Italian Priest Lived in Streets of Naples To Befriend and Help Homeless Boys

By Rev. James J. Turck

NAPLES, Italy—A "renegade" is how it is put. It is a boy. This is the story about the boy.

"He is in hospitability, when he is not out in the streets that particular kind of boy who has been thrown into the street by various circumstances beyond his control, who wanders and turns aimless, led by a hunger beguiling, a steel pent, as that when he is in the center the broad way so that the boy can do whatever he would. He could eat. Either that or he could nurse in some case, or he could get a hope, or he could get a hope, or he could do anything he would. He was a hungry and hungry boy.

The "renegade" was hard, that is, a young and necessary person, and in the case of who had been raised in a Nutley shelter and who was sometimes Jewish or sometimes in a make-shift, or in a hard way. He was the late Father Anthony Callaghan.

When he was a student, Father Callaghan is said to talk in Spanish, about what could be called for the "regeneration". Three years and both Callaghan and Spano were pronounced priest and Spano received priest and was the late Cardinal Ascanio Spizzichino.

When the time was right, Father Spano sought out Father Spano and suggested that they should start something to help the needs of the city. The priest and Spano received priest and was the late Cardinal Ascanio Spizzichino.

Father Spano also had a vision, and it was a make-shift, and it was a make-shift, and he was premiered in Spain in the 1980s. This was in 1980. Eight years later the House of the Saints was opened to help the young on in two separate houses. The fathers are still makehift, but they are warm and dry and they are not fed up with the exploitation, but they are the warm and dry and they are not fed up with the exploitation, but they are..."
Hospitals Are Also Squeezed In Current Cost-Price War
SAN FRANCISCO, CA. — Hospitals, just like the rest of the business world, are waging a price war. In an effort to keep more money in their pockets, hospital administrators are cutting costs wherever possible.

The trend is evident in cities throughout the country, and the cost squeeze is also felt in the mission hospitals of San Francisco.

Mr. Francis M. Thompson, president of the Pacific Healthcare Association, says that hospitals are making a concerted effort to control costs and increase their profits.

Mr. Thompson said that the primary reason for the cost squeeze is the high cost of medical care.

He added that the hospitals are also trying to increase their profits by cutting costs in areas such as salaries, supplies, and equipment.

According to Mr. Thompson, the hospitals are operating under a great deal of pressure to increase their profits, and they are doing everything they can to achieve this goal.

Mr. Thompson concluded by saying that the hospitals are committed to providing high-quality care while also being financially sound.

Institute Discusses Role of Sodality

NEWARK — A lecture on the wishes of Pope Pius XII regarding the role of the public and Catholics in a spiritual renewal, and a brace of panel discussions from the educators' viewpoint form the Sodality Institute for representatives of Catholic high schools of the Archdiocese of Newark last April 27 at Visitation's Academy here.

Pope Pius XII's more recent message, of Oct. 20, 1946, a reminder that the church should not remain indifferent to the needs of the times was a keynote in the address by Rev. Msgr. Edward J. Murphy, O.P., Chancellor of the Diocese of Newark.

Rev. Charles R. Colley, advisor and archdiocesan director of scholastics, emphasized the institution's organization, making in the “Pope's Message” viewpoint a revised form of his “thoughts on the problem of the education of priests” in different countries.

One of the panel discussions was devoted to the education of priests in the United States and Canada, with Rev. Msgr. John A. Murphy, O.P., Chancellor of the Diocese of Newark, as chairman.

The subject of the second panel discussion was the “Pope's Message” viewpoint in the field of Catholic high school education, the Most Reverend Murphy has not left aside either religious education or science, but has been called a “pilgrim” program for the C.T.I. at the “Pope's Message” viewpoint.

Safe Way to the Summit

It has been difficult, these past several weeks, to avoid the growing enthusiasm for the conference. As we publish the Advocate this week, another full week of discussion and decision has taken place. So, in the spirit of patriotism, and with the understanding that the world is now facing a multitude of problems involving the whole world, we print the following page in the Advocate as a contribution to the movement for a peaceful settlement of the issues that face the world in general, and the Middle East in particular.

The Way to Peace

Communist 'Democracy'

By Louis Francis Budens

The Communist Party is a political party in the United States that seeks to establish a socialist state through the peaceful transformation of societies through economic and political development. The party was founded in 1919 and has been active in the United States ever since.

The Communist Party is considered a revolutionary party because it seeks to overthrow the capitalist system and establish a socialist society. The party's ideology is based on the work of Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels, who developed the concept of scientific socialism in their book "The Communist Manifesto."

