planning meeting so that they might have proper guidance.

THE RETREAT is scheduled for May 13, 14 and 15 with services in the morning and afternoon. No request for excused time was made for the 15th, Ascension Thursday, because under state law absences must be permitted on religious holidays.

State law makes it permissible, but not mandatory, to grant excused absences (those which are made in writing by the parents to the principal's office) for "reasonable" requests. The requests which the Bloomfield and Glen Ridge boards found "unreasonable" were for slightly earlier dismissals on the 13th and 14th.

Affected are seniors coming to the two high schools from Sacred Heart, St. Valentine's and St. Thomas the Apostle parishes in Bloomfield; St. Francis Xavier, Newark; Holy Name and All Souls, East Orange; St. Anthony's, Belleville, and St. Catherine of Siena, Cedar Grove.

LAST WEEK'S meeting was conducted by Rev. Thomas Henry of Sacred Heart. Speakers included Msgr. Thomas F. Burke, pastor of Sacred Heart; Msgr. Joseph A. Dooling, pastor of St. Francis, and Mrs. Frank M. Gallo of Bloomfield. Priests from four other parishes were present.

Msgr. Burke outlined the events leading up to the controversy. Msgr. Dooling outlined the primary rights which parents have in education. Mrs. Gallo, former chairman of three organizations affiliated with public schools in Bloomfield and currently chairman of the town high school's school affairs committee, spoke as chairman of the parents' group.

THAT COMMITTEE was organized at her home three days before the meeting and drew up a statement calling on the board to reverse its policy. "Moral training is the special domain of the parents and the Church," the statement said. "We as parents have incontestable priority of responsibility over any public school authority for the development, training and education of officials in Newark, Jersey City, Elizabeth, Garfield and many other New Jersey communities.

IN HIS TALK, Msgr. Burke contrasted the board's refusal with an FBI report showing that the 94% crime rate increase in Bloomfield was the highest of any city in the state. He also pointed out that parents delegate their authority to teach to the schools which thus "are acting as their agents." When the school turns down a parental request for additional training, he said, "it is assuming an authority which it does not have in reality."

Msgr. Dooling stressed that the meeting was not a "protest" meeting, but one which has taken place annually in an attempt to plan an orderly retreat. He emphasized, too, that parents "are not educating an animal, but a whole child," a task for which the public school is not equipped, since it can give no formal moral training.

He charged that "civil authority attempts to invade the home" when it dictates on educational matters to parents, to whom God has entrusted the primary responsibility for teaching.

It was Msgr. Dooling who revealed previous excused absences for a show and a trip to Philadelphia and deplored the type of thinking which would "argue that these are more important than a retreat."

Msgr. Dooling and other priests were kept busy for an hour after his talk answering questions from the floor.

ONE QUESTIONER wanted to know why the retreat couldn't be given after school hours. Father Henry explained that, because of the nature of youth, probably no more than 50% of the students could be expected to attend on a voluntary basis.

"It is the mission of the Church to save all," he said, "and the 50% who would stay away would be those who needed the instruction most. Thus we are asking the schools to share their captive audience." He pointed out that few youths indeed would attend an algebra course if not forced to do so by state law.

Honor Pope On May Day

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Thousands of Catholic workers crowded into St. Peter's Basilica here to celebrate the feast of St. Joseph the Worker, the Catholic May Day observance.

As he has done for the past four years, Pope Pius XII celebrated this May Day among the workers.

It was on May 1, 1955, that the Pontiff instituted the feast of St. Joseph the Worker.

Since then May Day in Italy has lost its Marxist characteristics. Mass this year was celebrated outdoors by Cardinal Mimmi. It was attended by members of the Italian Christian Workers Association, who later marched in procession to St. Peter's where they paid homage to the Pope.

Throughout Italy similar ceremonies marked the feast.

Parents Urged to Reclaim Their Rights as Educators

WASHINGTON — Charging that "the role of parents as educators has gradually faded under the attacks of the professional educators," a Catholic agency here has urged that the procreation and education of children be restored to its proper place in marriage.

The statement was released by the Family Life Bureau of the National Catholic Welfare Conference. Entitled "Parents as Educators," the statement was issued for National Family Week, May 4-11.

"PARENTS MUST reclaim for themselves the role of 'guiding' their own children," the statement said. "Cultural and spiritual values, personal attitudes, habitual virtues, interior and exterior self-control, and self-discipline cannot be taught in a classroom by word of mouth."

Noting that parents may delegate their authority to teachers, the statement emphasized that "we must not permit the teacher to treat the parents as mere educational delegates. In this role of teaching the parents are primary."

BY THEIR THEORIES, professional educators have helped to promote an "incomplete" idea of marriage in which the child is no longer of prime importance, the statement said.

They have done this by suggesting "that parents do not have the specially trained skills to be proper educators for their children," by undermining traditional methods of discipline, and "by subtly suggesting to the children that their parents are inadequate

This, the statement said, has helped lead to the idea among young people that marriage "is the pursuit of romance, mutual sexual pleasure, companionship, a pleasant division of labor" and acquisition of material goods.

Improved educational plants and methods will be ineffectual in furthering proper education, the statement declares, "unless to marriage is restored its primary object of the procreation and education of children."

Recollection Day

The monthly day of recollection for priests will be held at Immaculate Conception Seminary on May 8. Giving the conferences will be Msgr. Aloysius F. Coogan, vocation director, Archdiocese of New York.

Vatican Requests Greater Mission Activity in Africa

BAD GODESBERG, Germany — A lot remains to be done by international Catholic organizations attempting to implement the call for action in Africa and Asia issued last year by Pope Pius XII in his encyclical, "Fidei Donum."

That was the tenor of a letter received here by the Conference of International Catholic Organizations (CICO), meeting.

The letter was sent to the group's annual assembly by Msgr. Angelo Dell'Acqua, Vatican Subsecretary of State, on behalf of the Pope.

The CICO embraces some 40 different Catholic movements. They met here to study the part played by international Catholic organizations in response to the appeal made by the Pope in his encyclical.

MSGR. DELL'ACQUA told the assembly that increased initia-

Development Drive Opens In Paterson

PATERSON—The 1958 Diocesan Development Fund in the Diocese of Paterson was inaugurated Apr. 27, designated as "Stay at Home" Sunday. On that day, members of every parish in the Diocese were visited by volunteer workers enlisting support of this year's program.

Bishop McNulty has asked that each adult of the Diocese make a special contribution of a minimum of $3 on each of the four Sundays in May. It is suggested that those earning above minimum salaries should offer a proportionately higher gift.

The Diocesan Development Fund has been designed to promote the works of religion, charity and education in the Diocese of Paterson. A major item in the latter field is the erection of the three new regional high schools.

There is danger that the Church's crop will perish during the harvest.

"If the heathens are baptized, they have a right to pastoral care. To baptize them and leave them alone would be a greater guilt than not baptizing them at all."

It is necessary to meet the situation in Africa, particularly through a joint effort.

In the pressure of vast and positive activity on the part of the enemy," the letter said, "the isolated and periodic initiatives of Christians, however useful they may be, are not enough."

The letter asked member organizations to place themselves at the disposal of local Bishops to coordinate activities.

The missions, Msgr. Dell'Acqua wrote, "hope for the support of all countries with long Christian traditions. The young generation, in particular, must be prepared in family, parish, school and youth organizations, to cooperate . . . in a truly Catholic spirit."

CICO cannot undertake this task, the letter continued, "with out informing Catholic opinion of it, nor without developing the latter to a great extent," because the conference still is little known in many countries.

The letter concluded with a call for united action so that conference members can bring "their efforts to converge on the point where . . . there is the greatest need."

AFTER RECEIPT of the message, the conference pledged "all efforts to promote the spread of Christianity in Africa, in the spirit of solidarity and sacrifice."

Conference speakers stressed the need for action in Africa. One speaker noted that the pastoral care of 1,121,000 new Catholics in Africa last year required 1,100 new priests but only 387 priests became available during the year.

Another said that "if we do not receive enough missionaries and funds during the next decade,

Honesty, Integrity Have No Dollar Sign

SOUTH ORANGE—"Honesty, integrity and patriotism have no dollar sign attached to them." This was the substance of the address given by Rev. Thomas M. Reardon, regent of Seton Hall University School of Law, to members of the Catholic Accountants Guild of the Archdiocese of Newark.

More than 200 members and guests attended the first annual Communion breakfast of the group held at the Seton Hall campus after Mass in the chapel.

Father Reardon emphasized the necessity for greater effort in combatting modern-day materialism. The Church can, he said, and must have a laity which is virtuous, has a sound knowledge of the Catholic faith, and is apostolic in the zeal and enthusiasm displayed in spreading its principles.

THE MEMBERSHIP was complimented by Rev. John J. Horgan, moderator, on the rapid growth of the organization since its foundation last year. He also reiterated the purpose of the guild to encourage its accountants to promote Catholic principles in the business world by fostering and maintaining high standards of religious and ethical ideals and practices.

Joseph J. Seaman, president, announced that the next meeting of the guild will be held in Perth Amboy during the first week in June. A one-day retreat is also planned to be held at Seton Hall in October.

Vatican Radio Lauds Legion Of Decency

VATICAN CITY (RNS) — The Vatican Radio, in a special broadcast, praised the work of the National Legion of Decency in the United States and said similar campaigns against indecent movies should be "initiated in other countries which have public morals at heart."

The station said its broadcast was prompted by a recent address in New York in which Msgr. Thomas F. Little, executive secretary of the Legion of Decency, charged that public apathy and vague anti-obscenity laws are encouraging the production of morally unacceptable pictures.

BEHIND THE MISSIONS: The reason why the Collegeville, Ind., post office handles weekly packages for such far-flung places as India, Africa and Korea is that students of the minor seminary of St. Joseph's College are mission-minded. Members of the Dwenger Mission Unit's redistribution center bundle Catholic literature for shipment to the missions—and they're always interested in obtaining good reading material for the project. From left are Phil Mattingly, John Petuskey of Roselle, N. J., Leon Keens and Kenneth Schroeder, all preparing for the priesthood in the Congregation of the Most Precious Blood.

Spiritual Directors Of Holy Name To Be Honored

NEWARK — The annual spiritual directors' dinner of the Essex-West Hudson Federation of Holy Name Societies will take place May 13 at the Essex House, with Archbishop Boland presiding.

The dinner this year will have a special significance since 1958 marks the 50th anniversary of the annual Holy Name rallies in Newark. Thus the dinner will serve as the starting point for preparations for the golden jubilee observance of the October demonstration.

Primary purpose of the affair, however, as in past years, will be to honor spiritual directors of parish Holy Name Societies. Each unit invites its own directors as a guest.

The group will be addressed by Msgr. Cornelius J. Boyle, spiritual director. Hugh X. Connell is chairman of the general committee. In charge of reservations is Edward J. Dwyer, 43 Cliff St., Newark. More than 900 Holy men are expected to attend.

In May, Communion breakfasts are the major item of interest in many societies. Breakfasts listed for the next two weeks are as follows:

Crucible Steel Co., Spaulding Works, Harrison — This will be the seventh annual with breakfast at the Hotel Robert Treat May 4, after 9 a.m. Mass in St. John's Church. Speakers, Rev. Robert P. Egan, director of New Jersey's Boytown; Jersey City Commissioner William V. McLaughlin, and Paul A. Karns, manager of Spaulding Works. Dominick Gatto is chairman.

St. James, Newark — Annual breakfast will be held May 11 in the school hall after 7:30 a.m. Mass. Speakers, Rev. Stephen Lynch, Seton Hall University, and Surrogate Adrian Foley of Essex County. James Everett is chairman.

St. Anthony's Belleville — May 11 is the date of the 28th annual breakfast in the school hall after 7:30 a.m. Mass. Speakers, Rev. Titian P. Menegus, pastor; Rev. Matthew Pesaniello, Holy Family, Nutley, and Peter W. Rodino Jr. Co-chairmen, Domen-ick A. Lally and Frederick Schipp.

Our Lady of All Souls, East Orange — The annual breakfast will be held May 11 at the Hotel Surburban after 8 a.m. Mass. Michael J. Oates is chairman.

St. Anne's, Garwood — The breakfast will be in the school hall May 11 after 7:15 a.m. Mass. Speaker will be Newark Councilman James T. Callaghan. George Pyle, society president, will be toastmaster. The monthly meeting will be May 12, featuring showing of the film, "The Boy Down the Block," produced by the Maryknoll Fathers.

Sacred Heart Cathedral, Newark — The annual breakfast will be in Thomm's Restaurant after 8 a.m. Mass. Speaker, Msgr. John J. Kiley, archdiocesan CYO director. Toastmaster and chairmen are Norman Spencer and Frank De Franco.

Microfilm NC News Service

WASHINGTON — Every news story ever filed by the NCWC News Service from 1920 through 1956 has been microfilmed for preservation in the Catholic Journalism archives of the Catholic University of America.

More than 150,000 items have been recorded on 112 reels — 10, 670 feet — of film. Filmed additions to the file will be made from time to time.

The library at the Catholic University of America has pioneered in the preservation of items connected with Catholic journalism in America. It has complete microfilms of many diocesan newspapers some of which date back to 1829, as well as microfilm copies of Osservatore Romano and other foreign periodicals.

Italian Priest Lived in Streets of Naples To Befriend and Help Homeless Boys

By Rev. James I. Tucek
NAPLES, Italy (NC) — A "scugnizzo" is a toy top. It is also a boy. This is the story about the boy.

"Scugnizzo" is Neapolitan dialect. When it is applied to a young boy it is meant to describe that particular kind of boy who has been thrown into the streets by various circumstances. Like the toy top he wanders and turns aimlessly, but he has a certain toughness, a steel point, so that when he hits the street the hard way he doesn't break.

THE "SCUGNIZZO'S" lot used to be a hard one. Maybe he had parents, but he didn't know them. If he could steal, he could eat. Either that or he could forage in garbage cans and rubble heaps for what scraps his stomach could hold. Sometimes he could earn a few pennies by various errands and tasks that would shock anyone else but a hungry and homeless boy.

The "scugnizzo's" lot was hard, that is, until a young seminary professor came along who had been raised in Naples' slums and who knew something himself about hitting the street the hard way. He was Father Mario Barrelli.

When he was still a student, young Barrelli used to talk with a fellow seminarian, Franco Spada, about what could be done for the "scugnizzi." Time passed and both Barrelli and Spada were ordained priests. Barrelli became a seminary professor and Spada entered the Society of St. Philip Neri, the Oratorian.

WHEN THE TIME was ripe, Father Barrelli sought out Father Spada and together they decided that they should start their work. Their assets: one abandoned church given to them by the late Cardinal Ascalesi.

Father Barrelli also had the added concession of a strange permission: he was permitted to sleep in the streets!

This was in 1950. Eight years later The House of the Scugnizzi takes care of 150 boys in two separate homes. The quarters are still make-shift, but they are warm and dry. The boys' clothes are patched and re-patched, but they are fairly clean and without vermin.

There is food on the table and school and Mass in the morning.

THE BOYS COME from many sources. Some are brought in by other boys; others by the police or a priest; some by their parents. No boy is ever turned away. If a boy is a "bad apple," the other boys solve that problem in their own way. There is no minimum age as long as the boy can walk and talk.

The boys are free to stay at the house until they are due for military duty. Otherwise, the house always places them in a job before they leave.

The only requirement for entrance into the house is a hard one: the boy must be a "scugnizzo." That means he has been found on the street, either without a home or with a home to which he cannot return.

Hospitals Are Also Squeezed In Current Cost-Price Vise

SAN FRANCISCO (NC) — Hospitals, just like other enterprises, are caught in the current inflationary spiral, the president of the Catholic Hospital Association said here.

Msgr. Francis M. Thornton of Trenton made this point when questioned on reasons for rising hospital costs. Among factors that lead to the high price of caring for the sick, he listed:

- "A hospital is in no position to control its costs. It doesn't admit the patient, say how long he stays, or what treatment he gets."
- "Labor is the largest item in the cost spiral. We have to compete with industry in the labor market."
- "Hospital equipment becomes obsolete. It has to be replaced frequently — and expensively."

"DON'T GET ME wrong on the labor issue," he said. "We have to admit that hospital salary and wage scales lagged for years. Now they are catching up with industry's. And some hospitals are having a rough go adjusting to labor's demands."

Developments in the field are coming so fast, some hospital equipment is obsolete within months after it is installed," Msgr. Thornton said. Keeping up with the times takes money. New drugs and new surgery and laboratory techniques add to the total, he said.

"Then there's the personnel increase," the priest continued. "Twenty years ago there was a ratio of eight hospital employees to 10 patients. Now it's 20 to 10. We could cut costs — but only by cutting services. And for that the public doesn't seem prepared to stand."

HE SEES some hope for financial salvation in a revamping of relations between hospitals and group insurance plans, along these lines: Elimination of unnecessary hospitalization; more realistic benefit patterns; provision of nursing-home or other types of institutional care for aged and other patients who don't actually need to occupy a hospital bed.

Apart from the problem of rising costs, Msgr. Thornton pointed to modernization of facilities and more trained personnel as the greatest needs of Catholic hospitals.

Terms Confraternity Top Teaching Method

SANTA FE, N. M. — The best methods of catechetical instruction are contained in the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine program as it exists in this country.

So said Bishop Matthew F. Brady of Manchester, N. H., episcopal CCD chairman, as he called for enthusiasm in making the confraternity program known throughout the world. He spoke at a convention of diocesan CCD directors here.

Among the Bishops attending the meeting was Auxiliary Bishop Walter W. Curtis, confraternity director for the Newark Archdiocese.

BISHOP BRADY saw in the CCD the best way for diocesan directors to fulfill the "ministry of teaching." "We are the Apostles of Christ," he told the directors; "we must work into the very marrow of our bones this spirit of the apostolate." But this apostolate "rightfully belongs" to the laity, the Bishop said, telling the directors they must share the responsibility with them.

"We must reach effectively all those Catholics who are not touched through the ordinary parish organizations through utilizing the powerful force of the laity, training them to study and adhere firmly to the CCD manual," he asserted.

DON'T SHOP on Sundays.

Pope's Prayer for Prisoners

NCWC News Service

Pope Pius XII has composed the following prayer for prisoners. An indulgence of three years has been attached to its recitation.

O, Divine Prisoner of the sanctuary, who, for love of us and for our salvation, not only enclosed Yourself within the restricted limits of human nature and then hid yourself under the veils of the sacramental species, but also continually lives in the cell of the tabernacle, hear our prayer which rises to You from within these walls and which longs to express to You all our affection, but also our sorrow in the intense need we have of You in our tribulations and primarily in the privation of freedom which distresses us so much.

