Says China Church Going Underground

VATICAN CITY — Perception in communist China has not killed religion there, but has created instead a "new kind of religious thinking," according to a Vatican official in a special report.

If still-pious people are being secretly "organized" by others, private boats have been hired to return to China or India, said a diplomat in a recent report to the Vatican's Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith.

The diplomat said a Caritron (Canadian) priest, who had been in China, said his contacts were active in the underground church but that the "real Chinese" had been expelled from the country by the Communists.

The diplomat said that the "real Chinese" were not "organized" by others, and that the "new kind of religious thinking" was not created by the Communists.

The diplomat said that the "new kind of religious thinking" was not created by the Communists, but that it was still present in China.

Pope Discusses War, Defense Need, Military Draft, Selection of Chaplains

August 15, 1938

The Advocate

Pope Pius XI has called attention to the fierce, unscrupulous conflict that has broken out in Italy over the question of conscription and military training of the youth of the country. He said that among the causes of the conflict was the desire of the military forces to place the youth of the country in military schools and camps.

The Pope also spoke of the need for a military draft and the selection of chaplains. He said that the draft was necessary to provide for the defense of the country and to maintain the national honor.

In his address, the Pope emphasized the importance of religious instruction and the role of the Church in the education of the young. He said that the Church must play a vital role in the training of the youth of the country, and that the chaplains must be selected with great care.

The Pope ended his address by expressing his hope that the conflict in Italy would be resolved peacefully and that the youth of the country would be spared the dangers of war.
Holy Campaign of Prayer

"Now at this time when the tray set hands..." - Philippians 1:21, 25

This week was the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the Church of England in America. The campaign was led by the late Bishop William Archer, who was one of the original founders of the church.

On this important day, our prayer is that the Church of England in America may continue to grow and thrive. We pray that the church may continue to be a light in the darkness, a beacon of hope and a source of strength for all who seek it.

We also pray that the church may continue to be a place of welcome and hospitality for all, and that it may continue to be a source of comfort and support for those who are in need.

The Secret of Success

Napoleon Bonaparte is often quoted as saying, "In war, the secret of success is to be in the right place at the right time with the right number of men." This is also true in the business world.

The ability to anticipate future trends and to be prepared to take advantage of them is crucial for success.

Bayonne, New Jersey, July 22 (CNS) -- A Roman Catholic priest has been arrested in New Jersey on charges of possession of child pornography.

The Rev. Francis J. O'Sullivan, 61, of Bayonne, is accused of possessing or distributing child pornography.

O'Sullivan was arrested on Wednesday and is scheduled to appear in court on Friday.

The arrest comes after a months-long police investigation into the alleged possession of child pornography on the priest's computer.

O'Sullivan has been a priest for more than 30 years and has served in several parishes in the New Jersey area.

The investigation began after a tip from a concerned citizen.

The priest is currently suspended from ministry by his diocese.

The Bayonne diocese released a statement saying that it is conducting a full investigation into the allegations.

The arrest is the latest in a series of child sex abuse cases to rock the Catholic Church in recent years.

In a separate development, the Vatican announced on Thursday that it will launch a new commission to investigate the Handling of Sex Abuse cases.

The commission will be led by Cardinal Pietro Parolin, the Vatican's Secretary of State.

The move comes in response to global criticism of the church's handling of sex abuse cases.

The Vatican has faced intense scrutiny in recent years over its response to reports of sexual abuse within the church.

The new commission will be tasked with examining the church's procedures for handling sex abuse cases and making recommendations for improvement.

The move is seen as a significant step forward in efforts to address the crisis within the Catholic Church.

The Vatican has been under pressure to take stronger action to address the scandal, which has engulfed the church in recent years.

The new commission is expected to release its findings within the next six months.

The Vatican has been criticized for its slow and inadequate response to the crisis, which has led to many cases being covered up and perpetrators being allowed to continue to abuse minors.

The new commission is seen as a significant step forward in efforts to address the crisis within the Catholic Church.
Holy See Provides Contrast at Fair

By Anne Man Buckley

Washington (Catholic News Service) — The Vatican pavilion at the 1966 World's Fair "promises" an art exhibit named "Dei" which attracts much attention.

"Dei," the Latin name for God, also highlights another enterprise at the fair, the Vatican's "Museum of Modern Art," which has been opened to the public for the first time. The museum, located at the Vatican, contains a collection of modern art that includes works by some of the most famous artists of the 20th century.

The Vatican pavilion is one of the most impressive and ambitious exhibits at the fair. It is a testament to the Church's commitment to modern art and its ability to communicate with the contemporary world.

The museum's collection includes works by artists such as Pablo Picasso, Salvador Dali, and Andy Warhol. The exhibits range from abstract to figurative, and from religious to secular themes.

The Vatican pavilion also features a large art exhibit that is part of the Vatican's "Museum of Modern Art." This exhibit, which includes works by some of the most famous modern artists, is one of the highlights of the fair.

Council of the Council Affects Daily Catholic Life

By James C. O'Neill

VATICAN CITY (NC) — A priest reading his breviary daily, a family celebrating mass on Friday, a man getting up earlier than usual to go to Mass before work on the holy day of obligation — all are obeying decrees of the Sacred Congregation of the Council.

The congregation has the difficult job of drawing up and publishing the administrative acts of the Council, which begin with the decrees of the Sacred Congregation of the Council.

One of the chief officers of the Church known as an Apostolic See, the Congregation of the Council is responsible for the publication of the encyclopedia of decrees of the Sacred Congregation of the Council, as well as those of the Congregation of the Holy See and the Congregation of the Sacred Congregation of the Congregation of the Council.

The congregation's work includes the publication of decrees on a wide range of topics, including liturgy, discipline, and canon law. It also issues directives and instructions to the laity and clergy.

The congregation works closely with the Congregation of the Council, which is responsible for the administration of the Church.

The congregation's work is essential to the functioning of the Church, as it ensures that all decrees and decisions are properly communicated and implemented throughout the Church.
