Course Description

Current challenges to multiculturalism and peaceful coexistence of various groups in the US, South East Asia and beyond challenge us to re-examine various models of dealing with cultural and ethnic diversity at the level of states, societies, and local communities. This course examines these issues through a focus on the ‘organization of diversity’. After an examination of the development of the concept of ‘nation’ and its political uses, it proceeds to an analysis of different models of recognizing (or not) this diversity and organizing it as part of the institutional setup of the state and its policies. Among the case studies to be examined in the course are those of the former Soviet states, the Moslem World and Northern Africa, Western Europe, Latin America and South East Asia. The last sessions of the course will be devoted in the last sessions, where we will apply the discussion of original research by the students, where some of the concepts and methods learned from the other cases to additional case studies. The main goal of the course is to apply theoretical and policy concepts to a variety of case studies in a critical and productive way. Having completed the course, students should be able to apply the concepts, skills and competencies acquired to analyze more effectively the variety of cases he or she will encounter on over the course of his or her career.

Student learning objectives for this class include:

1. Fostering knowledge a understanding of:
 - a. Key concepts, models, theories and debates in the study of IR and diplomacy
 - b. The interaction between politics and economics in the international system;
 - c. The institutional backdrop underpinning international politics, including international organizations and international law
 - d. The normative aspect of IR as reflected in international law, including human rights
 - e. The prevailing global issues, such as international conflict, global health, and environmental challenges
 - f. An in-depth knowledge of a particular functional area and/or region of the world
 - g. Knowledge and understanding of the social science research process
2. Providing and supporting the development of the following skills:
 - a) Collect, sort, and evaluate information
 - b) Analyze complex situations and synthesize information
 - c) Integrate different fields of study in analysis of a complex world
 - d) Communicate effectively in oral and written form

Policy on Incompletes: Incompletes will be given only in exceptional cases for emergencies. Students wishing to request a grade of Incomplete must provide documentation to support the request accompanied by a Course Adjustment Form (available from the Diplomacy Main Office) to the professor before the date of the final examination. If the incomplete request is approved, the professor reserves the right to specify the new submission date for all missing coursework. Students who fail to submit the missing course work within this time period will receive a failing grade for all missing coursework and a final grade based on all coursework assigned. Any Incomplete not resolved within one calendar year of receiving the Incomplete or by the time of graduation (whichever comes first) automatically becomes an “FI” (which is equivalent to an F). It is the responsibility of the student to make sure they have completed all course requirements within the timeframe allotted. Please be aware that Incompletes on your transcript will impact financial aid and academic standing.

 Under the Americans with Disabilities Act and Section 504 of the Civil Rights Restoration Act, students at SHU who have a disability may be eligible for accommodations in this course. Should a student require such accommodation, he or she must self-identify at the Office of Disability Support Services (DSS), Room 67, Duffy Hall, provide required documentation, and work with DSS to develop a plan for accommodations. Pre-requisites and expectations

- This course presumes previous knowledge of world geography and history.
- Amount of required reading per week: 80-100 pages
- Expected amount of work outside class: 6 to 9 hours per week

Additional Recommended Books and Journals:

The Oxford Companion to Politics of the World

Patricia T. O’Conner, Woe is I: the Grammarphobe’s Guide to Better English in Plain English (Riverhead, 1998 or 2003 edition) (available at www.amazon.com for 5.00 and up)

Books to be placed on Reserve (check all materials under Prof. Balmaceda’s name at University Reserves – materials may be filed under other courses besides DIPL6001AA)

Unless otherwise noted, all journal articles listed in the syllabus are available through the SHU e-journal portal, and/or in Blackboard. Please download, print, and bring to class in printed form. Please also bring your reading notes in printed form.

COURSE POLICIES

Late assignments policy:

It is essential that assignments are submitted on time; I am unable to grant extensions. If you cannot come to campus to bring the hard copy, please mail it with sufficient time to reach me by the deadline.¹ Due to the large number of students, we are unable to accept submissions by fax. Late assignments will be subjected to a 20% penalty (1st day), plus 10% for each subsequent day. (For example, an assignment that merits a 95 (“A”) grade will get 75 points if submitted a day late.) Late penalties are prorated for electronic/hard copy submissions: if an assignment is not turned in in hard copy form but only in electronic form, the penalty will be 10% per first day late (5% for each subsequent day); if it is not turned in in electronic copy form but only in hard form, the penalty will be 10% per first day late (plus 5% for each subsequent day). Assignments submitted >45 minutes after the due time are counted a day late. The deadline ensures the instructor enough time to read and comment on assignments.