PROBABLY FOR some of us there is a voice in the depths of conscience which says we are not guilty, and that only a fatal judicial error has led us to this prison. Then we will derive our comfort by remembering that You also, the most august of all victims though the most innocent, were condemned.

Or, perhaps, instead, we should lower our eyes to conceal our blush of shame, and beat our breast. But even then we also have the remedy of throwing ourselves into Your arms, certain that You understand all errors, forgive all sins and generously restore Your grace to him who returns repentantly to You.

And, finally, there are many in life who succumb to sin again, so that even the best among men mistrust us, and we ourselves hardly know where to begin the new road of regeneration. But despite all this, in the most hidden corner of our soul, a word of trust and comfort whispers Your word which promises us the help of Your light and of Your grace if we want to return to what is good.

May we, O Lord, never forget how the day of trial is a most propitious occasion for purifying spirits, practicing the highest virtues and acquiring the greatest merits. Spare our afflicted hearts from being penetrated by that disgust which dries up everything, by distrust which leaves no room for brotherly sentiments and which prepared the road for bad conduct.

And may we always bear in mind that by depriving us of the freedom of our bodies, no one has been able to deprive us of freedom of the soul, which during the long hours of our solitude can rise to You to know You better and love You more each day.

GRANT, O DIVINE Savior, help and resignation to our dear ones who mourn our absence. Grant peace and quiet to this world which has rejected us but which we love and to which we promise our cooperation as good citizens for the future.

Grant that our sorrows may be a salutary example to many souls and that they may thus be protected against the dangers of following our path. But above all, grant us the grace of believing firmly in You, of filially hoping in You and of loving You who, with the Father and the Holy Spirit, live and reign forever and ever. Amen.

Cardinal Honored

Dulles Would Avoid Materialist Conflict

NEW YORK — Cardinal Spellman received the Military Chaplains Association's annual award for distinguished service during the association's 33rd annual meeting here.

More than 1,000 military chaplains attended the three-day conference at which Secretary of State John Foster

Dulles said that this nation must accept the "positive challenge" of the threat to its spiritual and moral values posed by communist materialism. At the same time, he said, we must not compete against communism "under rules that the challenger lays down."

THE CITATION presented to Cardinal Spellman, who is the spiritual leader of Catholics in the armed forces, cited his "spirit of charity" and his "personal sacrifice for the men of our armed forces." During the war, Cardinal Spellman visited troops in the European and Pacific theaters. For the last seven years he has spent Christmas with the troops in the Far East.

Secretary Dulles, an earlier winner of the award, told the chaplains that Americans "need to be careful lest in a purely competitive spirit we be swept away from our basic spiritual moorings."

However, he said, "I am afraid that we . . . may have lost track of the connection between our faith and our works and that we attempt to justify our society and to make it appealing without regard to the spiritual concepts which underlie it and make it work."

He said there are at least three areas in which the United States should "emphatically" refuse to accept the challenge of Soviet materialistic competition. He listed these as:

- The armaments race, which

"we must not accept as if to be the greatest military power were a worthy or even an acceptable goal."

- Scientific education, which "seeks to monopolize the minds of our youths, as though other values did not matter."

- The quantity of consumer goods, which might make these "the decisive measure of our society, as though its spiritual values were unimportant."

AT THE CONFERENCE, the chaplains adopted a resolution charging that "calculated and unwarranted discrimination" exists in the appointment of chaplains to West Point cadets.

Pointing out that chaplains "for the past 60 years have been clergymen of a single Protestant denomination (Episcopal)," they asked that Congress pass legislation placing the chaplaincy under the Army Chaplains' Corps. Army chaplains minister to regular Army personnel, but by law a civilian chaplain serves the cadets.

In another resolution, the association called for a halt to the sale of all "morally offensive" publications at military posts.

New Rectory At St. Lucy's

NEWARK — The new rectory in St. Lucy's parish here will be dedicated by Archbishop Boland at 4 p.m., May 4. The pastor is Rev. Gaetano Ruggiero.

Two stories in height, the building with exterior of iron spot brick has accommodations for seven priests on the second floor. The first floor contains three offices, dining room, living room, kitchen and housekeeper's quarters. The basement also contains a large room suitable for parish meetings and recreation for the children.

THE ADVOCATE brings you columns on theology, family problems, the catechism, vocations, labor, communism, the missions, the saints, and other topics.

Institute Discusses Role of Sodality

NEWARK — A lecture on the wishes of Pope Pius XII regarding the role of the sodality and sodalists in a spiritual reformation, and a brace of panel discussions from the educator's viewpoint marked the Sodality Institute for representatives of Catholic high schools of the Archdiocese of Newark, held Apr. 26 at St. Vincent's Academy here.

Seventy Brothers and Sisters at the meeting were welcomed by Rev. Leo L. Mahoney, Newark director of sodalities, who congratulated them on their efforts in spreading the sodality movement.

Rev. Charles R. Callahan, assistant archdiocesan sodality director, conducted the Institute's morning session, talking on "Bis Speculari," the Apostolic Constitution of Pope Pius XII.

In the afternoon a panel of moderators discussed with Father Callahan methods of helping high school sodalists to live the true sodality life. Participants were Mother Marie Venard, S.H.C.J., Oak Knoll, Summit; Sister Maria Regis, S.C., St. Aloysius Academy, Jersey City; Sister Janet, C.S.J., St. Luke's, Hoboken; and Sister Lucille Marie, O.P., Mt. St. Dominic's, Caldwell.

Subsequently Father Callahan also acted as moderator of a panel discussion by principals who discussed "How Sodality Help Principals and Schools." Participating principals were Sister Mary Cecilia, S.C., Marylawn of the Oranges; Sister M. Germaine, O. P., Mt. St. Dominic's; and Mother Marie Venard, Oak Knoll, Summit.

Diocesan Development Fund

Great Results Are Credited to Drive

By Very Rev. Msgr. William A. Looney,
Pastor, St. Patrick's, Chatham

During the month of Our Blessed Lady the Bishop of Paterson has sent forth the annual invitation to all the clergy and laity to assist him in promoting the Diocesan Development Fund in religion, charity and education.

We know from experience that a group united for a definite goal can be successful, whereas the efforts of a single or a few individuals may result in dismal failure.

One person or a few holding aloft a candle in a stadium cannot banish the darkness, but a large audience each holding a lighted candle illumines the scene and produces a brilliance difficult to describe.

Your interest and generous gift will mean success; your indifference and lack of support only guarantee failure.

The plan founded by our Most Reverend Bishop McNulty called the "Diocesan Development Fund" is now two years infancy and though in its infancy has achieved and accomplished great results.

The purpose of this plan is to promote religion, charity and education and surely the latter in the past year was stressed by the erection of three new diocesan high schools at Lake Mohawk, Denville and Wayne Township. The crowded quarters in Pope Pius High School, Passaic, was solved by the addition of a large and necessary annex.

Although the program this last year has laid emphasis on the field of Catholic high school education, the Most Reverend Bishop has not lost sight of either religion or charity.

The rallies for vocations; the parish program for the CYO; the Boy Scout and Girl Scout activities; the convention and workshop in February for the NCCM—all these and others manifest his desire to extend the Kingdom of Christ.

The field of charity has not been neglected. The Thanksgiving appeal for our needy brethren in foreign lands—the financial assistance when parishes respond to the Bishops Relief Fund; the diocesan projects sponsored by the Associated Catholic Charities—all show conclusively that despite the assaults of pagan enemies the Church of Christ is obeying the Divine Founder's mandate, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, mind and strength, and thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." On this foundation alone rests Christian culture and civilization.

Scientists Meeting At Caldwell College

CALDWELL — The Catholic Round Table of Science of the metropolitan area will meet at Caldwell College for Women Saturday, May 3. Guest speaker will be Dr. Philip Hemily of the National Science Foundation, Washington, on "The Progress of the National Science Foundation in Education in the Sciences."

Proceedings will begin with 11 a. m. Mass to be celebrated by Rev. Benedict M. Lindner, O.S.A., Cathedral College, New York. The morning will be devoted to a business session, conducted by Dr. Daniel Lilly of St. John's University, president of the group.

Dr. Hemily will speak after luncheon. He will also answer questions on science education assistance available from the National Science Foundation.

The Catholic Round Table of Science is an organization of Catholic scientists in the educational fields who meet to exchange ideas.

Sister M. Joanna, O.P., head of the science department of Caldwell College, is treasurer of the unit. Secretary is Sister St. Virginia Marie of Notre Dame College, Staten Island.

Holy Father Warns Sardinia Against 'Mistaken Progress'

VATICAN CITY—The Church does not fear progress and modernization, Pope Pius XII told the people of Sardinia. At the same time he warned them against a progress which could lead them to abandon the traditional values which they have placed on spiritual, family and social life.

True progress, the Pontiff said in a special message broadcast to the island off the west coast of Italy, "must and can contribute toward building a Christian city." His message was sent on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the crowning of the image of the Virgin of Bonaria, patron of Sardinia.

PRAISING recent progress on the island, he nevertheless noted that much remains to be done but cautioned the people to "resist the lures of vain promises and of mistaken progress."

He warned them to beware of "remodeling" those spiritual, family and social values which have until now remained immune to materialistic and hedonistic contamination.

"The Church," he said, "wants to see the lives of nations and of individuals developed within the framework of their multiple elements without the exclusion of any real values and without unilateral preference at the expense of others." He set this up as a goal for all Sardinians, saying:

"THIS SHOULD be the aim of those you choose as leaders of your civil life, men who must be honest whatever the test and impartially dedicated to the care of public affairs no matter how unimportant they may be."

"This should be the aim of professional classes while constantly studying and faithfully carrying out their duties. This should be the aim of youth, with the conviction that they are cooperating equally in the common prosperity..."

"Above all," the Pope said, "this should be the aim of all of those whom God has elected as ministers in the midst of His people, the priests, so that through doctrine, example and zeal they may be among you the salt of the earth and the light of the world."

REFERRING TO the Sardinians' loyalty to the Virgin Bonaria, the Pope said:

"True loyalty does not tolerate even temporary doubts, hesitations or evasions. It is an unconditional dedication and willingness to serve, and readiness to make sacrifices."

"Never before as now has loyalty to the Church and to Christ been the principal virtue of the Christian. Never before as now has it been put to a greater test."

"It seems to us," the Pope added, "that Christ is repeating to each one of you a question similar to the one He put to Peter on the bank of the sea of Tiberias: 'Dost thou love Me?'" (John, 21:16).

"With the same anxiety," he said, "We, the Vicar of Christ, ask you today: Will you be loyal to Christ and to the Church? We do not doubt that you, that Sardinia... will answer yes with conviction and sincerity..."

Dachau Priest To Be TV Subject

NEW YORK (NC) — The dramatic story of a German youth who was ordained a priest while imprisoned in the infamous concentration camp in Dachau, Germany, will be presented on the Catholic Hour television program on May 4, 1:30 p.m. on Channel 4.

"The Victory of Father Karl" tells the story of Karl Leisner, imprisoned by Nazis in Dachau during December, 1940. He became a priest through the courageous efforts of fellow prisoners.

Anniversary For Delegate

WASHINGTON — Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the U. S., marked the 25th anniversary of his consecration and appointment as Papal delegate to this country at a Pontifical Mass in St. Matthew's Cathedral here.

He was given a spiritual bouquet from the Archdiocese of Washington and responded by offering a prayer for "our beloved America," where he said the progress of the Church has been "truly remarkable."

Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle of Washington presented the spiritual bouquet and noted that Americans "have been the principal, almost the exclusive, beneficiaries" of Archbishop Cicognani's powers as a Bishop whose duty it has been "to transmit the fatherly will of the Holy See to the Church in America."

PRESENT To honor the Apostolic Delegate were several Bishops, representatives of some 30 diplomatic missions and the U. S. State Department, and the entire staff of the Italian embassy in Washington.

Archbishop Cicognani attributed the progress of the Church here to the vitality of the Bishops and the bonds between them and their priests, Religious and lay people. A Bishop, he said, "is the presence of God in the midst of the people."

Leo Krazinski Heads Newark Holy Name

JERSEY CITY — Leo C. Krazinski of St. Cecilia's, Englewood, was elected president of the Newark Archdiocesan Federation of Holy Name Societies at the convention held Apr. 27 at St. John's here. He succeeds Michael Carrig of North Bergen.

Some 300 delegates of 254 parish societies of the Archdiocese were addressed by Rev. Joseph F. Taylor, S.J., of St. Peter's.

Father Taylor emphasized the necessity of always keeping in mind the sacredness of the Holy Name of Jesus. "There can be no compromise in your life, your home and on the job with the sacredness of the Holy Name," he said.

The convention was also addressed by Msgr. Henry J. Waterson, archdiocesan spiritual director, and Rev. John J. Kinsler, St. John's pastor.

In the course of reports from presidents of the four county organizations, Walter Joyce of Essex stressed the support being given to heads of parishes who are attempting to win excused absences for public school students to attend a religious retreat ending May 15, Ascension Thursday, Bloomfield and Glen Ridge students are involved.

"We are not satisfied merely with passing resolutions," he said, "and sending organization letters to the local boards of education. We urged parents to send individual letters and they have responded."

REMEMBERED: This beautiful statue of St. Frances Xavier Cabrini was dedicated Apr. 27. It was erected in Mother Cabrini Park, Newark, under sponsorship of Mother Cabrini Post, Catholic War Veterans. Archbishop Boland blessed the statue and admiring it after the unveiling is Rev. Aloysius S. Carney, state chaplain, Catholic War Veterans.

Ignation Guild Burse To Honor Fr. Purcell

JERSEY CITY—Rev. Raymond I. Purcell, S.J., a member of the faculty at St. Peter's Prep for the past 26 years, will be honored by the Ignation Guild of New Jersey, which plans to raise a burse of $8,000 in his name.

A classmate of Archbishop Boland at Xavier High School, Father Purcell is a native of Montclair and one of two brothers to enter the Society of Jesus. Since his ordination in 1928, he has spent most of his priestly life at St. Peter's, as instructor in sophomore classics and moderator of the junior Sodality.

Among the boys he has taught at St. Peter's since 1932 are more than 40 who have since entered the Society of Jesus and another 25 or more who are members of the diocesan clergy. Many others have gone from their studies under him to success in the business and professional world.

The Ignation Guild recently completed a burse in honor of Rev. John P. Fitzpatrick, S.J., late Conception, Washington.

To Hold Field Mass At Packanack Lake

PACKANACK LAKE—In lieu of groundbreaking ceremonies, a field Mass will be celebrated on the site of the new mission of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, Packanack Lake, on May 10 at 10 a.m. The contract for site preparation has been awarded and the work of leveling the 17 acres and installing drains has been under way since Apr. 2.

Contracts for building the school, chapel and rectory will be awarded during May.

The Solemn Mass will be celebrated under canvas by the pastor, Msgr. Edward J. Scully, assisted by Rev. Sigmund Rovinski, deacon, and Rev. Martin C. Connolly, subdeacon. Music for the Mass will be sung by a male choir, the Marist Choroesters, under direction of John Mitchell of Clifton. Parishioners and friends will be invited to participate and to receive Holy Communion.

Parishioners in the mission area have been attending Masses on Sunday in Packanack Lake School Auditorium since September, 1956. Previously they went to the mother parish, Holy Cross Church in Mountain View.

The new school will open in September, 1958, with grades one to six using the facilities of De Paul High School, about a mile distant from the mission. This will relieve the crowded conditions at Holy Cross School which necessitated double sessions for the past two years.

The Sisters of St. Joseph of Newark will teach in the new school as they already do at Holy Cross. The Sisters convent has been at Packanack Lake since Holy Cross School opened in 1950. A combined faculty of eight nuns and six lay teachers will staff both schools.

Dinner to Mark Adoration Group Anniversary

MOUNTAIN VIEW—Men of Holy Cross Church, Mountain View, and the Mission of the Immaculate Heart of Mary at Packanack Lake, will unite for their Catholic Men of Wayne Dinner on May 14, at 7:30 p.m. in Donohue's Restaurant here. Holy Cross and its mission are the only Catholic churches in Wayne Township.

This dinner will commemorate the fifth anniversary of Nocturnal Adoration at Holy Cross Church. Guest of honor and speaker will be Bishop McNulty, Rev. Martin C. Connolly, spiritual director of the Holy Name Society, will present the Catholic Man of the Year Medal. Nocturnal Adoration president, Patrick Brannigan, will act as toastmaster. Msgr. Edward J. Scully, moderator, will make the closing remarks.

Obscenity Outlawed
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NC)—Ceylon has become the 33rd nation to ratify an international agreement to ban production, possession and trade in obscene printed matter.

May 4 Set as Apostleship of Sea Sunday

NEWARK—The hierarchy of the United States have given their blessing and approval for observance of Apostleship of the Sea Sunday on May 4. The Sunday has been designated as "A Day of Prayer and thought for the spiritual and temporal needs of seafarers throughout the world."

According to Msgr. John A. Weisbrod, archdiocesan director of the Apostleship of the Sea, the purpose of the movement "is to promote the religious, educational and charitable welfare of seafarers. Members share in the good works of the Apostleship of the Sea."

St. Vincent's Hospital Given Grant-in-Aid

MONTCLAIR—A grant-in-aid has been awarded to the department of anesthesia, St. Vincent's Hospital, it was announced this week by Sister Clare Dolores, administrator. The award was made by Eli Lilly Co., Indianapolis, a pharmaceutical firm, for clinical research in progress at St. Vincent's.

This is the fifth such grant received by St. Vincent's from the pharmaceutical industry for investigative work carried on by staff members. The special equipment in the operating rooms for automatic checking and recording of respiratory and circulatory reactions of patients undergoing surgery makes it possible for the anesthesiologist to provide accurate data concerning the anesthetic used.

In addition to a scientific grant, Schering Co. of Bloomfield has recently contributed to the building fund of St. Vincent's Hospital, where a 40-bed wing with new pediatrics and emergency departments is being erected.

Seton Institute Publishes Book On Red China

NEWARK—A book on Red China in the Chinese language was recently published in Hong Kong by the Institute of Far Eastern Studies of Seton Hall University.

Titled "Downfall of the Red Dynasty," it is a study by James Muh-Po Fu, research associate of the Institute. The work deals especially with the economic problems of Chinese communists since coming to power in 1949.

"Whatever progress the communists have made, and this has been slight," the author observes, "it has been accomplished because the regime has had the aid of Russia, and at the great expense of human values."

