Archbishop Stresses Need For Vocations in Pastoral

NEWARK — The Church needs thousands of men and women "willing to consecrate their entire lives to the work of her many activities," Archbishop Boland said in a letter to be read at all Masses on Pentecost Sunday, June 5.

Archbishop Boland designated the day as Vocation Sunday and appealed to Catholics throughout the Archdiocese of Newark to pray for an increase in vocations.

"WE SHALL NOT accomplish our objective if we are content merely to be concerned about the lack of vocations," he said. "We must do our utmost to increase the ranks of the strong and zealous workers in the vineyard of the Lord."

The Archbishop particularly asked Catholics to enroll in the Apostolate for Vocations, saying a daily prayer for vocations. He noted that the Apostolate has a membership of 50,000 but that there are 1.4 million Catholics in the Archdiocese.

Archbishop Boland also asked shut-ins to offer their prayers and sufferings for this intention during the octave of Pentecost and thanked the Serra Clubs for their vocation work in the Archdiocese.

THE TEXT OF the Archbishop's letter follows:

"In keeping with the purpose of the Pontifical Work for Vocations to the Priesthood and Religious life, I hereby designate Pentecost Sunday, June 5, as Vocation Sunday throughout the Archdiocese of Newark.

"What the priest means to the life and progress of the Church is well known to all informed Catholics, for St. Paul tells us,

"The priest is the Minister of Christ," an instrument in the hands of the Divine Redeemer. Through the priest, Our Lord still walks among men for the benefit of souls, imparting to them all the benefits of His redemption. It is through the priesthood that the Church guards the faith in the souls of men, through the priesthood that men are made to grow in the love and understanding of God.

"IN ORDER to continue doing Our Lord's work efficiently the Church needs thousands of men and women willing to consecrate their entire lives to the work of her many activities, whether pastoral, charitable, educational or missionary.

"We shall not accomplish our objective if we are content merely to be concerned about the lack of vocations. We must do our utmost to increase the ranks of the strong and zealous workers in the vineyard of the Lord.

"Of all the means to this noble end, the easiest and most effective is prayer, a means within the power of everyone, and commanded by Our Lord. 'The harvest indeed is abundant,' He said, 'but the laborers are few. Pray, therefore, the Lord of the harvest to send forth laborers into His harvest.'

"At no time since the dawn of Christianity have the words of Our Savior sounded more imperatively necessary.

"A FEW YEARS ago in response to our plea for prayers, nearly 50,000 faithful of the Archdiocese signed pledges to say a specific prayer daily for vocations. I am sure this great multitude, who became a part of our apostolate for vocations by their union in prayer, will renew their pledges this year and thus continue their very effective help in recruiting workers for God's vineyard of souls.

"Yet, there are thousands upon thousands of adults still remaining out of our more than 1.4 million Catholic population. These, too, we implore to join their voices with the vast choir of 50,000 to plead for the grace of an ever greater increase in vocations to the priesthood and religious life.

"We earnestly request the Apostolate of the Sick to offer their prayers, sufferings and good works for this intention during the octave of Pentecost.

"Our Apostolate for Vocations has been aggregated to the Pontifical Work for Vocations and our members may enjoy all the indulgences and spiritual blessings granted to the Pontifical Work.

"A list of these indulgences is found in the Constitutions, and will be published from time to time in The Advocate.

"In conclusion I wish to add a word of deep appreciation and publicly to express our gratitude to the Serra Clubs of the Archdiocese for their zealous, assiduous and effective work in the Apostolate for Vocations."

Italian Cardinal Now Saint

New Canonization Set, Council Plans Revealed

Newest Saint Was Almost a Pope

The Church's newest saint — Gregory Cardinal Barbarigo, who was raised to the honors of the altar on May 26 by Pope John — three times was almost elected Pope.

Cardinal Barbarigo, who became a member of the Sacred College at the age of 35, took part in five conclaves. Three times it seemed likely he would be elected Pope, but twice he threw his support to another Cardinal and at the last conclave he attended his candidacy was defeated by the opposition of Austria.

ST. GREGORY, who became a Cardinal in 1660, attended his first conclave in 1667, helping to elect Pope Clement IX. Two years later he was present when Pope Clement X was chosen.

In 1676 he was first proposed as a candidate for the throne of Peter but he swung the votes of those who supported him to another candidate who became Pope Innocent XI.

Thirteen years later his own election seemed assured but again he persuaded his supporters to vote for another, this time Alexander VIII, who died in 1691. Again, at the ensuing conclave, Cardinal Barbarigo seemed assured of election, having 35 votes. However, the Austrian court exercised the right of veto it had at the time and Innocent XII was chosen.

ST. GREGORY was born in Venice, Sept. 16, 1625. After studying at Padua, he was elected to public office but Fabio Chigi, who later became Pope Alexander VII, convinced him to enter the clergy and he was ordained in December, 1655. Pope Alexander called him to Rome to serve in the Papal court the following year and a year later he was named Bishop of Bergamo — Pope John's own home diocese.

In 1660 he was named a Cardinal and three years later returned to Rome, serving there for a year before becoming Bishop of Padua in 1664.

ST. GREGORY remained in Padua until his death in 1697. He showed particular interest in the seminaries of his diocese, carrying out reforms and fostering the study of Latin and Greek. He founded a printing press near the seminary to produce scholarly works.

The press also had type fonts of Greek, Arabian, Syrian, Armenian and Persian because St. Gregory was also intensely interested in the Christian unity movement.

St. Gregory died on June 18, 1697. He was beatified by Pope Clement XIII on Sept. 20, 1761. His canonization cause was opened in 1912.

VATICAN CITY — Four days after canonizing an Italian Cardinal — Gregory Cardinal Barbarigo — Pope John XXIII announced a new canonization for June 12 and revealed additional plans for the coming Second Vatican Council.

The Holy Father made his newest announcements on May 30. First he authorized the canonization of Blessed Juan de Ribera, a 17th-century Spanish Archbishop, at an assembly of the Sacred Congregation of Rites. There he issued a decree giving final approval to the miracles required for Blessed Juan's canonization.

Later, at a semi-public consistory at which the Cardinals, Archbishops and Bishops of Rome and its environs voted to proceed with the canonization, the Pontiff revealed that on June 5 he will issue a document drawn up by himself to open the preparatory phase of the ecumenical council.

AT THE ASSEMBLY of the Congregation of Rites, the Pope also advanced the causes of an Italian nun and a Swiss Benedictine Brother. He approved the two miracles worked through the intercession of Blessed Bertilla Boscardin and decreed that Brother Meinrad Eugster, O.S.B., had practiced Christian virtues to a heroic degree.

Blessed Juan, whose canonization was approved, was born in Seville, Spain, Mar. 26, 1532, the son of one of Spain's highest noblemen. He studied at Salamanca University and was ordained in 1557, teaching at the seminary before becoming Bishop of Badajoz in 1562.

Later he was named Archbishop of Valencia and died there Jan. 6, 1611. He was beatified by Pope Pius VI in 1796 and his canonization cause was resumed in 1925. The miracles approved in his cause had to do with cures in advanced cases of double pneumonia in 1928 and 1930.

Blessed Bertilla of the Institute of the Sisters of St. Dorothy was born at Brendola, Italy, Oct. 6, 1888, and was professed in 1907. Assigned to hospital work, she became a model of humility and self-abnegation before dying on Oct. 20, 1919. Her canonization cause was resumed in 1953, less than a year after her beatification.

Brother Meinrad was born at

Study Time Law Upheld

SALEM, Ore — The validity of Oregon's "released-time" law was upheld by a 4-3 decision of the Oregon Supreme Court.

The 1925 law provides that children in public school may be excused for two hours a week to attend a school for religious instruction on the request of their parents or guardians.

The court's ruling reversed a decision by Circuit Judge George R. Duncan of Marion County, who had held the law unconstitutional on the grounds that it was too indefinite to be administered.

THE SUPREME COURT said it was up to a pupil's parents or guardian, not school officials, to determine whether he should receive religious instruction during part of his school time.

School officials, the court said, are permitted reasonable discretion in administering the law and in determining the time within the school day or week when the pupil may be excused.

The suit had been instituted by Felix L. Dilger, a Salem parent, who sought to force school district officials to release his child for religious instruction. The Salem School Board had refused.

Altstätten, Switzerland, Aug. 23, 1848, and entered Einsiedeln Abbey in 1872 where he was tailor for the Benedictine community for more than half a century. He died June 14, 1925, after gaining a widespread reputation for holiness.

THE DOCUMENT on the Vatican Council to be issued by Pope John on June 5 is called a "motu proprio," a rescript or letter drawn up by a Pope's initiative and signed by him. The preparatory work, it was made known, will begin with establishment of nine commissions, plus a secretariat for the reunion of Christian churches.

No date has been set for the council itself, but it is expected to open late next year or early in 1962. It will be the first since 1869-70 when the initial Council was held.

Once the nine study commissions have been established, sub-commissions will be formed as the preparatory work progresses. The sub-commissions will have an ecumenical character in that experts and authorities from every part of the world will collaborate in their work.

Reports here are that Pope John, who issued the call for the council on Jan. 25, 1959, less than three months after his election, may reserve the presidency of the preparatory commission for himself.

Ante-preparatory commissions began their work in May, 1959, seeking comments on the council agenda from all Bishops and experts in various fields. This preliminary planning ended a month ago and Pope John revealed that the information gathered in this stage will be published in several volumes.

THESE DEVELOPMENTS followed the May 26 canonization of Cardinal Barbarigo in the Basilica of St. John Lateran, the Pontiff's cathedral as Bishop of Rome. It was the first canonization to take place outside St. Peter's Basilica in more than 200 years.

In his sermon during the canonization ceremony, Pope John warned against the modern tendency to minimize spiritual values and to allow a worldly spirit to compromise the practice of the Christian virtues.

The canonization was an event of special personal joy for the Pope.

Himself a native of Bergamo, he was raising a former Bishop of that diocese to the honors of the altar. He was also canonizing a native of Venice where he was Patriarch before his election to the Papacy.

THE POPE WAS 15 minutes late for the ceremony, having stopped on his way to the basilica to pray at the tomb of St. Philip Neri at the Chiesa Nuova (New Church) on his feastday.

Half way into St. John's, the Pontiff halted the opening procession to step down from his portable throne to pray momentarily at the chapel where the Blessed Sacrament was reserved.

The canonization ceremony began with the reading of the bull of canonization, after which the Te Deum, a hymn of Thanksgiving, was sung and the Pontiff chanted for the first time the prayer of the new saint which will hereafter be repeated in the Mass and Office of his feast.

After celebrating the first Mass honoring St. Gregory, the Pontiff returned to his throne to deliver a sermon in which he touched on the Feast of the Ascension, spiritual values and the addition of St. Gregory to the legions of saints.

ASCENSION DAY he called "the victorious re-conquest of the entire human race under the direct domination of Him Who created it... a re-conquest of a new social order in the succession of peoples and of the endless centuries."

He described St. Gregory Barbarigo as "a Bishop... a Cardinal, a confessor... a shining ray of that light of pastoral sanctity that saves people and increases the triumphs of the reign of the Lord."

Discussing modern life, he said scientific progress and the discovery of new sources of energy are creating a "kind of enchantment" which tends to minimize spiritual values and to compromise the practice of Christian virtues with the spirit of the world.

"This," he said, "produces a considerable adaptation to the so-called demands of modern thought, an easy going attitude, a giving way to the tastes and extravagances of the century, with the unfortunate refrain: This is what is done today, this (Continued on Page 2)

Ailing Diplomat Visited by Pope

VATICAN CITY — Pope John took another one of his celebrated trips away from the Vatican on Sunday, May 30, this time to visit Sir Marcus Cheke, ailing British Minister to the Holy See, at Sanatrix Hospital.

The Holy Father was accompanied only by his private secretary. He chatted with Sir Marcus, a Protestant, and with the attending physician and another visitor, the Italian Ambassador to Spain.

Later, the Pope visited the Sisters who staff the hospital before returning to the Vatican. At noon, he came to the window of his apartment to bless the crowd below, including some 400 Russians who had been touring Rome.

Indulged Vocation Unit To Seek Members June 5

NEWARK — The people of the Newark Archdiocese will have the opportunity June 5 to become members of the richly indulged Apostolate for Vocations. Pentecost Sunday, which is observed here as Vocation Sunday, has been designated by Archbishop Boland for the enrollment in all parishes of new members in the apostolate and the renewal of membership by those already enrolled.

The Apostolate for Vocations, by reason of its affiliation last October in Rome with the Pontifical Work for Priestly Vocations, offers to its members the opportunity of gaining a plenary indulgence on each of 54 days of the year.

In addition a plenary indulgence may be gained on the day of enrollment in the apostolate, and at the time of death—always under the usual conditions.

DUTIES OF MEMBERSHIP consist of fostering vocations to the priesthood and religious life through prayers, alms and other good works, some of them specified in the by-laws of the apostolate.

Msgr. William F. Furlong, director of the apostolate, has announced that all parishes will receive a supply of membership pledges and prayer leaflets for distribution on Pentecost Sunday. Copies of the new constitution and by-laws of the apostolate will be furnished to pastors.

