Pope Calls for Practice Of Faith, Hope, Charity

ROMA (NC) — The Rome synod was a solid affirmation of the Church's spiritual strength and confidence, thousands in St. Peter's Basilica at the synod's solemn closing.

The Pope urged Catholics to practice Christianity's great and simple virtues: faith, hope and charity.

In his closing address, the Pope referred to the various propositions that were discussed during the synod sessions.

"Faith, hope and charity," he said, "are the three cardinal virtues which are rooted in the divine nature and are the foundation of all spiritual life."

The synod took place in the Vatican and lasted for two months. It was attended by bishops and priests from around the world.

The Pope also spoke about the importance of education and formation of clergy and religious. He called for a more effective and dynamic preaching of the Gospel.

The synod has been praised for its openness and inclusiveness, and has been seen as a step forward in the Church's efforts to adapt to the modern world.

"The synod has shown that the Church is able to listen to the concerns of ordinary Catholics," the Pope said. "We must continue to do this, and to listen to the Holy Spirit, who guides us."

The Pope concluded his address by calling on all Christians to live in peace and harmony, and to work for the common good.

"Let us pray for one another," he said. "Let us pray for peace and unity, and for the good of all people."

NEWARK (NC) — A total of $2,500,000 has been made available to Newark to cover the cost of acquiring and clearing land for the new Seton Hall University. The settlement agreement was announced in Washington by the Urban Renewal Administrator.

The land, which includes a 60-acre site on the east side of the city, will be used for educational and residential purposes.

The Newark area was selected as the site for the new university because of its potential for rapid development and its proximity to the city's central business district.

The settlement agreement provides for the acquisition of the land and the construction of new buildings.

The University will begin classes in the fall of 1970.
Communist Tactics Change But Goal Remains the Same

By Rev. Patrick O'Conner, O.C.P.

The communist tactics appear to be changing. Paul Notretze, head of the Austrian Christian Democratic Party, and his followers have conceded that in the future they will use violence in order to achieve their goals. This is a significant change from the past, and it is likely to have important implications for the future of communism.

Time Needed...

In the Soviet Union, the red army has been pouring into the homes of the Russian people, and the families are suffering from the shortages of food and clothing. The situation has become desperate, and many people are starving. The government has not been able to provide basic necessities to the people, and the protests have been increasing.

Says Press Needs Help of Priest

WASHINGTON — The Catholic press needs the help of the laity in its present controversial position. The federal government has recently released a report on the Catholic Church's contributions to the nation's welfare, and it is clear that the press is facing a significant challenge.

The priest in question is Father John Doe, who has been accused of inappropriate behavior.

For a Good Job: John Bowers, new president of the Catholic University, has accepted the position with a watch on behalf of the club membership. The ceremony took place on Jan. 25, at a dinner at the Hotel New York. Bowers, a native of Ohio, is employed by the university.

New Anthology Describes Eight Appendages of Mary

These revisions are compiled from "Life's Follies," published by the University of Iowa.

A woman's career was first published by John 2 of 2 in "The Life's Follies," a work by John 2 of 2. This is a book that should be read by every Catholic, and it could be read by many non-Catholics with profound profit.

The first chapter, by the author, deals with the life of the last of the seven sons of St. Elizabeth, whose name was Joseph. This chapter serves to introduce the reader particularly concerning the life of the seven sons of St. Elizabeth, and it raises the question of the identity of St. Elizabeth, the mother of Mary, the Blessed Virgin.

The second chapter, by a select committee of experts, deals with the life of the seven sons of St. Elizabeth, whose name was Joseph. This chapter serves to introduce the reader particularly concerning the life of the seven sons of St. Elizabeth, and it raises the question of the identity of St. Elizabeth, the mother of Mary, the Blessed Virgin.

The third chapter, by a group of scholars, deals with the life of the seven sons of St. Elizabeth, whose name was Joseph. This chapter serves to introduce the reader particularly concerning the life of the seven sons of St. Elizabeth, and it raises the question of the identity of St. Elizabeth, the mother of Mary, the Blessed Virgin.

The fourth chapter, by a group of scholars, deals with the life of the seven sons of St. Elizabeth, whose name was Joseph. This chapter serves to introduce the reader particularly concerning the life of the seven sons of St. Elizabeth, and it raises the question of the identity of St. Elizabeth, the mother of Mary, the Blessed Virgin.

The fifth chapter, by the author, deals with the life of St. Joseph as a child, and it raises the question of the identity of St. Joseph, the husband of Mary, the Blessed Virgin.

The sixth chapter, by a select committee of experts, deals with the life of St. Joseph as a child, and it raises the question of the identity of St. Joseph, the husband of Mary, the Blessed Virgin.

The seventh chapter, by a group of scholars, deals with the life of St. Joseph as a child, and it raises the question of the identity of St. Joseph, the husband of Mary, the Blessed Virgin.

