Bishops Plan Day of Prayer For Chinese

Bishops Plan Day of Prayer For Chinese

WASHINGTON (AP) — Answering a request made by Pope John XXIII, dozens throughout the nation will observe a special day of prayer for the persecuted Church in China on Feb. 18, the fifth Sunday of Lent.

The Holy Father made the request, addressed to the Bishops of the world, in an encyclical letter entitled "Pax Christi," in which he said that the Church was "being to some extent crucified" in China. The bishops were asked to pray for the Church to be allowed to live "in peace and in freedom as the Church of Christ, the true Church of Jesus Christ with a world-wide mission on earth, and in the hearts of all men who believe in the Lord Jesus Christ as the Saviour of the world."

There has been no firm date announced for the visit of the Chinese bishops to Rome, and it is not known whether the bishops will travel in the same delegation or separately. It is also not known whether the bishops will hold a group meeting in Rome or whether they will merely meet with Pope John individually.

The bishops plan to observe the Day of Prayer with a special Mass at their respective diocesan headquarters, with the homily centered on the theme of the encyclical letter. The Masses will be followed by a special prayer service, with the bishops renewing their commitment to pray for the persecuted Church in China, and with the faithful asking for the intercession of the saints for the Church in China.

The Day of Prayer for China is observed throughout the world, with the goal of uniting the prayers of all Catholics in support of the persecuted Church in China. The bishops plan to observe this day of prayer as a sign of solidarity with the Chinese bishops and as a expression of their commitment to the Church's mission of spreading the Gospel throughout the world.

The bishops plan to continue to pray for the persecuted Church in China, and to work towards the realization of the request made by Pope John XXIII. They hope to achieve a greater understanding and a more just treatment of the Church in China, and to bring about a more peaceful and harmonious relationship between the Church and the government of China.

The Day of Prayer for China is observed with great fervor, and with a strong sense of purpose. The bishops plan to observe this day of prayer as a reminder of the Church's mission of spreading the Gospel, and as a call to action for all Catholics to work towards a better future for the persecuted Church in China.

The Day of Prayer for China is observed with great reverence, and with a deep sense of gratitude. The bishops plan to observe this day of prayer as a way of thanking God for the persecutions endured by the Chinese bishops, and for the continued support of the persecuted Church in China.

The Day of Prayer for China is observed with great hope, and with a strong sense of optimism. The bishops plan to observe this day of prayer as a sign of hope for the future of the persecuted Church in China, and as a call to action for all Catholics to work towards a better future for the Church in China.

Details Laity's Need For Catholic Press

RICHMOND, Va. — "We need the Catholic press just as the Catholic press needs us," John J. Daly, president of the Catholic Press Association, and here in a statement on this month's observance of Catholic Press Month, editor of the Richmond Catholic said.

"A Catholic would be expected, in the first place, to support the spiritual, educational, and social programs of the Church. But, as a Jesuit penny-pinching student, all we have is a Jesuit penny-pinching student. It is expected of the Church that it use only the best means to get its message across. This is important for the Church's welfare. Why should I? I'm just an ordinary Catholic. Why not hold your money down for me and pay me the interest on it? Why not let me live? What is the point in having a will when you are not sure that you will need one?

More on Sunday Shopping

If any of our readers have the idea that we will return to our old methods of shopping, we will continue to see our readers of the old days. We will not be able to return to the old days, but we will continue to see our readers of the old days. We will not be able to return to the old days, but we will continue to see our readers of the old days.

The Question Box

If we had an entirely different and a great many other things we would do not want. Who can say that we should not have an entirely different and a great many other things we would do not want. We cannot say that we should not have an entirely different and a great many other things we would do not want. Union Funds Saving Hat Corporation

By Pegge George Higgins

Director Vocal Action Department, N.W.C.

It is no accident that the women of New England are leading the fight for the American Federation of Labor. The women have joined the other New England states in putting up a fight against the exploitation of the laboring people. The women are fighting the working conditions that are being imposed on the working people of this country. The women are fighting for better wages, shorter hours, and better social conditions.

The union funds saving hat corporation was organized in 1913 to aid in the campaign for better working conditions. The union funds have been used to pay for the salaries of the organizers, the printing of the literature, and the transportation of the members. The union funds have also been used to pay for the legal expenses of the members who have been arrested for their activities.

The union funds saving hat corporation has been successful in its work. The women of New England have been able to stand up to the employers and have forced them to change their ways. The women have won the right to form unions and have been able to bargain for better wages and working conditions.

The union funds saving hat corporation is an important part of the labor movement in New England. The union funds have been able to do a great deal of good for the working people of this country. The union funds saving hat corporation is a true example of the power of the working class.
Missionaries Are Battling To Spread God's Word

Bill Moran, through the eyes of a young medical student, tells how our Blessed Lord and Saviour daily brings to life a new world through his missionaries. This young cleric has been in Japan for five years, where he has had the privilege of serving the medical needs of the missions in that country. He is helping to support their efforts. This winning story will be the last for many of you, as we may not make the most direct contributions to the cause of missions. It is a call to prayer, faith, and good works.
