Exiled Priests Sent to Siberia

BERLIN (RNS)—Three Polish priests in exile here have been sent to Siberia, the most recent of them being Msgr. M. Dally. The priests were sent to the Russian town of Kizlyak, in the Krasnoyarsk region, as part of the government's efforts to strengthen the Church in the Soviet Union. The priests were among a group of 15 religious leaders who had sought asylum in West Berlin. Msgr. Dally was expelled in 1960 for his outspoken criticism of Soviet policies, and the other two priests were expelled in 1961 for their anti-communist activities.

The priests will be required to live in a monastery and are not allowed to engage in any public activities. The Catholic Church in the Soviet Union has been facing increasing pressure from the government, which has sought to undermine the Church's influence in the country. The priests' departure is likely to further strain relations between the Vatican and the Soviet Union.

Tunisia Expels Three Nuns

Three members of the Sisters of the Cross and St. John have been expelled from Tunisia after they were accused of spreading anti-government propaganda. The nuns, who were working in a hospital in the capital, were detained by police and later deported from the country.

The expulsion of the nuns is likely to further strain relations between the Vatican and the Tunisian government, which has been seeking to improve ties with the Catholic Church.

The Evil of Apartheid

The African identity is one of the major issues in South Africa. The tension between the whites and the blacks has been a persistent feature of South African life since the 1940s. The apartheid system, which was established in the 1940s, is a system of racial segregation that has been in place in South Africa since the 1940s. The system was officially abolished in 1994.

Biographies of the Little Flower

Editor:

It was interesting to read in The Advocate that Mary Varian Johnson of England was sponsoring the cause of the Little Flower’s canonization. She was born in England, her family was Catholic, and she was the first person to become a nun. The Advocate has written extensively about the Church and the need for a new saint in the Catholic Church. The Advocate has also written about the Little Flower’s canonization. In my opinion, she would be a great example for others to follow and it would be wonderful to have another saint to look to for guidance.

The Trappists

In the last issue of The Advocate, you mentioned the Trappists. I have been a member of the Trappist community for over twenty years and I feel that they are the best people in the world. They are a community that has dedicated their lives to God and are always present to help others. They are a wonderful community and I believe that they should be held in the highest esteem.

God Love You

Repaying the Favor

By Bishop Paul T. Smith

In the May 10 issue of The Advocate, you mentioned the importance of repaying favor. I would like to add my voice to those who believe in this principle. In my experience, people who have repaid favor have been rewarded with kindness and grace. It is a principle that I believe should be taught in schools and communities.

A Look at Pope John, Some of Rome

Theodore H. Hanover

When the pontiff arrived at the pontifical summer residence of Castel Gandolfo on Monday, he would have had to have been very happy and grateful. His papacy had ended with a great jubilee, and the pope had been elected in a time of crisis and turmoil. Rome was a city of beauty and history, and the pope was the successor of the Popes of the past. However, the pope was also aware of the challenges facing the church and the world. He knew that the church had to be renewed and that the pope had to be a leader who could inspire confidence and hope.

Silliness in Politics

It's going to be a long hard summer—there is likely to be a lot of nuclear nonsense this summer. The nuclear arms race has already progressed beyond the state of mere posturing and brinkmanship, and the current political impasse seems to be more irrelevant than ever. The politicians are more concerned with their own careers and the next election than with the ongoing crisis. It is time for the politicians to take responsibility and act on behalf of the people they represent.

Tale of Two Mission Nuns

By Anne Mac Kenzie

There is a jungle hospital nestled in Bougainville where death from rural childhood diseases and malnutrition is a daily occurrence. The patients have little hope of recovery, but they are also grateful for the care they receive. The hospital is staffed by two nuns, Sister Mary Helen and Sister Patricia, who have dedicated their lives to helping the sick and poor.

In Bougainville, in the village of Tumi, where she was not expected to last very long, a young girl has just returned alive from the hospital. The girl's name is Mary, and she is seven years old. She was admitted to the hospital with severe malnutrition and dehydration. The nuns have been caring for her for several months, and she has made a remarkable recovery. She is now back home with her family, and they are all grateful for the care she received at the hospital.

IN THE JUNGLE: Sister Mary Helen, the former Patricia Mahon of Elizabethtown, is the Roman Catholic nun who worked as a missionary in the Matari Missionary Sisters' hospital. Recently she made her final vows in the

She is the mother of Jesus, the savior of the world, and she has been revered by Christians for centuries. She is the intercessor between heaven and earth, and she is the model of holiness and charity. She is the mother of the church, and she is the fountain of grace and mercy. She is the mother of the world, and she is the source of all goodness and holiness. She is the mother of the poor, and she is the advocate of the forgotten.
