Pope Urges Chinese
To Remain Faithful,
Oppose Red Schism

YATAN CITY (NC) — In an encyclical carried principally to 10 Chinese Bishops without the subscription of his signature, Pope Pius XII urged Catholics in the great eastern province of China not to succumb to the pressure of Communist domination.

The Pope denounced the so-called Partisan Association of Chinese Catholics and told the archbishops, bishops, priests, and all religious of the Catholic Church in China to remain faithful and to resist the advance of Communism.

He said, "Those who succumb to the pressure of Communism are renouncing Christ and the Gospel; their communities are destroyed and they are at the mercy of Communism, which is not content with political and economic exploitation, but which seeks to destroy also the religious traditions of the people.

The Pope also warned against the so-called "national church," which he said was "a thinly disguised form of Communism." He said, "The Chinese Bishops and priests should be careful not to be deceived by the promises of the Communists."

Msgr. Dougherty Aids Bible Work

NEWARK—A new Catholic Bible, for which Msgr. John J. Dougherty of Immaculate Conception Parish was consultant, was presented to Archbishop Boland in ceremonies at the Chancery Office here Sept. 5.

Msgr. Dougherty made the presentation of the 1,432-page volume published in Newark by St. Joseph’s House and distributed in the Catholic Bible Institute in New York.

A special boxed set of 1,800 copies has already come off the press. The initial copy was presented to Msgr. P. J. O’Flaherty, P.P., rector of the Sacred Heart Cathedral in Philadelphia, at the time of the dedication of the new cathedral.

A feature of the new Bible is the glossary of words and abbreviations at the end of each chapter. Such a glossary has never before appeared in a Catholic Bible.

The company, together with the publishers, has also undertaken the preparation of a companion volume to the new Bible, the Catholic Catechism: An Outline of the Christian Faith. This is a handbook for use with the 1,432-page volume.

Propagation of Faith Congregation Governs Missions

By James C. O'NEIL
YATPECAS CITY (N.J.)—The Church’s missionary program in the world-wide responsibilities of the Second Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith.

This annual module of a specific field of activity was officially designated by the promulgation of the decree, "De Propagatione Fidei," by Pope Pius X in the year 1908.

PROPAGANDA FIDE, as it is known, is the only one of the 12 Roman congregations set up to put an end to obstacles to the spread of Christian truths and practices. Established by the growth of the Church in the U.S. and Canada in 1884, it was later expanded with the addition of the missions in South America and Central America.

In the 1890s the congregation was divided into the two major activities of the East and the West.and was then organized as the Mission of the French in the U.S. and Central America.

Pope Scores Territorial Attempts to Split China Church

NCRICUS News Service

Following a recent visit to English-speaking nations, Pope John XXIII announced at the Vatican in a statement released by the Holy See Press Office that he would call a new session of the Second Vatican Council to be held in 1961. The announcement was made following a meeting with the Catholic Bishops of the United States, who requested the Pope's assistance in解决了 the problems existing in their country's Church.

The Pope stated that the Second Vatican Council had been called in 1962 to deal with the problems of the Church in the modern world, and that it would be the duty of the new session of the Council to consider the problems of the Church in China.

According to the Pope, the problems of the Church in China were caused by the territorial attempts of certain countries to divide the Church in China, which was a violation of the fundamental principles of the Church.

The Pope also stated that he would take all necessary steps to ensure the integrity of the Church in China, and that he would not tolerate any attempt to divide the Church in China.

The Pope's announcement was met with widespread approval by the Catholic Bishops of the United States, who thanked the Pope for his help in solving the problems of the Church in China.

A Young Lad Is Penetent

Poulton J. Shibata

Every day I pray to God, but I feel as though I am giving a skite to the hea.

My dear Brian,

I am not sure if you will be able to give me any advice, but I am very upset about my situation. I am writing to you in hopes that you can help me with this problem.

I have been seeing a woman for several months now, and we have been living together for the past few weeks. I have been feeling very happy with her, and I think she feels the same way about me. However, I have recently discovered that she has been seeing someone else on the side.

I am not sure what to do. I love her very much, but I don’t want to lose her. I have tried to talk to her about it, but she seems to be in denial.

I would really appreciate any advice you can give me. I am feeling very confused and don’t know what to do.

Thank you for taking the time to read my letter.

Sincerely,

RELATIVES HAVE TAKEN OVER PLANNING OF THEIR WEDDING

By Rev. John L. Thompson, S.J.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, St. Louis University

I started planning my wedding plans to get married, but we thought we were dealing with our own wedding. Now the relatives have taken over, and I feel like I am little more than a participant observer. We’re not writing the program or filling out the invitations, but we did talk to the relatives and then they started doing it. We were the only family members who were not involved in the planning.

Our folks don’t have that kind of money, so we’ll probably have to stick with it. What can we do?

That’s a good question. It is very difficult to get involved in the planning process without actually doing anything. Some people think that the couple needs to do all the work, but others feel that the relatives should be involved. It is a delicate balance.

Older People Often Have Deeper Mission Charity

The action of God in the lives of older people is now evident in our parishes. It is a time when the older generation's perspective on life is more evident and mature. This time of life is often seen as a period of reflection and giving back to the community. Many older members of the faith community are involved in various roles, such as serving as mentors, helping younger members, and offering their wisdom to the church leadership. The elderly often have a unique perspective on the church's mission and are often leaders in its development.

FINN’S Runners Give Him the Shirt Off Their Back

By Ed Grant

JERSEY CITY—A few years ago, Finn, the 13-year-old former child actor, was walking along the streets of the city. Suddenly a child tried to pull him into a store. Finn resisted, and the child punched him in the face. Finn was surprised, but he retaliated. The child then grabbed him by the hair and pulled him into the store. Finn fought back, and the child was finally subdued.

FINN WAS walking along the streets of the city when he saw a group of children playing football. He decided to join in the game, but he was too old to play with the other kids. The children laughed at him, but Finn didn’t care. He continued to walk down the street until he saw a group of men playing baseball. He decided to watch the game, and he was soon invited to join in. Finn played as well as any of the other kids, and he was quickly accepted into the group.

Later, Finn was invited to a party at the home of one of the children. He was excited to attend, but he was nervous about the social aspect of the event. He arrived late, but he was soon introduced to everyone. Finn was shy at first, but he soon warmed up to the group and started to make friends. By the end of the night, he was one of the most popular kids at the party.

In the years that followed, Finn continued to play sports, and he excelled in both football and baseball. He even went on to play college football and baseball at a major university. Finn’s love for sports was only surpassed by his love for helping others. He spent much of his time volunteering at local schools and hospitals, and he was known for his compassion and generosity.

As Finn grew older, he realized that he didn’t want to be seen as a celebrity. He wanted to be known for his kindness and his love for sports. He decided to give up his acting career and focus on playing sports and helping others. Finn went on to become a successful business owner and a respected community leader. He was always the first to lend a helping hand, and he was beloved by all who knew him.

FINN’S love for sports and helping others continued to be his driving force throughout his life. He passed away in his 60s, but his legacy lived on through the many young people he inspired to follow their dreams and to always be kind to others. Finn’s spirit continues to live on today, and he is remembered as one of the greatest sportsmen and humanitarians of all time.