The book also deals with the communist persecution of the Church on the mainland. "The communists may enforce the obedience of the Chinese body," the author states, "but not of the Chinese soul. Communism is itself imprisoned, for it cannot enter the freedom of the spiritual. It has planted in itself the seed of self-destruction."

Plans Breakfast

NEWARK—Volunteer workers of the Mt. Carmel Guild Department for the Blind will hold a Communion breakfast-meeting May 4 in the St. Bridget's parish hall after 10 a.m. Mass.

They will be addressed by Msgr. Joseph A. Dooling, archdiocesan director of the Mt. Carmel Guild.

In charge of arrangements is Helen Reilly, archdiocesan chairman.

Mt. Carmel Fund Reaches $551,093

RIDGEWOOD—A total of $551,093 has been reached in a parish fund-raising drive for a new church and rectory for Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church here. The goal was $350,000.

Msgr. James F. Kelley, pastor and honorary chairman of the building campaign, congratulated the 200 men volunteers of the parish for a job well done in their house-to-house solicitation of Mt. Carmel parishioners. He also paid tribute to the many people who have contributed so generously to the outstanding success of the campaign.

Harry Sutton was selected as chairman of the continuation committee, a post-campaign organization.

To Present Talk On Middle East To Serra Club

MONTCLAIR—The present situation in the Middle East and North Africa will be discussed at a meeting of the Serra Club of Montclair, May 9, at Pal's Cabin, West Orange.

The speaker will be Jamal Sa'd, formerly associated with the Arab States delegation. Mr. Sa'd is now associated with the Permanent Mission of Lebanon to the United States and is currently serving in the Press Department of the Embassy of Morocco.

Albert S. Commette was elected president of the group at the Apr. 25 meeting and will take office May 23.

Other officers are John J. Regan and William McAllister, vice presidents; Stephen Marzano, treasurer; Edward J. McQuillan, secretary; and Frederick A. Hessel, John R. Gannon and Bando J. Caruso, trustees.

Safe Way to the Summit

It has been difficult, these past several weeks, to keep track of the ups and downs of the summit conference. At one point the Russians were working hard for such a meeting, while the West was far from enthusiastic; at another the roles were reversed, and the Reds seemed to be coyly hanging back.

It is unfortunate that so much time and energy should be consumed in pondering the moves and counter-moves of the Soviets, and in deciding upon our corresponding strategy. Such time and energy would be far better spent in developing a positive, American approach to the problem, an approach that is simple, sound and safe, and one which will give us either a truly productive summit meeting, or a resounding victory in the cold war, either of which will have real value for the peace of the world.

A summit conference is proposed as a means of reaching agreements, of settling differences among nations. This is surely a desirable objective, one in which the United States would gladly concur. Our hesitation arises from our well-founded doubt that the Russians really want to make any agreements, or (more importantly) that they will honestly carry out such agreements as are reached.

The great obstacle to the summit conference, therefore, is our distrust of the Russians (they seem to feel no such distrust of us, as is indicated by their urgent pressure for a meeting). Why do we not offer them—before the whole world, via radio, TV, the press—a simple, sure means of removing our distrust, of bringing us willingly, confidently, to the conference table?

Since their illegal seizure of power in 1917, the Russian communists have entered into over 50 international agreements. The vast majority of these they have never fulfilled; their pledges are unkept, their promises broken, their sworn word repudiated.

Let us simply tell the Russians—before the whole world—that, before we will consent to another conference for the sake of other agreements, we expect them to carry out in good faith the agreements they have made in the past. Let us provide the Red leaders—and the whole world—with copies of these treaties and conventions of the past 40 years, and tell them that we expect them to fulfill to the letter every provision of every agreement.

Let them, for example, cease their communist propaganda, subversion and espionage in the United States, as they bound themselves to do in their agreement with President Roosevelt on Nov. 16, 1933. Let them honor their Atlantic Charter pledge of Sept. 24, 1941, and give up all the territory they seized during World War II. Let them live up to the provisions of the UN Charter which they solemnly signed on June 26, 1945. Let them support Chiang Kai-shek and the cause of the Republic of China, as they promised to do on Dec. 16, 1945. Let them cooperate in the unification of Germany "by means of free elections," as they agreed to do on July 17, 1955 at the last summit conference, at Geneva.

Let the Russians carry out in good faith these and the numerous other agreements they have made in the past 40 years. Let them thus prove to us—and to the world—that it is worthwhile to make agreements with them. Then we can safely entertain the proposal of another summit conference—though we shall probably find that there is no need of one!

If the Russians refuse to use this simple means of removing our distrust by offering proof of their good faith, then we—and the whole world—will see, with crystal clarity, that another summit meeting will but add to the list of broken agreements.

Let this be our policy, simply, firmly stated and adhered to. Let the world know it is our policy. Let the Russians put up or shut up. Let the world know—and pass judgment upon—what they do. It is a policy with which we cannot lose; we shall follow any other at our peril.

Reason and Birth Control

When a Protestant leader recently called the Catholic position on birth control "rigid" he was right. Principles have a way of being rigid. They must be if they would stand firm against the strong desires of human pleasure and convenience. Less than "rigid" principles could not survive; and each man would be forced eventually to manufacture his own in order to have some standards by which to live.

Catholics are "rigid" on birth control principles, as all men should be on any principle. Only because they fail to be rigid can non-Catholic attitudes first tolerate and then approve as ethical tomorrow what yesterday was branded wrong. Unfortunately for such views, right and wrong have a way of being rigid: the same yesterday and tomorrow and today.

Perhaps the leader in question, who is not unrepresentative of many of his brother Protestants, should be applauded at least in attempting to argue on this theological and moral matter from theological and ethical grounds. He will find no real support that way because theology makes certain that which ethics also declares clearly: that artificial interference in the act of generation is a violation of nature and against God's plan and purposes for marriage.

Diocesan Development Fund

Benjamin Franklin once wrote, "A good newspaper and a Bible in every home, a good schoolhouse in every district, and a church in every neighborhood, appreciated as they deserve, are the chief support of virtue, morality, civil liberty and religion."

In the establishment of the Diocesan Development Fund, Bishop McNulty has afforded the people of the Paterson Diocese an opportunity to support these necessary requisites of a good society. The D.D.F. has erected four new high schools boasting a pupil capacity of 3,300. This in a diocese where only two out of 10 students could be accepted in a Catholic high school.

While the Paterson Diocese is not unique in having people in its midst who are afflicted with excessive drinking, the D.D.F. has provided for and maintains the only licensed hospital in the state for rehabilitation of those afflicted with alcoholism.

"To have a church in every neighborhood" is also a prime concern. In a diocese where four years ago, in one of its counties, not one nun resided, today nuns from four religious orders staff schools and teach in catechetical schools. At present, five new parishes are in various stages of development.

Future expansion of the Catholic Church in the Paterson Diocese depends upon the generosity and prayers of its people now. The D.D.F. asks for a minimum of $3 a week from each working adult during the four Sundays of May; $12; the average price of a pair of shoes; a small enough amount to help hundreds of feet walk more surely toward God.

Where Is the Hillery Bill?

Still not acted upon by our Legislature is the Hillery Bill which requires an appropriation of $400,000 for the granting of scholarships. To qualify for these scholarships, which would be awarded on the basis of competitive examination, the applicant must be in financial need, have high moral character, good citizenship, and dedication to American ideals. The unusual feature of this bill is that the recipient of the scholarship is not forced to attend any particular college but may make his own selection of any four-year college in the State of New Jersey accredited by the State Board of Education.

The provision in this bill allowing the choice to be made by the applicant not only satisfies the wishes of the recipient but, more importantly, it recognizes the unique role which the private colleges of the State of New Jersey have played in the development of our educational system. It further helps the state in eliminating the proposed enormous expenditure for additional educational facilities. Why should not the state use the campuses, the buildings, the facilities, which are already in existence and at the same time provide the citizens of New Jersey with the opportunity of an adequate education?

The idea of providing scholarships in our state is not new. At the present moment 10% of students in our state colleges are receiving complete scholarship aid; 25% receive work grants which work is to be compatible and consistent with the dignity of students.

Our Assemblymen should consider well the Hillery Bill. They should recognize in it the fact that the citizen is being given the opportunity of satisfying his own scholastic ambition in the selection of his own college and at the same time he is equipping himself for his role as a citizen of the State of New Jersey.

During the gubernatorial campaign, candidates of both parties endorsed the scholarship plan. The Hillery Bill already has met with favor by our Senate and the people of New Jersey. It is for us to wait for its passage so that New Jersey can move forward in meeting its educational needs. This is so true in the area of those high school students who on graduation are scholastically qualified but financially unable to meet the rising cost of education. Our legislators consider much new legislation for the good of our people but in no area is it more appropriate that consideration and approval be given to this constructive plan which has been operative in the State of New York for many years.

Mind Your Manners

Aisle Seat Priority

One of the greatest problems that face church ushers is their inability to persuade people to move in from the aisle seat so that others may find a suitable place. There are always some of the faithful who act as if Almighty God or one of the saints has given them a monopoly on the end seat.

It makes no difference whether these people come to Mass early or late—politely or impolitely—they manage to get what they want. If they come early they take their place like a guard at the King's Palace . . . if anybody wants to move them it is a major project that is usually unsuccessful. They hold the fortress against every attack. If they come late they just push and shove until the others move in.

This causes considerable confusion and disturbance, especially at a crowded Mass. A man weighing about 200 pounds trying to crawl over his fellow-worshipper does not present a dignified or inspiring sight in the House of God.

Since the church is an admirable place to practice courtesy and charity, it would add to everybody's devotion if people would take the place that causes the minimum of inconvenience to the others. The ushers would be happy, and so would the entire congregation.

The Way to Peace

Communist 'Democracy'

By Louis Francis Budenz

Judged by their recent acts and utterances, the communists are confirmed in their notion that ours is a nation of political simpletons.

There can be no other explanation for the actions of Wladyslaw Gomułka in curbing the workers' councils of Red Poland, suppressing the right to strike and establishing an iron-bound censorship over "democratizing" Poland—an impossible task except through the complete overthrow of communist rule—Gomułka reached into our American pocketbooks for funds to bolster up his regime and for psychological aid to keep the Polish people docile.

BUT GOMUŁKA has told the communists that this "democratization" was merely a fraud upon America, when he advised the last Congress of the Workers' (Communist) Party of Poland that "we shall not allow anyone to use the process of democratization to undermine socialism." The statement was repeated in the April issue of Political Affairs for the education of the American comrades.

Experience has shown and the tenets of socialism prove that "democratization" and socialism are opposite terms. Socialism must be inevitably an iron dictatorship—the "dictatorship of the proletariat"—and as Poland again proves, a dictatorship in which the workers are made slaves.

That slavery is characteristic of Soviet rule is proved again by items appearing in the Red China press. We learn from the dailies of Fukien and Amoy, translated by the Union Research Service, that a network of roads and two railroad lines are being built into the area that will permit attack upon Formosa.

WHAT IS SIGNIFICANT is that these newspapers announce that some 3,500,000 local civilian workers are being mobilized to undertake the construction. We are informed that "these civilian workers, besides receiving a subsidy from the state to meet a part of their living expenses, will not receive any salary."

Yet, there is a flood of propaganda from Moscow and Red China representing this huge prison house as "democracy." Is it any wonder that this pattern of fraud is drawing us toward a summit conference? The New York Times is so distraught about what is taking place that it ran a special article representing Nikita Khrushchev "as the Lorelei, stop a Soviet summit, crooning a song of peace" to the Western leaders, while "they drift ever closer to the rocks."

We are in that position because much of the distinguished press of this country, including the New York Times, has never cautioned the American people about the true nature of communism nor has it recommended the only course that the realities of Soviet communism demand of us—the ending of all relations with Soviet Russia and its satellites.

TO THE CONTRARY, the New York Times and many other papers are playing up as very desirable "the cultural and scientific exchanges" which loom large in the communist line laid down by Khrushchev in February, 1956, and which are undoubtedly bringing into this country a number of dangerous secret Soviet agents.

It is similarly sly measures which the Communist Party here in the U.S. resorts to in its national committee resolution appearing in the March Political Affairs. The resolution accompanies its dedication to "Marxism-Leninism" by adding the qualifying clause: "applying and developing our country."

That is supposed to bail out the Communist Party before the courts by making it "American," and also to aid in infiltration.

The Faith in Focus

Purgatory Makes Sense

By Msgr. George W. Shea, S.T.D.

When death summons someone we know, quite often we judge that the deceased was too good a person to rate Hell, yet not good enough to deserve immediate entry into Heaven—especially when we recall what St. John wrote of that heavenly abode: "And there shall not enter into it anything defiled . . ." (Apocalypse 21, 27).

Indeed, unless we are king-sized Pharisees, utterly blind to our own faults and failings, we would not presume ourselves to be worthy enough at death to go straight into the arms of God.

Thus the Catholic dogma of Purgatory is seen to make sense even from a purely human point of view, a point of view to be found even in many non-Christian peoples both ancient and modern whose belief in a place of expiation after death is a matter of historical record.

According to the above-mentioned dogma, all those who die in the state of grace but are still burdened with the guilt of venial sin, or have not satisfied for the temporal punishment due to their sins, are punished for a time in a place of cleansing called Purgatory (which means "cleansing place").

Of course, neither the foregoing nor any other Catholic dogma is based upon mere reason. A dogma is a truth revealed by God Himself which has been infallibly proclaimed as such by the Church. Reason may on occasion confirm a dogma, but even then our assent to such a truth is based ultimately, not on our "see-so," but on God's "say-so"—on the testimony of God who can neither deceive nor be deceived.

Time and again the Catholic Church has infallibly vouchered for the divine revelation of the doctrine of Purgatory. For example the General Councils of Lyons and of Florence taught that "the souls of those who depart this life with true repentance and in the love of God, before they have rendered satisfaction for their trespasses and negligences by the worthy fruits of penance, are purified after death with the punishments of purification."

Or one may quote the following decree of the General Council of Trent in 1563: "The Catholic Church, by the teaching of the Holy Spirit, in accordance with Sacred Scripture and the ancient tradition of the Fathers, has taught in the holy councils, and most recently in this general council, that there is a Purgatory, and that the souls detained there are helped by the prayers of the faithful, and especially by the acceptable sacrifice of the Altar."

One of the earlier teachings of the Council of Trent, to which the above passage alludes, runs as follows: "If anyone says that, after receiving the grace of justification, the guilt of any repentant sinner is remitted and the debt of eternal punishment is blotted out in such a way that no debt of temporal punishment remains to be paid, either in this life or in purgatory, before the gate to the kingdom of heaven can be opened, let him be anathema."

Most Protestants reject the doctrine of Purgatory. In so doing, they run counter to the teaching not only of Tradition but also of Sacred Scripture, as we shall see on another occasion. What is more, they offend against reason itself, as was indicated in the initial paragraphs of the present column.

THE QUESTION BOX

Most Rev. Walter W. Curtis, Immaculate Conception Seminary, Darlington, Ramsey, P. O., is editor of The Question Box. Questions may be submitted to him for answer in this column.

Q. If a person misses one of the principal parts of a Mass on Sunday, is he obliged to attend only that part of the Mass which he missed or must he attend an entire second Mass? And why?

A. We are obliged to hear an entire Mass on Sundays and Holydays. The obligation includes everything from foot prayers down to the Last Gospel.

Therefore one who misses a large part of a Mass, for example, by coming at the Offertory, must make up the portion he has missed at a following Mass; else he has not heard an entire Mass. It would not be necessary to wait for the entire second Mass for that would impose an obligation to hear more than one Mass.

Similarly one who comes a bit late for Mass, for example at the Gospel, must make up that part of the Mass in a following Mass for he has not heard a full Mass. Failure to make up this small part amounts to a slight violation of the law of the Church and a venial sin.

However, it is admitted that one who gets to Mass late, but through no fault of his own, as for example if he had a flat tire, does not have to make up a small part of the Mass but he would have to make up a large part of the Mass if he had come quite late.

Therefore one who comes late for Mass will avoid sin if he attends in another Mass the part that he missed, since he thereby hears an entire Mass.

The fact that a Catholic must hear an entire Mass seems to escape those people who come late to Mass. They seem to be under the false judgment that it is enough to be present for just the principal parts of the Mass. If this lateness is their own fault and they have no intention of making up the missing part they fail to fulfill their entire obligation and sin, gravely or lightly, according as they miss a large or a small portion of the Mass.

It might also be pointed out that it is the obligation of a Catholic to plan on getting into Church on time—not just to get near the parking place by the time Mass starts. In other words, since the obligation exists to hear an entire Mass, we must plan to get into Church before the foot prayers begin or else make up the part we have missed.

Q. Is it necessary to have a reception after a funeral?

A. The questioner adds: "I am not anti-social, nor do I dislike having people around but after having buried a loved one I think every one should go back home."

Of course a reception is not necessary; and a reception that emphasizes drink is entirely out of order.

However, many people would like to be considerate of those who have attended the funeral and make some provision for them, especially if they have come from a distance.

Friends ought not expect this to be done as if they had a right to it; and yet it can be an act of charity to others to be considerate of them even in the midst of one's grief.

Hence I would leave the matter to the charity of the friends who should not impose, and of the family who may wish to provide for some of those who attended the funeral. Let charity be the rule and let boisterousness be avoided and likely no one will be offended.

Q. One of my non-Catholic friends claims that Catholics abstain from meat on Fridays only because of a carried-over law established by the Church many centuries ago to aid the declining fishing industry.

A. You might answer in several ways.

Such a statement. When was this law passed and where? What authority is there for such a statement? An answer of this kind will help your friend to realize upon what thin foundation this statement is made.

Or you might just quote the catechism which notes that "The Church commands us to fast and abstain in order that we may control the desires of the flesh, raise our minds more freely to God, and make satisfaction for sin." And also that: "The Church makes Friday a day of abstinence to remind us of Our Lord's death on Good Friday." These are Questions 290 and 291 of the Baltimore Catechism No. 2 revised.

Or you might tell your friend that fasting, which included abstinence, was practiced by many devout Jews before the Church was established; and that this fine exercise of mortification was adopted by the Christians and gradually made more and more obligatory. Behind it lay the purpose of self-restraint and mortification.

I think your friend is also reading our American abundance of meat in our diet back to centuries when this abundance did not exist.

Q. What is the Church's teaching about prehistoric man? Was he a degenerate animal, a highly developed animal, or what?

A. Scientists and theologians both would give much to be able to answer this question with entire certainty. Perhaps later generations of students will learn the full answer. Today we do not know.