Use of laptops, phones, and digital devices in class

While the use of computer resources is an important part of your experience at SHU, for our 130 minutes of classroom interaction, we will follow the following principles:

Closed laptops, open minds

130 minutes of electronic device-free dialogue Let’s give each other a chance to interact, not via Facebook, but through the real face-book: talking face-to-face and reading each others’ faces like a book – communicating with words, images, expressions, and subtle gestures. This is a crucial skill in diplomacy and negotiation!

No distractions, focused interaction Before class can start, kindly fully turn off and put away your phone and other digital devices.

Better understanding through retyping and re-organizing class notes For best results, take notes by hand during the class meeting (printed outline provided). After class, go over your class notes as well as your notes from the readings, and retype the class notes connecting them with concrete examples or concepts found in the readings and additional searched information (maps, etc.).

Grading and Course Requirements:

Class attendance and participation:	20%
Quizzes	10%
Reading Presentation	10%
Mid-term exam	20%
Research paper presentation + discussion	20%
Final version of research paper	20%

Grading, Assignments, and Class Requirements (in detail)

1. Class attendance and participation.

¹ For regular mail : must be post-marked three business days before the deadline; for Fedex overnight deliveries: must be post-marked one business day before the deadline, but before the Fedex cutoff time.

Class participation will be judged on the quality of verbal communications during the class, as well as your contribution to the creation of a positive learning and discussion environment in the classroom. Creating and maintaining a positive learning and discussion environment requires that no private conversations or activities not related directly to that day's class be allowed. (Please make sure all cell phones or beepers are turned off, and refrain from eating any crunchy or noisy foods during the class. We will not be using computers during the class period except when specifically requested by the instructor.) (See: How to get Laptops Out of Meetings - The Reasons Why; <http://www.miningman.com/Blog/February-2010/How-to-get-Laptops-Out-of-Meetings--Part-1>)

A logical prerequisite for active participation is attendance. Students arriving more than 15 minutes late or leaving more than 30 minutes early will not receive attendance credit for that particular class.

2. Completing all required readings before the session for which they have been assigned, and being ready to discuss them in class. I have tried to keep required readings to a maximum of 90-100 pages per week. However, these materials require focused concentration and ample time for note-taking and re-reading as needed. You should budget 6 to 9 hours per week for completing the readings for this class.
3. Weekly preparation: successful mastery of course materials and skills requires a careful integration of pre-classroom, in-classroom, and post-classroom work on each topic.
Pre-classroom: Completing all required readings before the session for which they have been assigned, and taking notes on them. Please bring your printed reading notes and questions to class.
In-classroom: Using the insights gained through reading to support excellent class participation, and taking notes of the main points/arguments made for further use. Excellent class participation involves, in addition to active participation, an explicit use of session readings to support your points, as well as a serious intellectual engagement with the points made by other students.
Post-classroom: integration of class notes and reading notes (and a re-reading of materials as needed) into a new set of reading notes that, in addition to summaries, also includes (in brackets or a different color) references to broader questions and current policy issues as discussed in class.
4. Quizzes with one or more questions from specific readings assigned for that week; the reading(s) covered by the quizzes will be noted in the syllabus. The questions in the quizzes are directly based on the readings; it is impossible to get a passing grade without having read and studied the respective readings in depth.
5. Reading Presentation. One 10-minute presentations on a particular reading in the syllabus. Sign-up for presentations will take place during the class meeting on January 21 and will be done on a first-come, first-served basis. All sign-ups for class presentations should be completed by Wednesday, January 17. “Options for student presentations” are listed for each class.² Please note:

- The written portion of the presentation is due by 2:00 pm on the day preceding the date of the presentation as stated in the syllabus. Even in case we may be behind the syllabus, the written portion of the presentation is due on the date stated in the syllabus for that reading. Even if the class may be behind the syllabus, you must submit the written portion of your presentation by the date stated on the syllabus.
- Of the total grade for the presentation, half comes from the written presentation, half from the oral presentation. In other words, since each presentation’s grade constitutes 10% of the class grade, its written portion constitutes 5% of the class grade, and the oral portion also 5%.
- The oral portion of the presentation should be didactic and draw students into the issue and its discussion. It should be delivered as a colorful power-point presentation, involving some interactive elements.
- If you choose a presentation noted by “TBA” (and where there is no reading), you should propose a presentation reading (related to the topic of that week) to be approved by the instructor at least three weeks in advance of the presentation date – please start your search early. Your presentation can be based on several related articles, or several chapters of a book, or one especially substantial/long academic article. Inter-Library-Loan (ILL) materials must be ordered by the student at least two weeks before date needed.
- Written presentations are due by 2:00 pm a day before the date noted in the syllabus for that reading (regardless of whether the class may be behind), in hard copy and e-mail.

