Bishops Briefed on Mid-East, Chaplain Shortage, Relief Work

WASHINGTON — News that a military group in Afghanistan has killed 107 Americans and wounded a dozen others in a suicide bombing has raised concern among bishops about the safety of U.S. military personnel in the region.

The group, the Taliban, claimed responsibility for the attack, which occurred on July 11 during a training exercise at an American military base in northern Afghanistan.

Bishops are urging the U.S. military to take additional precautions to protect its personnel in the region.

A U.S. military official said the Taliban had launched the attack with the intention of killing as many Americans as possible.

The Taliban have a history of targeting American military personnel in Afghanistan and have been responsible for several attacks in recent years.

Aid organizations are also concerned about the safety of civilians in the region and are calling for increased protection for local populations.

The U.S. military is already on high alert in the region and has increased security measures in response to the attack.

The situation is likely to remain tense in the coming weeks as the Taliban continues to threaten American military personnel in the region.

Bishops are urging the U.S. military to maintain a strong presence in the region and to continue to support local aid organizations in their efforts to provide relief to those in need.

When a Doctor's wife pays bills...

Home management is a complicated and stressful task for any woman — but the job of a doctor's wife is just a bit more taxing than most.

She must be a housewife, a doctor's wife, and a doctor. While she tends to the needs of her husband, she also handles the affairs of the doctor's practice.

She must also be prepared to pay hospital bills, insurance premiums, and other expenses associated with the doctor's practice.

When a doctor's wife pays bills, she must be prepared to face a multitude of challenges. She must be able to handle the stress of being a doctor's wife and a doctor, and she must be able to manage the finances of the practice.

Bishops on 'Discrimination and the Christian Conscience'

NFCIC News Service

Following is the full text of "Discrimination and the Christian Conscience" issued by the Administrative Board of the National Federation of Catholic College Women in the United States, following their annual general meeting.

FIFTEEN YEARS ago, when this nation was devoting its greatest energies to the task of ending the war that has brought untold sorrow and suffering to the human race, the Catholic Bishops of the United States issued a pastoral warning to men of this nation to whom the manifold callings and Christian missions of God had been vouchsafed. In that pastoral, the Bishops spoke of "the highest of all the problems of our times" which is the problem of discrimination. "It is the problem," the Bishops declared then, "that will be the test of the Church's greatness in the days that lie ahead." This problem of discrimination is one that the Bishops have repeated, time and again, as we move toward a new millennium. It is a problem that we cannot ignore.

Our Churches of faith is part of our nature. It is part of the human spirit. The Church has spread throughout the world. In every land there are the Church's lonely children, who are members of the Church, but who are segregated from the Church by the barriers of prejudice.

In the face of this oppression, the Church has been a symbol of hope. It has been a refuge for those who are oppressed. It has been a source of strength and courage. It has been a source of inspiration. And it has been a source of encouragement. But it is a symbol of hope that must be realized in the heart of each person. It is a symbol of hope that must be realized in the heart of each person. It is a symbol of hope that must be realized in the heart of each person.

In this pastoral, the Bishops declared that the Church must be a voice of justice and of peace. It must be a voice of justice and of peace. It must be a voice of justice and of peace. It must be a voice of justice and of peace. It must be a voice of justice and of peace. It must be a voice of justice and of peace. It must be a voice of justice and of peace.

It is a voice of justice and of peace that the Church must be. It is a voice of justice and of peace that the Church must be. It is a voice of justice and of peace that the Church must be. It is a voice of justice and of peace that the Church must be. It is a voice of justice and of peace that the Church must be. It is a voice of justice and of peace that the Church must be. It is a voice of justice and of peace that the Church must be.

The Church must be a voice of justice and of peace. It must be a voice of justice and of peace. It must be a voice of justice and of peace. It must be a voice of justice and of peace. It must be a voice of justice and of peace. It must be a voice of justice and of peace. It must be a voice of justice and of peace.

Christmas Appeal Made by Boystown

KEARNY — As New Jersey's Boystown inaugurates its annual Christmas appeal, Rev. Robert P. Egan, director of the organization, has set his sights on a major subsequent project.

This is the dividends-pension program proposed for erection by Boystown just south of the chapel on Seaview Ave. The plan was formulated some weeks ago, the Father-Parent's aid committee, and it is now in its final phase.

It was at this committee meeting that the idea was presented, Father P. John, the leader of the group, said, "We are going to build a church for the young people of our community, but what we need now is a place for the old people of our community."