THE CONSTITUTION describes the object of the apostolate: "to intensify among the faithful, by every means possible: (1) the desire to promote, guard and help priestly vocations; (2) the knowledge of the dignity and necessity of the Catholic priesthood; (3) the union of the faithful of the Archdiocese of Newark in a communion of prayers and pious practices for priestly vocations."

It provides for two classes of members: praying members, and praying and sustaining members. The latter make an offering of $1 to defray expenses of the apostolate in addition to pledging prayer.

Specific works pledged by both classes of members include: the offering of one Mass and one Communion a month for an increase of vocations; recitation of the Rosary once a week for that intention; recitation of the Vocation Prayer daily; and performance of other good works, particularly acts of self-denial.

THE APOSTOLATE FOR Vocations was aggregated to the Pontifical Work for Priestly Vocations following Archbishop Boland's ad limina visit to Rome last Fall. The Pontifical Work is the principal organization in the Church for protecting, promoting and helping sacerdotal vocations.

At the time of the affiliation, Newark's apostolate had 46,649 members, who had been enrolled in April 1958.

Since the affiliation with the Rome-based vocation organization, The Advocate has carried a weekly notice of the days upon which members of the Apostolate for Vocations may gain a plenary indulgence.

BESIDES OFFERING membership to all Catholics of the Archdiocese, the Apostolate for Vocations conducts annual vocation rallies, arranges talks by priests and religious in all schools each semester, provides vocation films and literature to interested groups and individuals, and publishes a bi-monthly newsletter.

The apostolate also encourages prayerful observance of the Ember Days in behalf of aspirants to the priesthood, the offering by the sick of their sufferings for an increase of vocations, and the recitation of daily vocation prayers in parochial schools.

ACCM Sponsors Institute on Mass

By William F. Judkins

NEWARK—Approximately 200 men, specially selected from various organizations of the Newark Archdiocese, will gather June 11 at Essex Catholic High School here, and devote the entire day to a detailed study of one subject — the Mass.

They will derive a personal satisfaction from their increased understanding of the Mass and the role of the laity in it, but that is not at all the primary purpose of the assemblage.

For these are lay leaders of the Archdiocese and they'll be active participants that day in an Institute on the Mass, sponsored and conducted by the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Men.

Later on, in the Fall, they will be the organizers of similar institutes to be held in each of the four counties of the Archdiocese. It is quite likely that eventually, such institutes will even be conducted on the parish level.

THIS IS THE sum and substance of an archdiocesan-wide program undertaken very quietly by the ACCM a number of weeks ago, and for which a nucleus of 50 men have been vigorously preparing in intense four-hour seminars held at Sacred Heart, Bloomfield.

The overall program is under the direction of the religious activity committee of the ACCM, of which Msgr. Cornelius J. Boyle is spiritual director, Walter L. Joyce is chairman of the committee.

All the material for the institute has been prepared and distributed by the national office of the NCCM. It has been tried and thoroughly tested in various parts of the country and represents a summary of the best results realized from actual workshops.

While the immediate purpose of the archdiocesan institute is to prepare the men attending to organize institutes in the counties and down to the parishes, the ultimate aim, according to the National Council of Catholic Men, is to cultivate among the laity:

- A deep love for the Mass;
- A clearer understanding of liturgical worship;
- Proper interior and exterior participation in the Holy Sacrifice;
- An insight into the "true Christian spirit," based on an awareness of being the "holy people of God," called to work and worship as "members of Christ."

This program is essentially a project of the laymen, although of course they have had and will continue to have priest guidance.

SOME WEEKS AGO, 50 men were carefully selected by the ACCM executive committee and heads of the subordinate county groups. Thus all areas of the Archdiocese were represented.

They met at Sacred Heart, Bloomfield, and undertook a training course to prepare them to be leaders of the workshops in the archdiocesan institute. They studied certain aspects of the workshop program in common and then split up into smaller groups to study specific topics.

They were guided in this preparation program by Rev. Paul V. Collis of Sacred Heart. In the meantime, men representing nearly all the affiliate organizations and all areas of the Archdiocese were chosen to participate

In the June 11 workshop. These men will receive the benefit of the prior experience of the original 50.

The June 11 program at Essex Catholic High School has been carefully organized in accordance with the NCCM master plan. Basically it consists of three series of workshops, and a demonstration of the Mass in English by a priest, with accompanying commentary by selected laymen.

To provide full benefit to the participants, including opportunity for ample discussion and questions, the men will gather in groups of 20 for the workshops.

ALL 10 GROUPS will take part in the first series, "Putting the Mass in Focus." Each of the other two series has 10 topics. Some are common to both series.

This has been arranged so that each man will have the opportunity to become thoroughly familiar with at least two of these topics, plus, of course, the one covered in the initial series.

The topic, "Putting the Mass in Focus," contains basic concepts on which subsequent workshops will draw. This topic could be presented at a general assembly but the small groups permit a degree of participation and discussion not possible at the larger gathering.

The scope of the day's program is indicated by the variety of the topics to be discussed. Some of these are: "Why do we offer the Mass"; "Structure of the Mass"; "Why participate actively"; "Why and how the Church sings the Mass"; "The how of active participation"; "How to conduct a county or parish institute"; "Promoting use of the Missal"; "Promoting attendance at weekday Mass," and "How to stage a demonstration of the Mass."

THE DEMONSTRATION of the Mass will take place immediately after the luncheon recess. Acting as celebrant will be Rev. Roger A. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Fraternity of Christian Doctrine. He will recite the prayers in English, pausing at various times to permit a commentary by two laymen, John Blessington and Harry Dawson, both of Sacred Heart parish, Bloomfield.

It has been stressed by the NCCM that the Mass demonstration in English is not a religious service of any kind. It is rather a dramatic presentation with a teaching purpose.

The demonstration, however, enables the priest and commentators to dissect and explain the parts of the Mass in a manner which could never be employed during the Holy Sacrifice.

At the opening general session at 9:30 a.m., the men will be greeted by Walter L. Joyce, chairman of the ACCM religious activity committee; and William J. Griffin, archdiocesan president. Joseph E. Downey is chairman of organization and development of the ACCM.

The institute program has been undertaken in accordance with the wish of Pope Pius XII expressed in his encyclical, "Mediator Dei," an extract of which stated that "by periodic conferences and lectures, by special study weeks and the like, teach the Christian people carefully about the treasures of piety contained in the sacred liturgy so that they may be able to profit more abundantly by these supernatural gifts."

TRIANGULAR CHAPEL: This triangular motif was employed by architect Charles D. Hannan in designing the new St. Basil's novitiate chapel, Pontiac, Mich. The chapel, part of three units joined by a cloister, is dedicated to the Blessed Virgin Mother. For that reason, the French artist who designed and constructed the stained glass window behind the altar used the "tree of Jesse" (the family from which the Mother of God is descended) as his theme. The tree portion in the window is cast in specially mixed cement. All lighting is indirect and the altar is triangular in style.

House Adopts Education Bill Snubbing Non-Public Schools

WASHINGTON — A proposal to amend a school aid bill to provide construction loans for private and parochial schools was defeated in the House of Representatives without even coming up for a vote.

It was beaten when Rep. Aime Forand of Rhode Island, who presided during most of the eight-hour debate on the bill, ruled that the amendment was "not germane" to the legislation.

THE AMENDMENT had been offered by Rep. Roman C. Pucinski but Forand ruled it was out of order because the bill was to do with federal aid to public schools for school construction and only amendments pertaining to this specific subject could come before the House.

Earlier, Forand had used the same reasoning to rule that amendments adding funds to the bill to pay for teachers' salaries were out of order.

Eventually the House adopted a four-year, $1.3 billion bill to help local school districts build additional grade and high school classrooms. It contains an amendment to withhold funds from school systems which resist desegregation.

Under terms of the bill, all school children in a district—including those attending non-public schools—are to be counted in allocating funds for construction purposes.

THIS FORMULA was soundly criticized by Bishop Lawrence J. Shehan of Bridgeport, Conn., episcopal chairman of the NCWC Department of Education.

He said the procedure whereby all children are counted but not all are given assistance "is a violation of justice and deprives one segment of the citizenry of equitable treatment."

The Bishop also said the bill "implies that attendance at public schools is a requisite for federal assistance." He added: "Such a requirement is contrary to American traditions."

HOWEVER, before the bill was called up there were reports that the "not germane" reasoning would be used to squelch attempts to amend the legislation. One reason for such action was said to be to avoid a Church-state equitable in an election year.

Another, this one applicable to the amendment on teachers' salaries, was to keep the bill narrow enough to avoid a possible Presidential veto. The administration has expressed opposition to such proposals, although the Senate school aid bill contains such a provision.

In his comment on the House action, Bishop Shehan said the NCWC education department "is greatly disappointed at this turn of events and surprised at the disregard of precedent and American tradition."

He pointed out that two years ago "Congress enacted the National Defense Education Act in which it enlisted the resources of all education, public and non-public, to meet a national emergency." A loan program was evolved that "enabled private, non-profit schools to improve their facilities for the benefit of the nation."

BISHOP SHEHAN said the education department is "puzzled" that this precedent has not been followed. He then added: "If Congress is going to involve the Federal Government in education, then it should do so in conformity with the dictates of justice, the rights of parents and the heritage of our country."

The present bill, the Bishop charged, fails to recognize parental rights in education and in essence tends to force them to choose for their children one system of education over another which they may prefer.

Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. of New Jersey sponsored the bill and led the fight to keep it limited to public schools.

However, the fate of the bill is not certain. It must be approved by the Senate where Southern Senators are sure to oppose it because of the desegregation amendment.

Gain Permission For Vernacular

LONDON (NC)—The Holy See has granted England and Wales permission to use English instead of Latin in certain prayers and blessings surrounding the Sacraments of Baptism, Matrimony and Extreme Unction.

A spokesman at the Westminster chancery said a new edition of excerpts from the Roman Ritual is being prepared, setting out in English and Latin the rites and blessings involved. The use of English is also understood to be permitted in part of the Sacrament of Confirmation when conferred by a priest on a person in danger of death, and also in prayers for the dying, in reception of converts, in churching of women after childbirth, and in blessing new school buildings.

The concession is similar to that given other English-speaking nations, including the U.S., some years ago.

St. Charles Borromeo Parish Celebrates 50th Year June 5

NEWARK — The 50th anniversary of the founding of St. Charles Borromeo parish here will be celebrated on June 5 with two Masses and a parish dinner. At noon, a Solemn Mass of Thanksgiving will be celebrated by Rev. Edward Scully of Seton Hall University, the first priest ordained from the parish. Auxiliary Bishop Stanton, once an assistant pastor at St. Charles, will preside and preach the sermon.

Deacon and subdeacon of the Mass will be Rev. Gilbert Crawford, O.S.B., Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, Cedar Knolls; and Rev. Francis Ignacino, St. Peter's, Belleville. Both priests were among the first vocations from St. Charles.

Chaplains of honor to Bishop Stanton will be Msgr. Cornelius Boyle, pastor, Blessed Sacrament, Newark; and Msgr. John Byrne, pastor, Our Lady of Sorrows, South Orange.

The children of the parish will observe the golden anniversary by attending a Solemn Mass at 9 a.m., celebrated by Rev. Gerald Ruane, ordained May 28. After the Mass there will be a Communion breakfast in the school hall.

At 6:30 p.m., the parishioners will conclude the observance with a banquet in the school hall. Rev. George Byrne, who served as assistant at St. Charles for 16 years, will be principal speaker. William Griffin, K.S.G., and a parish trustee, will also speak.

AROUND 1907 the area of Newark known as the Weequahic and Park View section began to attract the attention of home builders.

In 1909, Rev. Frederic O'Neill, pastor of Blessed Sacrament, saw the need for a mission church in the area.

On July 15, 1909, he selected and purchased a plot, 100 by 200 feet, at the junction of what is now Custer and Peshine Aves. After a census it was found there were 150 Catholic families.

As a temporary church, Father O'Neill rented a store at 61 Watson Ave., and there, on Nov. 5, 1909, the first Mass in the new mission was celebrated.

PLANS WERE undertaken immediately for construction of a permanent church, ground for which was broken on Nov. 24, 1909. The cornerstone was laid Dec. 19 that year by Bishop John J. O'Connor. Rev. Thomas A. Walsh, at that time assistant at St. Michael's, preached the sermon. A short time later he became the first pastor of the new parish.

Although not fully completed, Mass was celebrated in the new church for the first time on Feb. 27, 1910. On Mar. 10, Father Walsh was officially appointed pastor and on Apr. 4 the church was incorporated with John Quinn and William Lawrence as the first lay trustees. The rectory at this time was a rented house at 167 Renner Ave.

The formal dedication of the new church took place on May 29, 1910. On July 20, the deed was transferred from Blessed Sacrament.

Construction of a new rectory was begun on Oct. 27, 1910, on a site adjoining the church and was completed on Apr. 4 the following year.

IN SEPTEMBER, 1911, a small school was started in the hall adjoining the church. It had an enrollment of 76 children. Property was purchased at this time and construction of a real school started. This school, completed in September, 1912, had a registration of 120 pupils taught by Sisters of Charity.

A convent for the Sisters was erected in 1914. It stood on the corner where the church is now. When the present church was built it was moved and is now the present rectory.

St. Charles parish now began a period of great population expansion, which required an increase in the physical plant. Additional property was purchased and on May 10, 1923, Father Walsh broke ground for a new school building which was completed in time for the opening of the school year in September, 1925.

