Cardinal Stepinac, 61, Dies
In Native Village of Krasic

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — Archbishop Cardinal Stepinac of Zagreb, long confirmed in his native village of Krasic, was interred there, the day before his 61st birthday, according to reliable reports received here.

The late archbishop, renowned for his commitment to the cause of democracy in Croatia, had been flown to Zagreb from New York, where he had been granted asylum in 1947 by the late Pope Pius XII.

Cardinal Stepinac was born in Krasic, 15 miles north of Zagreb, on Sept. 11, 1886. He was ordained a priest on March 29, 1911, and became bishop of Zagreb in 1928. He served as archbishop of Zagreb from 1950 to 1960.

The cardinal was a leader of the Croatian resistance against Nazi occupation during World War II. He was arrested by the Gestapo in 1941 and spent more than three years in concentration camps.

The cardinal was a strong advocate of the restoration of Croatia's independence and was a champion of democratic values. He was a leader in the efforts to establish a free and independent Croatia after World War II.

The cardinal was known for his courage and determination in the face of adversity. He was a champion of the rights of the Croatian people and a advocate of the principles of freedom and democracy.

The cardinal's commitment to his native village of Krasic was reflected in his dedication to his home parish and his efforts to promote the development of the village.

The late archbishop's interment in Krasic is a fitting tribute to his devotion to his native village and his commitment to the cause of democracy in Croatia.
Strive for Positive In Communications

NEW YORK CITY — Cardinal John J. Dearden, archbishop of Detroit, president of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, has urged journalists to strive for a more positive approach to the complex problems of today's world.

He told a group of journalists at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel that too much emphasis has been placed on negative aspects of the news, and that this has contributed to an increase in anti-Catholic sentiment.

The archbishop said that the media have a responsibility to present a balanced view of events, and that they should not be afraid to report positive developments as well.

He cited the example of the recent papal visit to the United States, which he said had a positive impact on public opinion.

Cardinal Dearden also praised the work of the Knights of Columbus, saying that they have done much to promote tolerance and understanding among different groups.

He urged journalists to continue to strive for positive coverage of events, and to remember that their work has a significant influence on public opinion.

ANNUAL MEETING: Cardinal Dearden opened the annual meeting of the Knights of Columbus at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

He said that the organization has a long history of service to its members and to the community, and that it continues to play a vital role in promoting Catholic values.

The cardinal also praised the work of the Knights in promoting education, health care, and social justice.

He said that the organization has a special responsibility to promote the values of family and community, and that it should continue to work for the common good.

Dearden concluded his address by expressing his gratitude to the members of the Knights of Columbus for their dedication and commitment.

God Knows and He Loves Without Any Changes

By Frank J. Sheed

God, we have been, is entirely in the present tense. The entire lifetime of the human heart should be present tense, with God’s presence in everything. And we should not talk of God’s love as if it were a thing, but as if it were a person to be present with, and to be known.

This applies to all His acts. He is present in all that happens, as a loving and personal act. Thus, in the present tense, He loves and acts. He is always present with us, in all situations. We may be saying that God loves us, but He is always present in our lives, in all situations.

If we are one with God, we know this love, for we are His children, and He loves us in all situations.

Communists Hail Pro-Soviet ‘Change’

By Louis F. Budenz

The United States, in its policy of setting up a pro-Soviet ‘change’ in Eastern Europe, is now on the road to making a determined effort to establish a pro-Soviet government in the Soviet Union. The United States has made a determined effort to establish a pro-Soviet government in the Soviet Union.

This policy is based on the fact that the United States is the only country in the world that can possibly impose its will on the Soviet Union. The United States has been occupying the Soviet Union since 1945, and has been imposing its will on the Soviet Union ever since.

The United States has been occupying the Soviet Union since 1945, and has been imposing its will on the Soviet Union ever since.

296 Who Otherwise

Not infrequently the time of victory and the time of defeat are one and the same. The victory of the United States in the Second World War is the same as the defeat of the Soviet Union. The United States has been occupying the Soviet Union since 1945, and has been imposing its will on the Soviet Union ever since.

