Holy Father Advises on TV, Family Life

VATICAN CITY — Catholics should be more discriminating in their choice of entertainment. The quality of life is determined by the quality of the basic cell of society, the family. Vatican participation in the Brussels World's Fair is an example of Bishop's words. The Pope exhorted the faithful to be more selective in all forms of media. In his message to the faithful, he encouraged them to look for programs that affirm the values of life, love, and the family.

The U.N. and the Near East

While we await the selection of the Near East representative of the U.N., we believe that the United Nations assembly, several things must be done to support it.

The American people can be justifiedly proud of their decision to support the United Nations. The United Nations assembly is validly good of our willingness to do so.

The President's special program offers a splendid opportunity. The President has made a demonstration of behalf of action against the Near East. But he does not have to adopt this position, in its entirety, to be supported.

At this moment we do not know what the President will do with the Near East. But it is too late, in our estimation, to support the United Nations on this issue.

The President's special program, like going "from the sidelines to the center of the address of Ahmad disasaker after that of that committee, is no longer valid, as the Near East is a problem. The United Nations assembly will, as a result, be supported in our estimation.

NEWARK — Going through a convention, even in a group of 300 people, is a sure enough procedure — people look up and down, right and left, as if they expect to see something or someone in the audience or down the hall. And so it was as more than 300 Newark men gathered at the Trailways Conference Center for the first National Convention of Priests of Faith, Fellowship and Friends.

The sessions were open to the laymen of the Archdiocese, but the majority of the participants were Catholic priests.

The event was organized by Bishops Joseph C. Tobin of Newark and Fred W. Stearns of the Diocese of Trenton, each of whom presided over a major portion of the convention.

The convention is being held in conjunction with the Archdiocese’s celebration of its 125th anniversary.

The convention opened with a prayer service led by Father Edward J. Ryan, S.J., at the Trailways Conference Center in Newark.

The opening session of the convention was held in the Archdiocese’s new cathedral, the Cathedral of Saint Peter.

The keynote address was given by Father John J. Flanagan, O.F.M., Provincial of the Order of Friars Minor.

Father Flanagan spoke on the importance of prayer and the role of priests in the life of the church.

The convention continued with sessions on various topics, including the role of priests in the parish, the role of priests in the community, and the role of priests in the world.

The convention concluded with a closing prayer service led by Father Ryan.

The next National Convention of Priests of Faith, Fellowship and Friends will be held in 1938.

Addie Is From Europe!

Addie is from Europe—today! Today my boat arrived and I rushed right over to headquarters to get my mail from you and to check all of the entries for you. Where were you?

Most of my faithful friends have deserted me for the summer-time activities. Oh me, oh me! What a day for a club meeting! And I was so anxious to get home to you.

But I am sure with five more entries that many of my friends are going to send in more entries for the Addie contest. These items are printed in the best pages of all for you to see.

There were two nice surprises waiting for me at the headquarters. There was a letter from Mr. Donald of Upper Montclair. He wrote and told us that four of his championship ducks and six of his runner-up ducks are members of the Young Advocate Club.

The families report that they have the same amount of Roberts from one family. There is Betteanne who is nine and in the fourth grade, Bobby who is seven and in the second grade, and little David who is five and will start school this year in the first grade.

We are certainly happy to welcome these new members in the Addie Club and we have their entries on Addie. The four children are in the junior division of the Young Advocate Club and their entries will be very hard to beat.

My next surprise was that I received post cards and letters from many of the Young Advocate Clubs. There were only a few of these that I could think of. I think you are thinking of me too, I hope you are.

Now, I hope I will also receive a third surprise and that the Club members from the state will sit down and enter the contest. There are five days left for you. See you are doing the same thing I. I'll be looking for your letters.

A Column for Growing-up

Evie's Colored Windows

By Norah A. McAndrews

You have probably admired the beautiful stained glass windows found in our cathedrals and churches. In medieval days, the whole process of making one of these lovely designed windows was completed by one man. But today the labor is divided, each worker being a special expert in his or her branch of the craft.

A stained glass window is designed and drawn by an artist. The design is then cut on a piece of cloth, then the pieces of colored glass are put together to form the final design. Then the glass is cemented in a frame of lead, after which the window is ready to be put in the church. There are many different types of stained glass windows in Ireland.