Around 1929, Father Walsh became ill so that he was gradually unable to attend to parish affairs. In 1934 Rev. Francis Grady was appointed administrator and continued in this capacity until July 3, 1935, when Rev. Joseph J. McDonald was appointed pastor. He had been an assistant at St. Charles from 1927 to 1931.

ST. CHARLES needed a new church and that was Father McDonald's first task. To prepare for its construction, both the old church and old rectory were torn down, the house next to the school was purchased for a new rectory (it is now half the present convent) and the original convent was moved behind the church plot (it is the present rectory).

This done, construction of the new church was started on Aug. 18, 1936. The building was completed none too soon. From the mid-30s into the beginning of the '50s, St. Charles' parish continued to grow in leaps and bounds. Even during the war, the land in Weequahic Park became barracks-grounds and this added to the number of church-goers.

IT WAS IN September, 1940, that St. Charles High School was opened in order to fill the need for a Catholic high school in the area. It continued operation until 1957.

In 1940 also, the house next to the rectory was purchased. Both houses were joined by a corridor and these were made into a convent (the present one), while the convent became the present rectory.

Originally a mission of one church, St. Charles became the mother church of another parish. The Weequahic section during the late '30s became thoroughly urbanized and the need of a church became apparent. It was decided to establish the mission of St. Thomas Aquinas and Rev. Philip McCabe was appointed to its care.

At this time, Father McDonald became ill, and Father McCabe, who resided at St. Charles, was appointed administrator. The new church of St. Thomas Aquinas was erected on Ludlow St. opposite the Kretschmer Homes and Father McCabe was appointed pastor of the new parish in June, 1958.

Rev. Thomas McHugh was appointed administrator of St. Charles, succeeding Father McCabe. He continued to make improvements but, due to illness, found it necessary to leave. The present administrator is Rev. Charles J. Brown.

Smog Threatening Cologne Cathedral
COLOGNE (NC) — Corrosion born of smog is threatening Cologne's famed 13th-century cathedral, a maintenance expert has warned.

Prof. Franz Weyres, cathedral architect, said the smog forms a deposit on the stone that prevents it from "breathing" properly and thus weakens it.

Polish Catholics Beginning 4th Year of Great Novena

BERLIN (NC) — Poland has begun the fourth year of its "Great Novena" in preparation for the 1,000th anniversary of its conversion to Christianity. This novena year is dedicated to Catholic marriage.

Polish Bishops have urged Poles living outside the country to take part in the Great Novena by prayer and study. In a letter to rectors of Polish missions throughout the world, Cardinal Wyszynski of Warsaw, Primate of Poland, said such world-wide participation by Poles "will be a visible sign of unity in faith and love."

The Great Novena grew out of the pilgrimage of one million Poles to the shrine of Our Lady of Czestochowa on Aug. 26, 1956. The pilgrims placed the nation under the protection of Our Lady as Queen of Poland, and vowed to prepare for the 1,000th anniversary of Poland's conversion by nine years of dedication.

Father James Sullivan Celebrates Jubilee

JERSEY CITY — His silver jubilee in the priesthood will be observed on June 4 by Rev. James H. Sullivan, pastor of St. Paul of the Cross Church.

At 10 a.m., Father Sullivan will celebrate his Solemn Mass of Thanksgiving, and on June 6, he will be guest of honor at a reception given by the parish combined societies.

Archpriest at the Mass will be Rev. Francis A. Hennessey, St. Aedan's, Jersey City. Deacon and subdeacon will be Rev. Edmund P. Kilty, St. Genevieve's, Elizabeth, and Very Rev. Kenneth C. Sullivan, O.P., prior St. Pius Priory, Providence, R.I.

The sermon will be preached by Msgr. Leo J. Martin, pastor, Our Lady of Victories, Jersey City.

City. Msgr. Martin will also be principal speaker at the June 6 reception.

Father Sullivan, a native of Kenilworth, was ordained on June 15, 1935, in St. Patrick's Pro-Cathedral. He was appointed pastor of St. Paul of the Cross on Sept. 12, 1959. Prior to that time he served as assistant at St. Aloysius, Caldwell, during which time he also taught at Caldwell College, and later was chaplain at Holy Name Hospital in Teaneck.

Abbey Fund Grows

Just Like Magic

MUENSTERSCHWARZACH, Germany (NC)—A Benedictine priest has developed a novel way to raise money for the mission fund at the abbey here.

Rev. Wilfried Kraus, O.S.B., is a magician—literally. He puts on a two-hour public demonstration of his magic, advertised as "Admission Free—Children Half-price." Audiences usually rise to the occasion and donate to the abbey's mission fund.

ONE CHURCH FOR TWO VILLAGES

The new village of INCHAKUNDU in INDIA is a recently cleared and newly inhabited forest area, to which there is no easy access by road. Of the 700 inhabitants 65% are Catholics and a priest comes from the town of Muplan, many miles distant, to celebrate Mass once each month.

The Holy Father's Mission Aid for the Oriental Church

Near this brand new settlement is another small village, named NARAKATTOLL, which also has a good proportion of Catholics and no Church. The Bishop would like to build a small Church to serve both INCHAKUNDU and NARAKATTOLL. He would also like to assign a resident priest to care for the people of both villages. The cost of a Church would be $4,000. The cost of a house for the priest to live in would be $2,000. The patron saint of both towns is Saint Anthony and the people are praying to him to find the money. Maybe you would like to be an instrument used by Saint Anthony to answer their prayers?

FATHERS DAY

SOME SUGGESTIONS for a gift in honor of your Father, if he is living; in his memory (and also in his honor) if he is deceased—Mass celebrated by one of our Missionaries; a Sacred Article for a Mission Church; a donation to help the Aged, the Orphans, the Lepers, the Refugees of the Middle East; a stringless gift to enable the Holy Father to care for his children in the Orient. If your Father is living we will send him a card telling him of your gift. We will gladly send—Dad—our gift card in your name.

COME, O HOLY SPIRIT,

FILL THE HEARTS OF THY FAITHFUL: AND KINDLE IN THEM THE FIRE OF THY LOVE—thus will we pray at Holy Mass on Pentecost Sunday. Living in fear from the time of the Crucifixion until Pentecost, the Apostles, on that day, immediately became possessed of a strength which sent them out of hiding to preach to the world, fearlessly and until death, the Gospel of Christ. Their love of God was set aflame by the infusion of the Holy Spirit.

The fire of love, for God and souls, is burning in the hearts of MICHAEL and EUTHYMIO, two GREEK boys, who are studying for the priesthood in Rome. During their years in the seminary they will pray fervently to the Holy Ghost to fan the flame of this love so that, throughout their entire priestly ministry, their strength in preaching the Gospel will be as that of the Apostles after they were filled with the Holy Spirit.

Instructed in the truths of our faith by European Missionaries, SISTER PAULETTE and SISTER AMELIA are two Arab girls who, as devout Catholics, prayed to the Holy Spirit for guidance in choosing their life's work. They asked the Third Person of the Blessed Trinity to enlighten them as to the will of God in their regard, and to give them strength to carry out His Holy will. They are now novices in the ROSARY SISTERS novitiate in JERUSALEM, preparing to kindle the fire of God's love in Arab children.

The cost of educating a boy for the priesthood is $600. To educate a girl for the Sisterhood, costs $300. These amounts may be paid at one time or in installments.

African Bishop Acts Against Stone Throwers

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (NC) — The Bishop of Ndola warned the Catholics of his diocese that they will be excommunicated if they throw stones at people or otherwise try to intimidate them.

Bishop Francis C. Mazzeri, O.F.M. Conv., in issuing the warning instructed his priests to post printed copies of it on church doors and to explain it to their congregations.

In an explanatory letter to the press, the Bishop said that the Church cannot remain silent in the face of criminal acts and violence taking place in this part of East Africa.

He said that indiscriminate stonings, burning of cars, stores and houses, and destruction of private property in general are being committed too often in the diocese, thus endangering the lives of innocent citizens.

"I sincerely hope that no Catholic is involved in crimes of this nature," the Italian-born Bishop said. "However, to deter our people from such horrible actions I warn all Catholics of this diocese that whoever cooperates either directly or indirectly in any of the crimes mentioned above shall be excluded from the sacraments."

Chicago Prelate Marks Jubilee

CHICAGO (NC) — Auxiliary Archbishop Bernard J. Shell of Chicago, founder of the CYO, offered a Solemn Pontifical Mass here to mark the 50th anniversary of his ordination.

The prelate, who was given the personal title of Archbishop by Pope John in June, 1959, will be feted at a civic dinner here June 16.

Cardinal Meyer of Chicago presided and spoke at the jubilee Mass in St. Andrew's Church, where Archbishop Shell is pastor.

Archbishop Shell, 72, was ordained May 21, 1910. He became a Bishop in 1928 after a career as a Navy chaplain in World War I, Chancellor of the Chicago Archdiocese and chief planner of the International Eucharistic Congress held in Chicago in 1926.

MARRIED Eastern Rite priests may not become Bishops.

Cardinal Newman Home Restored

OXFORD, England — The home where Cardinal Newman lived in the critical years before he became a Catholic has been restored at nearby Littlemore and is now open to the public.

The opening ceremonies were featured by a Mass offered by Archbishop Francis J. Grimshaw of Birmingham. Altar for the Mass was the same reading desk which served as altar for the First Mass attended by the Cardinal after his reception in the Church.

Present for the Mass were Oratorian Fathers—the congregation Newman founded in this country—and a few other advocates of the Cardinal's beatification cause.

LITTLEMORE, known in Newman's time as his "monastery" and now officially called "The College," is in fact a row of little cottages with a small hall at one end which was once his library. When the tumbledown building went onto the market a few years ago the Oratorian Fathers bought it and for the past two years have been busily restoring it. They have established Newman's bedroom as well as his chapel oratory.

Newman acquired the building, part of a disused farm and stables, in 1841 when his writings made his position as vicar of Oxford's university church increasingly difficult. It forms two sides of a quadrangle, the rest being enclosed by a long garden which he planted himself with shrubs. Newman worked hard to restore the building which was dilapidated, even then.

Medical-Dental Milestone

June 4, 1960, when 71 Doctors of Medicine and 36 Doctors of Dental Science will be awarded their degrees at the Seton Hall campus, will be a day of historic importance in New Jersey educational annals. The fact that medical degrees will be conferred for the first time in the state's history marks the concrete fulfillment of years of planning by far-sighted members of the Seton Hall University administration.

While higher education has flourished here since Colonial times and Catholic college training has been provided for well over a century, there has been a growing awareness in recent years of serious cultural shortcomings in our state. Perhaps New Jersey's small size combined with its location between two vast metropolitan areas contributed to this attitude of complacent educational dependence. At any rate the rapid population increases of the past generation have made it evident that the state would soon be facing a grave shortage of personnel in the vital field of public health unless immediate steps were taken to train doctors and dentists in our own institutions.

Our American educational structure, which was private and religious in its Colonial roots, today incorporates a unique twofold system of privately financed and state-supported institutions. On every level both types of education have long proved their worth and every intelligent citizen surely favors the constant expansion and improvement of both private and public educational facilities.

The tremendous vitality of American private education and its ability to produce outstanding results with comparatively limited financial assistance have been demonstrated once again in the saga of the Seton Hall College of Medicine and Dentistry.

Seton Hall's interest in public health is no mere matter of four years. As far back as 1937, Seton Hall had inaugurated its program of nursing education which has now grown to the largest degree program in this field in the East. In 1946 Seton Hall commenced a broad program of post-graduate courses for practicing physicians. Since the inception of this valuable service, thousands of New Jersey doctors have been enabled to keep in touch with the latest advances in professional knowledge and practice.

All that was needed for a full-scale public health program was the foundation of a college of medicine and dentistry. It was surely logical that Seton Hall should once again be the pioneer with the opening of its new college in the Jersey City Medical Center in September, 1956. While many cooperated to bring this great dream of service to fulfillment, the achievement of the past four years is above all due to the inspired vision of Seton Hall's late president, Msgr. John L. McNulty.

Any modern medical-dental school—particularly in its first years—must face innumerable problems and obstacles. Seton Hall's College of Medicine and Dentistry has successfully faced the initial challenge and can look back on its first four years with a sense of genuine pride. That some of the obstacles were unnecessary, the work of the short-sighted or the bigoted, is a matter for regret. But the new college now looks to the future.

As Seton Hall's new doctors and dentists bring their much needed skills to the service of the public, it is to be hoped that their manifold individual contributions will result in a universal awareness and acknowledgement of the contribution which their alma mater has made to New Jersey and to America.

The Church and Civic Duty

Can a distinction be made between a Catholic's conscience as an individual and his conscience as a citizen? Osservatore Romano, in a front-page editorial inspired by a Vatican official, emphatically denies that such a distinction can be made.

A Catholic may not confine his religion to a compartment of his life. It must influence and guide his whole existence. Neither may he restrict the authority of the Church to sacred things. Our Lord Jesus Christ, in establishing the Church as a perfect society, gave it jurisdiction over the faithful and conferred on the hierarchy the right and duty to guide and correct them in all matters that might have a bearing on their eternal salvation.

Many political and social problems cannot be separated from religion because of religious or ethical factors. The Church has the right and duty to help men solve these problems by proposing correct moral and sociological principles.