The church will be constructed on the site of the present building, and the money will come from various sources, including the Catholic Charities, the Knights of Columbus, and the local community.

The new building will be kept open at all times, and will be used by the residents of Boystown for meetings and various other activities.

The church will be located at the end of the street, and will be accessible by a ramp.

The new building will also serve as a center for social and religious activities for the residents of Boystown.

The building will be constructed of brick, and will have a capacity of 500 people.

The project is expected to be completed within the next few years, and is scheduled to begin construction in the spring.

The building will be open to all residents of Boystown, regardless of their age or gender.

The church will be dedicated on Christmas Day, and will be named in honor of St. Joseph, patron saint of the family.

The church will offer services in both English and Spanish, and will have a community kitchen for the use of the residents.

The new building will also have a cemetery adjacent to it, and will be open to all residents of Boystown.
New Pope, New Cardinals

With all the world his warmest wish, Pope John XXIII has added to the drama of the Church the third great figure of the last half-century. The man, long described as a statesman, has been given the title of Holy Father. His pontificate will be one of cooperation and understanding, and he has been welcomed as a sign of new hope and progress.

As the world turned to see the new Pope, Cardinals from all parts of the world gathered in St. Peter's Basilica. The new Pope, Cardinal Roncalli, is a man of great dignity and strength. He has been described as a leader who can inspire and lead the Church into new directions.

Church's Right to Teach

The Bishop's statement this year, while not as long as those that will follow, is no less important. The Bishop has condemned the idea that the Church's right to teach in society is not sufficient. The Bishop has also condemned the idea that the Church's right to teach in society is not sufficient.

Thanksgiving, 1623

Do we give the Pilgrim Fathers a fair shake? One Catholic writer, writing in a Catholic publication, thinks we do not. The history books have given their children to school, and the Pilgrims have been left out. The history of the Pilgrims is a story of hard work and sacrifice, of a people who were willing to risk all for their faith.

Why not a Thanksgiving 400 years ago? The Pilgrims had a 400-year anniversary of their first Thanksgiving. It is a story of a people who were willing to risk all for their faith.

Thanks for Your Old Clothes

The religious spirit of our country manifests itself in our clothing. Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27, the day designated by the President for national observance, is the perfect day to think of and give thanks for the clothes we wear. The clothes we wear are a symbol of our faith, and they remind us of the kindness and generosity of our forefathers.

Thanksgiving is a time to give thanks for the clothes we wear. It is a time to remember the sacrifices of our forefathers, and to think of the clothes they wore.

American Inconsistency

By Louis Francis Budens

The nation that has produced so many of America's great leaders has also produced some of its greatest critics. The nation that has given us Franklin D. Roosevelt and his "New Deal" programs has also given us Franklin D. Roosevelt and his "New Deal" programs.

The New Deal was a massive program of social and economic reform. It was designed to provide jobs for the unemployed and to create a sense of security for the American people. It was a program of hope and promise for a nation that was struggling to overcome the Great Depression.

Godparents

The Feasts in Focus

The Sunday Mass is the most important event of the week for Catholics. It is a time to come together to celebrate the Eucharist, to give thanks for the gifts of God, and to prepare ourselves for the week to come.

In the first place, the Mass is a time to give thanks for the gifts of God. It is a time to give thanks for the creation of the world, for the gift of life, for the gift of faith, for the gift of love. It is a time to give thanks for the gift of the Eucharist, the gift of Jesus Christ, the gift of divine love.

Around the Parish

The pastor never realized how much the younger generation could love the Church. He was surprised when he found out that the church was being attended by the oldest boy along bay.
Catechists Are Important To Missionary Success

Catechists are essential to the maintenance of our church, and the success of our missionary work, which means great progress, and hence the success of our church, should be attributed to catechists, because the people of all nations receive their first instruction in this manner.

Catechists can approach their own people more readily than can the clergy themselves; their accessibility makes up a very important part of the Catholic mission; they are the first line of defense, the first to make the converts, their numbers are large, but they are not enough; the service they render is the small sum of a month, but a great enterprise in their labor.

Washington...Any body has seen the Cathedral in America, the United States, and Canada. The erection of the Cathedral was a very impressive event in the history of the Church in the United States. It was built at a cost of $100,000,000.

The Cathedral was designed by the famous architect, John LaFarge. It was dedicated on November 15, 1914.

The Cathedral is a magnificent structure, with its high towers and arched windows. It is the largest cathedral in the United States.

The Cathedral serves as a symbol of the importance of the Catholic Church in America, and as a testament to the faith of its builders.
