Two Movies About Christ Are Now Being Planned

By William M. Moore

Two films about Christ will be shown in-area theaters for the first time this week. The films, "The Passion of the Christ" and "The Greatest Story Ever Told," have been in preparation for two or three years.

The story of Jesus' crucifixion was told in "The Passion of the Christ," which was released last year, while "The Greatest Story Ever Told," released in 1965, is being shown for the first time in the area.

The films are expected to draw large crowds, and tickets are expected to sell quickly.

The Passion of the Christ, directed by Mel Gibson, tells the story of Jesus' crucifixion through the eyes of a Roman soldier, Lucius. The film is known for its realistic portrayal of the events leading up to Jesus' death and is considered a classic of its genre.

The Greatest Story Ever Told, directed by King Vidor, is a cinematic epic that tells the story of the life of Jesus Christ, from his birth to his resurrection. The film is famous for its grand scale and is widely regarded as one of the greatest religious films ever made.

Both films are expected to be shown at several theaters in the area, and audiences are encouraged to purchase tickets in advance.
Vandals Deplete Newark Chapel Altar

NEWARK — The altar of St. Joseph's Chapel, 184 Park Ave., is practically empty as a result of the work of vandals.

Sometimes during the night of May 23 or early morning of May 24, the vandals broke into the building through a large hole in the roof. In the church are no one and no electric light. Several broken pews and an altar were broken. Two or three pews were pulled completely out of the church. Some of the broken pews were stolen.

All their keys were on a second floor in the church before the alarm was given. They say the whole church was looted.

Cold Water Dashed on Migrants; Scholarship Funds Are Provided

TRENTON — If migrant workers want to wash, they can wash with cold water drawn from a well because it might not feel so good to Jersey farmers out of business to supply hot and cold running water.

Financial hardships were one of the arguments advanced in a letter to the Legislature here when the State Senate passed a resolution removing the power to make rules for providing cold and hot running water on the grounds that such a provision would be favorable to the state's farmers.

The SENATE also approved an amendment to the existing law that makes the power to make rules governing the use of water a power of the Legislature.

Meanwhile, the Assembly adopted a house-approved resolution providing for the use of cold and hot running water in the state's farms.

The Senate amendment passed by the Senate last year, the Assembly amendment approved by the Assembly last year, and the resolution passed by the Assembly this year are not binding on the Senate, but the Senate is under no obligation to act on the resolution.

At an earlier session, the Assembly adopted a resolution providing for the use of cold and hot running water in the state's farms.

The Senate amendment passed by the Senate last year, the Assembly amendment approved by the Assembly last year, and the resolution passed by the Assembly this year are not binding on the Senate, but the Senate is under no obligation to act on the resolution.

Spirit and Matter Wedded
To Make Man Truly Unique

By Frank F. Sobel

Sobel is the author of this article which appeared in the May 1950 issue of "The Advocate." The article discusses the importance of the spirit and matter being wedded in order to make man truly unique. Sobel argues that there is an "original sin" in the human soul that is responsible for the desire to be free. He believes that this desire can only be satisfied by the union of spirit and matter.

Local Communists
Pushed Up to Summit

By Louis F. Dorothy

Dorothy's article discusses the push of local communists to the summit. He notes that the communists have made significant progress in recent years, but that they still face many obstacles. Dorothy argues that the communists need to focus on building a strong base of support and developing a clear message.

Immoral Morals

The title of this article is "Immoral Morals." It appears to be a critique of certain moral standards, possibly those that are perceived as being overly strict or unrealistic. The author may be critical of the idea that certain behaviors are inherently immoral, or that the standards by which they are judged are unfair or unreasonable.

A Pledge Unredeemed

The title of this article is "A Pledge Unredeemed." It seems to be a statement of regret or disappointment, possibly indicating that a promise or agreement has not been fulfilled. The author may be反映了一种不满意或失望的情绪，可能涉及到某种协议或承诺未被实现的情况。

Sign's Critic Evaluates "The Play of the Week"

In the June issue of The Sign, published by the Parishioner at Union City, N.J., John P. Sigismund, host of "Talking With a Parishioner," offered an appraisal of "The Play of the Week." Because this periodical is widely read throughout the Catholic Church, the opinion of the periodical's editor is important to many Catholics. M. T. A., our Urban Affairs Editor, predicted that the article would be of interest to all readers of "The Play of the Week," which is syndicated to newspapers in 200 dioceses, including the Roman Catholic diocese of New York.

The article begins with a brief introduction. Like "Medea," the play has been chosen for its "intrinsic" qualities, and it is stated that the character development is among the best in the play. The critic then goes on to praise the "beautiful" staging, which he feels has "greatly helped" the audience to understand the plot.

The critic then turns to the "themes" of the play. He notes that while the plot is "curiously" neglected, the themes are "very" important. He mentions the "idea" of the "loss of a father" and the "loss of a mother," which he feels are "very" important to the characters.

The critic then turns to the "acting" of the play. He notes that while the acting is "good," the "dialogue" is "very" important. He mentions the "beautiful" lines spoken by the characters, which he feels are "very" moving.

The critic then turns to the "music" of the play. He notes that while the music is "good," the "lyrics" are "very" important. He mentions the "beautiful" music composed by the composer, which he feels is "very" moving.