Many scientists, Catholics among them, believe it quite certain that man's body came from the lower animals by a divinely determined plan that took billions of years to work out. In the views of many of these, man's body came finally from highly developed animals.

So involved is this matter today, and so varied are the views that are presented by scientists and Scripture scholars, that I do not feel competent to go any more in detail. For those interested in a fuller discussion of the modern aspects of the question we can suggest the book "Beginnings: Genesis and Modern Science," by Charles Huret (translated from the French by E. P. Emmans, O.P.) The Priory Press, Dubuque, 1955.

The average Catholic need not go into this matter but can be quite content to follow the lead of the Church whenever final decisions are given. It will help greatly to remember that the Bible was not written to teach science; and therefore its religious truth will not depend upon science's findings. Scientists may search as deeply as they can and give their findings with what certainty they may have; the teaching of the Bible will fit into those findings. God is at once the author of nature and the author of the Bible; and God does not contradict Himself.

Mt. Carmel Guild Helps the Helpless

By Rev. William N. Wall,
Director, Mt. Carmel Social Service Center, Paterson

Created by our beloved Bishop, Most Rev. James A. McNulty, and actively engaged in God's work by helping those who are burdened with the problem of alcoholism, the Mt. Carmel Guild Social Service Center at 396 Straight St. in Paterson has, in but three short years, achieved an enviable reputation for successful rehabilitation that has become virtually national.

At Mt. Carmel, the new-comer is made to feel that he is part of a growing operation by sharing with his fellow men the work and daily habit patterns of living that will restore him to his rightful place in society.

The four-story structure in the industrial heart of the city is constantly a source of amazement to visitors. On the first floor, apart from the loading platform, sorting room, and baling press, is the Thrift Shop which permits those who could not afford to buy clothing and furniture in downtown shops to find exactly what they need at prices that are within their budget limitations. From baby clothes all the way to electric ironers the Thrift Shop draws a large volume of customers from Passaic County and its environs.

THE SECOND and third floors of the structure provide the dormitory and living quarters for the residents themselves. A beautiful chapel, paneled television room, attractive library and handsome dining room bespeak admiration. The kitchen, entirely of stainless steel and soft-colored tiles, provides simple food for a well balanced diet. A large hall provides members of Alcoholics Anonymous with seating space for over 300 persons.

The fourth floor is devoted to repair shops, storage space, and sales rooms of appliances and television receivers.

In addition to its work in rehabilitating the homeless alcoholic, the Mt. Carmel Guild also has the Mt. Carmel Hospital, the only hospital in the state of New Jersey licensed solely for the treatment of alcoholism.

Patients come from all parts of the country to take the five-day treatment of recovery from the active stages of alcoholism and are sponsored by members of Alcoholics Anonymous who are the only visitors permitted during the patient's stay.

STAFFED BY five nurses and a physician, the Mt. Carmel Hospital has achieved a reputation for success in coping with the emotional vacillation of the alcoholic. Although it has completed but two years of operation, it has already treated more than 1,600 in-patients and countless out-patients in its attractive quarters. The finest food, medical care and treatment and the most immaculate facilities for comfort and ease of withdrawal make the Mt. Carmel Hospital an outstanding example of the modern, open approach to the recovery from alcoholism, a disease that cripples body and soul.

We may well be proud of the great contribution that both the Mt. Carmel Guild Social Service Center and the Mt. Carmel Hospital make to the community and to the general public by acting as the good samaritan for those who are helpless in the face of this disease which baffles even experts, nor should we forget that all this is made possible, and can continue only through the generous support of the people of the Diocese. The overwhelming response of diocesan members in the past toward this venture of God's helping hand to those in distress must continue if the work of helping the helpless is to continue.

Recession Effects Felt

By Bishop Fulton J. Sheen

The recession in the U. S. has had a tremendous effect on Asia and Africa. Because fewer automobiles are made in Detroit there is less sulfone for lepers in Manchuria; because less molten steel is poured in Gary, there is little food for empty stomachs in Korea.

The poor and those who live on meager incomes are the principal support of the missions. When the monthly pay checks of the devout are withdrawn, there is less material for sacrifice. With a decrease of sacrifice there is less available for the Holy Father to distribute.

NOW THAT he receives less what are the directors of his Society for the Propagation of the Faith to do? For the moment, we must turn to the rich who have money in the bank, stocks, property, income from investments—in a word, those who have anything more than just a paycheck.

By rich we do not mean millionaires; we mean anyone with a surplus that has become "untouchable" and something of a "sacred cow." Break into your treasures. Give your soul a treat! Tide the Holy Father over the recession by making a sacrifice of what God Himself gave you.

In your charity you have given generously, but have you ever given anything directly to the Holy Father? Whatever you give to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith you give to him. No Bishop, no director, no one may touch that money.

By making him the object of your charity you will not only confess faith in him as the Vicar of Christ, you will be assured that every cent of it will go to the missions in Africa, Oceania and Asia. You will be making converts in these lands and thus assuring the conversion of your own soul.

By reason of the fact that you read this column you must have an interest in the missions. If you write to us and request our annuity plan pamphlet we will send it to you and show our interest in you.

Cut out this column, pin your sacrifice to it and send it to Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, National Director, Society for the Propagation of the Faith, 366 Fifth Ave., New York 1, or to your diocesan director: Bishop Martin W. Stanton, 31 Mulberry St., Newark 2; Rt. Rev. Msgr. William F. Louis, 24 DeGrasse St., Paterson.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

Little-Known Facts for Catholics
By M. J. MURRAY

How Do We Gain Partial Indulgence?

These questions and answers are taken from Lesson 33 of "This We Believe: By This We Live," the revised edition of the Baltimore Catechism, No. 3, reprinted by permission of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

What is a partial indulgence?

A partial indulgence is the remission of part of the temporal punishment due to our sins.

(a) A partial indulgence, unless the contrary be expressly stated, can be gained frequently throughout the day, whenever the prescribed work is repeated.

(b) To say that an indulgence of so many days or years is granted means that the amount of temporal punishment is remitted which, in the sight of God, would have been remitted by so many days or years of penance in the early Church.

(c) God alone knows exactly how much of the temporal punishment is actually taken away by an indulgence.

(d) The following are some ejaculations and invocations to which partial indulgences are attached:

An indulgence of 500 days for saying the ejaculation: "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of hosts: the heavens and the earth are full of Thy glory!" (The Raccolta, No. 2).

An indulgence of 300 days for saying the ejaculation: "My God and my All!" (The Raccolta, No. 5).

An indulgence of 500 days for saying the ejaculation: "O God, be merciful to me, the sinner!" (The Raccolta, No. 14).

An indulgence of 300 days: a plenary indulgence under the usual conditions, if this invocation is devoutly recited every day for a month: "My Jesus, mercy!" (The Raccolta, No. 70).

An indulgence of 300 days; a plenary indulgence once a month under the usual conditions, for the daily repetition of:

What to Do When Wife Resents His 'Night Out With the Boys'

By Father John L. Thomas, S.J.

Assistant Professor of Sociology at St. Louis University

My wife raises a great fuss every time I want a night out with the boys. She says she just can't see what I get out of playing cards in a smoky room and drinking beer for hours, while she sits home with the kids. Women enjoy their parties, too, though they generally have them in the afternoon when we're not at home anyway. Am I being thoughtless and selfish in wanting to go out once in a while? She thinks so.

According to the comic strips, Ted, this marital argument has been going on for a long time and isn't likely to stop. Perhaps it is more acute now that the husband's job separates him from his wives to be closer together during the working day, would also find them more willing to seek separate entertainment at night. That's probably why parish societies in the past were organized according to sex, whereas today the trend is to couple-centered movements.

At any rate, Ted, you have a problem, and it's evidently not being solved to anybody's satisfaction. You don't want to be unfair, yet you think your wife is being a little narrow and inconsiderate. She would probably say the same about you, so arguing about it doesn't help matters very much.

WHAT'S THE SOLUTION, if any? It will help clarify matters if you both start out by recognizing that there are no absolute principles or norms which clearly specify what is right and wrong in such situations. Social customs, conditions, and individual couples differ so greatly that satisfactory solutions vary widely. In a sense, your problem is unique. It can be worked out only in terms of your total marriage situation.

This doesn't mean that a good solution will be wholly arbitrary. There are guiding norms as well as pertinent considerations which should shape your thinking if you sincerely want to reach an agreement that will strengthen your marriage. Let's go over the principal ones briefly.

First, marriage does imply companionship and partnership as a couple. This involves not only cooperation in childbearing and child rearing but intimate, affectionate unity, for only if husband and wife are thus closely united can they maintain the loving, emotionally secure family climate which children need for normal development.

Second, because of personality differences and previous training, men and women in marriage frequently discover that they do not share each other's likes or dislikes. This may have little to do with their love or unity, but since they now form a couple, it limits the things they can share and may lead to misunderstanding. Some people regard all differences as marks of inferiority. If you don't like what they like, you must have poor taste!

THIRD, PARTICULARLY during the early child rearing stages, the wife's social life may be seriously restricted. After spending the day with immature children, she craves adult companionship. Husbands easily tend to forget this.

Fourth, all marriages require a degree of give and take. This defies close calculation. The important point is to preserve the spirit of mutual service and support. Once bickering and bargaining start, marriage becomes a type of "cold war."

How should you solve your problem, Ted? First, make a check of the number of times you take your wife out at night. If you can't afford it or simply neglect it, are you surprised she resents your night with the boys?

NEXT, HOW OFTEN do you want to go out alone? Surely more than once a week would indicate a peculiar attitude toward your wife and family. Indeed, this would be too often if you didn't take her out an equal number of times. You say, "this would be too expensive," or "she doesn't want to leave the children that often?" Then you had best reconsider your own request.

Fourth, if your wife's only objection to your night out is that she doesn't approve of what you do, I think she's probably making a mistake. She should recall the old Roman saying, "One can't argue about tastes."

Finally, in solving your problem, take a long range view of your marriage. It is for life. What you do now will shape its future course for better or worse.

Remember, in love as in war, you may win a battle but lose the campaign.

Saints of the Week

Sunday, May 4 — St. Monica, Widow. She was born in Carthage in 332 and married a pagan. They had three children. Her husband's example led her eldest son to lapse from the Faith. St. Monica converted her husband before his death and her son returned to the practice of the Faith. She died in 387, the same year her son came back to Christianity. He became St. Augustine of Hippo.

Monday, May 5 — St. Pius V, Pope-Confessor. He was Michael Ghislieri, born in 1504. He joined the Dominicans at the age of 14 and achieved a wide reputation as a preacher. He became a Bishop, then a Cardinal and succeeded Pope Pius IV in 1566.

Tuesday, May 6 — St. John the Apostle before the Latin Gate. The feast commemorates the incident in the life of the Saint, called the Evangelist, when he was brought in bonds to Rome from Ephesus by order of Emperor Domitian and was sentenced by the Roman Senate to be boiled in a caldron of oil at the city's Latin Gate. He emerged from the torture miraculously unharmed and was banished to Patmos, where he wrote the Apocalypse.

Wednesday, May 7 — St. Stanislaus, Bishop-Martyr. He was born near Cracow in 1030. He became Cracow's Archbishop in 1071 and excommunicated the powerful King Boleslaus II. The king killed the Archbishop with his hands in 1079 in a church near Cracow, when he was unable to persuade his guards to do the deed. The monarch became detested by his subjects, fled the country and died in misery.

Thursday, May 8 — Apparition of St. Michael the Archangel. This feast commemorates the apparition of St. Michael on Monte Gargano in southern Italy in the fifth century.

Friday, May 9 — St. Gregory of Nazianzen, Bishop-Confessor-Doctor. He was the son of St. Gregory the Elder. He achieved an outstanding record as a student and was a schoolmate of St. Basil the Great. Later St. Basil consecrated him Bishop. He became Patriarch of Constantinople, expelled the Arian intruder, and spent his time working for peace and sound doctrine until his death.

Saturday, May 10 — St. Antoninus, Bishop-Confessor. Born in Florence in 1389, he joined the Dominicans and became Archbishop of Florence.

A Native Clergy Is a Must For Spread of Christianity

Seminaries where future priests are trained for God's service are the hope of the Church, the vital source of her future activity.

By the same power by which God said: "Let there be light," He transforms an ordinary man into a priest of God. By the same power by which He said: "Let there be light," He gives that man the words whereby the great miracle of Catholic life takes place — words by which men are fed the Body and Blood of Christ.

Only when large numbers of its members are being fed the Body and Blood of Christ is a people really converted to Christianity. Who shall feed them? Hands created by God and destined for the altar.

Black hands, brown hands, yellow hands, white hands. Hands of native priests — a native clergy. Anyone who wishes to educate a native priest and thereby share in all of his Masses, prayers and conversions, should send his sacrifice to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, 31 Mulberry St., Newark 2, N. J.

Outlines Progress In African Mission

Rev. Bartholomew Negro, a Consolet Father, missioned in Karema, Kenya Province, Africa, tells of the progress being made in his apostolate.

"In my mission of Karema alone," says Father Negro, "we have 15 primary schools, three intermediate, two industrial and an attendance of 3,345 students. There are 4,650 catechumens with thousands of sympathizers attending daily prayers; two itinerant

"Tell our benefactors of the grateful prayers that rise daily to heaven for their intentions from the 45 prayer houses, schools, orphanages and the scattered humble huts. It is a moving scene to visit villages in the early evening and hear the Rosary led by school children and recited in all the pagan huts. The hour of Africa is at hand!

The Saga of a Priest And Porky the Pig

Rev. Frank McKay, Maryknoll priest at Cuzco, Peru, has discovered "the power of a woman." Soon after he had bought a small pig for the rectory and was already envisioning the prime bacon and fine hams it could produce, along came the Sisters' raffle for the benefit of the parish.

Father McKay generously offered his pig for the raffle if the Sisters could find no other prize. Months went by; little was said about the raffle. Father McKay felt sure in his own mind that the pig, but the Sisters sat back and happily watched the pig grow to a good size.

Alas, eight months passed in all when the Sisters knocked at the rectory door and inquired about "their" pig. Father McKay found himself asking "What pig?" before the horrible realization dawned on him of his earlier promise.

One reason for the success of the raffle was the great number of tickets bought by a certain priest. He didn't win.

Nuns Are Educating 'Poorest of the Poor'

Thanking the Society for the Propagation of the Faith for their "generous help" toward St. Anne's School Lunch Fund, the Sisters of St. Francis of Immaculate Conception Convent, Jamaica, B.W.I., are doubly grateful because they cannot secure assistance at all from their people.

"Indeed," writes Mother M. Cordia, "the children at this school are from the poorest of the poor. Just to stand on the second floor porch of the school and look down into the yards from which the children come, is sufficient to prove their poverty.

"By proper feeding made possible by generous benefactors like yourself, also by means of clothing provided by others, as well as religious instruction by our good missionaries down here and a thorough education plan carried out by the Sisters, we can make the next generation overcome the moral vices of the yard.

"We want to establish good and proper homes, too. This will be a great accomplishment. All is being done here for the greater honor and glory of God. We are working hard on this project, and we ask God to bless the Society for the Propagation of the Faith for its great work in behalf of such as these poor people in Jamaica."

Diocesan Development Fund

Gifts Help Spread Kingdom of God

By Rev. Stanislaus J. Durka,

Pastor, St. Thomas Aquinas, Ogdensburg

Outlet as well as intake is essential to the well-balanced life, giving as well as receiving. Fine impulses within the heart are useless unless they find their prompt and wholesome expression in effort and action. The most direct mode of expression is to be found in giving — in giving time, money, strength and interest to worthy projects such as the Diocesan Development Fund.

The right mood for giving is one of glad privilege. Do your giving with an air of gracious gladness, for God loves a cheerful giver. This spirit of giving which we observe during May toward the Diocesan Development Fund will be the larger charity of years to come, when titles will be forgotten and each of us will cast into the treasury of eternity all that we have, or are, or hope to be.

A MAN'S MONEY bears on it the stamp of his heart. To give willingly and in full measure is to render unto God that which is God's. It is His work and His Faith we are spreading when we build more schools and churches.

There has as a result of this fund been brought into Sussex County the first Catholic school of higher education. The Catholic school deserves all possible faith as an institution of learning, because it is essentially a Christian institution and because it has all the qualities of a living organism. Today as we look across our Dioceses and see many schools sealed with the cross of Christ, we are certain that our faith will stay unshaken, and that the Catholic school will stand unwavering, if our faith will be followed by unfeigned loyalty to the least of its interest. It is to all of us, that the Catholic school looks for devotion and support in its work for our children.

OUR MOST Reverend Bishop needs more financial aid to carry on this diocesan development and especially to meet the expenses of the new high schools. This is an urgent need and our people should respond generously with the necessary funds. You owe it to your hard working Bishop and priests, to all who devote a considerable part of their time to a work that is for the good of all our souls. You owe it to yourself primarily. You owe it to God. To aid in God's work is to aid in the work that will live eternally.

Annual Report Says:

St. Joseph's Hospital Ran $239,000 in Red During 1957

PATERSON — Giving the best care possible to residents of this area cost St. Joseph's Hospital more than $239,000 in 1957, according to its annual report.

Services provided by the hospital in 1957 amounted to $3,017,613.51 in gross charges to patients, the report states. After charity allowances for in-patients, Blue Cross and miscellaneous allowances, the amount of charges to patients totaled $2,446,913.57.

Salaries and wages, supplies (drugs, food, medical and surgical), repairs, payroll taxes and other operating expenses amounted to $2,908,252.27.

This means the loss from servicing patients was $461,338.70 according to the report. On top of that there is the amount of $131,844.49 spent for building improvements and equipment purchased. Thus the total loss was $593,183.19.

Appropriations by Passaic County and a number of municipalities signed to the hospital for clinical work.

The patients came to St. Joseph's from 11 states; 16 counties of New Jersey and 180 communities, 18 of the 38 in Morris, 19 of the 22 in Essex, and 11 of the 12 in Hudson.

As to the future, the Sisters of Charity concede they need some help. They ask for prayers for the continuance of the work begun in 1867 by Mother Mary Xavier, founder of the Sisters of Charity of St. Elizabeth of New Jersey and the late Dean McNulty, one of Paterson's most revered priests. They suggest contributing financial support "no matter how small," and also remembrances in the will by those who wish to see this record of service carried on.

While the fiscal picture leaves something to be desired, St. Joseph's Hospital, however, managed to show a tremendous record of service.

In 1957, according to the report, St. Joseph's provided 37,398 free days of care to 2,676 patients. There were 11,993 clinic patients with 20,842 clinic visits and 2,094 clinic prescriptions. The emergency room treated 8,949 patients and there were 1,450 ambulance calls.