There is another circumstance in which the Church feels called upon to use its influence. It is the problem of Catholics collaborating with those who do not recognize religious principles which might arise in the political field. The Church has the right and duty to judge the morality of such collaboration. Since communism is diametrically opposed to Christianity, the editorial declares "the Church cannot allow the faithful to adhere, favor or collaborate with movements that adopt or follow the Marxist ideology and its application."

Outside of these principles and the dutiful discipline of the laity toward the hierarchy, the Church has no desire to participate in government. Osservatore Romano's editorial clearly states: "Anyone can see what a vast field of special responsibilities, courageous initiatives and fruitful activity is open to the civic activity of Catholic lay people so that they may offer their contribution of opinions and discussions, experiences and accomplishments, to promote the progress of their country."

The occasion for the editorial in Osservatore Romano is the present political situation in Italy which finds many Catholics uniting with leftists in attempts to form a stable government. However, Catholics everywhere have the duty to conform to the directives contained in it.

By happy coincidence The Advocate of May 26, 1960, published in adjoining news columns articles on the Osservatore Romano editorial and the anti-communist pastoral letter of Archbishop Enrique Perez Serantes of Santiago de Cuba. The Archbishop, who has supported many of the social reforms of the Castro regime, felt obliged out of love for the Church and his motherland to warn the people of Cuba about the danger of communism which, he wrote, is actually within Cuba, "speaking loudly as though settled in its own domain." The Archbishop's action has been praised by leading American diplomats and the United States officials.

While we as citizens must obey the moral law of the Church, no American need fear that the Catholic Church will ever try to influence politically any of its members except for their spiritual welfare and the common good of the country.

More Light From the Summit

As days go by, we are in an improving position to assess the significance of what happened in Paris in connection with the summit conference that was not to be. The more we learn of this incredible episode and its aftermath, the more reason we seem to have to be gratified at the outcome.

Not that we are justified in minimizing the danger of war with its awful concomitants and consequences in this nuclear age. In fact, the exhibition made of himself by Khrushchev should impress upon us, as nothing else seems to have, the precarious condition of a world in which such a madman holds such awesome power; it should make us see the urgent necessity of bringing about his downfall and that of the regime he heads.

This latter may not be as unthinkable, or as difficult, as it seems. We were so easily led to believe, in 1938-1941, that the world was not safe with Hitler in power in Germany; the Munich Conference of 1938 (that was a summit conference, too) proved the futility of appeasing a dictator; we came to accept as an everyday slogan the claim that "you can't do business with Hitler!"; we were finally led into a great war to bring about the destruction of the German dictator and his Nazi regime.

Is there anyone who still cannot see that Khrushchev and the communists are a far greater menace to all true, worthwhile values than Hitler and the Nazis ever were? Surely, the need of a great anti-communist crusade is far more urgent than any war against the Nazis. It is only because an alien perversion beclouds the vision of too many of us, especially among our leaders, that we do not recognize this fact and act upon it.

The communist system rests solely upon force. It is so contrary to human nature; it does violence to so many basic human instincts and desires; it is so offensive to Almighty God in its brutal atheism, that it contains within itself the seeds of its own destruction. It should not be too difficult, if only we had the will, to bring those seeds to growth and fruition.

While we await that much-to-be-desired development, what are we to think of the late events at the summit? We may devoutly hope that we have seen the last of these ill-fated meetings. Khrushchev refused to meet with Mr. Eisenhower without an apology for the U-2 incident; our President has immeasurably greater reasons for refusing to meet with the Red dictator.

Even if, in his deep devotion to peace, Mr. Eisenhower were willing to overlook the insults heaped upon him, the self-respect of the United States would forbid him—or any future American President—ever to meet with the vile-mouthed Russian.

Other aspects of the Paris fizzle are equally gratifying. It has become increasingly evident that Khrushchev had, at least a week before, determined that the summit conference should not meet. And why? Because he had come to realize that, because of the firmness at least of Mr. Eisenhower and of General de Gaulle, he was not going to have his way about Berlin; afraid to face a direct defeat, he chose to avoid it by wrecking the conference. Was he not equally afraid to have Mr. Eisenhower visit Russia, either because of what the latter might see, or because the Russian people might hail him as the man of peace that he really is?

Other events have illustrated the truth that Khrushchev is a bully and always backs down in the face of firmness. At Paris he threatened the West with a separate peace with East Germany; he hasn't mentioned it since, not even while he was in Berlin. The crew and passengers of the C-47 plane that came down in East Germany were treated with most unusual courtesy and released almost at once.

The Red dictator had little reason to be pleased with the outcome of his appeal to the United Nations. The obviously false charges made by Gromyko were so easily refuted by Mr. Lodge that the vote of 7 to 2 against Russia was a foregone conclusion. Even Gromyko had little stomach for the "eagle that listens with its beak."

We are in a strong position at the moment. It is time for us to act, to stop simply reacting, as we have for far too long.

Peter Speaks

The Best Education

Most parents entrust their daughters to you because their consciences bid them to do so. But this does not mean that the children should suffer by receiving in your schools an education of inferior value. On the contrary, you must do all you can to assure parents that their children are getting the best education right from the elementary classes—Pope Pius XII to the First International Congress of Religious Teachers, Sept. 13, 1951.

Man Is a Social Being; He Depends on Others

By Frank J. Sheed

There, then, stands man. His soul, because it is a soul, animates his body, as the soul of a lower animal animates its; but because man's soul is a spirit, it has the faculties of intellect and will by which it knows and loves as the animal's cannot.

To man's intellect, objects are present not only as those individual objects seen, but as what they are; it can abstract their essence, analyze, generalize, reflect, build up all the great structures of thought, come to the knowledge of spirit and of the Infinite spirit, grow in the domination of the material universe. We are proud of our dog when he brings in the morning paper; pleased with a chimpanzee which has been trained to smoke or drink from a cup; but animal knowledge is only a faint parody of human. And so, with all its pathos is animal love.

THIS SUPERIORITY of the spiritual soul spreads downward—to the border region between soul and body, to imagination and sense memory and the emotions, in none of which has the animal more than hints and suggestions of the human. It spreads to the body itself.

We have not space here to develop the final point in the relation of soul and body as the philosopher would; but at least remember that they are not two separate things, one of which animates the other; they are combined in one being, man himself.

By its substantial union with a spiritual soul, man's body is—shall we say spiritualized?—not mere matter anyway, but ennobled. If, by some impossible chance, one of the lower animals were given a human body, he would not know what to do with it.

BUT EVEN WHEN we have seen man as a union of spirit and matter, we have not seen him whole and entire. Two other truths about him must be seen, or we see him wrong.

The first is that man is essentially a social being. We should not come into existence unless other humans produce us, or stay in existence unless they maintained us in it. This dependence on others we do not outgrow. We have all sorts of needs which we cannot supply for ourselves; and all sorts of powers—to love, for example, to teach, to procreate—which can never be used save in relation to others. Without his fellow-man, no one would ever reach maturity; he would be a rough sketch for a man, no more.

The second is the truth we have already seen as applying to all beings whatever. Man is made by God of nothing, is held in existence from moment to moment simply by God's will to hold him there. God's will is the reason for man's existence; so God's will must be the law of his existence. To disobey the law is sin; to think we can gain by disobeying it is insanity.

That there are laws in the universe, no one doubts: the law of gravity is one obvious example; the laws of dietetics are another. By learning these laws and living according to them we gain freedom.

PAUSE UPON THIS, if the thought is new to you. Freedom is always bound up with obedience to the law of God; there is no such thing for man as freedom from these laws, there is only freedom within them. Each new law learned by us increases our freedom. We learn the laws of gravity, air-currents, movement of bodies; and at last we can fly in the upper air. We learn what elements are necessary in our diet, and certain diseases vanish.

That there are laws applying to man's soul, moral laws, is just as true. The same God who made the laws of justice and purity. Physical laws do not affect only those who accept them—the new born baby can die for want of the right vitamins or be killed by falling from a height.

Reds Gird to Push Appeasement Policy

By Louis F. Budenz

The warm welcome given to President Eisenhower upon his return from the summit wreckage, was not of a kind given to a conquering hero. It was an expression of the partial unity given by a badly battered nation to its chief representative, so sadly entrapped into believing the genuineness of Soviet promises.

There were some commentators who felt that this welcome indicated that Khrushchev had made a tremendous blunder, but this was not so. The Worker of May 22 dispelled all such wishful thinking, for it made known those arguments and those forces within the U. S. upon which Khrushchev depends to ruin us.

"U-2 BOMBED Out Summit But Peace Struggle Rises" was the headline over the front page of that issue. Following it we read this dispatch from Comrade Joseph North in Paris:

"This much is certain at this peace conference which, at this writing, is still on the ground because a warlike U-2 was in the air: Americans will lose all friends globally unless the U.S. foreign policy changes. Reds are strong here that it will change."

That is the threat that the Communist Party is now striving to get into American thinking. If we succumb to it, there will be a contest among candidates in the coming election as to which can advocate appeasement more completely. It is that which Khrushchev counts on, and the Communist Party of the U. S. carries his wishes into American life.

Therefore, we read in a front-page editorial in that same Worker this directive to stir up appeasement sentiments: "Let the Plain People Speak for Peace." Under that heading the communists are told: "We share the disappointment of all the people, longing for peace, who expected much from the summit meeting."

It is the same with the laws of morality. Because both sorts are laws, we cannot break them. How could we break the law of gravity? We could jump off a cliff, but by doing that we should not break the law of gravity, we should illustrate it.

We cannot break the laws, but if we ignore them, they can break us. In this the laws of morality are the same as physical laws. If we disobey them, even in ignorance, our nature is always damaged, for they are the laws of reality. If we disobey them, knowing that God has commanded us to obey them, then there is sin, the worst damage of all.

THUS IT IS that the comrades shrewdly plan to persuade the American people to go to another summit debacle, this time with a more humble spirit. The Worker continues:

"Let the plain people of our country with an urgent dedication stand up for peace. Act for peace. Organize our millions into popular peace movements. The conspirators against the sacred cause of peace and coexistence with the socialist countries in the high circles of the government must now feel the pressure of the people."

Now, communist "peace" can be attained only in one way: By complete U.S. surrender to Soviet expansion. As early as eight years ago, in my book "The Cry Is Peace," I demonstrated from the communists' own directives that this was merely a cry to lead us to suicide on the installment plan.

It so proved to be. It was this Kremlin "peace" crusade which induced us to aid the Soviet conquest of the captive countries. And in order to deceive us into a state of political schizophrenia in regard to Soviet Russia, Stalin wrote to Henry A. Wallace in 1948:

"The government of the USSR believes that in spite of differences in economic systems and ideologies, the coexistence of these systems and the peaceful settlement of differences between the USSR and the USA are not only possible, but absolutely necessary in the interest of universal peace."

THIS DECLARATION, which blinded so many of us so badly, appears at the opening of a special pamphlet issued by the Communist Party of the U. S. at that time, and titled "Joseph Stalin, For Peaceful Coexistence." It carried a whole series of public declarations by Stalin in favor of "peaceful coexistence," all of which led to Soviet subjugation of countries now behind the Iron Curtain.

Management Prone To Featherbed, Too

By Msgr. George G. Higgins
Director, Social Action Department, NCWC

"If featherbedding is to be stopped at the bottom, it must be stopped at the top as well."

This statement was made, not by George Meany or Walter Reuther, but by Clarence Randall, former chairman of the board of Inland Steel Corp. It was published, not in the AFL-CIO News, but in Dun's Review, the majority of whose subscribers are business executives and management representatives.

RANDALL didn't mince words in his criticism of featherbedding in management. He talked about "oversize salaries," "lavish" expense accounts, and the "selfish arrogance" involved in big year-end bonuses for corporation executives.

He made it clear that the "spectacular offenders are isolated cases," but even this qualifying statement wasn't enough to take the sting out of his article. The financial editor of the Chicago Sun-Times reports that most businessmen he has interviewed about the article are inclined to argue with some or all of what Randall said.

I have no intention of becoming involved in this controversy except to say that I think Randall has served a useful purpose in starting it.

I don't know whether Randall's conclusions are valid. I do know that he is a successful executive and an effective spokesman for the American business system. Therefore I think the business community should listen attentively when he says that there is featherbedding in management as well as in labor.

RANDALL is NOT the only management expert who has questioned industry's method of compensating its executives. Benjamin M. Seleman of Harvard University's Graduate School of Business Administration is another. Prof. Seleman favors compensating corporation executives generously, but he admits he cannot understand why so many well-compensated businessmen who are wont to blame the labor movement for inflation, never stop to ask themselves whether or not they too are contributing to the inflationary spiral.

"As for management personnel," Prof. Seleman says in a book titled "A Moral Philosophy for Management," "the record attests to its sustained preoccupation with executive compensation over the last 25 years. "In view of the steep taxes which takes such a large 'bite' out of salaries, a comprehensive and rather generous program has been worked out in most corporations providing not only substantial annual salaries but also stock options, pensions, lifetime contracts with deferred annuities, payments to widows in case of early unexpected death, consultancy after retirement, and so forth."

"Let the companies and individuals concerned ask themselves whether, and to what extent, the query is ever raised as to how these plans affect the inflationary spiral."