Evie's stained glass window is in her favorite embroidery. There are green, red, gold, and blue colors in the Embroidery. Evie herself did most of the cutting and directing her helpers. She was the most important general worker in Ireland. This window was designed to be a favorite of Evie's. She was the most important general worker in Ireland. DePaul Joins Grid Ranks; Name McCarren as Coach

As part of the last week's exciting developments in sports, DePaul University announced the appointment of Francis T. McCarren, a former star athlete and now an experienced college coach, as the new football coach of the DePaul University team. He replaces Coach Bert Joseph, who was with the team for two years, and will fill the position vacated by Joe Benson, who was the head coach for the past three seasons.

McCarren, a native of the West, was born in 1900, and he has been associated with DePaul University since 1919, when he was a student there. He has been the head coach of the basketball team for the past five years, and he has also been the director of the physical education department. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois, where he was a star football player, and he has also been associated with the University of Chicago and the University of Michigan as a football coach.

The appointment of McCarren as the new coach was announced by President J. J. McHugh, who said that he was fortunate to have found such a capable man to fill the position. He said that McCarren had shown himself to be a man of great ability and experience, and that he was confident that he would do a fine job of coaching the DePaul University football team.

DePaul University is one of the leading institutions of higher education in the country, and it is well known for its excellent athletic programs. The university has won many championships in various sports, and it has produced many outstanding athletes. The appointment of McCarren as the new coach is expected to do much to strengthen the university's football team, and to make it one of the most successful in the country.

Irish Expect Big Season

BUTCH DANE — With talk of DePaul University, a football star on the varsity, a famous coach at the University of Nebraska, and a star on the DePaul high school football team, the DePaul University football season is expected to be a big one. The team is expected to be strong, and it is likely to do well in its conference and in the national championships.

The team is expected to be led by Butch Dane, who was the star of the DePaul high school team last year. He was a great runner, and he was expected to do well in college. He is a captain of the team, and he is expected to be one of the leaders of the team.

CWV Title to St. Anne's; Knights Win in Bridgeport

WASHINGTON — St. Anne's High School and the Bridgeport Knights held their third Catholic War Veterans national and state tournaments consecutively on Aug. 13.

In a parade competition which included both junior and senior teams in addition to the national teams, the Catholic was chosen over the Bridgeport Knights with a victory in the Bridgeport tournament on Aug. 13.

St. Anne's won the straight-lining first prize with a score of 27,000 points, the Bridgeport Knights second place with 12,000 points, and the national team third with 8,000 points.

Elaine M. Donahue, a 21-year-old student at St. Anne's, won the music contest with a score of 27,000 points, while the Bridgeport Knights had the second place with 12,000 points and the national team finished the third with 8,000 points.

The Catholic War Veterans is a national patriotic organization, which is dedicated to promoting and commemorating the memory of those who served in the armed forces of the United States.

Crookston Attempting to Teach Children of Migrant Workers

The seasonal children in the Crookston area, who have been brought from the big farms to work in the city, are now being taught by a volunteer teacher. The teacher, Miss______, has been volunteering her time to teach the children, who are mainly of migrant workers.

The children are learning basic skills such as reading, writing, and arithmetic. The teacher has been using a variety of teaching methods to engage the children, including games and projects.

The school district has been working with the teacher to ensure that the children receive a quality education. The district has provided textbooks and other learning materials to the teacher.

The teacher is grateful for the support of the community and plans to continue teaching the children for as long as possible. The children are eager to learn and are making great progress in their studies.

Catholic War Veterans Would Revise Foreign Aid Program

WASHINGTON—Catholic war veterans in their national organization have named a "worry list" of nations which they have decided to stop aid to in the future.

The veterans also urged that Congress grant veterans access to the National Guard, which they say should be abolished "not merely modified." They also suggested that a "national loyalty oath" be required for all citizens.

APPROXIMATELY 3,500 members of the American Legion, the nation's leading veterans' organization, are expected to attend a conference here this week to discuss the future of their organization. The conference will also consider a proposal to expand the organization's membership to include all veterans of World War II.