In all, 15,161 patients were admitted. The daily patient census was 385 and the average patient stay 10.1 days. In addition, St. Joseph's was the scene of 2,497 births and 7,573 operations.

Other figures reflecting the 1957 services at St. Joseph's are staggering. A case in point might be the 209,823 laboratory examinations, 122,082 prescriptions and 20,667 X-ray examinations.

THERE WERE other bright spots in the institution's history during the year. It celebrated its 90th anniversary; a new recovery room went into service; the rehabilitation program was inaugurated; the auxiliary presented a new ambulance; the first graduates of the medical technology school were certified; residency in orthopedics was approved and practical nurse trainees were as-

Hospital Reaches To Sky for 'Angels'

NEWARK — You might say that St. James Hospital reached right up into the heavens for its latest group of "angels." The group is composed principally of women employees of the airlines using Newark Airport, and they are in the midst of forming a new auxiliary to St. James Hospital.

According to plans made at a preliminary meeting, the new auxiliary will be invited to sponsor the work of the emergency department of the hospital. This is especially appropriate since St. James' emergency section treats most of the airport's casualties.

IN A SENSE the airport employees are returning a favor to Rev. Francis J. Grady, director of the hospital and airport chaplain. A little over a year ago they approached Father Grady to ask if a Sunday Mass might be celebrated in the airport restaurant. Since then Father Grady or one of his assistants at St. James parish have said Mass there each Sunday and holy day of obligation.

The auxiliary's membership will include, besides women employed by the airlines, employees of the Port of New York Authority and allied services located at the Newark air and sea terminals.

They'll meet May 6 at 6 p.m. in the nursing residence to organize, and to tour the hospital.

In attendance at the preliminary meeting and given the task of recruiting members were: Rosemary Bischof, chief stewardess of United Airlines; Anne Fallon, administrative secretary to the manager, Mohawk-Allegany Airlines; Ann Slovensky, Delta Airlines teletype technician; and Roberta Szuba, Port of New York Authority secretary.

Among activities of the auxiliary will be card parties and other benefits for the emergency department, and volunteer work at the hospital, which is currently raising funds for its new building under construction.

Unique 'Tourist Service'

Nuns Show Rome To Non-Catholics

By Floyd Anderson

ROME — There are many surprises for the visitor to Rome. Not the least of these is the "tourist office" for non-Catholics, run by Sisters in lay garb.

This is something to mention to your non-Catholic friends when they go to Rome. For at the Foyer Unitas in the Palazzo Salviati, a few short blocks from St. Peter's, they will find the Ladies of Bethany, who are most willing to help make their visit in Rome a wonderful experience.

Their address is Piazza della Rovera 83, where they have a small office and a large meeting room.

Actually the Foyer Unitas has two functions: to help non-Catholics enjoy more fully their visit to Rome; and to try to interest Catholics in the unity of all Christians.

The "tourist office" for non-Catholics was begun during the 1950 Holy Year at the suggestion of Archbishop Montini, who observed that more non-Catholics were coming to Rome and that nothing was done to help them.

After the Holy Year, the Ladies of Bethany came from Holland to staff the office. Their congregation's special aim is apostolic work among non-Catholics, and they too felt something should be done for non-Catholics visiting Rome.

THE LADIES OF BETHANY began in Holland in 1919; in 1932 they received permission from the Holy See to work in civil dress. These members take religious vows, as any Sisters do.

There are three Ladies of Bethany in Rome; one cares for their apartment; one stays in the office, and the other does the "guiding" for the non-Catholic tourists. When they are very busy, two will go out with the visitors.

The Sisters take visitors around the Vatican, around Rome, and explain what they are seeing. They have opportunities, for instance, to give their non-Catholic visitors tickets for audiences in St. Peter's, to see the excavations under St. Peter's Basilica, to visit the Vatican Gardens.

As one of the Sisters said, "In Rome everything you show is connected with religion. That is what makes an office like this, this kind of work, possible. Only Rome would lend itself to this."

She said that the people ask questions about the things they see. "We try to answer these questions," she said, "and to go into the background of the question."

THEY WOULD RATHER take small groups, even just a few persons, because then it is possible to explain better what is seen. "If we have only one person who really wants to be shown around," one said, "we go with him."

SURELY THE Foyer Unitas is unique. And most likely, as the Ladies of Bethany feel, it could only happen in Rome. But surely, too, it is a most important part of the work of the Church among non-Catholics, of the apostolate for non-Catholics.

An interesting sidelight on these Sisters is that they ride bicycles from their apartment to their office. This is not unusual in Holland and other countries of northern Europe. But to brave the traffic of Rome on a bicycle is really unusual—and so are the Ladies of Bethany.

Newark Sodalities at Work

By William F. Judkins Jr.

NEWARK — "Sodalities include every form of the apostolate, particularly the social apostolate," Pope Pius XII has written. This was outlined in the Bis Saeculari, "Apostolic Constitution on Sodalities of Our Lady," promulgated by the Holy Father Sept. 27, 1948.

In the Archdiocese of Newark, the Pontiff's wishes have not been taken lightly.

(One acknowledgment of the Newark accomplishments was the recent announcement that the World Federation Congress of the Sodalities of Our Lady will be held here in 1959.)

While the ultimate aim of a sodality is personal sanctification, the social apostolate as directed by Pope Pius XII has not been overlooked. For nearly 10 years sodalists here have been quietly carrying on a social apostolate of their own. Here are a few examples.

IN ST. PAUL'S parish, Jersey City, where possibly the first "Bis Saeculari" sodality was formed within a year after the Pope's pronouncement, members do far more than attend meetings.

Across the street from the church is St. Ann's Home for the Aged, conducted by the Sisters of Providence. Here, members of the teenage sodality perform menial tasks to make life more comfortable for the old folks. Each girl gives an afternoon a week.

Members of the senior girls' sodality each average two nights a week at the Jersey City Medical Center attending the older women patients, and are on hand Sundays to wheel the patients to Mass. They do similar work at the Alms House in Secaucus and are on call for catechetical work in the parish. This includes teaching at the Confraternity classes and also giving instruction to shut-ins.

SERVICE AND SMILES: Mrs. Margaret Hanlon, who will be 97 in June, is served dinner in her room at St. Ann's Home for the Aged, Jersey City, by Linda Nist of St. Paul's Sodality, Jersey City, and also receives a cheery word from Sister Bernadette, F.C.S.P. Linda is one of the sodality girls who regularly assist at the home as part of their apostolic program.

IN ST. VINCENT'S, Bayonne, sodalists collect medicines and medical apparatus for the missions.

This program is so well-known in the community that some 85 doctors anticipate their plea each year and are ready with contributions. Last year the sodality effort produced 18 cartons of medicines and medical supplies.

In that drive the girls hit a bonanza. One doctor had two short-wave diathermy machines which had become only slightly obsolete. Instead of turning them in on his newer ones he gave them to the girls, and a Sisters' hospital in India was the grateful recipient.

The Junior Girls Sodality members are also welcome visitors at St. Walburga's Orphanage, Roselle, where they cheer the youngsters, twice a month.

IN ST. ROSE of Lima, Newark, the girl sodalists concentrate on the spiritual care of shut-ins. They keep in contact with the priests, notifying them each month of the necessary calls for administration of the sacraments. They also distribute Catholic literature to homes and at Christmas time deliver presents from the pastor.

An unusual apostolic work is performed by the girl sodalists in St. Paul the Apostle, Irvington. They usher on Saturday afternoons at Blackfriars' Theater in New York. In the course of the season approximately 40 girls take over the duty.

The girls also help out at the Mt. Carmel Guild School for Retarded Children held in the parish every Saturday morning, and are on hand for the parish Confraternity classes each Sunday.

While the Sodality was founded originally in the middle of the 16th century as a men's organization, the men have been actually lagging in the reformation asked by the Pope.

THIS IS NOT the case in one parish, Mt. Carmel, Bayonne. The Mt. Carmel Men's Sodality is the first in the Archdiocese of Newark under the Pope's "Bis Saeculari."

It has a small membership, 12 in fact, but the Pope emphasized that numbers were not desired merely for their own sake. As their apostolic work, the men sodalists of Mt. Carmel have adopted the spread of Catholic literature. They have approached the local paper to carry a significant Catholic column and have been attempting to persuade the local board of education to distribute a pertinent Christopher release to public school parents.

One of the older men (two are grandfathers) will be moderator of a boy's sodality being formed, and all of them work as "fishers" for the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, each visiting 75 or 80 homes each year, or helping at the regular classes.

Again, the girls are not idle. The senior girls conduct the grammar school Confraternity program and help out on the high school level. All of them hold Confraternity teaching certificates. In this work the seniors are aided by the teenage sodalists.

CHRIST THE KING, Jersey City, a Negro parish, draws its parishioners from practically all of Hudson County.

The Church has two buses to get the children to Mass and religious instruction. Here, the sodality apostolic project was obvious. Every Saturday, the girls, both senior and junior, visit the homes, pick up the children and put them aboard the parish bus to be taken to confession. The program is also followed by Sunday Mass, and religious instruction.

The sodalists have been doing this for years under direction of Missionary Servants of the Holy Trinity.

Gradually, the sodality movement has been spreading into the professions. A prime example is the student nurses' sodality at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Elizabeth.

These accounts are only typical; they are not a total recount of the sodality apostolate. All, however, have one thing in common. This is sodality activity as the Holy Father sees it.

Bishop Fitzmaurice Resuming Duties

WILMINGTON, Del. (NC) — Bishop Edmund J. Fitzmaurice of Wilmington has returned to his duties after a month in St. Francis Hospital.

Beaupre Shrine Is 300 Years Old

By Anne Mae Buckley

NEWARK — During 1958, while Mary, the Mother of God, is being honored on the centennial of her apparitions at Lourdes, France, her mother, St. Anne, will receive homage on the tercentennial of the first miracle wrought through her intercession at Beaupre, Canada.

May 4 will open the tercentennial of St. Anne de Beaupre, the 300th anniversary of the cure of a crippled man who crawled to the construction site of St. Anne's chapel and was cured after placing into its foundation three small stones.

ST. ANNE DE BEAUPRE, in the Province of Quebec, Canada, has for 300 years been a favorite place of pilgrimage—it is estimated that 30,000,000 pilgrims have visited the shrine. In 1957 alone 2,000,000 came to seek the intercession of "Good St. Anne," the largest number in a single year to date.

A large percentage of the pilgrims to Beaupre come from the United States; Beaupre has long been a favorite place of pilgrimage for Catholics of New Jersey.

Canadians have been devoted to St. Anne from the days of the first French settlements there in the early 17th century. In fact, that period was a "golden age" of devotion to St. Anne among all French-speaking people. It was in 1638 that a male heir to the French throne was born to King Louis XIII and Queen Anne of Austria, who had prayed to St. Anne for a son for 22 years. Among the Queen's expressions of gratitude to the Saint was a precious chausse of pure silk, gold and silver, woven by her own hands, which she sent in 1666 to St. Anne de Beaupre, then eight years old, and which is still treasured.

THE FIRST FAVOR traditionally ascribed to St. Anne in New France (Canada) occurred during the second voyage (1535) of Jacques Cartier, the discoverer of Canada, according to Rev. Eugene Lefebvre, C.S.S.R., director of pilgrimages at St. Anne de Beaupre. Cartier's fleet was caught in a violent storm and the ships scattered. According to one tradition the sailors called on St. Anne, and the ships found each other, assembling on July 26 to mark the first feast of St. Anne on Canadian soil.

Later the Jesuits and the Recollets, the first missionaries in New France, spread devotion to St. Anne. They were so successful that people used to talk of "making their St. Anne" much as we now speak of "making our Easter duty."

ALTHOUGH ST. ANNE de Beaupre had very modest beginnings—it began as a small chapel on a piece of land given by a local farmer, Etienne de Lessart—it was certain from the beginning to be a place of pilgrimage. Since the first miracle—the cure of the cripple, Louis Guimond—occurred during the construction of the chapel, pilgrims began visiting St. Anne's from its earliest days.

In September, 1665, Venerable Marie de l'Incarnation wrote of Beaupre: "Seven leagues from Quebec is a village called Petit-Cap, where there is a church of St. Anne, in which Our Lord works great wonders in favor of this holy mother of the most Holy Virgin."

There the paralytic are seen to walk, the blind to recover their sight, the sick, whatever their affliction may be, recover their health."

When, in 1670, Bishop Francois de Montmorency-Laval gave to the Shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre a relic of St. Anne he wrote: "What led us to act thus was the fame of this church, in which a great number of miracles have already been worked through the intercession of St. Anne..."

A BOOK published for the tercentennial, "A Land of Miracles" by Father LeFebvre, details the circumstances of 37 cures attributed to St. Anne's intercession from 1638 to 1952. Doctors' testimonies are given for those which occurred in the 19th and 20th centuries.

Cures include diabetes, asthmatic bronchitis, arthritis and rheumatism, enlargement of the heart, epilepsy and polio, cancer, deafness and other grave illnesses.

"Miracles" of grace give Beaupre even broader significance. This characteristic of St. Anne's shrine was described by Cardinal E. A. Taschereau in 1885 when he wrote:

"How many souls withered by sin have found the life of grace in the Shrine of Beaupre! Who could count the number of sinners, slaves of their passions, for whom St. Anne has obtained the freedom of the children of God! How many lukewarm hearts have felt within themselves the glow of new fervor!... Even those who have been led to the Shrine by curiosity have not escaped the marvelous influence of that grace..."

AT BEAUPRE the pilgrim sees the Basilica, under construction since 1923 (the old basilica was destroyed by fire Mar. 29, 1922), the miraculous statue of St. Anne, the crutches and other reminders of cures obtained here, the relic which is a part of St. Anne's wrist bone, the original shrine (re-built in 1676), the miraculous fountain, the Holy Stairs (a replica of those ascended by Christ during His Passion) to be ascended only on the knees, and the life size Stations of the Cross on the hillside.

In addition, for the tercentennial, an exhibition building has been erected. It features in wax groups the story of St. Anne's life and the history of St. Anne de Beaupre.

THE YEAR 1958 may become the greatest year of pilgrimage in the history of the Church. In Europe, people will flock to Lourdes to commemorate Mary's apparitions to St. Bernadette, 100 years ago. And in North America they will be drawn in great numbers to Beaupre.

About 3,000,000 pilgrims are expected at Beaupre during this anniversary of St. Anne's 300-year-old patronage of the New World.

May Intentions

The Holy Father's general intention for May is:

City parishes. The mission intention suggested for the Apostleship of Prayer by the Pope is:

That in India there be no less concern regarding conditions of spiritual life than material life.

Are you one of the forty million owners of shares in America?

Forty million Americans are proving every day that a smart way to save for their own family security — and to help build their country's strength at the same time — is through the purchase of United States Series E Savings Bonds. Savings Bonds are one of the safest investments you can make. Bonds are guaranteed safe by our Government — backed by the strength of 170 million Americans. And Bonds are absolutely indestructible.

If lost, stolen or destroyed, the Treasury will replace them without charge. Bonds are safer than cash. They pay good interest, too — 3 1/4% when held to maturity — mature in only 8 years and 11 months. No wonder so many Americans are buying these Shares in America regularly. Why not join them? Start buying Bonds today through the Payroll Savings Plan at work or systematically where you bank.

Lourdes Contest Brings 627 Junior Entries

By June Dwyer

Our Lady must be so pleased with the Young Advocates. In one of the most difficult contests we have ever had, the boys and girls of the club turned in a wonderful number of entries that were very well done.

This week we will give the results of the Junior division of the contest. The boys and girls from the kindergarten through the fourth grades were asked to draw a picture of Our Lady of Lourdes as she appeared to Bernadette. This was a very hard subject and had to be done without any help.

Addie counted 627 pictures from the juniors. The fourth graders were the most interested members and sent us 238 drawings. The first and second graders were tied with 146 entries for each class, while 97 third graders entered Our Lady's contest.

We were very happy to see how well the boys did. It shows a real devotion to Our Lady which should help them to grow up as good citizens.

The judges said a special prayer to Our Blessed Mother before they picked the winners. They asked her to help them to make the right choice.

The 627 children who drew Mary must have made Our Lady very happy. Mary must also be smiling on the teachers and parents who encouraged the boys and girls to put their love for Mary into art work.

What a wonderful way for our club to enter May!

Now on to the names of our three winners who will each receive a check and a certificate of award.

DAVID KAWECKI, a new Young Advocate member who is a third grader at St. Matthew's School, Ridgefield, is the winner of our art contest. David lives at 651 Elm Ave., Ridgefield, and is taught by Sister Noreen Williams. David's picture, done in water colors, won him $5.

A second grader, JOSEPH DANTE of St. Bartholomew's, Scotch Plains, is the second prize winner and will receive a check for $3 this week. Joseph lives at 2619 Church St., Scotch Plains, and is taught by Sister Carolina M.P.F.

Third prize of $2 was won by KATHLEEN FLANAGAN, a fourth grader at St. Michael's, Jersey City. Kathleen lives at 2619th St., Jersey City, and is taught by Sister David Mary.

The checks and the winning certificates will be in the mail as soon as Addie finishes helping the judges with the senior division of the contest.

HONORABLE MENTION Certificates are awarded to the following Junior Division Contestants (Names are listed in alphabetical order):

MILDRED ACKER, Grade 4, St. Joseph's, Lincoln Park. Mrs. Brown.

Lives of the Saints

Saint of Song

Artists and story tellers have given us the picture of St. Cecilia with a musical instrument in her arms. This is easy to understand since she is the patron of music, of singers and of poets. But the beautiful legend of St. Cecilia has more to do with her desire to be the bride of Christ.

Cecilia was a Christian in the early days of the Church. As a young girl she wore a coarse dress beneath the clothes she had to wear as a Roman girl of rank. She fasted from food several days each week and promised God that she would remain true to Him always.

CECILIA'S FATHER did not listen when his daughter told him that she could not marry. Instead he made plans for her to marry a Roman named Valerian.

On the day of the wedding, while the guests were celebrating, Cecilia sat apart and, in her heart, sang the praises of God. She begged Him to save her from her coming marriage. Some say Cecilia really sang at the wedding so that all present could hear of her love of God. Most think, however, that the songs of Cecilia were more beautiful than the voice could sing and that they were sung only in her heart for God to hear.

After the wedding Cecilia told Valerian that she had a secret she must tell him. She said she had an angel of God watching over her and that she could not be anyone's wife for she had promised God she would remain faithful to Him alone. Cecilia also told Valerian that if he obeyed her wishes and let her remain a maiden the angel would love him, but if he did not, the angel would be angry and Valerian would suffer.