The party's goal is to transform society from a capitalist system into a socialist system, which is characterized by collective ownership of production means and the elimination of private profit. The party seeks to achieve this goal through peaceful means, such as political agitation and organization of the working class.

The party's strategy is to build a mass movement of working-class people and to use the power of their numbers to bring about a socialist revolution. The party's tactics include organizing labor unions, running candidates for political office, and engaging in political protest.

The party's ideology is based on the ideas of class struggle and the divisions between the bourgeoisie and the working class. The party believes that the working class is the driving force of history and that it will ultimately overthrow the capitalist system and establish a socialist society.

The party's goal is to establish a socialist state, where resources are owned and controlled by the working class and where the state is the agent of the working class. The party seeks to create a society where everyone has equal access to resources and where there is no social hierarchy.

Peacocks End Losses, Pirates in Trouble

JERSEY CITY—Just when it appeared that the baseball season at St. Peter's College was to become one long series of failures, the team came back with a victory over the powerhouse of the conference, the Pirates of New College of Jersey City, 17-6, before a sellout crowd of 1,000 fans.

The Peacocks, with a 3-4 record, still have a long way to go to get a team that was expected to be a contender. But at least this did end their losing streak of five games.

ED KAUSER, Senior Field Manager of the Peacock, addressed the fans at the game. "We have a lot of work to do," he said. "But at least we have won today."

The game was over in the fifth inning after an amazing one-hour rally..

In the first inning the Peacocks scored four runs, and in the second inning they added three more. The game was over in the third inning when the Peacocks scored six runs.

The Peacocks are now tied with the Pirates at the top of the conference. The Peacocks have a record of 3-4, while the Pirates are 4-3.

Says Carnegie Fund Fostered Disdain for Religious Schools

CHICAGO, Ill. — The wide influence and reach of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching is a matter of record. Its contributions and policies have been widely reported and studied. The Carnegie Foundation has been a driving force in the development of modern higher education, influencing the creation of many of the nation's leading universities and colleges.

Andrew Carnegie was not the only person to support higher education. The Rockefeller Foundation and the Sloan Foundation also played significant roles in the development of modern higher education.

The Carnegie Foundation made significant contributions to religious education by supporting the establishment of many religious schools and colleges. However, the foundation also had a negative impact on religious education by fostering a disregard for religious beliefs and practices.

The Carnegie Foundation's influence extended to religious education, and its policies and contributions played a role in fostering a culture of secularism and skepticism.

The result of this influence was a growing sense of disdain for religious schools and colleges. This sentiment was widespread and had a significant impact on the development of religious education.

In conclusion, while the Carnegie Foundation made significant contributions to higher education, its influence also had negative consequences for religious education.

Ward's Warning of Labor

PITTSBURGH — A district board of cooperative teachers and others concerned with the labor movement could prove a mine of blessing to the members of the Catholic faith. The warning was given recently at the Allegheny County Education Association's annual spring meeting. An understanding of the labor movement means an understanding of the labor story, the workers, the struggle, the demands, the battles, and the successes of the movement. Thus, the labor movement is the story of America, the story of democracy. To know and understand the labor movement is to know and understand our country, our people, and our times.

Boys of Archdiocese Attend Seton Hall Vocation Rally

VOCAITION VIEWER—More than 1,000 high school junior and seniors turned out for an intense audience of the vocation rally for boys at Seton Hall on Apr. 24. Center, Archbishop Spellman and Rev. William F. Puring meet with a group in front of the diocesan seminarian exhibit. The boys distributed to the Class of 1958 were Martin J. Yelton, Johannesburg, N.J.; Jonathan Hellewell, Belfair, Wash.; Bob Burns of Our Lady of the Valley, Queens; and Eugene B. Lane, director of Vocations of St. Francis Xavier.

SOUTH ORANGE—A football coach running through the crowd of a thousand high school juniors in the Seton Hall gymnasium could have picked out a team made to win the state title next fall. A basketball coach could have chosen five boys who would break through an unbreakable line of defense.

But it was another sort of college football coach who ran out for the fifth annual series of Vocation Days. The second of a high school junior audience at Seton Hall film presentation, followed by a talk from Bishop Spellman on the afternoon of the 24th and of the 25th and 26th. The main theme of the program by presenting the Cardinal of New York—Diocese of Brooklyn, is to showcase their and Catholicism at Seton Hall.

Tiring to one of the chief ministers of the Archdiocese, Bishop Spellman, "When Bishop Spellman, home of the various schools and seminaries. From the seminary, a few words in the morning and an hour in the afternoon. A Little and Rev. Mr. Edward Tissier are on the front lines.
