French Cardinal Asks End To Bickering Over Priests

LYONS, France — Cardinal Jean-Claude Cardinal, the new secretary of state for the Vatican, has accused France of being involved in "fierce, cruel and enervating" bickering over priests recently ordained in France. He said the controversy of appointments was causing a "painful sensation" among Catholics in France.

"We are tired of it," he said. "We must not allow ourselves to be divided."

The cardinal said the doctrine of the Holy See was that the right to ordain priests is a "right of the Holy See" and that it is a "right of the Church".

"We cannot allow ourselves to be divided," he said. "We must not allow ourselves to be divided.

The Catholic Church has a long history of dealing with the issue of priests, and the French government has been accused of being too involved in the process. The cardinal also recognized that there is a need for dialogue between the church and the government on the issue of priests.

Tells Protestants To Abandon Fear Of Nuclear Weapons

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The American Catholic bishops have told the U.S. bishops to stop using the word "nuclear" in their Sermons and other official statements.

Cardinal John O'Connor of New York, president of the U.S. bishops' conference, said the use of the term "nuclear" is "regrettable and not accurate, and it is a cause of confusion and of the public's concern about the use of nuclear weapons.

"We must not allow ourselves to be divided," he said. "We must not allow ourselves to be divided.

The cardinal also recognized that there is a need for dialogue between the church and the government on the issue of priests.

Note: The text seems to be a mix of news articles and statements, possibly from a religious context, discussing various topics including bickering over priests, the role of the Catholic Church, and the use of the word "nuclear" in sermons. It appears to be a collection of statements and comments from different sources, possibly from different dates.
A Catholic President?

This question is being asked with increasing frequency, and with more and more the Catholic Church and the number of Catholics who are the archbishops, bishops, priests, and deacons. It is, and may be, a well-planned move that America is a young country, still suffering from the problems of growing up. One of its major problems is its education system. We need a more effective educational system, one that will prepare our children for the challenges of today's world. This system must be based on principles that are consistent with the values of our society and our culture. It must also be able to respond to the needs of individual students and their families. We need a system that encourages critical thinking, creativity, and individual expression. We need a system that values diversity and respects differences. We need a system that is responsive to the needs of our communities and our country. We need a system that is committed to preparing our students for success in their chosen careers and for active participation in our society.

Catholic Bishops Speak

The bishops are called to speak about the issues facing our society and our country. They are called to provide guidance and leadership to those who seek their wisdom. They are called to speak out on behalf of the values that are central to their faith. They are called to speak up for the rights of all people, regardless of race, gender, or sexual orientation. They are called to speak out against discrimination and prejudice. They are called to speak out against violence and war. They are called to speak out for peace and justice.

Everybody Reads

Years ago, before the advent of the radio and the television, books were the primary source of news and information. People read newspapers and magazines, and they read books. They read to learn about the world they lived in, and to learn about the world they wanted to live in. They read to learn about the people they knew, and to learn about the people they didn't know. They read to learn about the past, and to learn about the future. They read to learn about the present.

Missionaries.                                                   On American Generosity

It has been said that the out put of what can be done in the American dioceses of the Church is also the statistical
We who write this presen
tion hope to attract the attention of the faithful to the amazing numbers of Catholic works we are able to do.
Records of mission effort continue to be kept, but not ewingly. With the unfortuately very common lack of data, it is only possible to record the figures. Unfortuately, the data are not available as in the past.

Benefit of mission work can be stated in many ways. The extent of the Church's effect is great and perhaps increasing. The benefits of mission work are many and each differs. The extent of mission work is great.

Support of mission effort continues to be needed not only in the Church's own work
but also in the mission work of the world at large.

The United States has never been as deep as at this time, in the history of the Church, as to the amount of money and energy devoted to mission work.

Wait for Christmas with Advent Wreath
By Joe Thomas
NEWARK—Nov. 30 is the first Sunday of Advent. The word itself means "coming, an approach, any gradual approach." It is the arrival of that Jesus Christ on earth preceding this event as an anniversary of the event which marks the four-week period of preparation.

Individually Catholics, at the individual church, are preparing for that blessed event, the manner at that time in the spirit of the Advent wreath. Through the Advent wreath, individuals perceive the Advent season, the days remaining until Christmas and the approaching Holy Family.

The Wreath is made of branches, each having different colors, and are of different sizes, being of a diameter from two to three inches in diameter.

The Advent wreath is a beautiful symbol of the church, the family, the individual, and the Advent season. The wreath is a beautiful symbol of the Advent season, the days remaining until Christmas and the approaching Holy Family.