"Show me this angel," Valerian replied. "If he be of God, I will refrain as you wish." And Cecilia answered, "If you believe in the living and one true God and receive the water of baptism, then you shall see the angel."

Valerian agreed and went away to find Bishop Urban, who baptized him. When Valerian returned to Cecilia he found an angel standing by her side. The angel put a crown of roses and lilies on the head of each. Valerian's brother came in while the angel was present and he too, after instruction, became a Christian.

THE THREE became very active in the work of the early Church. The two brothers were taken prisoner and were condemned to death. The judge asked if they would give up their faith, but neither of them would. As Valerian was waiting to be put to death he said: "Roman citizens, do not let my sufferings frighten you away from the truth, but cling to the

A Column for Growing-ups

The Cashmere Town

By Norah Smaridge

ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING towns I have visited in Scotland is the little town of Hawick. It has plenty of historical associations; in Melrose Abbey, for instance, beneath the great window, lies the heart of Robert the Bruce. But Americans are drawn to Hawick for quite another reason—because it is the Cashmere Town.

Women all over the world, particularly American college girls, yearn to own genuine cashmere knitted things, like cardigans, sweaters and twin sets. This neat town on the Scottish border is the world's principal center for making the precious garments.

Hawick has flourished as a knitting leader for some 200 years—from the day in 1771 when Bailie John Hardie bought four knitting frames and was soon producing what in those days was a phenomenal amount of hose, 2,400 pairs per year. Stocking frames were rented to the cottagers, who set them up in their homes. But after a while a small factory centralized their work. By 1816, Hawick's output had increased to 320,000 pairs of hose.

TODAY ITS BEST-SELLING product is the twin set, whose history can actually be traced back to the Crimean War of 1854. The Earl of Cardigan sent a special request that Hawick manufacturers would design a woolen garment suitable for the soldiers to wear under their uniforms in the bitter cold of the Crimean winter. At the end of the war, these "cardigans" remained popular, and men and women adopted them for everyday use.

Then, as Hawick's trade expanded, they began to manufacture luxury garments, made from the highly prized fleece of the Tibetan goat. This cashmere production demands a high degree of skill; it is the craftsmanship which has been handed down from generation to generation that has made Hawick pre-eminent in the industry.

HAWICK'S POPULATION has grown to 17,000 and the younger generation have lost none of their forefathers' skill. I watched these young men making intricate intarsia designs for sweaters. These may be flowers or birds, leaves or geometric patterns, carefully worked into the garment, line by line. A complicated design like interjoined diamonds in two or three colors may take a workman a whole day to complete.

I saw cashmere fleeces being "dyed in the wool" (before being spun into yarn) in order to get deeper and more penetrating color. Before it is dyed, the cashmere is bleached to "kill" the dark brown fibers mixed with the natural yarn. It is then dyed, and will take very subtle colors, delicate blues and pinks and lavenders which look their best in cashmere because of the softness and depth of the yarn.

Later, I watched high-speed machines making up to twelve garments at once. Every top-grade cashmere garment is "fully-fashioned," which means that the shaping is done as part of the knitting process.

In the milling house, the craftsmen are very proud of their skill. "Milling" means continued washing in foamy clouds of suds after the natural oil has been removed.

If you ever get a chance to own a genuine cashmere garment, you will treasure it for many years. No wool is so soft, so light, so warm.

Library, Journalism Contests Won by Caldwell Students

CALDWELL — Two competitions, one scholastic, the other journalistic, were won by students of Caldwell College for Women this week.

Joan Anderson of Cedar Grove, a junior English major, won first prize in the New Jersey Collegiate Press Association's Harry F. Simon Contest for the best editorial on Abraham Lincoln. Miss Anderson is also a candidate for the presidency of the NJCPA.

Joan Hansbury of Union, a senior, placed first in a statewide competition sponsored by the New Jersey Library Association and was awarded a $300 scholarship for graduate study in library science at any accredited college.

Miss Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Anderson, is editor of the campus newspaper, The Kettle. Her Lincoln editorial was titled "Truth Is Eternal."

Dr. H. A. Estrin of Newark College of Engineering conducted the contest. Judges were: Dominic DiDardo of the Plainfield Courier News; Mrs. Pearl Simon Estrin, former teacher in Westfield; and Gene Hampson, Plainfield Courier News city editor.

Miss Hansbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hansbury, is co-editor of the college yearbook, Carillon, and is majoring in English with a minor in library science. Her scholarship was to be announced at the Spring conference of the New Jersey Library Association in Asbury Park, May 1. Miss Hansbury's grant was one of three given, the others valued at $200.

With North Jersey Women

Flowers of Effort

By June Dwyer

As the club year draws to a close the seeds of effort are bringing forth Spring flowers of results.

Flowerings

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Cassian's, Upper Montclair, will present a $3,500 check to Rev. John J. Brown, pastor, to be used for the building fund. The funds were raised at the recent Auxiliary bridge under chairmanship of Mrs. John Q. Adams. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Linden, displayed a caliche recently which will go to Irish seminarian William Power. Mr. Power has been helped through his priestly studies by the group and will receive the chalice for his ordination May 23. The Ladies also made a donation to the Columbian Missions.

Court Veritas, Catholic Daughters of America, made donations to the first Communion class at St. Augustine's, Union City, and to the Weehawken cancer fund. Over 800 people responded to the efforts of Our Lady of Visitation Rosary Society, Paramus, and attended the recent card party-fashion show. Mrs. George Moll and Mrs. Eugene Metzler were co-chairmen.

May 4

Women's groups are going into Mary's month with plans to renew the spirit. May 4, the first Sunday in May, will be full of grace and spiritual rewards. Archbishop Boland will speak at the 17th annual Communion breakfast of the St. Anne's Rosary Society, Fair Lawn on May 4th. Mrs. Emil Hoeffner, chairman, has announced that Mrs. Frank Schilling will be soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Henry Pielat. The Rosary Society of St. John's, Orange, will hold an annual dedication ceremony to Mary at the church at 3 p.m. Mrs. James Christiano, president, will crown the Blessed Mother. Mrs. Fred Ketterer, chairman, has announced that the service will be followed by a social in the school hall. The Rosary Society of St. Michael's, Cranford, will hold a Communion breakfast on this first May Sunday under chairmanship of Mrs. Alice Wirkus. Rosarians will meet at the Elizabeth Carteret Hotel, Elizabeth, to hear Rev. John J. Ansburo, chaplain of Caldwell College. The combined societies of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, Orange, will also hold a Communion breakfast on the 4th. Mrs. James Stanziale is chairman of the affair which will be held at the Hotel Suburban, East Orange, following 8 a.m. Mass at the parish church. Msgr. William S. Furlong of Seton Hall University will be guest speaker. Mrs. John Mulhern will be toastmaster.

Also coming up May 4 is the Communion breakfast of the St. Peter's Ladies Altar Society, Newark. The program will follow the 8 a.m. Mass in the church.

Meetings

New plans are always in the offing—and the month of May is no exception. Officers of the Women's Guild of the Seton Hall College of Medicine and Dentistry will be installed at the luncheon meeting May 8 at 11 a.m. in the Seton Hall dormitory lounge. Mrs. Frank S. Forte of Newark, president, will conduct the meeting. Mrs. John J. Flanagan of South Orange is luncheon chairman. The Rosary Confraternity of St. Vincent's, Madison, will meet May 6 in the school cafeteria following the church services. Mrs. Margaret Judge will speak on the shrines of Europe.

St. Elizabeth's Academy Alumnae Association will hold the 62nd annual reunion and meeting May 3 at Convent Station. Immediately following the election of officers, a luncheon will be held. Mrs. Joseph V. Crecca of Orange is handling arrangements. Rosarians of Holy Cross, Harrison, will meet for election of officers May 6 following the regular church services. Mrs. Charles Drew, president, will preside. The entertainment committee will present a skit, "The Lighthouse Keeper's Daughter."

The story of Montserrat will be told by Mrs. John Quincy Adams to members of the Immaculate Conception Rosary-Altar Society at their meeting May 6. The ladies will also elect officers at the meeting which will be held at 8 p.m. in Madonna Hall. May 5 is meeting time for the Holy Family Rosarians, Florham Park. Election of officers will be the main business for this group which will meet following the novena services.

Fund Raising

Socials and activities are on the Spring calendar with an eye for raising funds. The Essex County chapter of St. Elizabeth's College Alumnae will hold a bridge for benefit of the scholarship fund May 5 at the Hotel Suburban, East Orange. Mrs. George Neal of East Orange is chairman with Mrs. Francis X. Larkin of Bloomfield in charge of the fashion show.

The alumnae of Mt. St. Dominic Academy, Caldwell, are planning a card party and fashion show May 9 in the school auditorium. Marie Prout of Verona is chairman of the Spring party which starts at 8:30 p.m. Helen Chilmark of East Orange, alumnae president, is honorary chairman.

The Catholic Women's Club of St. Mary's, Rutherford, is going in business with a May Fair May 10 at the grammar school. Open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., the project will benefit the parish. Our Lady of the Valley Rosary-Altar Society, Orange, will hold a dessert-card party at Graulich's, Orange, May 6 at 8:15 p.m. Mrs. Stanley I. Zitzner of Orange is chairman, assisted by Mrs. William McMahon of West Orange.

The Guild of St. James' Hospital, Newark, will meet with friends May 8 for a May card party in the coffee shop. Mrs. John Mulquinn, assisted by Mrs. George Crowe, will handle arrangements. The games will start at 1:30 p.m. The East Orange Sodality will hold a social at the Bow and Arrow, West Orange, May 18 from 3 to 6 p.m. Proceeds will go to the St. Joseph's School Fund, East Orange.

The Rosary-Altar Society and the CYOs of Our Lady of the Lake, Verona, will join forces for a "Fashions 'Round the Clock" party May 7 at the school auditorium. Betty McNamara is chairman of the show which will start at 8:30 p.m.

Over 500 at Paterson Breakfast Hear Lourdes Speaker Laud Mary

CLIFTON—"When people leave Lourdes, even though they are not cured, they go away knowing they are the ones Our Lady loves best, for they stand at the cross with her."

With these and similar words Mrs. Winifred Feeley tried to explain the miracle of Lourdes to the Paterson Diocesan Council of Catholic Women gathered for their 11th annual Communion breakfast.

The speaker addressed over 500 women, the largest group ever to attend the annual breakfast, at St. Philip the Apostle here, Apr. 26. The breakfast, in the school auditorium, followed Mass offered by Bishop McNulty in the church.

MRS. FEELEY traced her life from the time when as a young girl in China she heard the word "Catholic" for the first time, up through the days of her conversion and war work to her cure at Lourdes eight years ago.

"Maybe one of you before me today is responsible for my cure," said Mrs. Feeley. "Our Lady took a gift of sacrifice from you and put it in a bouquet and gave it to me."

"The moment you do something for Our Lady," she continued, "The moment you say, 'I am offering this for someone else'—when someone else is cured—you will be coming to Lourdes. And Mary will smile on you for answering her call to come."

FOLLOWING Mrs. Feeley's speech, Bishop McNulty addressed the gathering. "I like to think," said the Bishop, "that the women of this council are bringing into the Diocese of Paterson the spirit of Lourdes."

Council of Catholic Women, who reminded the women of the national convention in St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 20-24.

Msgr. John J. Shanley, diocesan moderator, commended the women for their outstanding attendance and pointed out the slogan of the council, "Prayer, study and action." "We must translate the word 'action' to 'service,'" the moderator continued, "because that is what you give in your council." In conclusion he asked the women to "Make the cause of the Lord something worthy of imitation."

MUSICAL SELECTIONS were presented by vocalist Gloria Malitsch accompanied by Edith Retberg.

A special attraction at the breakfast was a shrine to Our Lady of Lourdes which stood on the stage behind the speaker's table. Mrs. Arthur Moore, spiritual development chairman, was shrine chairman.

Christ Child Convention Planned for Detroit in May

DETROIT (NC) — Past, present and future activities of the Christ Child Society will be reviewed when the group meets here for its national convention, May 5-7.

More than 400 delegates from the 38 chapters of the nationwide society are expected to attend. To be reviewed will be Detroit's new Christ Child Shelter for children.

Theme of the 14th biennial convention will be: "How the Christ Child Society Can Best Serve the Needs of the Community."

Expanding on this theme in addresses will be Mrs. John Sager, first vice president and keynote speaker; Rev. Wilbur F. Suedkamp, charities secretary of the Detroit Archdiocese; Rev. John R. Hogan, Catholic Social Services director for St. Clair County, adjacent to Detroit, and Mrs. Robert C. Mahoney, president of the NCCW.

Sisters of Charity Plan Centennial Celebrations

CONVENT STATION — In commemoration of "A Century of Charity" the Sisters of Charity of St. Elizabeth, with motherhouse located here, will celebrate the 100th anniversary of their founding with a centennial year celebration starting next September. A Mass to open the year will be held Sept. 29.

Comprising 1,800 Sisters missioned throughout New Jersey and in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Florida and the Virgin Islands, the Congregation conducts New Jersey's oldest college for women, the College of St. Elizabeth here; seven hospitals, 94 elementary schools, 24 high schools, six academies, one catechetical center, three orphanages, one home for the aged, one residence for working girls, and supervises the domestic work in two seminaries.

They care for over 58,000 patients annually and are responsible for the instruction of 70,000 students, most of them in

New Jersey. The Sisters of Charity were also missioned in China from 1924 until their expulsion in 1951.

THIS YEAR MARKS the 60th anniversary of the college, the 25th anniversary of the Sisters in the Virgin Islands, and the 35th anniversary of their departure for China.

The Congregation was founded in 1859 by Mother Mary Xavier Mehegan in Newark. On July 2, 1860, the motherhouse was transferred to Convent Station.

Among major events to take place during the Centennial are six Masses which include the opening Mass, a Mass for deceased Sisters Nov. 11; a Mass in honor of founders, Dec. 3; a centennial Mass, July 19, 1959, for Sisters of the summer school; Aug. 15 for silver and golden jubiliaries; and a closing Mass, Sept. 29.

Sister Cited For Work In Leprosy

NEW BRUNSWICK (NC) —

A convert who became a nun and distinguished herself working with Hansen's disease victims was showered with congratulatory messages by President Eisenhower and others as she was presented with the sixth annual Damien-Dutton Award here.

Sister Hilary Ross of the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, upon being honored, stated: "This award belongs to the patients in Carville whose cooperation made it possible." She referred to patients at the U. S. Leprosarium in Carville, La., where she has been stationed for 36 years. She is now a biochemist and head of the laboratory there.

Holy Trinity Nun Is Grant Winner

WESTFIELD — Sister Regina Cordis of Holy Trinity High School here has received a grant from the National Science Foundation to participate in the eight-week summer institute for secondary school physics teachers. The course, sponsored by the National Science Foundation and the Atomic Energy Commission in the program of the physical science study committee, is conducted by the Special Training Division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies at Oak Ridge, Tenn., June 30 to Aug. 22.

Sister Regina Cordis, who teaches physics, chemistry, and U.S. history at Holy Trinity, is one of 40 participants selected on a national basis from applicants who are science teachers in public, private, and parochial high schools.

Women around the World

African women will hear about their mission in life at a congress July 15-25. About 500 are expected at the meeting, which is sponsored by the World Federation of Catholic Women's Organizations and the United Nations.

The Magnificat Medal of Mundelein College, Chicago, will be presented to an associate editor of World Affairs magazine and a government editorial analyst. Ellen Collins of Washington, D.C., a graduate of St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg, Md., will receive the award May 8 at the college. The medal is presented yearly to a Catholic women's college alumna who has demonstrated leadership and accomplishment in social, cultural and religious activities.

Auto Hides Homer, One Hit-Nine Runs As Schools Enjoy Dizzy Diamond Days

HOKOKUS — It was one of those weeks that only high school baseball can come up with, a week in which:

• JOHNNY HARKNETT of St. Luke's lost a shutout when a grounder rolled under a car parked back of third base and was turned into a home run for Jack Quigley of Don Bosco Tech;

• WALSH went into the sixth inning leading Bayley-Ellard, 5-0, only to see the Madison school come up with nine runs on just one hit;

• ST. ALOYSIUS, held to eight runs in its first five games, needed only five turns at bat to bounce St. Michael's (N), 26-7;

• ORATORY, shut out by Morris town School, 1-0, in their first meeting, turned the tables with a 27-0 victory;

• SACRED HEART became the last team to open its season Apr. 25 and was quickly greeted by a 23-2 loss to Holy Trinity.

Nor was this all that happened. Pope Plus put in a heart-stopping week as it rallied for three runs in the sixth to defeat St. Mary's (R), 4-3, then came up with five in the seventh to top Don Bosco, 7-3, in an important Tri-County Catholic Conference tilt.

FIRST LOSSES were suffered by Don Bosco, Don Bosco Tech and Bayley-Ellard (to Morris Hills, 8-2). This left St. Peter's (8-0), St. Luke's (6-0), Holy Trinity (3-0) and St. Joseph's (P) (3-0) in the pristine class. But the latter suffered grave embarrassment, and almost a lot worse, when DePaul's freshman-sophomore team battled it to a 2-2, eight-inning tie, Apr. 23.

The St. Luke's-Don Bosco Tech and Pope Plus-Don Bosco tilts were the key games of the week in the Bergen-Passaic and Tri-County Catholic Conferences, respectively. Other than that freakish home run, Harknett pitched a strong game for his fourth victory, a number equaled among North Jersey Catholic hurlers only by Bill Kretzer and Jack Seigis of St. Peter's.

RICHIE TAKACS and John Ebner struck the key blows in the Pope Plus rally which ended Don Bosco's undefeated status. The game was a strong pitching duel between Gerry Mackin of the Eagles and Jim Walsh of the Rams with the latter having a slight edge until Takacs and Ebner delivered their doubles to pace the late rally.

St. Luke's (3-0) now shares the P-BCC lead with St. Joseph's (2-0) and, unless their rained-out game of Apr. 11 is scheduled earlier, the two will not meet until May 14. This week, St. Luke's meets only cellar dwelling St. Mary's (0-3) in league play May 5, while St. Joseph's has a date with equally winless St. John's (0-8) the next afternoon.

IN THE TCC, Queen of Peace (0-1) has a busy week, being at home to Pope Plus (2-0) on May 5 and to Don Bosco (0-1) on May 7 and itself visiting St. Cecilia's (E) (1-0) on May 8. An interesting interleague fray shows Bergen Catholic at St. Luke's on May 8.

