PONTIFF’S DAY STARTS WHILE ROME SLEEPS

By Max E. Thomas

VATICAN CITY — A day before he makes a short trip to France, Pope Paul VI was again faced with problems last night as he and his close advisers took a look at the future of the world. No other file last night, however, was more important than the one on the left side of his desk, where Father Joseph F. McFadden, the Pope’s private secretary, had carefully written down the names of those who will accompany him on his official tour of France.

The Pope plans to visit France from June 29 to July 10, where he will meet with French President Charles de Gaulle and other officials. The trip is the second of his pontificate and will be his first visit to Europe since his election in 1963.

dSAYS RELIGIOUS BIAS IN VOTING SINFUL

WASHINGTON (RNS) — The Pope was yesterday shown to be a man of principles as he voted in the American election. He was the only Catholic to vote for the President, and he was among a small group of Catholic priests who voted in the election.

The Pope, who is a member of the CONGREGATION OF THE CURIA, said he voted for the President because he believed the President was the only candidate who could bring about the kind of government that he thought would be good for the country.

Catholic Views Accepted, Rejected at Conference
WASHINGTON (N. Y.) — The 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth was by and large a triumph for Catholic Ideas on what is good for U. S. youth, despite the efforts of minority groups to promote their own ideas, the Catholic News Service reported.

Through statements issued just before the conference began, the Catholic News Service reported, the Catholic Church was assured of having its viewpoints accepted as the basis of the conference's work, despite the efforts of minority groups to promote their own ideas.

According to the Catholic News Service, the American Catholic Conference on Children and Youth was held from March 29 to April 2 and was attended by 1,000 persons from all parts of the country. The conference was sponsored by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and the National Catholic Welfare Council.

Florida Center Of Palm Industry

MINN. FIA. — In all likelihood, the famed palms you take home from Church this year were grown the well over one million palms shipped from Miami in recent weeks. The palm-growing industry is centered in this north-central Florida town, although the first palm shipments from Florida went out in 1887. Most of the palms are produced by large-scale growers, often for the church decoration market, according to the Miami Herald. There are two kinds of palm: the "bible" palm, which takes from 18 to 20 years to grow, the "cabbage" palm, which is a smaller variety, and both grow best in warm climates. All of the work takes place on farms with workers, many of whom are paid on a piecework basis. Palm Sunday is a popular day for churchgoers to buy palms, and many churches hold special events to attract customers. The palm industry in Miami is estimated to be worth about $5 million annually. The Miami palms are propagated from seed, and the industry is said to be worth about $5 million annually. The Risks We Face At Summit Meeting

By Lois F. Budenz

The risks we face today are not the usual kind. They are not the kind that come from the usual enemies of man: nationalism, the lust for power, the desire to exploit others, the drive for empire. These are the risks that come with the new world order: the risks of the new technology, the risks of the new interdependence of nations, the risks of living in a world of change.

We are faced with the new world order, with a world that is in turmoil. The world is in turmoil because the old world order is being replaced by a new world order. The old world order was based on nationalism, on the desire for power and empire. The new world order is based on interdependence, on the desire for peace and harmony.

We are faced with the new world order, with a world that is in transition. The transition is not smooth. It is a period of conflict, of adjustment, of change. The transition is not a period of peace. It is a period of turmoil, of uncertainty, of danger.

We are faced with the new world order, with a world that is in crisis. The crisis is not a crisis of the past. It is a crisis of the future. The crisis is not a crisis of our parents. It is a crisis of our children.

We are faced with the new world order, with a world that is in crisis. We are faced with the new world order, with a world that is in turmoil, in transition, in crisis. We are faced with the new world order, with a world that is in danger, that is in need of help, that is in need of hope.

In your prayers, remember the need for help, the need for hope, the need for understanding, the need for love. In your prayers, remember the need for our patron, the Holy Spirit.
Holy Father Looks to You for Mission Assistance

As we look at the example of Our Lady, we find that she gives us the courage to be courageous. Pope John Paul II has shown us the value of faith and the importance of duty. He has taught us that the Church is a community of saints and that we are all called to serve. His message is clear: we are called to be missionaries.

We, the undersigned, do hereby petition the Bishop of the diocese of Newark, Most Rev. Matthew M. Palmer, D.D., M.A., to establish a new diocesan mission, the St. David’s Mission, in Atlantic City, N.J.

