Governors Million-Member Army
By James C. Caffrey
VATICAN CITY (CNS) — Members of the Church's religious orders are specialists in a world where the demands for services are constantly changing.

To govern this army of 1,000,000 dedicated men and women, there are now more than 1,000 different orders and congregations throughout the world. The Sacred Congregation of Religious, established by Pope Pius XI in 1925, is responsible for their direction.

The Congregation is divided into five sections, each named after one of the five wounds of Jesus. Each section is headed by a governor-general who is responsible for the religious in his section. The governors-general are assisted by an executive board, whose members are appointed by the pope.

The Congregation also has a secretariat, which is responsible for the organization and administration of the religious orders. The secretariat is headed by a secretary-general, who is also appointed by the pope.

The Congregation was established to ensure that the religious orders are functioning effectively and efficiently. It also has the authority to discipline the religious who are not fulfilling their duties.

The Congregation has been effective in its work. It has helped to improve the living conditions of the religious, and it has also helped to increase the number of religious.

While the Congregation has been successful, it has also been criticized. Some people feel that it is too powerful, and that it is using its power to control the religious orders.

Nevertheless, the Congregation remains an important part of the Church. It is responsible for the governance of a large number of religious orders and congregations, and it plays an important role in the Church's mission of spreading the Gospel.

Segregation in New Jersey?

When the School Board of Trenton, in pursuance of an order made earlier this spring by the Federal Government, ordered the closing of certain colored schools, it was made known, when the order was issued, that the Board would appeal the decision of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. They had previously made a similar appeal against the closing of the colored schools in Trenton.

As a result of this appeal, it is now revealed that the Board has decided to appeal the decision of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The Board has also decided to appeal the decision of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy has made it clear that it will not withdraw its appeal unless the Board of Education in Trenton, in accordance with the decision of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, is willing to accept the decision of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The Board of Education in Trenton has also made it clear that it will not accept the decision of the United Daughters of the Confederacy unless the Board of Education in Trenton is willing to accept the decision of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

If the Board of Education in Trenton is willing to accept the decision of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, then the Board of Education in Trenton will be able to carry out its policy with regard to the colored schools in Trenton.

If the Board of Education in Trenton is not willing to accept the decision of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, then the Board of Education in Trenton will be unable to carry out its policy with regard to the colored schools in Trenton.

The Sacraments' Minister

By Msgr. George W. Shea, S.T.D.

Pope Pius XI has never been so far in the history of the Church.

The Sacraments in the Church are the means by which Christ has promised to give us life and salvation. They are the means by which we receive the grace of the Holy Spirit, and are therefore the means by which we are able to live the life of Christ.

The Sacraments are the means by which we are able to live the life of Christ. They are the means by which we are able to live the life of Christ. They are the means by which we are able to live the life of Christ. They are the means by which we are able to live the life of Christ.

The Sacraments are the means by which we are able to live the life of Christ. They are the means by which we are able to live the life of Christ. They are the means by which we are able to live the life of Christ. They are the means by which we are able to live the life of Christ.

Golf Once Played Second Fiddle to Baseball, Football for Stan Mosel

CALDWELL — It's a Big D," Stan Mosel just said, and it's not big enough for him to make the title he desires. "A lot of people," he answered, "are going to say it's a big enough league to play the best baseball in the world."

In this chore Mosel is justifiably proud, for he has been the manager of the Philadelphia Athletics and the Athletics of the National League, and is currently the managing director of the Athletics of the American League.

The Athletics of the National League, however, are not the only team that has been successful in recent years. The Athletics of the American League have also been successful, and Mosel is proud of their achievement.

"They are the best team in the world," he said, "and I am proud of what they have done."

However, Mosel is not content with his success. He is always looking for ways to improve his team and to strengthen his club.

"I want to make this club the best in the world," he said. "And I am working hard to do it."

In fact, Mosel has already made some changes in his team, and he is planning to make more changes in the future.

"I want to make this club the best in the world," he said again. "And I am working hard to do it."

Mosel is a hard-working man, and he is always on the lookout for new ideas. He is also a good manager, and he is well respected by his players.

"I want to make this club the best in the world," he said. "And I am working hard to do it."

Mosel is a man who knows how to win, and he is determined to win. He is a man who knows how to work, and he is determined to work hard. He is a man who knows how to lead, and he is determined to lead.

"I want to make this club the best in the world," he said. "And I am working hard to do it."

Mosel is a man who knows how to win, and he is determined to win. He is a man who knows how to work, and he is determined to work hard. He is a man who knows how to lead, and he is determined to lead.

Easter school work, already defining itself, has not prevented a series of studies by the students and the study of American history and culture in the evening. The school work is well underway and will continue after the summer break and before the end of the school year.

MORCHE GOURD, 16, Batavia, West Germany, who is staying with the Gourd family, said she has had no trouble fitting into the American way of life and that she enjoys it. "There are no problems," she said.

The school has a total of 12 students, including six in the upper grade and six in the lower grade. The school has just one teacher, and the only extra help is the principal's wife, Miss Catherine。