The presentations should concentrate on the particular reading chosen, yet should also draw on and make connections with the rest of the materials assigned for the class (doing the class presentation does not exempt you from doing the readings for that day) and with appropriate factual materials (drawn from case studies or newspapers) as well as current events. No later than 2:00 pm on the day before your assigned presentation date (as per the syllabus), you should submit the following, as a single file (to the instructor’s mailbox and by e-mail):

- a) a two-page (max. 700 words) typed summary of your presentation arguments in essay form (i.e. using complete sentences, not an outline.) Please include:
 1. your name, date and full class information (class number and section, semester, instructor’s name) on top of first page
 2. full citation of material for presentation on the top of the first page
 3. a summary of the material
 4. a summary of the author’s arguments
 5. how does it relate to other class readings? Does it support, or contradict them?
 6. your own personal assessment

² Additional topics may be approved on a case-to-case basis if the student has a special expertise or experience on a particular relevant issue.

7. a list of five or more questions for class discussion based on that reading.
 - b) It is your responsibility to remember the date of your presentation. Students who do not turn in their typed summary the day before the presentation will have their presentation grade reduced by 20%. Further delays accrue a penalty of 10% of the current grade per day.
 - c) in addition, you should also distribute an short outline/ handout to the class at the time of the presentation. This should be a pedagogically-oriented handout, and, thus, different from the written presentation.
4. A mid-term examination on Wednesday, March 14, covering materials from weeks 1-7.
 5. An original Research Paper on a topic approved by the Instructor, where you apply the concepts used in this class to additional cases (or to an additional aspect of a case discussed in class).

Research paper timeline (all items due in hard copy and e-mail)

Item	Due date (2:00 pm)
Three possible topics	Wed, January 31
Chosen topic and abstract	Wed, February 28
Background readings to Instructor
List and pdf's of background readings for class posted to Blackboard (20 to 50 pages)	Wed, April 4
Copy of power-point presentation and any outlines or other materials used in the class presentation	24 hrs or more before presentation
Final version of research paper (>3500 words) (c. 15 pages, 1.5 spaces)	Wednesday, May 9

d) Doing a 10-minute presentation and leading a subsequent 10-15 minute discussion on April 11, April 18 or April 25. Presentations will be grouped according to issues; you will be assigned a date by the Instructor by April 4.

In addition to the power-point presentation, students are expected to lead a 10-15 minute class discussion using interactive questions as well as on or more class activities, such as a quiz, or other hands-on-activity. The discussion should also be used to get comments on how to improve the paper and its research design for the final version.

d) A final research paper of 10-15 pages (<3500 words including notes and references). All research papers should be based on original research and also incorporate use of class readings as a framework.

The submission should be properly labeled and paginated. Key information that to be included at the top of the first page includes: your name, date, assignment name, title, full class information (class number/section, semester, instructor's name)

6. All your written work will be judged on the basis of content and clarity. All work should proof-read and spell-checked. You are advised to submit your papers to the Writing Center for writing advise before submitting them to the Instructor.

E-mail communications:

Please submit electronic versions of course assignments at the same time as the hard copy; both copies must be identical. Please label electronic copies as noted in point 4 below.

As a result of an uncontrollable flood of unnecessary e-mails, I have set my Spam program to delete questionable messages. To assure efficient communications, please keep in mind to:

1. Please start subject line with DIPL 6001AA
2. In addition, include a clear and fully self- explanatory subject line, including any action requested. Examples of self- explanatory subject lines are: "DIPL6001AA: Special appointment needed to discuss draft due October 30," "DIPL6001: Cannot make meeting April 15," special appointment requested," etc. Non-explanatory Subject lines such as "DIPL 6001" or "Class" will result in a delayed answer or a lost message – my Spam program deletes e-mails that do not contain content-related subject lines.
2. Include an appropriate professional greeting. My Spam program deletes e-mails lacking an appropriate professional greeting. "Hi Prof," "Hi," or a missing greeting do not constitute appropriate professional greetings.
3. Use your Seton Hall e-mail account. My Spam program deletes unexplained e-mails from unknown (non-Seton Hall) accounts
4. Please label any attachments clearly, using a document title such as DIPL6001AAPresenstationSMITHDAYMONTHYEAR.doc.
5. E-mails from DIPL 6001 will normally be answered in three batches: late Monday evenings, Wednesday evenings, late Friday evenings. If I have more than one e-mail from you waiting in my inbox, please keep in mind that I will look at the most recent of your e-mails first; please incorporate into it any relevant information from other e-mails you may have sent during this period. Complex discussions are much more efficiently conducted in person or by phone than by e-mail correspondence.