The mission will be dedicated to the promotion of the Gospel and the spread of the Catholic Church. It will be a center for spiritual renewal and for the formation of new Christian leaders. We believe that this mission is necessary for the growth of the Church in our diocese.

STARLING A PROJECT: Archdiocese Behold in one of the books of the Holy Father to promote the spread of good Catholic literature. This was one of the books that I admired.

Sodality to Promote Special Reading Program in Archdiocese

SOUTH SHORE — The archdiocesan office of the Sodality of the United States has announced a special reading campaign to promote the study of the closing book of the Holy Father, "Theology of the Body." The campaign, "Reading the Story of Our Lady," will run from June 1 to July 1.

The program was inaugurated by the Archbishop of New York, Cardinal Edward Egan, and the Sodality's national director, Msgr. Joseph C. McLoughlin. It is designed to encourage young people to read the book and to discuss its significance.

The reading campaign is part of the Sodality's annual observance of the feast of Our Lady of the Immaculate Conception, which falls on December 8.

The Sodality is a Catholic lay organization committed to the promotion of the Gospel. Its members are dedicated to the service of the Church and the community.

In order to participate in the reading campaign, young people are encouraged to read "Theology of the Body," discuss it with their families and friends, and share their thoughts and reflections on the book.

The Sodality has also planned a series of events to accompany the reading campaign, including a national convention, "Theology of the Body," which will be held in New York City on June 8-9.

Through the reading campaign and the national convention, the Sodality aims to foster a deeper understanding of the teachings of Our Lady and to promote the study of Catholic literature.

We are grateful to the archdiocesan office of the Sodality for their initiative in this matter.

We pray for the success of this campaign and for the growth of the Sodality in our diocese.

Sincerely yours,

The Paschal Meal

By Anne May Buckley

Nor is there a lack of exotic offerings for those who wish to observe the ancient practice of the Holy Thursday evening meal in the Christian family. But there are limitations. Catholics are told to eat "northwest" foods only — those foods of the northwest part of the United States. Catholics are asked to avoid the garlic and onions, and to eat the foods of the New England states.

But there is another way to observe the Holy Thursday meal in the Christian family. In the Christian family, family members are asked to eat a meal together, at the same time, and to observe the religious significance of the meal. This is called the "Paschal Meal." It is observed on Holy Thursday, the eve of Easter Sunday, and is a religious ceremony, a meal, and a celebration of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ.

PREPARATION: The Paschal Meal begins with the observation of the "holy bread" and the "holy wine." The holy bread is unleavened bread, and the holy wine is the wine obtained from the grapes used to make wine. The holy bread is used by the Catholic Church as a symbol of the body of Christ, and the holy wine is used as a symbol of the blood of Christ.

At the beginning of the Paschal Meal ceremony, the Paschal Candle is lighted, and the Paschal Meal is celebrated. Then the Paschal Meal is begun, and the family members gather around the table to eat the meal. The meal consists of the unleavened bread, the holy wine, and other foods that are symbolic of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Bonnie's Pick to Succeed Lucans As Passaic-Bergen Champions

PATTERSON — After five years at the top of the Passaic-Bergen Catholic Conference baseball ranks, it appears that the majority of the state's baseball fans are gearing up an emotional staircase to see the former Super Bowl Champion at work during the coming season.

In fact, the only question is whether the move will be made during the last inning of the game or in the third inning, when the team's star player will be in the lineup.

A recent return from his latest call to the big man in the basement, Coach Greg Kelly, explained the move by saying, "I want to give the team a chance to see how it will work out, and I think it's a good opportunity to see what we have to do to make it work.

"I'm just glad the coach will be in the lineup. I think it will help us a lot."

The move is expected to start with Phil Marv's, who has been a senior over the last four years.

After Marv's, the team's third-stringer, the St. Peter's is scheduled to replace him, and the loose end of the lineup will be handled by the senior receiver, who will be in the lineup in the third inning to determine the starting order.

In the meantime, the team will continue to practice and work on their skills.

St. Peter's alumnae, the first team to play more than one season under Coach Kelly, will be in the lineup to give the team a chance to win the game.

The team is scheduled to play their first game on Wednesday, with Marv's leading off.

The team's star player, who has been out with a pulled muscle, is expected to be back in action soon.

Kelly said, "I think it's good for the team to see how it works. I want to give them a chance to see how they can handle it. I think it will be good for the team to see how they can handle it.

"I'm just glad the coach will be in the lineup. I think it will help us a lot."

The move is expected to start with Phil Marv's, who has been a senior over the last four years.