The Poor Bachelor, II

By Dan Head

Ah, yes, we are talking about the hard life of American bachelors. Apparently I am not the only person that has doubts about the virtues of bachelorhood. I know there are many others who share my doubts. Of course, I do not mean to suggest that all bachelors are losers. There are many who have managed to find happiness and fulfillment on their own. But it seems to me that the life of a bachelor is not always easy. In fact, it can be quite challenging at times. I think that it is important to be aware of the difficulties that bachelors face, so that we can better understand and support them. So, let us talk about the poor bachelor, shall we?

But then the children come and what a difference! The problem enters depression into sentimental scenes and musing over the subject of love with an ideological bent. This is the way of the bachelor, and he has the right to be bitter. He is an enemy of the state, and he is2

Catholic Schools Threaten Sweep of Four County Basketball Titles

NEWARK — In 15 of the four counties of the Newark Archdiocese, basketball champions will be crowned during the next two weeks, and in each case, Catholic schools will be in the mix. The Catholic League has set the stage.

Leonia Starts Parish Development Fund

LEONIA — A parish development fund campaign in St. John's Church here was announced this week by the Rev. Timothy S. Horne, O.Carm., pastor. The campaign is designed to increase substantially the wealth of the parish by establishing a sinking fund to defray the current and future expenses of the church. The campaign is being conducted by the parish council.

According to Father Horne, the present financial situation is critical and urgent. The church is in need of immediate attention, and a large commitment is necessary to ensure the future viability of the church.

The new addition will provide an additional seating capacity of 150 people, thereby accommodating more parishioners during busy services. This will not only enhance the worship experience but also help to expand the outreach of the parish to the community.

When completed, the church will be able to accommodate more people, thereby facilitating the present congregation to grow. The new addition will also provide a space for youth groups and other community meetings.

In view of the current financial situation, the parishioners are encouraged to contribute generously to this campaign to ensure the future of their church. They are asked to consider making a monthly contribution to the campaign to help secure a stable financial base for the parish.

BURNING 612, the second annual St. John's Day celebration, was held on Sunday, June 5, at 12:30 p.m. The celebration featured a special Mass, a procession, and a fireworks display. The event was attended by many parishioners and invited guests.

The program kicked off with the pantsel of Father Corrado, Rector of St. John's, who welcomed the attendees and highlighted the importance of the celebration. He emphasized the significance of our traditions and encouraged the community to continue participating in such events.

The highlight of the celebration was the special Mass celebrated by Father Corrado. During the Mass, he delivered a powerful homily, urging the congregation to live their faith more passionately and to serve others with love and compassion.

Following the Mass, a procession wound through the streets of Leonia, led by Father Corrado and accompanied by the St. John's Day Band. The procession was a vibrant display of the community's spirit and unity.

The celebration concluded with a spectacular fireworks display, which lit up the sky and delighted the audience. The event was a testament to the strong bond between the church and the community.

The celebration of St. John's Day is an important event for the St. John's community, providing an opportunity for reflection, prayer, and celebration.

The event was a wonderful reunion where attendees gathered to celebrate the rich traditions of St. John's Church. They were encouraged to continue their participation in the parish and to contribute to the development fund to ensure the future of their church.

In conclusion, the second annual St. John's Day celebration was a success. It brought together the community and reinforced the importance of living our faith passionately. The event was a true celebration of the spirit of St. John's Church and its unwavering commitment to the community.
Archbishop to Present Awards for Advocate Subscription Crusade

NEWARK — Showing long-range constitutional improvement, the Advocate School, Upper Montclair, has topped all other schools of the Archdiocese of Newark in the 1959 Advocate School Subscription Crusade. It was announced this week by Allen C. Bradley, circulation manager.

The Archbishop, Bishop Matthew W. Hickey, has been in the top four for the past year, according to Bradley. Since 1954, there has been a steady increase in the school's circulation, which now stands at 7,000. The school, which was founded in 1903, has been serving the clergy and laity in the Archdiocese for over 50 years. It is the only school in the Archdiocese that has not only achieved a type of achievement, but has also increased its circulation.

In all parts of the state, parishes will have a chance to purchase subscriptions to the Advocate. The school, which is located on the Jersey Avenue, will have its final subscriptions on June 15.