The eighth chapter, by the author, deals with the life of St. Joseph as a child, and it raises the question of the identity of St. Joseph, the husband of Mary, the Blessed Virgin.
Archbishop Alter Says 'Side Issues'
Cloud Bishops' Birth Control Statement

CINCINNATI — Bishops of the nation's largest eparchial body have latched onto a national issue to make their own statement on a national problem. "In most states," said Bishop Francis J. P. Deegan, "the bishops have been doing this for a long time. But in Ohio, they have not been doing it."

Bishop Deegan said that the national bishops have been doing this for a long time. But in Ohio, they have not been doing it."

Archbishop Alter agreed. "In any episcopal conference, the bishops tend to focus on some issue that is national in scope and affects the whole country," he said.

Archbishop Alter said that while the national bishops have been doing this for a long time, the bishops in Ohio have not been doing it. "We have been focusing on local issues," he said.

Giving Alms Can Make Up For the Evil in Our Lives

There was once a man who dedicated his life to giving alms. He believed that by doing so, he could make up for the evil in his own life. He gave away large amounts of money to the poor, and many admired him for his generosity. However, he was also known for his wicked behavior and his love for gambling. His friends and acquaintances marveled at his generosity, but they were also concerned about his moral character.

One day, an old woman came to him and asked for help. She told him of her poverty and begged for alms. He gave her some money, but then realized that he had been doing this every day. He wondered if he was being sincere and asked himself if he was truly making up for the evil in his life. He decided to spend the next day thinking about his actions and the impact they had on others.

The next day, he went to a church and asked the priest to give him a confession. The priest was shocked to hear his confession and asked him why he had come. He explained his situation and asked for forgiveness. The priest listened to his confession and then told him that he could not forgive him for his evil actions.

The man was devastated. He had been doing good deeds for so long, but he had not realized that he had been doing evil deeds as well. He decided to change his ways and spend the rest of his life trying to make up for his evil actions. He gave away even more money to the poor and tried to be kind to everyone he met.

From that day on, the man lived a different life. He was no longer concerned about his own needs and instead focused on the needs of others. His friends and acquaintances were impressed by his change in behavior and began to admire him for his selflessness.

The lesson of this story is that we must be careful with our actions and the impact they have on others. We must strive to do good deeds and make up for our evil actions. Only then can we truly make up for the evil in our lives.
What Father John LaFarge Has Accomplished in His First 80 Years

FATHER LaFarge has accomplished much in public life, science, and the arts. This year, he celebrates his 80th birthday. He has been a leader in international affairs, in journalism, and in science. He has been a writer and editor, a historian, and a sculptor. He has also been the editor of various publications as well as the editor of several books.

The Jesuit Archive in Rome has been the center of Father LaFarge's activities. His writings have been published in many journals, and he has also written books. He has been a contributor to the Encyclopaedia Britannica and has also written books about the arts.

In addition to his work as a writer, Father LaFarge has also been a sculptor. He has been a sculptor of various religious and secular works, including the statue of the Virgin Mary in the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart in New York City.

Although he has been a lifelong priest, Father LaFarge has not been one to sit idle. He has been active in many different fields, including science, education, and politics. He has been a member of the American Philosophical Society, and he has also been a member of the Board of Trustees of the New York Academy of Sciences.

He has also been a leader in international affairs, having been the editor of various publications as well as the editor of several books.

In conclusion, Father LaFarge has accomplished much in his life. He has been a writer, editor, and sculptor, and he has also been active in many different fields, including science, education, and politics. He is a true leader in many different fields, and he has left a lasting legacy in the world.
It's Time to Be the Drums for the Tribe

By June Dower

The early American Indians had their tom-tom, the French had the triangle and the little hand rattle, and the English, they gave us the drum. And just as the thing goes, they developed their own. So did the other nations that have gone before us.

The Indian is a very musical person. He is the musician of all the tribes. They have their own music, their own drums, and they have been developing the art of the drum for years.

The drum is a very important instrument. It is used in many different ways. It is used in ceremonies, in battles, in dances and in various other ways. It is a very powerful instrument and can be used to communicate messages.

New League 'Big Five' Conference Organized for Football

HOBOKEN — Five New Jersey Catholic Group "B" high schools have banded together to form a new football conference which will begin operations on a limited basis in 1960.

Members of the new league are Bayley Elker, Incarnate Word, Holy Family, St. Mary's, St. Luke's and Tri-City Haves. The conference was organized last week by Mr. Ken W. Propst, a Bayley Elker assistant.

There will be no playoff in the conference, and the league will not be advertised. The games will be played on an informal basis, and the teams will be limited to Catholic "B" schools.

The conference will meet this week at the Holy Family School to make the final arrangements for the 1960 season.

The conference will be made up of five schools, with each team playing the other teams.

'Big Five' Conference Organized for Football

HOBOKEN — Five New Jersey Catholic Group "B" high schools have banded together to form a new football conference which will begin operations on a limited basis in 1960.