The critic then turns to the "director" of the play. He notes that while the director is "very" good, the "design" is "very" important. He mentions the "beautiful" set designed by the set designer, which he feels is "very" moving.

The critic concludes by saying that while the play is "good," the "characters" are "very" important. He mentions the "beautiful" characters created by the playwright, which he feels are "very" moving.

The critic then turns to the "production" of the play. He notes that while the production is "good," the "acting" is "very" important. He mentions the "beautiful" acting performed by the actors, which he feels is "very" moving.

The critic concludes by saying that while the play is "good," the "plot" is "very" important. He mentions the "beautiful" plot written by the playwright, which he feels is "very" moving.

Scientific Age Returns Teachers to School

By Ann McGroarty

TROY—The Saturday science festival on March 21 and 22 will be a great event for the teachers who are returning to school after years of absence.

The festival will be held at the Tufts University, and will feature a program of lectures, workshops,
and laboratory sessions.

The program is designed to provide a comprehensive overview of the current state of science and its applications.

The program consists of three main parts: an overview of the scientific method, a discussion of the future of science, and a guide-to the resources available for research.

Now that they have their brainstorming sessions planned, the teachers are preparing for some of the most stimulating parts of the program.

Talent and Safety Are Your Business

By JoAnn Dwyer

No one knows exactly how long the week will be or how long you will live in this world. In any case, being prepared for all eventualities is a wise policy. The pastores the graces made available to mankind, the several diseases so as to avoid or conquer them. But beyond all this is the decision of the individual to take charge of his or her own life and to contribute to the well-being of others. Not everyone will reach their goal. But everyone can be prepared.

In this sense, many people have already realized the necessity of taking charge of their own lives. But others continue to live in a state of ignorance. The goal is not only to live, but to live well.

Tops in Safety: Safety is the key to a successful life. Everyone has a right to know how to live. The keyboard, the telephone, and the television are all tools to be used wisely. We can all benefit from the knowledge gained through the use of these tools. Safety is the key to a successful life.

ARCHBISHOP ALERTS WOMEN ON EATING STATE OF U.S.

ARCHBISHOP MULCAHY of Newark has sent a circular letter to more than 1,000 Catholic women, urging them to take a better care of their health and to eat wisely. The letter was prepared by the Archdiocesan Health Committee and was written by Monsignor John J. Devine, Director of the Committee.

In the letter, Monsignor Devine points out that many women are overeating and that this is an important problem. He explains that overeating can lead to serious health problems, such as obesity, diabetes, and heart disease.

Monsignor Devine also emphasizes the importance of eating a balanced diet. He suggests that women should focus on eating fruits, vegetables, and whole grains, and that they should limit their intake of processed foods and sugary drinks.

In conclusion, Monsignor Devine urges women to take responsibility for their health and to make healthy choices when it comes to food. He encourages them to seek advice from a healthcare provider if they have any questions or concerns about their eating habits.

CATHOLIC WOMEN ON EATING STATE OF U.S.

The letter urges women to eat more fruits and vegetables, and less processed foods. It also encourages women to exercise regularly.

The letter also discusses the importance of eating a balanced diet, and the need to avoid processed foods and sugary drinks.

Monsignor Devine concludes the letter by encouraging women to be proactive about their health and to make healthy choices when it comes to food. He states, "We need to take care of ourselves, and we need to eat in a way that promotes good health and a long and happy life."

BELLAIRE HOMES OPENING A SUCCESS

Bel-Aire Homes opening a success

HOLY WEEK - ruthlessly brief activity was observed at the grand opening of new Bel-Aire Homes on April 20. An estimated total of 1,000 visitors, of whom 381 were women, attended the opening.

The Bel-Aire development is located in the eastern part of the city, just south of the new road. The new road is a combination of Old Jersey Boulevard and a new street, and it is expected that the road will be completed within the next two years.

The new road is expected to improve traffic conditions in the area, and it is hoped that it will also help to bring more people to the Bel-Aire development.

BELLAIRE HOMES have been in operation for the past three years, and they have been well received by the people of the area.

We are happy to announce that we have received a large amount of interest in our new development, and we look forward to working with you in the near future.
Indian Priest Is Promoting Interest in Blessed Martin Lawrence

A Passionately told, easily readable story, depicting a life of piety, sacrifice, and devotion to the Blessed Martin Lawrence, will be presented in this month's定期刊癳予. The story of the Blessed Lawrence, an early American Jesuit who lived and died in the colonies, is the subject of a new book, "Blessed Martin Lawrence: Martyr of the American Colonies," by Msgr. John J. McVay, O.S.A., of the Philadelphia Archdiocese.

The book is the result of a long-term project by Msgr. McVay, who has been working on the biography for more than a decade. The book is expected to be released in the fall.

The story of the Blessed Lawrence is told through the eyes of his associates, who describe his life and spiritual journey. The book includes many thoughtful insights and reflections on the life of the Blessed Lawrence, as well as his influence on the early American colonies.

The story of the Blessed Lawrence is a testament to his dedication to the faith and his commitment to serving others. Through his example, he demonstrated the power of faith and the importance of living one's life according to the principles of the Catholic faith.

In conclusion, "Blessed Martin Lawrence: Martyr of the American Colonies" is a compelling and inspiring story that will be loved by readers of all ages. It is a reminder of the power of faith and the importance of following one's convictions.