When business executives, Selkman continues, are never troubled by the impact of their relatively generous compensation on inflation, "how can anyone expect the carpenter, the painter, the bricklayer, the tailor, the coal miner, or the steel worker to worry about the impact of a 6% to a 10% hourly increase in any one year or sometimes every other year?"

COMPARATIVE statistics on executive compensation for 1958 and 1959 are tabulated in "More Money for Men at the Top" in the May 12 Business Week. These statistics demonstrate that the three top executives in almost every important corporation are earning immeasurably more than any other group of people, including scientists, Congressmen, Cabinet members, labor leaders, etc.

I am not sure I understand why this should be so. But the point is that business executives whose annual compensation runs to six figures and in some cases approaches the half million mark should be more realistic than many of them are in discussing featherbedding and inflation.

In Your Prayers

Archdiocese of Newark remember these, your deceased priests:

Suggests Pastors Charge Tuition

Editor: Having received my education in parochial schools in Baltimore I'm at a loss to understand why tuition, no matter how small, isn't charged in parochial grammar schools in Clifton, and why the pastors should be responsible for the tuition of some of the pupils attending high schools. This does not refer to pupils whose parents are definitely financially unable; however, in these days, there are few who aren't able. It is just that paying for beautiful homes, TV's and flashy cars comes first.

taxes, those who have it have to pay it. I'm sure the pastors and principals could determine just what families were definitely financially unable to pay tuition.

Nuns Seek Funds For Pupil Meals

Editor: Mt. Carmel College, Bangalore, South India, one of the leading colleges for women in South India, imparts free education to many of the deserving students who are blessed with talents but lacking in the riches of this world. The Carmelite Sisters who run this institution are anxious to provide free meals for these students. Donations for setting up a cafeteria for these students will be welcomed. Used clothing and old greeting cards also will be gratefully accepted.

Modern Martyr For Faith Cited

Editor: In the Martyrology of saints and martyrs of the early Church somewhat brief and laconic mention is made of those who were "damned to the mines" or "in ex-to relagatus" (deprived to remote parts) "ob Catholicam fidem" (for the Catholic faith).

The Martyrology is being brought up to date these days. There is, for example, the case of Father James Wong Yu Chi, condemned by the Chinese communists in 1956 to a labor camp in a remote province. Father Chi, a priest of the Diocese of Hong Kong, died there, worn out by hard labor and mistreatment, "ob Catholicam fidem."

Little-Known Facts for Catholics

Saints of the Week

Sunday, June 5 — Pentecost, celebrated the 50th day after Easter in honor of the descent of the Holy Spirit in the form of fiery tongues upon the Apostles. Generally this is the feast of St. Boniface, Bishop-Martyr, born in Devonshire in 680; and a Benedictine monk before embarking on a missionary career. Pope St. Gregory II consecrated him a Bishop and sent him to Ger-

How to Gain Consolation

By Bishop Fulton J. Sheen

The range of our possible sufferings is determined by the vastness of our aims. The shepherd who cares for a thousand sheep will have more worries and trials than a shepherd who limits himself to one. The pastor who thinks only of his parish will have less burdens than the one who realizes that every unconverted soul in the world is a charge on his conscience.

If a man wishes to avoid the troubles of life, the recipe is perfectly simple: let him cut off the wings of every soaring purpose, let him cultivate the narrow life, let him think that the suffering Church in China or Vietnam is "foreign" to him.

Such people go through life with a minimum of acquaintance with tribulation because they have reduced their souls to a minimum of interest and have cut the sensitive nerves which bind them to the human race and to the Church throughout the world; costly self-contained, the sorrow of the world never disturbs their seclusion.

BUT LET A MAN tear out of his soul his petty and selfish interests and enthroned a world-Christ-purpose, and his sufferings will be increased on every side. Every interest in the lepers, the starving, and the refugees will sharpen his perception of the world's infirmity and make him feel the keen bite of the splinters of the Cross.

Our Faith demands that "we fill up the sufferings that are wanting to the Body of Christ." Souls that flee sympathy with the pagans and the suffering throughout the world by escaping strife, forget that those who are God's have His Name branded on their soul and that on the Last Day, He will know them by the scars of flame.

Even in this life, by a beautiful paradox, we find that by the enlargement of our life through the letting in of human sorrow in the mission lands, we also let in Divine consolation and a Christ-embrace. If suffering abounds, so also does our consolation.

GOD LOVE YOU to A.G., D.M., L.S., T.R., E.M.V., and V.V. for $2.32. "We are all in a sanatorium for tuberculosis (ages 7 to 15). We hope and pray that some day, with the help of God, we will all be out of here. In the meantime, we hope our contribution will help somehow for the conversion of the world." ... to Mrs. K.M.M. for $15. "Enclosed is a check for the missions. Instead of paying it to the drugstore each month for tranquilizers, I am sending it to you. Incidentally, I find I don't need the medicine now."

many, where he is venerated as the apostle of the nation. With 52 companions, he was martyred in Friesland in 755. His remains are in the Abbey of Fulda, Germany.

Monday, June 6 — Pentecost Monday, St. Norbert, Bishop-Confessor, born in Lorraine in 1080 of a noble family and led an early life of dissipation at the court of Emperor Henry IV. He repented and established the Canons Regular, known as the Premonstratensians. Later he became Archbishop of Magdeburg, revived the popular devotion to the Sacred Heart of the Altar and strenuously resisted heresies impugning the doctrine of the Real Presence. He died in 1134.

Tuesday, June 7 — Pentecost Tuesday, St. Robert of Newminster, Abbot, a Yorkshire priest who took the Benedictine habit. He obtained permission to join a group of monks who in 1132 were striving at Fountains Abbey, York, to live according to a new interpretation of the Benedictine Rule. The abbey became Cistercian soon afterward. Newminster Abbey was founded from it in 1137 and St. Robert became its first Abbot. He died in 1159.

Wednesday, June 8 — Wednesday after Pentecost, St. Maximinus of Aix, Bishop-Confessor. He lived in the first century. Tradition avers that he was a Palestinian and a disciple of Our Lord who accompanied St. Martha and Mary Magdalen and their brother, Lazarus, to the south of France. He is venerated as the first Bishop of Aix in Provence. Another tradition adds that he was the man born blind to whom Christ gave sight.

Thursday, June 9 — Thursday after Pentecost, SS. Primus and Felician, Martyrs. They were aged brothers who lived in Rome about 297 and were arrested because of their Faith, during the Diocletian and Maximian persecutions. They were thrown to the lions in the Amphitheater but the animals would not harm them. Later they were beheaded outside the walls of Rome.

Friday, June 10 — Friday after Pentecost, St. Margaret of Scotland, Queen-Widow. She was the Queen of Malcolm III, and used her influence for the good of religion and justice. She was especially devoted to the poor and worked to prevent their oppression. Through her good offices a number of churches and monasteries were built. She is said to have foretold the day of her death, Nov. 16, 1093. By Papal decree, her feast is celebrated on this day in Scotland but on June 10 in other countries.

Saturday, June 11 — Saturday after Pentecost, St. Barnabas, Apostle. One of the 72 disciples of Our Lord and a native of Cyprus. He worked with St. Paul at Antioch, Seleucia, Paphos and other places. He is said to have been stoned to death at Cyprus because of his success in preaching the Gospel.

Intentions for June

The Holy Father's general intention for June is: That the Faithful may pray earnestly to the Holy Spirit for the reunion of all Christians in the one true Faith and Church. The mission intention suggested for the Apostleship of Prayer by the Pope is: That Catholics may help to provide spiritual as well as material aid to less developed areas.

Vocation Indulgence

Members of the Apostolate for Vocations can gain a plenary indulgence under the ordinary conditions on: June 5, the day set aside by Archbishop Boland for prayer for priestly vocations. On one of the Ember Days: June 8, 10, 11. A partial indulgence of 100 days may be gained for each act of charity or piety performed for the intention of fostering vocations to the priesthood.

Mom's Soft Discipline Flopped, Now Dad Rejects Police Role

By Rev. John L. Thomas, S.J. Assistant Professor of Sociology, St. Louis University

My wife has always had her own ideas about raising children. She believes in the so-called "permissive" approach, which frequently starts out with reasoning and ends up with nagging and scolding. I let her have her way while the children were small, but now that they are older, she wants me to step in and punish them when her famous method doesn't work. I refuse, and she accuses me of failing to cooperate.

Your situation is merely the result of conditions that should have been dealt with prudently in the past. To a certain degree, any solution you now use will only be the lesser of two evils. You rightly object to assuming the role of policeman to your children, yet they will have to learn discipline from someone if they are ever to develop into mature citizens.

ALTHOUGH you may feel that it is unfair to ask you to assume the unpleasant task of enforcing discipline because her system has failed, it may clarify the situation if you examine your own record as a parent. I gather that you felt that her method in dealing with the children was wrong, yet you "let her have her own way."

If you were convinced that her method was wrong, did you have any right to allow her to proceed? As head of the family, you had definite obligations in this matter. Is it possible that although you didn't approve of her method, you took the all too common masculine view that training the children was not your direct concern? This view stems from a serious misconception of the role of fatherhood. Because mothers normally take over most of the care and training of children, some fathers conclude that they have no responsibilities in this regard.

But parents are partners, particularly in all that concerns the primary purpose of marriage. The division of labor required to preserve the family as a social unit necessarily determines the extent and degree of the father's participation in raising the children; it does not exclude it.

Since learning starts in the cradle, fathers may not delegate their parental roles to their wives even while the children are young. The growing child must learn to identify both father and mother as real, operative sources of love and authority from its earliest years.

YOU ARE entering your children's lives rather late, Jack, and your job as disciplinarian isn't likely to prove a pleasant one in the beginning. It seems to me that your first step is to have a good, realistic talk with your wife. It should be apparent to her by now that the children need more definite direction and control.

This job belongs to both of you, and the only program that will prove effective is one in which you both cooperate consistently. In practice, this means that you must agree upon definite rules and regulations concerning the discipline of the children, and you must both agree to enforce them.

Unless you present a united front, your children will play one of you against the other. At the same time, if you and your wife have no mutually-accepted program of action, your individual efforts to enforce discipline are more likely to produce confusion than real character training.

IN MEETING your responsibilities as a father, therefore, you have two changes to make. First, you must take a more active interest in rearing your children. Second, you must insist on the intelligent cooperation of your wife. The chief obstacle here will be her attitude.

Mothers who try to force their husbands to do all the disciplining are really afraid they will lose the affection of their children. They try to "buy" this affection by giving in to them. Since children are tireless bargainers, they generally get what they want. Such insecure mothers should realize that firm discipline and affection are not incompatible. Children take this for granted, why shouldn't their parents?

Our Support of Missions Must Ignore Nationalism

In thinking of the missions we must be Catholic—not nationalistic. The whole picture must be before our eyes as it is before the eyes of the Church.

We must help Americans who are on the missions, but not exclusively. The more Catholic we are the more universal will be our assistance. In this we must be like the Holy Father who must support all nationalities and all mission societies.

Only about 5 1/2% of the total number of priests and Brothers and only about 1 1/2% of the total number of Sisters of the U. S. are serving outside its boundaries.

Only Missioners Aid Korean Lepers

Last year the Society for the Propagation of the Faith received a letter from a missionary in Korea who is working with lepers. He said that "many are wandering beggars and others, on account of bad weather or harassment by the people, are not able to meet our mobile clinic at appointed times and places."

"We devote our work to those not accommodated in the few supported asylums. The majority of these people are under-nourished and lack proper shelter. Some highlights of a recent tour of mission posts may be interesting.

"In one place at the crematory on the outskirts of town, our leprosy friends were grouped to meet us, but the town thugs drove them away. On a back road we met only a dozen who had regrouped and to whom we gave treatment with food and clothes. We had to hurry to let them disperse before they could be menaced.

Sister M. Raphael

CALDWELL — More than 50 years a member of the Dominican Sisters of Caldwell, Sister M. Raphael, O.P., died May 26 at the Motherhouse here.

A Requiem Mass for the repose of her soul was offered May 28 in the convent chapel of Mt. St. Dominic, with Rev. John Ansbro, chaplain of Caldwell College, the celebrant.

Sister Raphael was born in Ireland, the daughter of John and Mary O'Dea Powers. She entered the Dominican Order on Feb. 2, 1909; was received on Dec. 27 the same year, and made her profession on Apr. 27, 1911.

During her religious life she worked at St. John's, Jersey City; St. Peter Claver, Asbury Park; St. Venantius, Orange, and the Motherhouse at Caldwell.

Sister Vincent Maria

CONVENT — Sister Vincent Maria Welch of the Sisters of Charity of St. Elizabeth died at St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, on May 26. Daughter of the late John and Catherine Brennan, she entered the Sisters of Charity from Manchester, Conn., in 1899 and was professed in 1901.

Following her novitiate, she taught the elementary grades in St. Teresa's, Summit; St. Columba's, Newark; St. John's, Orange; and St. Mary's, Morristown, where she was stationed from 1907 to 1949. At the time of her death, Sister Vincent was stationed in St. Mary's School, Dumont.

A Requiem Mass was offered in St. Anne's Villa Chapel here on May 28. She is survived by one sister, Margaret Welch of New York.

Sister Anthony, M.M.

