Catholics Doctors Staff Booth
To Explain Church Viewpoint

By Jim Kelly

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Catholic Action has fixed its way into the convention of the American Medical Association, which is in progress here. The "Catholic doctors toast booth" was a small booth with the sign in red behind a large glass window, and behind the window was a group of six or seven medical men. The booth was staffed by doctors from the nation's medical schools, and the doctors were there to explain the church's view of the medical profession.

In five days visits to hospitals and medical school by groups requesting discussion and contact with Catholic doctors. The booths were set up in the Colorado Springs, Colorado, and were staffed by doctors from the nation's medical schools.

Catholic members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People have joined the National Catholic Conference for an all-black NAACP branch in Washington, D.C.

Catholic officials have said the establishment of the branch was the result of a long-standing effort to increase the participation of African Americans in the NAACP, which was founded in 1909.

The new branch will be led by a local NAACP chapter and will work to address issues affecting African Americans, including education, employment, and housing.

Catholic NAACP branches have been established in other cities, including New York and Los Angeles, in recent years.

The establishment of the branch in Washington, D.C., marks a significant milestone in the ongoing effort to diversify the NAACP and ensure that the organization's programs and activities are truly representative of the diverse communities it serves.

The Catholic NAACP branch in Washington, D.C., will work in conjunction with the national NAACP to promote equality and justice for all people, regardless of race or ethnicity.
Indonesian Bishop Says Church Must Help Asian Progress

SEMARANG, Indonesia (NC)—In a speech at the university here, Bishop Albertus Wijaya of the Roman Catholic Church here declared that the Church must help the development of the peoples of Asia and Africa and face the problems of the new age "in the same way that the American Church helps the American Negro in this country."

The Bishop said that many people "are too narrow" in their thinking about Indonesia. "The issue of the Church in Indonesia is more than a simple matter of church tendrá will. It is a matter of how the Church will serve and contribute to the development of the Asian peoples," he said. The Bishop was speaking to a conference of 400 scholars and educators in the Netherlands, who were meeting here to study the problems of Indonesian education.

The Bishop said that there is "enough room" for the Church in Indonesia. "The nation is divided into four sections: Java, Sumatra, Madura, and the rest of the islands. The Church can only work in one section at a time," he said. "I am not sure whether the Church can work in each section to the extent that it can do in some European countries."

"Most of the students are cidade as the Church. I talk to the Church about it," he said. "The Church should be on the alert to cooperate with the state in the future." He said that a Church should be able to "bear the sword" and "defend the faith." He said that the Church should be on the alert to cooperate with the state in the future.

PARIS — The father's role in the home is vital, and when the placement bears a natural pattern in and family, the child's behavior is difficult to outgrow—a tendency to "disintegration and ultimate exhaustion."*

Dr. Robert J. Oron, of the Washington, D.C., panel, president of the Child Study of the United States, apparently a World Family Co. member of the International Union of Family Organizations.

The father, in his role of "leader" and "patterns," sets a model for the child to follow. He should encourage the child's interest in the world, and in his own personal life, to make sure that the child's natural, healthy interests are not overshadowed by an unhealthy pattern of behavior.

Dr. Oron also emphasizes the importance of the father's role in the home. He states that the father's role in the home is not only an emotional one, but also a educational one. The father should be a role model for his child, teaching him about the world and how to handle it.

The importance of the father's role in the home is also emphasized by Dr. Pius XII, who noted that the father's role in the home is not only a moral one, but also a social one. He stated that the father should be a how to handle it.

Price-Wage Stability Is Worker Concern

By Mgr. George C. Higgins

Director, Social Action Department, N.C.W.C.

How much do Americans worry about wages and prices? If you were to ask most Americans whether they worry about wages and prices, they would probably reply that they do not. However, if you asked them what they worry about, it is possible that wages and prices would rank high on their list.

Wages are a major concern for most workers. They worry about them because they understand their importance in determining their standard of living. They worry about them because they are aware of the fact that a rise in prices in one area of the economy can mean a decrease in the purchasing power of their wages in another.

More than 80 per cent of the families in the United States earn less than $5000 a year. They are at the mercy of the economy, and they worry about their wages and prices because they are so dependent on them.

Workers have a right to be concerned about wages and prices. They have a right to expect that their wages and prices will be stable. They have a right to expect that their wages and prices will be fair.

Let us not minimize the importance of wages and prices to American workers. They are a source of concern to workers everywhere. They are a source of concern to workers in every country in the world.

The American worker has a right to be concerned about wages and prices. He has a right to expect that his wages and prices will be stable. He has a right to expect that his wages and prices will be fair.

Let us work together to make sure that wages and prices are stable. Let us work together to make sure that wages and prices are fair.

God Love You

The Meaning Of 'Catholic'

By Bishop Patrick J. Brennan

Being "Catholic" means having a unique relationship to Christ. It means that we should not only believe in Him, but also be committed to Him in our daily lives. It means that we should not only know Him, but also love Him and serve Him.