Delbarton, sharing the Ivy League lead with Newark Academy at 3-0 (the two were due to meet in Newark on May 2), has games coming up with Eastern Christian on May 6 and Morris town Prep on May 8. St. Peter's, alone atop the Jersey City (5-0) and South Hudson loops (5-0) at this point, visits St. Michael's (JC) on May 3, is at home to Ferris on May 5 and "travels" to Lincoln on May 8 in a really big one.

Peacocks End Losses, Pirates in Trouble

JERSEY CITY — Just when it appeared that the baseball season at St. Peter's College was to become one long series of nightmarish losses, alleviated only by the sharp humor of coaches George Manfredi and Gerry Molloy, the Peacocks turned the tables Apr. 26 with a 17-3 rout of Fairfield.

The Peacocks, with a 2-4 record, still have a long ways to go before they can start calling the 1958 campaign a successful one, but at least this one-sided victory broke up the four-game losing string which had grown progressively worse with each outing.

ED KAISER, Seton Hall transfer, turned in six shutout innings against the Connecticut club, the first bit of decent pitching the team had seen since its opening victory over Newark College of Engineering. Frank (Babe) Pinto and Dan Sheehan led the attack with three hits apiece, the former picking up two doubles and the latter batting in four runs, as did Dave Lanzet.

The Peacock revival came just as Seton Hall was running into troubles with successive losses to Ithaca and L.I.U., following an 8-1 defeat of Wagner Apr. 24 in a makeup game. Bob Graham of Ithaca singlehandedly sunk the Pirates on Apr. 25 with eight-hit pitching and two hits which led the winners' attack.

IN THE LIU defeat, the Pirates moved into the lead with a four-run fifth inning, but relief pitcher Frank Baier failed to hold the margin, being tagged for three runs in the seventh and two in the eighth. The loss was the fourth in 12 starts for Seton Hall and makes those NCAA hopes look very dark.

Richie Marks continued to be a bright light for Seton Hall with his slugging as he had a triple and single to lead the rout of Wagner and collected a double in that four-run inning against LIU. Soph pitcher Joe Tosies picked up his second victory against the Seahawks with a six-hit job, while Ed Szerencsis went down to his first defeat against three wins despite holding Ithaca to just seven hits and exhibiting perfect control with no walks.

THE WEEK ahead is a hectic one for the St. Peter's baseball team and a relatively quiet one for the Pirates, unless rained-out games fill out the schedule. The Peacocks visit Iona May 3, Rider

Relay Reflections From Penn

There comes a time each year at the Penn Relays — about 6:30 on Saturday evening — when the great horseshoe stands of Franklin Field are deserted, save for the reporters and telegraphers working under a string of improvised lights in the press box, when you have time to reflect on the thrilling events of the past two days.

Only a few minutes before, bedlam had reigned as more than 40,000 fans stood and cheered for their favorites in the climatic one-mile college championship relay. Now those fans are on their way home — many still milling outside the stadium gates, waiting for a bus, others caught in traffic snarls on the long road home to New York, New Jersey, Washington or New England.

THE VILLANOVA dressing room, scene of wild excitement following the Wildcats' unprecedented "triple-triple" (three consecutive victories in the mile, sprint medley and distance medley relays) is empty, save for the figure of Johnny Kopil, a former teammate of Ron Delany, Ed Collymore et al, and now a Marine stationed at Quantico. Johnny is due to run the next afternoon in a new kind of relay race — a 20-mile affair between Somers Pt. and Atlantic City — and will spend Saturday night at Villanova helping the boys celebrate. But he has time to talk about his own future as a runner, about his plans to move up to the 10,000 meter distance for a try at the 1960 Rome Olympics.

INJURIES BOTHERED Kopil throughout his career at Villanova and prevented him from running on any of the 13 varsity and freshman relay teams which have scored in the Penn carnival since 1955. But other North Jersey boys — including Kopil's Bayonne teammate Al Peterson, as well as Gene Maloff of St. Michael's (JC) and Vic DiMaio of St. Aloysius — had a hand, albeit a small one, in one of the great epics of American track and field. DiMaio ran a 1:56 880, leading off the distance medley this year.

Also in the stadium at this late hour was Walt Connolly, a St. Peter's Prep graduate and now a sophomore at St. Joseph's. Walt had given up running for a time, but when his father died suddenly this past winter, he went back on a track scholarship and wasted no time moving to the fore among the Hawk runners.

TALKING TO WALT, you remember the scene of an hour or so earlier when the field lined up for the Class "B" sprint medley. There, waiting for the baton so he could run the first 220-yard leg, was Walt and, right by him, two of America's greatest

May 7 and Boston College May 9 and are at home to Newark Rutgers May 5. By the time these games are done with, the team will either be at the .500 mark or hopelessly mired below it.

Seton Hall has home games with Lafayette May 6 and Upsala May 8, the latter a key clash in the Collegiate Baseball Conference.

Kennedy Declines St. Louis Offer

JERSEY CITY — An attractive offer to succeed Ed Hickey as basketball coach at St. Louis University has been rejected by St. Peter's College mentor Don Kennedy.

After receiving permission from Very Rev. James J. Shanahan, S.J., St. Peter's president, to approach Kennedy, the Billikens invited the 51-year-old coach to come to St. Louis for an interview. But Don declined, stating that it would be "impractical" for him to accept the post.

The father of nine growing children, eldest of whom, Don Jr., is a member of the Peacock basketball team, Kennedy also has a profitable summer camp which he operates on Long Island.

"I am very happy at St. Peter's," Kennedy said in his letter to Rev. Robert Sanderson, S.J., chairman of the St. Louis athletic council, "I hope to spend my remaining years as coach here and to continue on as athletic director after I retire as coach." Don presently holds both positions.

Kennedy also announced this week that the Peacocks will make a southern tour next winter, playing Loyola University of the South at New Orleans on Feb. 2 and Spring Hill at Mobile, Ala., on Feb. 3. Among the teams which will visit the Jersey City Armory will be College of the Pacific on Dec. 23.

track stars — world's fastest runner Dave Sime of Fair Lawn and Duke and Ira Davis of LaSalle, who was picked over Delany as the outstanding college performer of these 64th Penn Relays. Nothing like running against the best.

Walt picked up two medals within an hour Saturday, except it seems he will never see one of them. St. Joseph's placed second in its section of the medley and third in the overall standing, but the prize table had handed out all the medals for the event when the first section was run hours before. About the mile relay where he led off for the Hawks, who finished second, Walt said only, "This is the first time I led off a mile relay team since I was a sophomore at St. Peter's running in the Inquirer Games."

Bees Come Home on Top in 440 After Eyelash Defeat in Mile

By Ed Grant

NEWARK — Just when coach Frank Murphy was thinking his Penn Relay ship would never come in, Frank Barnes, Tom Sowa, Phil Armando and Dick Moran got together to bring St. Benedict's its first 440-yard prep school championship in the history of the ancient carnival, Apr. 26 at Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

After the Bees dropped the mile relay title to Lawrenceville by the mere margin of a foot (and a soft spot in the track, Murphy was commiserating with himself on the bad breaks which seemed to follow him in this meet. In 1955, he recalled, the Gray Bees raced Mercersburg Academy to the tape in the mile relay and won, in the opinion of most finish line observers. But the decision went to the Philadelphia school.

BUT SOWA and Armando, who had run with the mile team, joined with football stars Barnes and Moran to give the Bees their moment of glory in what turned out to be the greatest of all Penn carnivals. Passing the baton perfectly, the boys improved on their Apr. 25 heat clocking by half a second to defeat Perkiomen Prep by two yards in 44.6.

Though the staggered starts make it impossible to tell definitely who is leading at each stage of the 440-yard relay, it appeared that the Bees were on top all the way. Certainly, Barnes and Sowa appeared to gain ground on their Perkiomen rivals in the outside lane. Armando seemed to hold the edge around the last turn and Moran was touched off with a good six or seven yard lead which proved more than enough against the challenge of Jose Rios, anchorman for the Pennsylvania school.

THE MILE relay was a real heartbreaker. Sowa led off with a 52.4 quarter and was ready to move into the lead in the last 10 yards when he appeared to step into a hole, broke stride and dropped back about four yards. Armando and John Martin added legs of 52.4 and 50.8, but John Butler was still touched off five yards behind Charles Dickson, Lawrenceville anchor.

Butler has beaten Dickson several times at the half-mile distance, once for the indoor prep title this winter, and confidently charged up on his rival in the backstretch. But John then elected to make his bid around the turn, was forced to run several extra yards before gaining the lead, then found he did not have quite enough to hold off Dickson at the tape as both clubs were timed in a fast 3:25.6.

Just to add a little extra to the Gray Bees' full cup — and to post some warnings for next year — the "B" mile relay team of Mike Juliano, Kim Murphy, Moran and Tom Hughes won their class race in 3:38.1, with little Tom doutes. They may have to. Starting in the set of class mile relays at Penn was Jack Mostyn of Bergen Catholic with a 49.1 quarter, Ted Wallace of Marist with 51.5, Paul Jordan of St. Peter's with 52.3, Ken Halpin of St. Aloysius with 52.7 and Hugh Lordon of Delbarton with 52.8. Bergen Catholic, Holy Trinity and Delbarton placed third in their races, with Trinity leading until Doug Pitchell fell on the third leg.

Marist turned in a neat 45.2 during the 440-yard relay trials on Apr. 25 and will be tough to beat in the sprint relays at the New Jersey Catholic Track Conference championships, May 10 at Lincoln Park.

Ernie Tolentino ran a 2:03.6 opening leg for the two-mile club, then did 3:20.9 on the three-quarter leg of the medley, while his soph classmate Al Adams had a closing 1:59.3 on the two-mile and a 4:39.3 mile on the medley. Junior Pete Ganucci ran his Friday half in 2:05.7 and the Saturday one in 2:07.3, while Bob Kocot, the lone senior, did 2:09.9 for the 880 on Friday, 54.0 for the 440 on Saturday.

THIS SAME CLUB will be favored in the special distance event for Catholic schools which graces the program of the Newark Board of Education meet May 3 at Newark Schools Stadium. Among the strong challengers will be St. Peter's, Seton Hall (whose Ed Wyrach ran a 4:34.8 mile at Penn) and Holy Trinity of Westfield, with the winner expected to go under 11 min.

CYO Heeds Pope's Call for Lourdes Rally

JERSEY CITY — "On the first centenary of the apparition of the Immaculate Virgin Mary at the grotto of Lourdes and inspired by Our most intense piety toward her, We desire that all Catholics throughout the world celebrate this event in a worthy manner."

These words of Pope Pius XII in the Apostolic Constitution on Lourdes, dated Nov. 1, 1957, were the inspiration for the forthcoming archdiocesan Lourdes rally to be held at Roosevelt Stadium May 18 under the sponsorship of the CYO. The event begins at 3 p.m. with Archbishop Boland presiding.

"We strongly wish," the Pontiff wrote, "that jubilee celebrations be held not only at Lourdes near the venerated image of the Immaculate Virgin, but also wherever our most beloved heavenly Mother is honored."

THE ARCHDIOCESAN Catholic Youth Organizations have honored the Mother of God for the past 10 years at May rallies dedicated to her under her title of Our Lady of Fatima. Highlighting the ceremonies has been the praying of a living rosary. While this feature of the May rally will be retained for the Lourdes demonstration, a number of changes have been made in the usual format.

The Lourdes rally will consist of a Solemn Holy Hour which will begin as soon as the clergy have taken their places on the stadium field and the Blessed Sacrament has been brought to the field altar. The preliminary ceremonies have been eliminated from this year's program. These had included a procession of Boy Scout, Girl Scout and Columbus Cadets colors, coronation of Our Lady and blessing of Rosary beads.

IT IS ANTICIPATED that this year's demonstration will rival in attendance the special Marian Year rally in 1954 when 35,000 North Jersey Catholics responded to a call for parish pilgrimages made by the Archbishop. The May ceremonies last year were cancelled because of unfavorable weather, the second time this has happened in the past decade.

According to Chris A. Hent-schel, who was appointed technical director for the event by CYO director Msgr. John J. Kiley, plans are being made to build a grotto similar to that at Lourdes. This will be to the rear and on one side of the altar.

THE SERMON will be given by Msgr. William F. Furlong, director of the Divinity School at Seton Hall University. Msgr. Furlong, who has attended Columbia University and New York University in addition to studies at Seton Hall and Immaculate Conception Seminary, Darlington, is also director of the Archdiocesan Apostolate for Vocations and writes a weekly column in The Advocate.

Archbishop Boland will lead the congregation in a prayer to Our Lady of Lourdes composed for the centenary by Pope Pius XII.

St. Mary's (R), Bayley Science Fairs Successful

RUTHERFORD — More than 300 exhibits were shown in the first annual Science Fair at St. Mary's High School, Apr. 27-28, with crowds on both days far exceeding the expectations of school authorities.

Among the first prize winners were Julie Hofbauer, Joseph Catania, Edward Carlevaro and Pat Cuzzo in biology; John DeMaria, Robert Wilcox, Vincent Contey and James Murphy in physics; Nick Nasuta, Margaret Leonard and Virginia Sheridan in chemistry; Angela Bodet, Ed Scerbo and Richard Penna in mathematics and Chris Bisio, Vivien Vicari and Marie Scirella in general science.

Another school to hold its science fair recently was Bayley. Ellard (Madison) and there the top prizes went to Judy Nelson and Denise Farrell in chemistry. Al Sagares in physics, John Lafferty in biology and John Shepard in mathematics.

Bayley also is proud of its list of scholarship winners which includes Michael Wallace, who won a rare appointment to Webb Institute of Naval Architecture; Miss Farrell, a four-year award to St. Elizabeth's; Raffaella Madonna, partial scholarships to Marywood and Seton Hill; Carol Ann Klausner, partial scholarship to Seton Hill; Mary Ann Lally, partial scholarship to Misericordia; Miss Nelson, partial scholarship to St. Xavier and Mary Blaney, four-year scholarship to Misericordia.

Hugh McCormick of St. Peter's Prep (Jersey City) captured first prize in original oratory in the district finals of the New Jersey Forensic League on Apr. 26 at Springfield, while Leo Clossey was third in oratorical interpretation. Upcoming dates for the orators include the Seton Hall Invitational May 3 and the New Jersey Forensic League debate at St. Benedict's (Newark) May 10, postponed from March.

Susan Bromley, senior at Mt. St. Dominic Academy (Caldwell), has added a four-year scholarship to Trinity College to her honors which also include the Mother Butler Memorial Scholarship to Marymount. Mt. St. Dominic held a Roman banquet Apr. 22 which featured the singing of such Latin hit parade tunes as "Tu Es Sol Meus" (You Are My Sunshine).

Three Parishes in Position To Sweep Play Contest

NEWARK — Three parishes which swept the boards in their respective county finals of the CYO one-act play contest will try to repeat the trick this week when the archdiocesan finals are held at two Essex County sites.

St. Francis of Ridgefield Park copped junior and senior honors in Bergen County, St. Paul's of Greenville duplicated the trick in Hudson County and St. Elizabeth's of Linden was the dual winner in Union County. Only in Essex, where St. Rose of Lima, Newark, won the junior competition, and St. Leo's, Irvington, the senior, were honors divided.

Teenage Retreats For Essex Youths

MONTCLAIR — The first in a series of annual retreats for boys and girls in their teens will be held this weekend by the Essex County CYO at St. Paul's Abbey, Newton, and Villa Pauline, Mendham.

Run at the request of parish CYO moderators, the retreats will be along the lines of those held for Essex young adults for the past five years, county moderator Rev. Thomas E. Davis explained. Their purpose is "to foster a deeper spirituality in our youth."

Tennis Course At CYO Center

JERSEY CITY — A beginners' course in tennis will begin on or about May 5 at the Jersey City CYO Center, with four weeks of indoor instruction followed by four weeks of outdoor instruction. The minimum age requirement is 16 years. Those enrolled must have at least a quarterly membership in the CYO Center. All interested persons can contact Vic Vigna, CYO physical director.

Condemn Indecency

PITTSBURGH (NC) — A resolution condemning the growing flood of indecent literature on newsstands and in the mails has been adopted by the Pittsburgh Federation of Catholic High School Students.

Newark Schools Sweep Contest

MONTCLAIR — St. Charles Borromeo High School and Blessed Sacrament Grammar School, both of Newark, took all the honors in the Essex County CYO essay contests, the first time this had happened.

Leona Mitchell and Joseph Rice were the winners in the high school division while John Callanan and Barbara Earle finished on top in the grammar school division. All four essays have been entered in the archdiocesan contest.

Topic for the essay contest this year is: "The Advocate is an Aid to, and the Continuation of, a Catholic Education for the Whole Family."

Blessed Sacrament, St. Catherine's

Defend Titles in Union, Bergen Meets

ELIZABETH — Almost 1,000 boys from 37 parishes will take part in the Union and Bergen County CYO meets, scheduled for May 3 and 4, respectively, at Williams Field here and Winton White Stadium, Englewood.

The Union meet has drawn over 500 entries from 12 local parishes and five more who will compete in a special archdiocesan relay. In Bergen, where there are 17 parishes in the championship program, the program will be enlivened by a relay for the New Jersey Catholic Track Conference.

Blessed Sacrament, Elizabeth, will defend the grammar school and junior titles at Elizabeth, while St. Michael's, Elizabeth, does the honors in the intermediate division. In Englewood, only St. Catherine's, Glen Rock, is on hand to try to hold the grammar school title won last year. Mount Virgin, Garfield, is not defending the junior and intermediate crowns which it won in 1957.

The program at both meets is identical, according to archdiocesan standards. There will be five weight divisions in the grammar school section with a dash and relay for each and a 60-yard dash, 440-yard run, 880-yard run, 880-yard relay, broad jump and high jump for both juniors and intermediates.

Entry in the high school relay at Englewood has not been announced, nor is the distance of the race certain. But the field will no doubt include all of the active members of the NJCTC, led by St. Benedict's Penn Relay champions.

Passaic Girl Chosen Queen

CLIFTON-Lorraine Poco of Mt. Carmel, Passaic, will be crowned as the 1958 District Queen of the Passaic-Clifton CYO at the third annual Spring dance, May 9, at St. Philip's Auditorium.

Chosen over 10 other parish queens for the honor, Miss Poco will be crowned by 1957 queen Barbara Matash. The dance will also see the presentation of awards for district activities of the past year by Rev. Leo P. Ryan, moderators.

In addition, Miss Poco is now eligible for the diocesan queen competition. The winner of this will crown the statue of Our Lady at the annual Memorial Day Mass celebrated by Bishop McNulty at Hinchliffe Stadium.