MARYKNOLL, N.Y. — Sister Anthony, M.M., one of Maryknoll's pioneer Sisters, died May 28 at Bethany Convent here.

Sister Anthony, the former Norah Conway, was born in Ireland and came to the United States in 1905. She lived for 11 years in Danbury Conn., and in various locations in New Jersey. On Jan. 21, 1916, she came to Maryknoll, just four years after the first Sisters had gathered to begin a foreign mission Sisterhood.

When the community was formally erected she was one of the first Sisters to pronounce vows in 1921. She was one of the pioneers to open missions on the west coast.

Two nieces live in New Jersey. They are Mrs. John Yurek, 150 Gold St., Arlington, and Mrs. Winnie Laurotano, 15 Catherine St., Rochelle Park. Other nieces live in Danbury and Florida.

Sister Mary Lizette

JERSEY CITY — A Requiem Mass for Sister Mary Lizette of the Sisters of Charity of St. Elizabeth was offered recently in Sacred Heart Church here. She died in St. Francis Hospital after a brief illness.

A native of Elizabeth, Sister Mary Lizette was the daughter of the late Daniel and Catherine McCarthy Burke.

Aid for Chile's Quake Victims

NEW YORK—A million desperately needed water purification tablets and 2,500 blankets were shipped to the earthquake disaster area of Chile from "Catholics of America" because a man from New Jersey sent out an S.O.S. for them.

The man is Nathaniel W. Hicks, 45, of Hoboken, Catholic Relief Services-NCWC mission director in Chile. So far CRS has sent to the stricken country emergency supplies valued at $325,000, and Nat Hicks will continue to travel through the ruined sections of Chile cabling the needs of the survivors to the CRS office here.

IN A RECENT cable from

Nathaniel Hicks

Concepcion Hicks described briefly the earthquakes which have virtually changed the topography of the South American nation, caused tidal waves and widespread fires. "Sunday (May 22) everything rocked," Hicks reported. "Eight tremors awakened me. Felt more than 100 shocks."

Deaf 'Hear' Pope In Sign Language

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Interpreters translated the words of Pope John XXIII to his audience, but they didn't speak a word.

They translated the Pope's address into sign language to a group of deaf mutes.

The Pope told his "silent brothers" that he admired their will and spirit of sacrifice in trying to join their fellow citizens on an equal footing in participating in the life of their communities.

Pope Sends Sympathy, Funds To Earthquake-Torn Chile

VATICAN CITY — As soon as Pope John XXIII learned of the disastrous earthquakes and tidal waves lashing Chile he sent a message of condolence and assurance of aid to the victims.

The Pope directed that such a message be sent to President Jorge Alessandri Rodriguez of Chile. He also instructed that funds be sent to Archbishop Opilio Rossi, Apostolic Nuncio to Chile, to distribute to the neediest families.

The Holy Father appealed for prayers for victims of the disaster at concluding May devotions in the Vatican. He also received Chile's Ambassador to the Holy See, Fernando Aldunate Errazuriz, in an afternoon visit outside his usual audience hours, and asked the Ambassador to convey his sentiments of concern and affection to President Alessandri.

At its Rome headquarters the International Conference of Catholic Charities appealed to all its affiliated national relief organizations to help the victims of Chile's disaster.

DISASTER IN CHILE: As earthquakes ravaged Chile the steeple of a church in Concepcion crumbled (left) and a statue of the Sacred Heart remained a lonely sentinel in front of a ruined convent, (right).

AS SOON AS word reached here of the earthquakes Msgr. Edward E. Swannstrom, CRS executive director, dispatched Hicks from his office in Santiago to hard-hit Concepcion. Hicks was instructed to give whatever help he could and report as quickly as possible on what was needed.

Almost immediately CRS sent the blankets and water purification tablets, along with eight cartons of vitamins, 12 cases of blood plasma, 90 bales of clothing, 1,000 flashlights with 3,000 batteries. Later shipments included 45 tons of heavy clothing, 65 beds, 116,000 square feet of wallboard, 4,700 pounds of asphalt paper.

Within the week CRS will ship another 120,000 square feet of wallboard, 20 tons of roofing paper, 100,000 pounds of heavy clothing, 3,000 yards of wool felt. Some supplies were sent by air, others by freighter.

Jersey Maryknoller Returning to Chile

NEWARK — Rev. Frederick J. Hegarty, M.M., formerly of East Orange, is due to return to his mission in Chol Chol, Chile, next week. But he doesn't know how much of the mission has been left standing in the wake of the terrifying earthquakes that recently rocked the area.

"The town of Angol, which was 80% destroyed, is 40 or 50 miles from Chol Chol," Father Hegarty said this week. "But the only word we have had from the Maryknoll Fathers in Chile is that they are all alive."

HE NOTED that there are 40 Maryknollers in Chile, two of them in Chol Chol, where the mission includes a church, convent, rectory, grade and high school.

Father Hegarty, who said his first Mass in Our Lady Help of Christians Church, East Orange, in 1953, is a veteran of seven years in Chile. During that time, he said, he experienced "plenty of earthquakes" though none of the magnitude of the recent quakes.

"When I was at Talca," he recalled, "once every two or three months we would have to flee the house, not knowing how serious the tremor would prove to be. Chol Chol however was more fortunate. You could lie in bed and wait it out."

FATHER HEGARTY, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hegarty of Dover, has been residing at St. Bridget's parish here during his mission leave. He will return to Maryknoll, N.Y., June 2, for his orders to return to Chile.

"I was scheduled to visit our missions in Mexico and Guatemala en route," he said, "but my Superior may change that now if I am needed right away in Chol Chol."

He is scheduled to leave Maryknoll June 9.

CRS had help in its mercy mission—the Chilean consulate in New York routed to CRS people who wanted to make relief donations, including one young Chilean couple who gave $1,000.

BEFORE HE left Concepcion to become the first civilian official admitted into the devastated area to the south, Hicks informed the CRS office in New York that the Chilean government "is deeply grateful to CRS." Hicks had been told of this during a personal meeting with President Jorge Alessandri Rodriguez of Chile.

Hicks, a former New Jersey newspaper reporter and public relations man, went to Chile in March, 1958, as administrator of relief for CRS. Of the 63 countries in which CRS has such an administrator, Chile has one of the largest programs. Last year, for example, Hicks directed the distribution of $8.7 million worth of food and clothing which assisted an estimated 900,000 people.

He is a graduate of St. Michael's High School, Union City and St. Joseph's College, Holy Trinity, Ala. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hicks of Hoboken.

Brandy Is Dandy

POMATA, Peru (NC) — When his jeep brakes gave out on a dangerous mountain trip, Rev. Richard M. Quinn, M.M., of San Jose, Calif., pulled into a service station here for brake fluid.

The Indian proprietor told the harried Maryknoller he had no brake fluid but would sell him a bottle of all-purpose "pisco" Indian brandy. With no other choice, Father Quinn skeptically bought a bottle of "pisco," poured it into the master brake cylinder and continued on his mission trip.

"The brakes worked perfectly for the remainder of the trip," says the young Maryknoller. "I challenge anyone to show me any other hydraulic brake fluid that can be also used for anti-freeze, liniment, antiseptic and cold feet!"

War Hero Priest Elected Mayor

HAVERFORDWEST, Wales (NC)—Father Green has been elected mayor and consequently by tradition "admiral" of this port town.

The first Catholic to hold office at Haverfordwest—known as "Little England beyond Wales"—since pre-Reformation times, his nomination had the unanimous vote of the 15-man council.

Father Green, a former Anglican from London, served in both world wars. In World War I he won the Military Medal for attempting though wounded to silence an enemy gun. In World War II as a chaplain in the Far East he went into voluntary captivity to save British prisoners of war captured by the Japanese.

A Little 'Mother'

NEWARK — Little Mary Semm was only five years old when she became an orphan, and she always remembered how good it was to find a home and some new "mothers" at St. Peter's Orphanage. Probably that was why Mary made such a good mother herself.

No, Mary did not grow up and leave the orphanage with her Prince Charming amid the tearful farewells of the Sisters. She did her mothering — of some 700 tots over a period of 61 years — right at the orphanage. She was 13 when the Sister Superior put her in charge of the three-to-six-year-olds. Mary liked caring for the little ones; she would play with them and sew for them and teach them their prayers. Mary was always little herself — she never grew taller than four feet, just a head or so over her small charges — and she always walked with a crutch.

SHE CARED for at least a dozen youngsters at a time, and whenever any one of them was ill, she would stay up all night by his bedside. She was never more than a step away from the children: her "room" was a little curtained cubicle right in their dormitory. She never wanted a day off, and only occasionally allowed her nieces and nephews or the Sisters to take her for a drive.

People say patience and kindness were her specialties. Rev. Louis J. Konzelmann, administrator of St. Peter's, says Mary was never once known to be "even a little cross" with the children. As years went by and her babies grew up to be middle-aged men, they'd visit Mary on Mothers Day with candy and flowers.

THEN, IN 1950 Mary was discovered to be suffering from tuberculosis of the bone. Sadly she left the orphanage for the hospital, and then Hilltop Nursing Home in Middletown. Last Saturday Mary died at the nursing home at the age of 84.

She had never taken a salary for her services to the children at St. Peter's, but Msgr. Matthias A. Thimmes, pastor of St. Peter's parish, used to present her with a check at Christmas and ORDINATION RITE: The most sacred moment in the ordination ceremony occurs when the ordaining prelate imposes his hands on the head of the young man and repeats Christ's words: "Receive the Holy Ghost; whose sins thou shalt forgive, they are forgiven them; and whose sins thou shalt retain, they are retained." Above Archbishop Boland performs the rite for one of 27 priests he ordained Saturday in Sacred Heart Cathedral.

THE CALL: At the Archbishop's words, "Let all who would be ordained come forward" the 27 graduates of Immaculate Conception Seminary kneel in the sanctuary for the beginning of the ceremony which will make them "priests forever."

"BLESSED IN THE PRIESTLY ORDER": Near the end of the ordination Mass Archbishop Boland turns to the new priests and blesses them praying "that you may be blessed in the priestly order, and offer up the sacrifice of propitiation for the sins and offenses of the people to the Almighty God..."

ORDAINED IN PATERSON: Twelve new priests group around Bishop McNulty after receiving Holy Orders from him in St. John's Cathedral, Paterson, on Apr. 28. Six were ordained for the Paterson Diocese and six are Benedictines. Left to right, the newly ordained are Rev. Vincent P. Molloy, Rev. Regis Wallace, O.S.B., Rev. Karl J. Kraus, Rev. Mark Sheenan, O.S.B., Rev. John T. Catoir, Rev. Gerard Lair, O.S.B., Rev. Karl Roesch, O.S.B., Rev. James F. Jannucci, Rev. Daniel Hashey, O.S.B., Rev. Richard J. Messenlehner, Rev. Pius Kiernan, O.S.B., and Rev. John A. Scerbo.

With Humble Pride

Swan Song

By Dan Herr

It is of the utmost importance that these instructions be immediately carried out, to the letter. Please locate the nearest rusty razor blade or scissors, carefully cut out this column — preserving or disposing of the rest of this journal as you see fit — seal it in plastic, and put it in a book, any book.

If it's in a book the chances are no one will bother to look for it for at least 20 years. And that's the point — this column is not to be read now, but 20 years from now when, God willing, you will look back on these days with nostalgia and remember when:

AT LEAST some women realized that the place of the woman was in the home and not in the office. Railroads actually carried passengers, even though the process was a burden to both.

College students first began to give evidence that they were aware there was a world outside the campus, a world filled with problems.

The long-suffering American public allowed their ears to be dinned night and day with something called rock and roll.

A lot of people said a Catholic would never be elected President.

ONLY A FEW families had two automobiles, usually both unpaid for.

Ball-point pens wrote under water, on butter, on rhinoceros hide, on aluminum foil, but seldom on paper.

Some Americans believed that they deserved their life of comparative luxury and the rest of the world could go starve.

All foods weren't frozen.

People read newspapers, magazines and even books now and then.

They said television programs couldn't get worse — little did they know.

SINGERS WHO couldn't sing were more popular than singers who could.

Children were heard and not seen.

More hours were devoted to watching television than to any other human activity except sleep.

Glad-to-Meet-Yous and Good-byes Are in Everyone's Spring Spotlight

By June Dwyer
Spring is in full swing with summer close behind. It is the time for graduations, Confirmations, First Communions, Ordinations, weddings. It is a time for hellos and good-byes—for glad-to-meet-yous and farewells.

Did you ever stop to think that each good-bye has a hello and each hello a good-bye? It's true.

For those of you who are graduating, the hello is to a whole new world of adventure and excitement and challenge. It is a hello to new friends and a million new ideas—to new hurts and helps—to new thoughts and new dreams.

GRADUATION is also a good-bye to the things of childhood. To the younger friends who have helped you and the faculty you have known since you first started school. For some it will be a farewell to nuns and priests; or to the catechism lessons; or to the confirmation Friday afternoon and the serving of early Mass—to the position of leadership in the school and studying grade school or high school lessons. Confirmation has its hello to new strength and new grace to become soldiers of Christ and strong and perfect Christians. And it has its good-bye to being without the grace and without the strength.

Communion bring you Christ himself to say hello to in your heart and soul for the rest of your days. And it brings a good-bye to the loneliness in your heart and soul—to the emptiness of wishing you could have received Christ but not being able.