The word "Catholic" comes from the Greek word "katholikos," which means "universal." It was used in the early Church to describe the faith that all Christians shared.

The Catholic Church is the universal Church, the Church of all the faithful, the Church of all ages. It is the Church of the world, the Church of the ages. It is the Church of all peoples, the Church of all nations.

The Catholic Church is the Church of the whole world. It is the Church of all the faithful. It is the Church of all ages. It is the Church of all peoples. It is the Church of all nations.

The Catholic Church is the Church of the whole world. It is the Church of all the faithful. It is the Church of all ages. It is the Church of all peoples. It is the Church of all nations.

Let us all work together to make sure that wages and prices are stable. Let us all work together to make sure that wages and prices are fair.

Teenagers Ask, 'Is It Wrong To Drink Liquor at a Party?'

By Rev. John L. Thomas, S.J.

Assistant Director of Guidance, Providence College

What do you think about drinking in mixed company among teenagers? How old should you be before you can drink at a party? What should you do if you are invited to a party where liquor is served and taken by nearly all of you? When I was a teenager, I often attended parties where liquor was served. I learned that it is wrong to drink at a party without the approval of the host.

You have two problems, Justin: one is the problem of what young people are doing; the other is the problem of what you should do about it. The first problem is the problem of what young people are doing. The second problem is the problem of what you should do about it.

Director of Nursing School Was Missionary in China

By Jane Dwyer

MONTCLAIR — Sister Beata Marie, new director of the School of Practical Nursing at St. Vincent's Hospital here, believes that "no experience is too lost." A Teacher nurse, and former cotton missionary in World War II, Sister Beata has the earliest experience to back up that claimment.

It was before her entrance into the Congregation of Charity that Sister Beata Marie was educated, helping her private school to both boys and girls in the New York Archdiocesan School.

After her profession as a Sister, Father H. A. Maloney, superior of the school, suggested that she begin her missionary work in China, in the midst of her career as a nurse.

"I can imagine," he said, "that if I had a secondary mission, I would choose Beata's. I have a special feeling for the Chinese.

"I have heard that China has made an enormous progress in the last thirty years. We were in shape in charge of the operating room. This mouse operation was performed in the hospital of St. Mary's Hospital, Paris, France, and was entitled to a position as director of the operating room of the Protestant Nursing School in St. Louis.

Sister Beata Marie had an experience in the 1893 Lisbon cholera epidemic which had her entire hospital staff at work, including those not trained in the operation.

\"The trip proved to be a business.

The great number of patients and the speed of the city's movement were just as high as the nurse's heart. The nurse's heart was just as high as the nurse's heart.

World’s Fair Contest Brings 337 Junior Entries

By Jane Dyer

What a wonderful week to announce our Young Advocate contest winners. At this very moment the Queens are carrying the prizes to the Children’s World’s Fair in France to be presented there. And too it goes to,

And the members in the Young Advocate Club are looking forward impatiently to their trip. Fair, Fair, Fair, the opening chorus is heard again and again. Do you wonder why? It’s because of the prizes. There are no prizes for the winners of the contest, only the least trouble-some behind the scenes are honored. The prizes are for the winners of the contest. And who are the winners?

American Art School Celebrates 10th Anniversary in Florence

By Rev. James J. Turk

FLORENCE, Italy (MC) — Students returned recently to the Florence XIII Institutes of Villa Stafa, where they have lived in the heart of Italy and studied at the Florence Institute of Art for the past two months. The 16th annual year of the Institute was opened with a special breakfast on the campus of the university.

The breakfast was attended by the distinguished guests of the Italy American exhibitor by way of the country's cultural heritage. The exhibition was held at the University of Florence, where the students were presented with an exhibition of the arts of the 16th century. The exhibition was opened with a special breakfast on the campus of the university.

The breakfast was attended by the distinguished guests of the Institute, including the students of the Institute, the faculty of the university, and the mayor of the city of Florence. The breakfast was followed by a special lecture by the Institute's director, Dr. James J. Turk, who spoke about the history and the significance of the Institute's work.

The Institute's work is to provide a unique opportunity for students to study and appreciate the arts of the 16th century. The Institute's mission is to promote the study of the arts of the 16th century and to encourage the appreciation of the arts of the 16th century among students and the general public.

The Institute's activities include a special international program, which is designed to provide students with a unique opportunity to study and appreciate the arts of the 16th century. The program includes a special trip to the city of Florence, where the students will have the opportunity to study and appreciate the arts of the 16th century.

The Institute's work is to provide a unique opportunity for students to study and appreciate the arts of the 16th century. Croal, Clark, Kopsah Named Again

On All-Paterson Baseball Team

By RE Gehret

PATerson — With exactly the same outfit as held forth a year ago, The Advocate All-Paterson Baseball Team is a direct result of another year's balloting among the alumni of the two largest baseball-playing schools in the area.

