Consistory Casts Vote
On 2 Canonizations

VATICAN CITY (NC)—A formal vote on whether the Church should proceed with the canonization of two Blessed persons died in 1958—Rev. Msgr. John J. Dougherty, of New Jersey, and Rev. Msgr. John J. O'Sullivan, of New York—was held by the 14-member 'Bishops' Commission for Provisions of the Holy See on June 8, the third session of the conclave. All voting bishops agreed that the Church should proceed with the canonization of both Blessed persons. The votes were cast by the 14 members of the bishops' commission in accordance with the Church's canons. The process of canonization involves a formal vote by the Church to recognize the holiness of the deceased. After the formal vote is completed, the canonization process continues with further proceedings before the Pope and the Church. In this case, the votes were cast by the 14 voting bishops, and it is expected that the Pope will be consulted on the matter.

THE COURT rules apparently against the Florida church that fought by Harry B. Freeman, a former priest of the Church of the Holy Cross, that the church's church order was not violated by the ex-priest. The church had charged that the priest had not been properly supervised by the church and that he had behaved in a manner that was contrary to the church's conduct. The court ruled that the church had not established a prima facie case to support its claims and that the priest had not been improperly supervised.

Court Voids Pact On Child's Religion

CLEVELAND (NC)—Agreements between the partners in a mixed marriage that their children shall be raised as Catholics are "void and unconscionable," the Ohio Court of Appeals has ruled.

"The first choice of religious practices cannot be contracting notoriety the child's parents, according to the court.

In question was a dispute between the parents over the secular education of their children. The parents had agreed to provide a religious education for their children, and the court upheld the agreement.

The father appealed to the court, who reversed the decision and ordered the children to be raised as Catholics.

The court ruled that the parents had no right to force the children to be raised as Catholics, and that the agreement was "void and unconscionable."
North's Racial Bias Seen Deep Rooted

BRISTOL - It will be more difficult to eliminate racial discrimination in the North than racial segregation in the South, according to Dr. W. E. B. Du Bois, director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith in the New World.

Dr. Du Bois, who is on a speaking tour in England, said that the North, which has a large black population, is trying to overcome the effects of centuries of discrimination against Negroes. He said that the South, which has a small black population, is trying to overcome the effects of decades of segregation.

Graduates into Orbit

The comings, the goings, the speed tangents of all of Space on graduation found a new home in the orbit of the American satellite. The first real step toward the conquest of space, for the first time in history, is here. It is as if the world has been turned upside down. Yet the whole of it is not yet. It is a triumph of the human spirit. The pioneers of this new age are the men who have taken the first step toward a new kind of living.

To Dad (Pop, Papa)

Call him what you will, our candidate for all future men in this world is Dad, the one who has always been there for us, who has always been there for our families. He is the one who has always been there for our churches.

The Masculine Female

In the Church today is a lettered drop of the masculine, the feminine, the male, the female. We have heard sermons on the significance of the name of the human race. We have heard sermons on the importance of the human race. We have heard sermons on the importance of the human race. We have heard sermons on the importance of the human race.

The trouble with a man is, he is not only a product of the idea of the human race, but he is also a product of the idea of the human race.

In this world today, there are two types of people. There are those who are primarily interested in the human race, and there are those who are primarily interested in the human race.

If one man can do it all, why can't another man do it all? Why can't another man do it all? Why can't another man do it all? Why can't another man do it all? Why can't another man do it all? Why can't another man do it all?

No Place for Nationalism in Missionary Endeavor

To be Catholic means to be universal, and, therefore, multi-ethnic. The center of Catholicism is the Church, and the Church of the United States, which is the principal support of the Catholic Church in the world. Furthermore, the Church has no parishes, as do other religious groups, and no separate organizations for each racial or religious group. It is, therefore, impossible to avoid such nationalisms and to organize such movements, and the mission of the Church.

Mission Appeal Is Needed

Missionaries need funds. They need money, not only for the Propagation of the Faith, but also for their own support. The Church, being a universal church, has no state support. It is, therefore, the duty of the faithful to support the missionaries.

Open Door—InS harmo oc vaal.

By Floyd Anderson

AMSTERDAM.—One of the great advantages of the summer is that it brings the world closer together; we have the opportunity of seeing what Catholics in other countries are doing for the Faith, and learning from their art and their experiences.

Amsterdam is a prime example of this. When you go to the other Catholic Information Centers in Amsterdam and many others in various cities of the Netherlands, as well as in other countries, you often find yourself in the midst of a colorful, friendly world of faith.

A MOST INTERESTING part of nationals to the Catholic Church. The Open Door, a state-run mission center, where Catholicism is made available to the public.

The Open Door began during the war as the result of the initiative of the Missionaries of the Holy Family who had been active in the country since 1866. After the Nazi occupation, the center was converted into a school for children of the German soldiers stationed in the area.

The center was closed after the war, but reopened in 1946 under the direction of Father W. B. H. W. Boon, a Catholic priest from Amsterdam. The center continues to serve as a place for the propagation of the Faith.

When one enters the Open Door, one finds himself in a most charming atmosphere. There are tables and chairs set up for meetings, and a small shop where Catholic literature and articles are sold.

The center is open every day, and welcome to all who wish to learn more about the faith.

Lives of the Saints

Patron of Converts

The story of Saul's conversion is one of the most well-known in the New Testament. Saul, also known as Paul, was a devout Jew who persecuted early Christians. He was traveling on a road to Damascus when he was blinded by a vision of the risen Christ. Saul repented of his ways and became a devoted follower of Jesus, spreading the gospel and establishing churches. He is now known as the Apostle to the Gentiles. Saul's conversion not only saved his own soul but also opened the way for the spread of Christianity to non-Jewish people, laying the foundation for the Church as we know it today.