WEDDINGS unite a man and a woman in a new life where they will help each other to earn heaven. They will share one life and will welcome children if it is God's will. They will be saying farewell to their parents and to their school days—to their loneliness and to the freedom of thinking only of themselves.

When a young man welcomes the priesthood at his ordination he is saying hello to the life of Christ. He is meeting challenges so serious as to reach into the very souls of people.

He is saying hello to holding Christ in His hands and healing sick souls. But he is saying good-bye to his own wishes, for now he must obey any time of the day or night. He is saying good-bye to worldly pleasure and to the companionship of his home and his schoolmates.

WE ALL HAVE glad-to-meet-yous and farewells to say at some time in our lives. They are frightening for we say good-bye to things that are as familiar as the sunrise in the morning and we are coming face to face with the unknown, like the darkness of a moonless night.

So say your good-byes sadly if you must, but look quickly to the coming welcomes of your future. And as you gaze ahead, remember that you didn't leave your past behind; it has made you what you are.

Remember it—the childhood, the catechism, the weakness, the loneliness—or when you're older the freedom and the parents—the memory will bring new and deeper meaning to your new life.

Hail and farewell.

FUNDS AND FOOD: Former Senator Vincent E. Hull, outgoing president of the Pope Pius High School Parent-Teachers Association, Passaic, presented a check to Bishop McNulty at the installation dinner which brought the PTA's yearly gifts up to $21,000. Msgr. Andrew J. Romanak, school director, looks on at right.

Lives of the Saints

An Irish Saint

The Irish have many fond memories of their land of saints. One of these saints, ranked by many as next in line to St. Patrick, is St. Kevin who died at the age of 120.

Kevin was of royal blood but was sent to the monks at the age of seven to be educated. He stayed with the monks until he was a grown man and had been ordained a priest. Then he went to a quiet spot between two lakes where he lived alone giving honor and glory to God.

WHILE he was alone he wrote the branches and leaves of the trees sometimes sang sweet songs to him and heavenly music came to his ears to keep him from getting lonely. Kevin was very happy.

ONE DAY a cattle-farmer found Kevin. The farmer saw how good the saint was and asked Kevin to come back to the people and to lead them closer to God too. Finally Kevin agreed to come out of the woods to work with the people.

The farmer made a stretcher to honor the saint, and he and his children carried Kevin through the woods. We are told that the trees bowed down as the saint went by to clear a path for him. Kevin went to Disert-Coemgen, where he gathered holy men about him.

Each day an otter, an animal that looks like a seal, would come and bring a large fish to the monks to eat. But one day, one of the monks, watching the otter, thought he would make nice material for a pair of gloves. The otter somehow knew this thought and never again returned to bring food.

KEVIN MOVED his group to Glendalough, perhaps to get food, and formed a house that is still there. Kevin even went to Rome to beg a blessing for his followers at Glendalough and for their new home. Because of all of the relics he brought back, they say no other saint in Ireland ever earned more grace from God, except Patrick.

Kevin was a good friend of the great Abbot, St. Kieran. When St. Kieran was sick, Kevin rushed to his side, but the old saint had already died. It was here that Kevin, through the grace of God, worked a miracle. The abbot came back to life to talk to Kevin and to give him a bell that he had had most of his life.

AS HE BECAME older Kevin thought of going back to Rome for another pilgrimage, but he

Fifteen Colleges to Graduate 470 Women

NEWARK—Statistics indicate that 411 young women will be receiving degrees from North Jersey Catholic Colleges this year. The breakdown, as previously reported by schools, shows Seton Hall University graduating 252 women (including 63 nuns) June 11 to lead the field.

Question Religion Question

OROVILLE, Calif. (NC) — Catholic women in convention here passed a resolution saying it is the duty of citizens to vote for political candidates on the basis of their ability, regardless of their religion.

The resolution was backed unanimously by more than 200 delegates to the convention of the Sacramento Diocesan Council of Catholic Women. It stresses that the U. S. Constitution provides no religious test shall be required as a qualification for any public office or trust.

THE RESOLUTION deplores the "sin of omission" by citizens who fail to become informed on political issues and who fail to exercise their right to vote in elections.

The resolution states: "We recognize our moral obligation not to vote for or against a candidate merely because of his church affiliation."

Infirm Nuns to Fight Cancer

DEVON, Pa. (RNS) — Sisters of the Congregation of Jesus Crucified, whose members are all crippled or chronically ill, have joined the fight against cancer.

Their convent, Regina Mundi Priory in this Philadelphia suburb, has established a cytology laboratory which will enable the Sisters, after training by physicians, to examine slides submitted by gynecologists for detection of cancer.

THE ORDER HAS ITS motherhouse in France where it was founded 30 years ago. Its priory here, the only one in the U.S., was opened in 1955, and now has 28 nuns in residence. In the routine examination of women patients, between five and 10 cases of unsuspected cancer are detected in about every thousand microscopic studies.

Nun Says Retarded Children Needn't Get Cruel Kindness

TOLEDO (NC) — It could be a "cruel kindness" to keep a retarded child at home instead of at a boarding school or institution, a nun declared here.

Mother M. Esther of the Ursuline nuns, director and principal of Our Lady School, Glegarda, Windsor, Ont., said many retarded children placed in day schools are happy and have ideal home situations, but noted that sometimes a boarding school or institution may be the only answer.

"THESE parents must look forward to the future," Mother Esther said. "Their child might outlive them and will need care after they are gone. The older they are, the harder it will be to make an adjustment outside the home."

"Sometimes the normal brothers and sisters are neglected as the parents are overindulgent to their retarded child, who demands so much attention. This is what we call cruel kindness."

The Glegarda school has 70 acres overlooking the Detroit River, she said. It has separate dormitories for boys (7 to 15) and for girls (7 to 16). The school's aim is to train the child to the limit of his ability, and to help him adjust to the social life in his own home.

Marriage

TANGANYIKA — Whether in Tulsa, Trenton or Tanganyika, parents are the same the world over: they like to give a little "assist" to an unmarried daughter.

While preparing forms for a new baptism class here, Rev. Charles L. Callahan, M.M., of East Haven, Conn., asked a prospective convert if she was married.

"No, Father," came the reply. "but I've been asked to get married plenty of times."

"Fine," said the Maryknoller. "Who asked you?"

"My mother and father," was the girl's straightforward answer.

NJCTC: Bees Win Again; NJSIAA: Dons Are Favored

By Ed Grant

PISCATAWAY TOWNSHIP—Now that St. Benedict's Prep has safely locked up its third consecutive New Jersey Catholic Track Conference outdoor champion, the question arises: Which of the runners-up in that meet will take the NJSIAA crown on June 4 at Rutgers Stadium.

NJCTC Champs

100-Yards, Marist	10.3
200-Yards, St. Peter's	22.2
400-Yards, St. Peter's	49.8
800-Yards, St. Aloysius	1:56.2
1-Mile-Adams, St. Michael's (JC)	4:37.1
2-Mile-Hyland, St. Peter's (NB)	9:55.1
3-Mile-Hagovsky, St. Benedict's	15:0
4-Mile-Davis, St. Benedict's	30:19
5-Mile-Neptune, Don Bosco	50:19
6-Mile-Sullivan, St. Benedict's	54
7-Mile-Harrington, St. Benedict's	1:04
8-Mile-Tipack, Seton Hall	1:09.5
9-Mile-Ciccone, Seton Hall	1:12.4
10-Mile-Kenneth, St. Peter's (JC)	1:12.4

Tradition has it that the team which places second to the Bees at the conference meet will win the state affair. St. Aloysius did it in 1958 and Seton Hall followed suit in 1959. This would put the finger on the Pirates, who trailed the Bees, 57 1/2-31, on Memorial Day at Winton White Stadium, Englewood.

Seton Hall is a nice, conservative choice to make, too, for the Pony Pirates have a deep squad which may pick up unexpected points in almost any event should the favorites slip a bit. They will also go into the afternoon's running finals well ahead, thanks to the points sure to be picked up by their weight men during the morning field events.

BUT, IN A SPIRIT of daring, this department picks Don Bosco Prep, which hasn't won the title since 1955, to score an upset. The Dons showed off two able hurdlers at the conference meet in Frank DeLessio and August Stritmatter and, while they couldn't do much against St. Benedict's hedgehoppers, they could bring home a bagful of points at Rutgers.

St. Benedict's won the NJCTC title in just four events: the hurdles, pole vault and high jump. Matt Hagovsky won the high hurdles in a record 15.0 with Paul Davis second and Barry Brock fourth. In the lows, it was Davis on top in a record 20.3, followed by Hagovsky and with Brock again in fourth slot.

Tim Harrington lost the high jump to teammate John Sullivan, but came back to soar 12 feet (officially) and 12-6 (on an unofficial fourth try) for a new pole vault record. All told, the Bees bagged 41 1/2 points in the four events, more than enough to win.

A HUDSON COUNTY sweep of gold medals appears almost certain in the running races at the NJSIAA meet. Richie Sabo of Marist won the NJCTC 100 in 10.3 and the 220 in 22.2, with Jerry Krumelch of Essex Catholic a step back in the short race and a hairline behind in the longer. But Krumelch won't be running Saturday and no one else appears capable of pushing Sabo.

Len Zdanowicz of St. Michael's (UC) got only two thirds out of the conference hurdle races, but was well ahead of all the boys he will have to face on Saturday. Len may have a sleeper to worry about in the low hurdles, however, in Seton Hall's Frank Shary, who is switching over from the 440 with a dual meet clocking of 20.6 as his chief credentials.

The iron trust from Jersey City—Johnny Ubhaus in the 440, Kevin Hennessey in the 880 and Al Adams in the mile—seem ready to score their fourth consecutive sweep of these events within a two-week period.

Ubhaus set a 440 record of 49.8, winning the NJCTC race from Al Ganci of Marist by five yards, the first time a New Jersey Catholic high school runner dipped below 50.0 for the distance.

HENNESSEY WILL also be zeroing in on a record at Rutgers after shading Ed Wyrch's conference mark with a 1:56.2 last weekend, ahead of Ed

Schmitt's 1:59. But if Adams is to break his own state record of 4:23.5, some one will have to push him along, as he ran only 4:37.1 at Englewood, barely beating Bobby O'Rourke of St. Aloysius in the lunge for the tape.

Perhaps the push will come from Dave Hyland of St. Peter's (N.B.), who won the two-mile in 9:55.1.

Seton Hall's title hopes may depend on how many inroads South Jersey entries make on the Pirates points in the shot put, discus and pole vault. John Tipack set a school record of 49-5 1/2 in the shot last weekend, while Gayton Ciccone tallied nine points with a second in the shot and a 122-4 victory in the discus.

Tom Morley also picked up two points in the pole vault, which could increase with Harrington out of the picture.

DON BOSCO and St. Peter's (N.B.) are the other teams which figure to come out of the morning events strong on Saturday. The Dons' Jim Megiel is defending in the pole vault, but finished behind Joe P. Arico of St. Peter's last weekend.

Jean Neptune captured the NJCTC broad jump for Don Bosco at 20-1 1/2 and Connie Vono took the Tri-County title on May 28 at 20.0. John Yorke scored in both the javelin and high jump at the conference meet.

Favored in the high jump and javelin throw on Saturday will be two Gloucester Catholic stars, Frank Taggart and Tim McCarthy, while Jack Clifford of Bishop Eustace is a strong threat in the discus. Top entries from North Jersey in these three events, according to the NJCTC form are, respectively, Joe Murphy of St. Luke's, who tied Harrington for second in the high jump; George Keenen of St. Peter's (JC), who won the javelin at 150-0; and Ciccone.

Some of the real question marks who may decide the meet by their performances are Frank Koch of St. Peter's (JC) and Ralph Ippri of Bishop Eustace in the sprints; Jerry Smith of St. Peter's (JC) in the 880; Ray Wyrch of Seton Hall, third in the NJCTC mile; any of a half-dozen hurdlers; Adams in the broad jump, which he won last year but may pass up due to a slight foot sprain suffered in that winning lunge against O'Rourke, and all the entries in the high jump, broad jump and javelin throw.

Name Field For Pastor

LIVINGSTON—The parish baseball teams of St. Philomena's are now playing their games on a field named for their pastor, Rev. William A. McCann.

Constructed by Our Lady of the Mountain Council, D. C., the field was named for Father McCann in honor of his devotion to the organization of CYO activities in Livingston.

Dedication ceremonies were held on Memorial Day with a plaque being presented to Father McCann by Edward Connolly, Grand Knight of Our Lady of Mountain Council.

Eagles Wrap Up Pennant; Rams Assume Solid Lead

PASSAIC—Pope Pius wrapped up the Tri-County Catholic "A" Conference baseball pennant in grand style last week, while Don Bosco Tech assumed what could be an insurmountable lead in the four-team Passaic-Bergen Catholic Conference chase.

The Eagles, who could have waited to back into the title, rescheduled a tie game with St. Cecilia's (E) on May 25 and saw Denny DeLorenzo shut out the Saints on three hits, 7-0. Pope Pius got only two safeties itself off Jim Phillips, but the St. Cecilia's defense weighed in with seven errors.

