Yugoslav People Mourn Death of Their Cardinal

EAGGER, Yugoslavia — The tears and sorrowing clothes of his people who jammed St. Mark's Cathedral for his requiem were the honors reserved in death by Argentine Cardinal Byrnes, who had been deprived of life in the dignities of the Church during the Fascist occupation.

Cardinal Byrnes was buried Feb. 16 from the cathedral he had been forbidden to leave by the Germans during his last months. He was first fired, then, and continued his native village by the Nazis, until Feb. 10 when he was shot at 81.

The funeral and burial have taken place in the 17th century cathedral as a reminder to his people — communists preserved them from ever going to Rome.

The funeral of the Argentine archbishop will be held in Buenos Aires on Monday, and the archbishop's coadjutor, the Rev. Msgr. John M. Byrnes, will take the place of Byrnes in the See.

Cardinal Byrnes had been shot February 17, 1942, in the middle of the night, when his wife was in the house. He was buried with full honors in the cathedral.

In the United States, where Byrnes was born, he had been a bishop for 18 years, and the last two years he had been a member of the Supreme Council of the Catholic Church, and was the first to be elected since the war.

Mr. Dougherty's Book in Top 10

NEW YORK — "Understanding the Scriptures," the latest book by Msgr. John J. Dougherty, president of St. John's University, has been selected as the best book on Sacred Scriptures published during the last decade.

The selection was made by Rev. Harold C. Gardiner, S.J., editor of "The New World," a Jesuit periodical, as part of the "Best Books of the Decade" series.

Father Gardiner's selection of the 10 best religious books published during the past 10 years was based on his own personal choices and the results of a survey of leading religious scholars and theologians in the United States.

"Understanding the Scriptures" has been described as a "pioneering" work and "a monumental" achievement in the field of sacred scripture. It is the only book written in English to be included in the series.

The book is available at bookstores and online retailers.

Denies Promoting Cuban Anti-Red Rally

HAVANA — Cuba's Catholic church had accused the U.S. government of promoting and training counter-revolutionaries in an attempt to overthrow the Castro regime. The church, in a statement issued on February 18, 1960, said the U.S. government was responsible for the formation of the Cuban National Liberation Front (FNL), which the church claimed was a counter-revolutionary group. The church also alleged that the U.S. government was providing financial support to the FNL and that it was planning to invade Cuba to overthrow the Castro regime.

Soldiers and young men are seen in a photo taken during a demonstration against the U.S. government's support for the FNL. The photograph was published in the church newspaper, the Clarín, on February 18, 1960. The church claimed that the FNL was a counter-revolutionary group that was trained and funded by the U.S. government.

Archbishop to Crusaders: Spread Press Good News

Newark—Eighth-grade students received their prizes ranging from $5 to $15 for their subscriptions or orders of the Crusade News, which is being distributed in the Archdiocese of Newark.

The prizes were awarded either to the individuals or to their schools. The most subscribers in each category will receive a prize.

Each of these gifts repre- sent a very important Crusade development on the Correspondence Crusade, which is designed to provide a continuing revenue source for the Crusade News.

The Archbishop told the students that the Crusade News is a vital part of our Catholic Press. The Crusade News is a weekly newspaper published by the Archdiocese of Newark.

This newspaper is a great help in spreading the word about the Crusade and its objectives. It is also a valuable resource for information about the Catholic Church in general.

The Archbishop urged the students to continue their subscriptions and to encourage others to subscribe as well.

God's Life Work Explained

In Blessed Trinity Doctrine

Matthew (1:27) and John (1:30) are agreed that the Lord Jesus came into the world to be the Saviour of the world. If we were to accept the teaching of the Gospels, we would have to be born again. The first step is to be converted, to receive the Lord Jesus as our Saviour. Without this, we cannot expect to inherit eternal life.

Challenge for The Catholic Press

MORE surprising than our own personal reaction was that of some of the editors and representatives of the Catholic Press here. It seemed to us that they would like to have more information before writing about the situation.

Our own policy, and our usual procedure, is to try to keep abreast of the situation so that we can give our readers the best possible news. This week, however, we have not had enough information to do that.

We believe that the situation is serious and dangerous, and that we should do what we can to help in any way that we can.

We hope that our readers will not be too critical of our efforts to keep informed about the situation.

The Catholic Press is not a government agency, but it is our belief that we should try to be as responsible as possible in the news that we publish.

The Motive Is Important In Grieving

The United States is facing a serious problem of national importance in the next few years. It is a problem that affects every family, every community, and every individual.

The problem is that of the motive in grieving.

The motive in grieving is the basic element in the development of our national character. It is the motive that determines how we will respond to the challenges of the future.

The motive in grieving is the basis of all our actions.

It is the action of the motive in grieving that determines whether we will be able to face the challenges of the future or whether we will be unable to do so.

We believe that the motive in grieving is important in every family, every community, and every individual.

700-Year-Old Rome Hospital
Came of Pope's Dream, It's Said

ROME (CNS) — Institutions like Sant' Andrea Abbey were open to the name of the "eternal city."
The hospital has been on the spot in the past, with a link between the Pope's residence and the hospital, but more to the Pope's point of view.

The hospital was founded by Pope Boniface VIII in 1296.
It was named after its founder, who was the first Pope to use the title of "Pope of Rome."

The Pope chose a Frenchman, Guillaume de Montpellier, who had directed an order of monks in England, to open the hospital.

When the hospital was rebuilt and expanded in the 17th century, the Pope's residence was located in the walls of the hospital.

The Pope and his successors continued to use the hospital as their residence, and the hospital remained open to the public.

The hospital was one of the largest hospitals in Europe, and was often referred to as the
"hospital of the Pope."

In 1780, the hospital was taken over by the government, and became a public hospital.

The hospital has remained in operation to this day, and is still one of the largest hospitals in Europe.

With Humble Pride

In Short, It Smelled!

By Dick Harris

"You can smell it, they said, when they went to see the Pope."
The American visitors can smell it, too.

They said that the Pope had an orgie, and that this was evidenced by the smell of the building.

The Americans, who were on a private tour of the Vatican, said that the Pope had a
"harem" of women.

And the Pope, they said,
was "a pervert."