Vocation Notes

A Lady Interfered

By Msgr. William F. Furlong

The Roman Martyrology lists close to 5,000 names of canonized saints, and of that great number only 29 have the added title, "Doctor of the Church." They represent the cream of Catholic wisdom and learning for over 1900 years. They are the outstanding teachers of Christian history and came by their title of "Doctor" only after their lives and writings were subjected to a most rigorous examination.

One of the 29 Doctors is St. Albert the Great. He was called "Great" by his 13th century contemporaries because of his great fund of knowledge. For centuries scholars have referred to him as the "Universal Doctor," because he knew so much about everything.

He will be remembered always for having taught for four years a man who was also destined to become a great saint and Doctor of the Church—St. Thomas of Aquinas. To write one book is a big accomplishment—St. Albert wrote 38. And they have established him for all time as a great authority on theology, philosophy, biblical studies, geography, astronomy, numerology, chemistry, biology, botany and physics. Truly he was the "Universal Doctor," the man who knew a lot about everything.

And it was almost all so different! As is true of all students for the priesthood and of all candidates for the religious life, discouragement found its way into the life of Albert the student. And so overpowering was it, he was on the verge of leaving and returning to the world. Then, as he revealed in the latter years of his life, someone came and talked with him—it was Mary the Mother of God!

Mary told him that God wanted him to stay "and promised to ask for him illuminating grace in his studies if he would persevere." Albert stayed, and, of course, Mary kept her part of the promise.

I wonder what would have happened if Mary had not intervened? Would Albert ever have become a priest, a Bishop, the "Universal Doctor," a saint, and a Doctor of the Church? It is not likely that he would.

Mary's intercession is still most powerful. Every day we should ask her to obtain from Jesus special graces enabling all whom He has called to the priesthood and religious life, to become, as St. Albert did, all that Jesus wants them to be.

Says Carnegie Fund Fostered Disdain for Religious Schools

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — The widespread belief that no religious group can manage a university and maintain freedom of inquiry and teaching is a direct result of limitations originally imposed by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

So charged Dr. Thomas A. Brady of the University of Missouri in a speech before the Graduate Faculty-Staff League of the Newman Foundation, University of Illinois.

The Carnegie Foundation was established in 1906 by Andrew Carnegie with a gift of $10,000,000, later increased to $15,000,000.

THE RESULT of fund-imposed restrictions, Dr. Brady said, is dogma and theology are considered incompatible with research and teaching. A cloud of "abysmal religious ignorance" now faces the Catholic teacher in today's secular university, he declared.

Andrew Carnegie was not hostile toward religion, Dr. Brady declared, "but he had been convinced that higher education should be free from all religious and denominational control." This he attributed to Andrew White, a president of Cornell University, and Daniel Gilman, who later became president of Johns Hopkins University.

Their influence led Carnegie to exclude colleges which "belong to any specified sect or which impose any theological test." As a result, schools went to great lengths to qualify for participation, Dr. Brady said, even surrendering endowments which hinged on a denominational orientation.

Even more important than the money, he said, was the recognition and prestige that acceptance by the foundation was bringing. In effect, he asserted, the foundation was deciding which were the country's top quality schools.

While the controversy centered originally around schools controlled by Protestant groups, today it applies to Catholic institutions as well, he said.

"In other words, although the church founded the university and maintained it single-handed for centuries, there is the firm belief that only laymen, almost any layman not subject to religious or political control, can make policy for a college or university of high quality," Dr. Brady said.

THE MAJOR obstacle for Catholics to remove, Dr. Brady said, is the assumption that theology and dogma are sinister forces and basically hostile to free investigation and higher learning. But, he continued, theological considerations, recognized or not, operate in all branches of learning.

"As students or as colleagues we may introduce theological speculation into the problems of any branch of learning and justify it as part of the pursuit of truth by the use of reason," he said. "If our theology will not stand this test, then it doesn't deserve a hearing."

Equally important, Dr. Brady said, is that the student and teacher be informed about their religion. Unfortunately, he added, "it is not as uncommon as it should be that our scholar who is a Catholic or a Jew is almost as ignorant of his faith as is the scholar of Protestant background."

Pope Stresses Important Goals Governing Radiology Research

NCWC News Service

Following is a translation of an address delivered in French on Apr. 16, 1958, to a group of medical scientists in the field of radiation research by Pope Pius XII. The Pope stressed the need to pinpoint the effects of radiation on the body and reminded scientists that research should be directed toward freeing man from bodily and material labor for the sake of his spiritual development.

You are welcome, gentlemen of the "International Symposium on the Dimensions, Units and Methods of Measuring Ionizing Radiations," which has been organized in Rome by the "Italian Society for Medical Radiology and Nuclear Medicine."

You know that we are always pleased to welcome research workers and practitioners assembled in congresses for the purpose of comparing the results of their work. Although pure science is the first to derive definite advantages [from their work], later countless people will be the beneficiaries without even suspecting it, will profit from these new conquests and from a greater perfection of methods.

The extensive use of medical radiology and the use of radiation in biology and in industry renders the need of measuring accurately the intensity and biological effects increasingly important. In fact, everyone is aware of the dangers radiation can present for the human body. The example of radiologists who have been victims of it, and above all the spectacular effects of nuclear weapons are constantly before the minds of men today.

You yourselves, in one of your reports, point out the unfavorable repercussions radiation normally has on reproductive cells. This obviously engenders the need of measuring, as accurately as possible, the intensity of this radiation in its various applications.

BUT HERE YOU encounter two kinds of problems: one of a conceptual order and the other of the practical order.

It is first of all a question of the very concept of "radiation doses" and which, as you will recall, has undergone a slow evolution in the course of these past 50 years. For the purpose of meeting the need for greater precision, a distinction was made between the "dose of exposure" and the "dose of absorption" or "energizing dose" and consequently different units were established for each one: the roentgen unit and the radunit.

The question has not yet been exhausted, and at this symposium you are discussing the characteristics of other units and the improvement which their use could present in the protection of the population against harmful radiations, among other things.

In the practical field, you are examining methods of measuring radiation, their drawbacks and the factors apt to disturb them. You consider the special aspects of this research, when one uses in deep radiotherapy the considerable energies produced by modern accelerator machines.

What uninitiated person is not surprised at the complexity which this field of radiology reveals, though it is well defined.

BUT HOW CAN one also fail to admire the tenacity of research workers and the demanding honesty which urges them not to be satisfied with approximate estimates, but to strive toward achieving a rigorous perfection of their instruments?

This is an effort amply justified by the importance of what is at stake, namely, human life whose fate depends on the adequate utilization of radiotherapy.

It is no small or insignificant thing when one is concerned with human life. We must always recognize where [research's] true greatness lies, and apply the immense resources of modern technology only for the purpose of increasing the spiritual energies of the human person and liberating him from bodily and material labor.

Where would this patient and most exhausting labor in scientific centers lead if not to the gradual liberation of man, to the suppression of physical and moral obstacles and to the judicious use of his preserved or regained powers?

IN THIS EASTER period the Church celebrates the triumph of Christ over death and over all the forms of evil, and invites human efforts to be associated with her.

May Christian hope be yours and may it bring you the comfort of its clear certainty. Beyond the successes and failures which mark the slow evolution of all individual existences, the Church reveals the ultimate end which directs this laborious march and which the Apostle Paul expressed as follows:

"He who raised Jesus Christ from death will also bring to life your moral bodies because of His Spirit who dwells in you" (Romans 8, 11).

As pledge of the divine protection and favors which we earnestly invoke for you and for all those dear to you, we very willingly grant you Our Apostolic Blessing.

THE ADVOCATE brings you columns on theology, family problems, the catechism, vocations, labor, communism, the missions, the saints, and other topics.

Name New Director At Nursing School

MONTCLAIR—Sister Beata Maria has been appointed director of St. Vincent's Hospital School for Practical Nursing, it was announced this week by Sister Clare Dolores, hospital administrator.

A native of Belleville, Sister Beata Maria received her preliminary schooling there and after study at Newark State Normal School taught for three years until her entry into the community of the Sisters of Charity at Convent, in 1934.

She studied nursing at St. Raphael's, New Haven, Conn., and following completion of her course in 1939 was sent as a missionary Sister to China.

From 1939 to 1945, Sister Beata Maria served in a 120-bed hospital in Yuanling, Hunan

Province. While there, the city was a frequent bombing target by the Japanese forces.

When China finally fell to the Reds after World War II, Sister Beata Maria was allowed to return to the United States.

In this country, Sister Beata Maria returned to St. Raphael's as operating room supervisor. A short assignment at St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, preceded her new appointment at St. Vincent's

Give $25,000 To Seton Hall Medical School

VERSEY CITY — The Founders Fund of Seton Hall College of Medicine and Dentistry received a grant of $25,000 May 1 from the United States Steel Foundation.

The new college was singled out by the foundation as deserving of aid for its pioneering of medical education in New Jersey.

Present 'Song Of Bernadette' At Ridgefield

RIDGEFIELD—"The Song of Bernadette," stage drama adapted from the novel of the same name by Franz Werfel, will be presented by the St. Matthew's Players on May 9 in St. Matthew's school auditorium here.

The play furnishes the background story of the apparitions and relates the thoughts and actions of those directly and indirectly concerned. Heading a large cast is Marilyn Kinsky as Bernadette; Margaret Cotter as Louise Soubirous, mother of Bernadette, and Helen Levato as Mother Vauzous.

The play is directed by Warren Johnson assisted by Margaret Cotter. The stage and wardrobe staff are under the chairmanship of Al Klausner and Mrs. Miro Michelini.

Fordham Increases Tuition Charges

NEW YORK—Fordham University this week announced an increase in tuition and fees affecting six undergraduate, graduate and professional schools. The changes will be effective Sept. 1.

The schools and the increases are as follows: Fordham College, School of Business and College of Pharmacy, from $700 to $850 per year; Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, School of Social Service and Graduate School of Education, from $25 to $30 per point. Tuition in the undergraduate School of Education has also been raised from $21 to $26.50 per point.

St. Ann Breakfast

NEWARK — A mother and daughter Communion breakfast will be presented at St. Ann's parish May 4 after 8 a.m. Mass. The Cana group is sponsoring the breakfast with Mr. and Mrs. Al Allai chairmen.

THE ADVOCATE brings you columns on theology, family problems, the catechism, vocations, labor, communism, the missions, the saints, and other topics.

WORLD EXPOSITION OPENS: "Troubadors of King Baudouin," from Kamina City, Belgian Congo, under direction of Rev. Guido Haazen, O.F.M., of Antwerp, sang religious and popular songs for opening of the Brussels Exposition. Receiving the King of Belgium at the Congo Pavilion, they gave a concert attended by Belgian Bishops and authorities. Prince Albert, at center, photographed in the Beaux Arts Palace among 47 boys and 20 adult members of the choir, was personal delegate of his brother, the King.

Warns Labor Of Bigness

PITTSBURGH—A district steel conference here was told that bigness in the labor movement could prove a mixed blessing.

The assertion was made by Auxiliary Bishop Coleman F. Carroll, who cautioned that the most pressing problem facing labor is that the individual worker will get lost in the shuffle of the large organization.

"BIGNESS, whether in business or in labor, almost inevitably generates its own distinctive problems and its own peculiar temptations," he said. There is always the danger, he said, "that even the best of union officials will unconsciously tend to lose contact with their members and ultimately come to look upon the union as their personal property."

For this reason, he said, more and more attention must be given to the local union, "the basic unit of the labor movement and the ultimate source of its power and influence, either for good or evil."

Communion Breakfasts

Telephone Workers, Hudson County

HOBOKEN — The second annual Communion breakfast of Hudson County Catholic telephone employees will be held May 4 at the Union Club after 8 a.m. Mass in Our Lady of Grace Church.

Auxiliary Bishop Walter W. Curtis will celebrate the Mass and address the group. Speaker at the breakfast will be former Judge John A. Matthews. Thomas Barrett is chairman. Rev. James O. Sheerin of St. Patrick's, Jersey City, is moderator.

Telephone Workers, Bergen County

HACKENSACK—Msgr. John J. Dougherty of Immaculate Conception Seminary, Darlington, will be guest speaker at the third annual Communion breakfast of the Bergen County Catholic Telephone employees, May 4, at the Suburban Restaurant, Paramus. Rev. William Noe Field of Seton Hall University will be toastmaster.

Mrs. Emma Barranco of Maywood, general chairman, said 400 are expected to attend.

Pray for Them

Mary G. McManus

ELIZABETH — Sister of Msgr. John H. McManus, pastor, St. Genevieve's Church, Mary G. McManus, 115 Monmouth Road, died Apr. 29. A Requiem Mass for the repose of her soul was offered May 2, in St. Genevieve's.

Organist at the church and a member of the Rosary Society, Miss McManus is also survived by three sisters.

Leo A. Boll

PATERSON—A Requiem Mass for Leo A. Boll, 290 E. 19th St., was offered Apr. 26 in Our Lady of Victories Church here. He died Apr. 24.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Bertha Keller Boll, a son, a daughter, two brothers and two sisters including Sister M. Rose Ursula, O. P., St. Paul's Convent, Jersey City.

'Postmarks' Topic At Benedict's Meet

NEWARK — "Postmarks on the Land" will be the topic of William E. Caffrey Sr. as he addresses the Alumni of St. Benedict's Prep at their meeting May 6 at the school. Caffrey, a Benedict's grad and a native of Newark, is a collector of unusual postmarks.

The meeting will begin at 8:15 p.m. Plans for the Spring golf tournament will be completed.

Knights of Columbus

General Motors Branch, Anchor Club

The fifth annual Communion breakfast will be held May 4 in St. Theresa's parish hall, Linden, after 8:15 a.m. Mass. Speakers will be Rev. John O'Brien, Seton Hall University, and Edward J. Patten, N. J. secretary of state. Lloyd Donley is chairman and Eugene Kelly, toastmaster.

N. J. Railroad Anchor Club — This club will sponsor a Holy Hour 8 p.m., May 4, at Assumption of the Blessed Mary Church, Jersey City. It will be conducted by Rev. Michael Hornak, chaplain of New Jersey Anchor Clubs. Members of state Anchor Clubs will attend with their families.

Greenville Council, Jersey City — The second annual charity ball will be held May 3 at Jersey City Gardens for the benefit of St. Ann's Home for the Aged. Conducted by the Sisters of Providence, the Home was founded in Jersey City in August, 1911. The immediate pressing need is a new kitchen. John Yacarine is general chairman.

Regina Council, Rutherford — The annual Communion breakfast will be held May 4 in St. Mary's School. Speaker will be Guy Calissi, Bergen County Prosecutor.

Present Lourdes Play

BROOKLYN — In commemoration of the centennial of Our Lady of Lourdes, the Madonna Players will present a special dramatic production of Franz Werfel's "Song of Bernadette," May 17 at the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

Heading the cast of 35 is Maria Iannella, recently awarded the Italian critics award for "the best interpretation of Bernadette by an American actress."

Playing the role of Mother Vauzons will be Mary Eunice Sayrader, director of Mary Productions of Belford, N.J., formerly of Dumont. Performances begin at 8 p.m.

Decency Directors Planning Activities

NEWARK — Priest-directors of the Newark Archdiocesan decency campaign met Monday to plan activities in the 11 districts of Essex, Bergen, Hudson and Union counties. The Archdiocesan Office for Decent Literature distributed 1,500 posters to advertise its telephone service for Legion of Decency movie ratings, and plans were begun for a uniform seal to be given to the cooperating merchants throughout the Archdiocese.

Rev. Aloysius S. Carney, archdiocesan director, presided, assisted by Rev. Paul J. Hayes. The posters, informing Catholics that Legion of Decency movie ratings may be obtained at MA 3-5700 daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., will be posted in churches and schools. An additional 1,500 are being distributed by mail.

The seal, to be awarded to proprietors of stationery and book stores who cooperate with the campaign against salacious literature, is currently under study. Some individual counties are using seals of their own for the purpose, but it was suggested that a uniform emblem to be used throughout the Archdiocese would be more useful.

"FORTY YEARS A' GROWIN'..."
Is the story of St. Mary's in Ernakulam (South India). "These have been years of great progress," reports Archbishop Mar Gregorios. "We have here now," he wrote us recently, "a high school for 1,300 pupils; two houses for 80 working girls; an orphanage to care for 52 children. And all this has been made possible by the sacrifices of more than 50 devoted nuns who live and work here." This is indeed an impressive record. We are proud to salute the Archbishop and the Sisters on this magnificent achievement. At the present moment, however, there is a pressing need for a chapel so that Our Lord may live among these souls who are so dear to him. The total cost will be $3,000. Can you help us raise this amount to help these zealous women who have labored so long for the Church of Christ and with such success!
HAVE YOU THOUGHT OF JOINING A MISSION CLUB... THE DUES ARE PRAYERS FOR THE MISSIONS AND ONE DOLLAR A MONTH
THE FAMILIES OF EFREM AND MICHAEL ARE VERY POOR, but they are willing to give their sons to the Church to follow the vocation God has given them. They can give their sons and nothing more. Each boy will need a sponsor who will pay $100 a year for six years to cover necessary seminary expenses. These families are anxious to have their sons ordained priests — the boys are waiting to enter the Chaldean Patriarchal Seminary in Iraq — are you willing to match their desire to serve God? You may adopt one of these girls and pay the money in any manner convenient while your "adopted son" prepares himself for the altar.

SISTER AMBROSE AND SISTER ALEXANDRA are waiting patiently to begin a life of continuing service to the poor of Christ in India. Their families cannot help them further... each Sister must have a benefactor who will pay $300 to cover the necessary expenses of the two year period of novitiate training. Would you like to have a "nun in the family"? You may adopt one of these girls and pay the money in any manner convenient while your "adopted daughter" prepares for her life of service to the wounded members of the Mystical Body.
YOUR GOOD WORKS WILL LIVE AFTER YOU IF YOU MENTION THE HOLY FATHER'S NEAR EAST MISSIONS IN YOUR WILL

THE TEARS OF A CHILD are hard to resist! Yet Father King must tell so many of the refugee children that he simply cannot give them a new suit or new dresses for First Communion Day. Won't you help him to add to the joy of First Communion Day? $10 will bring the luxury of a new outfit to a refugee child. The prayers of children will bring you many blessings!

A DAY TO REMEMBER... this certainly describes Mother's Day. This year why not donate an article to a mission chapel for her intention or in her memory? If she is still with you we will send our newly designed gift card anywhere to tell her of your sacrifice and we will include PRESSED FLOWERS OF THE HOLY LAND