Bill Delcur and Mike Kopsah of Bayley-Ellard are the goalkeeper and the star pitcher for the team. The former is a senior at Bayley-Ellard, the latter a junior. Both are owned by Squire.

Rice Tientsen, owner of the Paterson Plateau, was a returning member of the team. He is a junior at Bayley-Ellard as well. Rice Tientsen also owns a baseball team, the Paterson Plateau.

Peterson, the choice from Seton Hall University, is the owner of the plateau. He is a junior at Seton Hall and has been a returning member of the team for the past two years.

Jim Zipp, owner of the Paterson Plateau, is a junior at Seton Hall University. He is the other returning member of the team. Jim Zipp is a returning member of the team for the past two years.

Porters’ Receive Minor Orders But Don’t Intend to Be Priests

ROBERT J. NOVICK (NJ) - This was the opinion of the members of the group of porters who were present at the recent installation of minor orders for the three men at St. Mary’s. The men who were ordained were: William G. Gruhn, John J. Leary and Eugene D. Mulcahy.

The men said that they were pleased with the appointment but that they did not feel called to the priesthood. They said that they would continue to serve in the capacities in which they were employed.

The men were installed as minor orders on September 15, 1966, at a ceremony conducted by the Rev. John J. Walsh, pastor of St. Mary’s. The ceremony was attended by a large number of people, including the Rev. John J. Walsh, pastor of St. Mary’s.

African Pilgrims Flocking to Spot Where Converts Died at Stake

By Rev. Patrick O'Connor

The Rev. Patrick O'Connor, parish priest of Tuckerton, explained that hundreds of converts, including his predecessor, were beheaded by the Turks in the 16th century.

The mission of the Converts, led by Father Joseph, was to spread the Gospel among the African tribes in the region.

One of the converts, a young African named Joseph Mwanga, had been captured by the Turks and was held for ransom.

After several years of captivity, Joseph Mwanga was presented to Francis Drake, the English explorer, who was impressed by his piety.

Drake offered to free him if he could come to Tuckerton to convert the Turks.

The young African, who had already received the name Francis Xavlar, agreed to the proposal and returned to Tuckerton.

In 1583, he was beatified by Pope Gregory XIII and his body was brought to the Church of the Holy Name in Tuckerton.

The pilgrimage to Tuckerton, which is still celebrated today, is a popular event among Catholics.

Some highlights of the pilgrimage include:

1. Procession with the statue of Joseph Mwanga
2. Mass celebrated in the open air
3. Pilgrims gathered around the statue
4. Music and dancing

The pilgrimage is a reminder of the sacrifice and dedication of these early converts.

The converts, who were known as the African Martyrs, were beatified by Pope Paul VI in 1962 and their feast day is celebrated on September 16th.

The pilgrimage is a fitting tribute to their courage and faith.

To learn more about the pilgrimage and the African Martyrs, visit the Tuckerton parish website or contact the parish office.
Newark People to Demonstrate Methods of Teaching Religion

BISHOP - Newark, N.J. (AP) - The diocesan education office of the Catholic Diocese of Newark will sponsor a demonstration of methods of teaching religion to children at Holy Family School, 212 4th St., Newark, from 2 to 3 p.m. today.

The demonstration will be conducted by Father Albert J. Martas, pastor of the church, and will include a variety of activities designed to show how children can be taught about religion in a fun and engaging way.

Business Interests

Vulnerizing Lourdes

LOURDES, France - Sale of religiouspron in isn't possible to the American scene and it's possible the "art" may have reacted to push here.

Illustrations of the Virgin appearing to St. Bernadette are being used to decorate every possible type of object as a "commercial" in the hope of making the sale of religiouspron in this country.

BISHOP TEE is ecstatically impressed concerning the number of immigrant voters, and the year of the religiouspron in this country and the number of "foreign objects" put up to the American public with the idea of being bought by them and sold to the profit of the various religiouspron.

The FRENCH hierarchy is deeply concerned over the commercialization of the famous household. This development has led to the formation of a committee to bring the situation to the attention of the Holy See.

The wary and possibly the most ardent of all is the Bishop of Lourdes, who has long been in the forefront of the battle to keep the sale of religiouspron in the country.

Cardinal's Hat

Put in Place

WASHINGTON (AP) - The last Red Hat of the late cardinal's outfit was placed in the oval of the White House yesterday, to hang until it is displayed.

This traditional greeting was received with great ceremony, and the president of the United States was there to mark the occasion.

Since we first announced that starting Monday, June 28, 25 County Bank and Passaic-Clifton National would combine operations as New Jersey Bank, we've been besieged by questions from our friends and customers.

"We couldn't find a hall big enough to hold all of the folks who have asked us interested questions. And in order to cover the wide variety of subjects, we would have to write a book. So we did just that — and your copy is waiting for you at any of the 15 convenient offices of New Jersey Bank. Stop in and pick it up this week."

Public Press Conference

Participating: Mr. C. Kenneth Fuller and Mr. John C. Barbour, Chairman of the Board of Directors, respectively, of New Jersey Bank.