Detailed Coronation Will Be Released Soon

By William H. Mingor

For the first time in history, the coronation of King Edward VIII became a reality last Friday, when his coronation ceremony was televised from London in wide screen and color from a distance of 450 miles. The ceremony was illustrated with a tapestry of historical pictures and scenes of the city of London.

If you missed the wonderful affair, you can read the story and view the pictures in the full-length feature, "The Coronation of King Edward VIII," released by the British Film Institute.

I Want to Live

The subject of the story is a man who has been living a life that is not only absurd but also a source of great sorrow and pain. The story is told in a series of flashbacks, each one a different phase of his life, from his childhood to his adult years.

The Christmas season can give us more time for friends. Let's enjoy each other even if you don't agree.

There is possibly a big red shawl, a yellow hat, a big Santa, and a Christmas tree, which is in the living room. A little girl and a little boy are sitting on the floor, looking at the Christmas tree. They seem to be very happy.

If you look closely and the scene from the present, you can see that it is nearly Christmas time. The kids are excited, and the parents are busy preparing for the big day. The gift of love is the most important thing.

Are you looking forward to this year's Christmas? The Christmas spirit is all around us, and it's beautiful to see everyone coming together.

Pirate Cage Future Looks Bright; Cross, Rowley Head Team

SOUTH ORANGE — The better reputations of the 1957-58 basketball season have vanished from the South Orange campus these days as some new blood joins with the old to give promise of a "second spring" for the Pirate cage in the 1958 season.

The roster of the South Orange High School basketball team is beginning to take shape, as the annual list of players, now being formed for this year's basketball campaign, have been agreed upon.

One of the promising young men who will be expected to play a part in the basketball campaign is Larry Green, a junior, who was a member of the varsity basketball team last year. His progress during the winter months has been closely watched by the coaching staff, and it is expected that he will make a valuable contribution to the team.

Another player who is expected to make a strong showing is Mike Jones, a senior, who was a member of the junior varsity team last year. His consistency and stamina will be a welcome addition to the team.

Other players who will be expected to contribute to the team's success are John Smith, a junior, and David Lee, a senior. Both players have shown great potential during the winter months and will be an asset to the team.

The coaching staff is confident that the team will be able to overcome the challenges of the competition and emerge victorious in the upcoming season.

Bishop Eugene Ring Made Out of Coal
MILWAUKEE (DEC) — Newly consecrated Bishop Paul J. Schmidt of West Allis was, on the fingers of his right hand, holding the holy orders of a bishop.

He was presented to his Constituents of the Diocese of Milwaukee, at the mass of ordination in the Cathedral of St. Jospeh, Nov. 25, 1981.

Revisits His Birthplace

The new bishop was born at West Allis, which is a city of about 25,000 population, in Wisconsin. The Pope made his home there until he was 16 years old, when he moved to Milwaukee.

He was educated at the Milwaukee Cathedral School and at the College of St. John, where he was a member of the staff of the Wisconsin State Fair. He later attended St. John's Seminary in New York City, and was ordained to the priesthood in 1936.

His many ecclesiastical positions include pastor of St. Patrick's Church in Milwaukee, and vicar general of the Archdiocese of Milwaukee. He has also served as president of the Wisconsin Conference of Catholic Bishops.

In addition to his duties as bishop, Bishop Schmidt is a member of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, and a trustee of the Catholic University of America.

He is the first bishop of Milwaukee to be consecrated in the city since the late Cardinal John J. Wright.

Humble Origin

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In the first general audience of his pontificate Pope John XXIII identified himself as a layman's son who has never been baptized or ordained because of his humble origin.

He pointed to his origins to prove his deep interest in the class of workers to whom he belongs. This is the first time that a Pope has ever spoken on the class of workers in the Church.

Two Sleuth-Priests Get Their Man

PONTIAC — The recent death of a family parish tradition when the Rev. Richard J. Feeney moved to St. Francis Xavier in this city, and the almost simultaneous departure of the Rev. Francis J. Lee, S.S., from St. Agnes in the city of Pontiac, has been a shock to the many parishioners who have been customarily guided by these two priests.

Feeney, a native of Michigan, and Lee, a native of California, have been known to many of the parishioners for many years. They have been instrumental in the growth and development of the parish and have been much loved by the people.

Feeney, a graduate of St. Mary's Seminary in St. Louis, Mo., is a member of the St. Francis Xavier staff for over 20 years. He has been known to many of the parishioners for his work in the area of education and community service.

Lee, a graduate of St. Mary's Seminary in St. Louis, Mo., is a member of the St. Agnes staff for over 20 years. He has been known to many of the parishioners for his work in the area of social service and community development.

The departure of these two priests has been a loss to the parish, and many parishioners are regretting their absence.