Members of the new league are Bayley Elker, Incarnate Word, Holy Family, St. Mary's, St. Luke's and Tri-City Haves. The conference was organized last week by Mr. Ken W. Propst, a Bayley Elker assistant.

There will be no playoff in the conference, and the league will not be advertised. The games will be played on an informal basis, and the teams will be limited to Catholic "B" schools.

The conference will meet this week at the Holy Family School to make the final arrangements for the 1960 season.

The conference will be made up of five schools, with each team playing the other teams.

What a Book Can Do

By Msgr. William F. Furlong

John 10:10 and 10:27 are the theme of a talk in the St. Peter's Avenue Church, St. Peter's Avenue, St. James Parish, Atlantic City, on January 15. The speaker was Rev. Msgr. William F. Furlong, pastor of St. Peter's Avenue Church. He told the group about his experiences with young men who have been helped by the book "What a Book Can Do". He said that the book has helped many young men to make better decisions in life. It has also helped them to see the importance of faith and how it can change their lives. He encouraged the people at the event to read the book and to share it with others.

Intelligence Official Tells How Reds Use Cuban Revolution

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Central Intelligence Agency official has said that communist propaganda aimed at Cuba from abroad was being filtered through cross-border communications. "Cuban propaganda" would be intercepted by agents in the United States and analyzed, he said.

The official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said that the communists were using Cuba as a base for operations in Central America and that they were planning to use it for further penetration into the United States. The official said that the communists were staging demonstrations and rallies in Cuba to attract international attention.

The official said that the communists were also using Cuba as a base for Espionage activities. He said that the communists were using Cuba as a cover for agents who were operating in the United States.

Padre Pio Denies Forecasting Doom

ROME (AP) — Padre Pio, father of the poor and sick, has denied that he forecasted a future depression.

"I have never predicted a future depression," Padre Pio said in a statement. "I have only spoken of the need for compassion and understanding in our world."

Padre Pio, who is a Franciscan priest, has been widely respected for his work with the poor and sick. He has been called "The Patient of Jesus" and "The Nun of the Poor." He has said that his work is a ministry of compassion and understanding.

Padre Pio has been credited with a series of miracles, including the healing of a sick child and the recovery of a woman from a serious illness. He has said that his work is a ministry of compassion and understanding.

Holy Father Thanks Venetians
For Their Devotion to Pins X

The Pope issued a radio message delivered by Pope John XXIII on May 10, 1959, owing the mayor of the city of St. Mark and the archbishop of Venice the gratitude of the faithful for the splendid gesture displayed in associating to the preparation of the solemnity of the Ascension. The Pope is not on earth, but in heaven; 40 days on earth, and 40 days in heaven. The Pope is Pope of all, not of any particular city or country. A happy community is shown in Venetian installations around the palace of St. Mark, especially in the Molo, as a sign of the joy that Rey grants to the Venetians.

State Holy Name Men Start Campaign Against Bad, for Good Literature

NEWARK — A statewide counterattack on "dirty" books and magazines has been undertaken by New Jersey Holy Name men, it includes a widespread effort of the local Council of Catholic University Religious, with strong support from the national Holy Name Council and the Holy Name Conferences of America.

The new campaign will be a special project by the New Jersey Council of Catholic University Religious, the first such project under the leadership of Msgr. Francis J. Conroy, director of the Council.

In the Archdiocese of Newark, it is going on this month. The Holy Name conferences have already been invited to the diocese, and the project will be followed by a campaign in the metropolitan area.

The project in the Archdiocese of Newark was announced on Jan. 30, when it was officially adopted at the Holy Name conference headquarters meeting in the Christ Church. The project will proceed as a result of a special call from the national Holy Name Council of Catholic University Religious.

Archbishop's Appointments
Archbishop John Cardinal Cooke has announced the following appointments:

Chairman of the library of the Council of Catholic University Religious, New Jersey State and the Archdiocese of Newark, is Msgr. Francis J. Conroy.

The Archdiocese of Newark is the largest archdiocese in the United States, with a population of more than 1 million. The Holy Name Council of Catholic University Religious is a national organization that promotes the use of religious literature and is affiliated with the Holy Name Conferences of America.

Philadelphia Hospitals Resist Delay in Blue Cross Withdrawal

Philadelphia, Pa. (AP) — Philadelphia hospitals have rejected a proposal by Blue Cross to delay their withdrawal from the Blue Cross plan until a settlement of a dispute between the hospitals and the insurance company is reached.

The hospitals said they would not agree to the delay, which would allow Blue Cross to continue its operations in the area.

The hospitals said they would continue their negotiations with Blue Cross and that they would not agree to the delay proposed by Blue Cross.

The proposals for the delay were made by Blue Cross officials who said they would consider the hospitals' concerns.

The hospitals said they would also consider the possibility of a settlement of the dispute between the hospitals and Blue Cross.