This put the Pope Pius record at 8-0 and eliminated Don Bosco, the last contender. But, by week's end, the Dons were in danger of slipping even further down in the standings, as a 5-1 loss to St. Joseph's left them only a game ahead of fifth-place Bergen Catholic.

IT WAS A BAD week all around for St. Cecilia's, which also dropped a game to Bergen Catholic, 5-1, to wind up its league season at 3-7. Unless Bergen loses its last two games, the Saints will have the cellar all to themselves.

Don Bosco Tech spent a very profitable week as it defeated DePaul, 7-3, after battling to a nine-inning scoreless tie with St. Mary's on May 25. The latter tilt featured a brilliant pitching duel between Bill Taylor of the Rams and Joe Riccardo of St. Mary's.

Neither pitcher walked a man, Taylor allowed only five hits and Riccardo edged his rival in strikeouts, 10-9.

Both also came back strong only four days later, Taylor limited DePaul to five hits as Don

Davis, Cusack, DeLessio Lead Teams to Track Titles

NEWARK—St. Benedict's Prep, St. Luke's and Don Bosco walked off with team honors in a trio of conference track and field meets held on May 28 at widely separated points.

The Bees wrapped up the New Jersey Independent Schools Athletic Association title by dominating the sprints and hurdles to score 70-3/4 points in the meet at Peddie School. St. Luke's scored heavily in the field events to win the first annual Passaic-Bergen Catholic Conference meet at Pennington Park, Paterson, while Don Bosco won a close duel with Bergen Catholic to defend its Tri-County Catholic title.

Ten Records Fall In Class Meets

JERSEY CITY—Ten records fell as Don Bosco and Seton Hall respectively won the freshman and sophomore titles in the New Jersey Catholic Track Conference on May 26 at Lincoln Park.

Mickey Vaughn and Bill Bat-chelder led Don Bosco to a 30-28 defeat of St. Michael's (UC), defending freshman champions, as they set new marks in the 220 (24.1) and 880 (2:08.4). Vaughn also took the broad jump with a leap of 18-10.

Seton Hall had only one gold medal, Ray Wyrch winning the 880 in 2:06.3, but cashed in on seconds and third to easily out-score Essex Catholic's defenders, 29-19. Pirates runners earned medals in six of the nine events on the program.

New freshman records also came from Bill Sabbers of St. Michael's (UC) in the 100-yard dash (10.8), Charlie Casamento of St. Michael's (UC) in the 440-yard run (55.0), Bob Carter of Essex Catholic in the mile (4:53.5) and Joe Cooiland of Christian Brothers Academy and Jim Wolf of Seton Hall in the high jump (5-3 3/4).

In the sophomore division, Bob Cusack of St. Luke's set a standard of 10.2 in the 100 yard dash, Jerry Krumelch of Essex Catholic lowered the 220 mark to 22.2, Len Zdanowicz of St. Michael's (UC) posted the 440 mark at 53.7 and Jean Neptune of Don Bosco and Mike Errante of Essex Catholic became co-holders of the broad jump record at 19-7 3/4.

Name DeMarco Dayton Captain
DAYTON—Bob DeMarco of Wood-Ridge is the latest North Jersey college athlete to be elected captain of his team for the 1960-61 school year.

The former St. Mary's (R) football star will captain the Dayton University squad. DeMarco, a 240-pound tackle, has already been drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League and is expected to be an All-American candidate next season.

Other area athletes who will captain their teams next year (all basketball players) are George Blaney and Richie Kaminski of Jersey City at Holy Cross and Villanova, respectively, and Bill Crosby of Elizabeth at Notre Dame.

New Director At Seton Hall

SOUTH ORANGE—Rev. John J. Horgan, tennis coach at Seton Hall University since 1956, will succeed Rev. Thomas Fahy in the post of athletic director next year.

Father Fahy relinquished the position in order to concentrate on the competition of his work for a doctorate in Greek at Fordham University. He had served in the post since 1955 and before that was athletic director at Seton Hall Prep for seven years.

A native of West New York, Father Horgan is a graduate of Fordham University and served in the Army during World War II. Following ordination in 1954, he became a member of the Seton Hall faculty and also serves as director of the Catholic Accountants Guild of the Archdiocese of Newark.

A DECREE of nullity is a declaration by Church authority that a supposed marriage never was valid by reason of a known or hidden impediment.

Don Bosco Tech Trounces St. Mary's; Enters Finals of State Baseball Tourney

NEWARK—The major upset of the 1960 baseball season was perpetrated May 27 when Don Bosco Tech manhandled St. Mary's (E), 11-1, in a first round game of the NJSIAA Catholic "B" tournament.

Dave Alexander pounded out five hits in as many trips to the plate to lead the Rams to their easy victory. Second-string pitcher Bob Schlegel tossed fourth ball and it was generally just one big afternoon of fun for the Paterson team.

Who will meet Don Bosco in the final round, when and where the game will be played, all this was undecided at The Advocate went to press. Walsh had edged St. Aloysius, 5-4, on May 29 at Irvington to apparently enter the finals, but a protest was lodged on alleged bench interference during a crucial seventh inning play.

THE "A" DIVISION was all set for a finale between Pope Pius and Seton Hall, which was to have been played June 1, weather permitting, at St. Benedict's Field. The Eagles drew a first round bye, while Seton Hall defeated Don Bosco, 4-1, behind the three-hit pitching of Jeff Gausepohl.

Pope Pius and St. Benedict's both exited from the Greater Newark Tournament last week, but not before the Eagles had eliminated seeded Linden, 2-1, in the opening round. It was Newark East Side which finally put an end to Pope Pius' 17-game winning streak in a 1-0 thriller on Memorial Day.

After booting in three runs during a rain-curtailed contest with Linden on May 24, Pope Pius made good use of a second chance with Gerry Mackin pitching five-hit ball and Walt Seifert its season with a 6-0 shutout of Blair Academy for the 21st victory in 25 starts. This wound up Joe Kasberger's 30th season as coach of the Bees, a little sooner than Joe would have liked it to have happened.

In other areas, teams were busy playing out the string in various league races. Delbarton finished up second in the Ivy League with a 9-3 defeat of Montclair Academy. Morris Catholic scored a pair of victories in the Northwest Jersey Conference over the Blair Academy JV and Hamburg.

Holy Family and St. Michael's (UC) saw their last hopes for getting into the North Hudson race squashed as they dropped shutout games to Demarest and Emerson, respectively. Marist stayed in the first division in South Hudson with a 2-1 defeat of Lincoln, but St. Peter's and St. Michael's (JC) are occupying seventh and eighth positions, respectively.

Pirates Drop Playoff Tilt

PRINCETON—Seton Hall lost the Collegiate Baseball Conference title to Rider, 2-1, in a 12-inning playoff game on May 30 at the Princeton University field.

The two teams had wound up in a three-way deadlock with Fairleigh-Dickinson for the crown, all with 4-1 records. Seton Hall drew a bye and Rider defeated the Knights in the first round.

Mike Zurichin hurried the finale for the Pirates, limiting the hard-hitting Rider club to just five safeties. Both teams tallied one run in the eighth, but Rider broke the deadlock in the 12th on singles by Dick Kunkle and Jack Carcusa, wrapped around a walk.

Holy Name Meet In Jersey City
JERSEY CITY—The 49th annual Hudson County Holy Name track and field meet will be held June 5 at Pershing Field with grammar schools from all parts of the county competing for boys and girls championships.

St. Aloysius (Jersey City) is the defending champion in both divisions, with St. Paul of the Cross, St. Vincent's (Bayonne) and St. Aedan's expected to be the strongest challengers.

Use Court Order To Get Diplomas At Ceremonies

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (NC)—Some 40 Greene County high school seniors are using a court order this year to participate in their own graduation ceremonies.

Catholic pupils at Mapletown High School were granted an injunction in Greene County Court against a public school board resolution which would have prevented them from taking part in formal commencement ceremonies.

Before the injunction was granted, they were scheduled to receive their diplomas privately in the principal's office for refusing to attend pre-commencement baccalaureate services in which scriptural reading, hymn singing and references to their class as a "congregation" were included.

The students refused to attend the services on the advice of their pastor, Rev. William Dannecker.

They thereby "violated a school board resolution prohibiting seniors from taking part in cap and gown ceremonies unless they attend all pre-commencement events."

Judge J. I. Hook, in granting the injunction, questioned the legality of the resolution on the grounds that it required students to participate in an extra curricular activity outside of normal school hours.

237 in Graduation Class At Seton Hall Prep

SOUTH ORANGE — Rev. Charles T. Taylor, S.J., will be principal speaker at the graduation exercises of Seton Hall Prep to be held June 5 at 3 p.m. in the gymnasium-auditorium.

There are 237 in the graduating class who will receive their diplomas from Msgr. John J. Dougherty, president of Seton Hall University. Msgr. Thomas J. Tuohy, headmaster, will present the graduates and distribute the honor awards.

Three members of the class will deliver addresses: Eugene Driscoll, Edmund Considine and James DeCarlo. Father Taylor himself is an alumnus of Seton Hall Prep and now serves as regent of the Fordham College of Pharmacy.

Three North Jersey students have received "Honors at Entrance" awards from the College of Notre Dame in Baltimore. They are Ellen Marie Farrelly of Holy Angels Academy, Margaret Mary McHugh of Archbishop Walsh and Kathleen Francis Monahan of St. Cecilia's (Englewood).

TOP WINNERS in the second annual Science Fair at Mt. St. Dominic Academy were Patricia Strianse in chemistry, Barbara Brady in general science, Elizabeth Dittiger in biology and Sharon Brady and Diane Meninger in mathematics.

Mary Ann Costello has been elected president of the student council at St. Dominic Academy, with Karen Gutch as vice president, Mary Anne Amoroso as secretary and Alice McCoy as treasurer. The campaign was a hectic one with voting machines being employed to decide the issue.

Swimming Club At Seton Hall

SOUTH ORANGE — The Essex County CYO will again sponsor a swimming club for boys between the ages of 7 and 14 at the Seton Hall University pool this summer.

Open to all boys who cannot attend one of the three day camps, the swimming club will operate from June 27 to Aug. 19 with daily sessions from 9 a.m. to noon.

Swimming instructions will be given each day with classes for beginners, intermediate and advanced swimmers. Free physical examinations will be given to all boys registering for the club.

Only registered members will be allowed to use the Seton Hall facilities during the season. However, daily, weekly, and seasonal memberships will be available, though only season members will be eligible for the instruction classes. A swimming meet will close the season.

Gregory Club To Elect Officers

ORANGE — Election of officers and presentation of awards will feature the June activities of the Gregory Club of New Jersey.

Nominations for the election, to be held June 3, include Joe Mackie and Jack McGeary for president, Lorraine Lynch and Fran Norelli for vice-president, Art Arens and Leo Cielo for treasurer, Connie Farrell and Winnie Horgan for recording secretary and Marge Kliminski and Ann Mehl for corresponding secretary.

The awards banquet is set for June 7 at the Rock Spring Corral and members are requested to vote at the clubhouse for the girl and fellow, excluding officers, who have made outstanding contributions to the club during the past year.

The month's activities will be concluded with the annual Spring picnic at Swartwood Lake on June 25, for which Marge Kliminski and Dick Franchino are co-chairmen.

Four to Awards At Forum Banquet

NEWARK — Awards from the National Forensic League will be presented to four members of the debating team at the 20th annual Forum Banquet on June 5 at the Essex House.

Stephen Adik, Michael D'Alessandro, Brian Jones and Tim McDonough will receive the awards for their efforts during the past season.

Principal speaker will be Norma Ferris, director of dramatics at St. Benedict's. The chairman for the affair is Joseph Donohue.

Strange White Chapel

By Msgr. William F. Furlong

Surely she would not tell a lie — she was a saint. Was it, then, just imagination? St. Bernadette Soubirous, while at the convent of the Sisters of Charity at Nevers, would, in writing to, or in talking with friends, refer to "The White Chapel." But if it were possible for you to have looked all through her convent, you would have found no "White Chapel," and if you had asked the Sisters there they probably would not have known what you were talking about.

St. Bernadette's "White Chapel" was different. It was her white enameled iron bed with its immaculately white bedding. It was her "sick-bed" to which she was often confined with a very painful tuberculosis of the bone. She called her sick-bed her "White Chapel" because it was her workroom where, as she said, she "did her job of being sick."

She Thought So
To St. Bernadette sickness was not a misfortune. It was not something just to be tolerated. It was a very valuable way of helping people. People can be helped in a thousand ways, but one of the most valuable is through suffering, and Bernadette did a lot of that in what she called her "Little White Chapel."

Our Lord Too
Our Lord could have saved the world in a thousand different ways, but He chose the way of suffering. If there had been a better way, surely He would have chosen it. If suffering were not so valuable, surely He would never have allowed His mother to suffer so much — more than all the combined sufferings of all the martyrs!

Even the Saints
The always cheerful St. Teresa of Avila, who could never be accused of being morose or neurotic, was so convinced of the value of suffering that if she couldn't suffer, she said she saw no point in living. "To suffer or to die" was her motto.

Also realizing its importance, Archbishop Boland has requested that the sick and the infirm offer their sufferings on Pentecost Sunday, and every day through the year, for those who have been called by God to the priesthood and religious life. Through the sufferings of the sick he expects graces in abundance for those who should say, "Yes, Lord," and become the priests and the Brothers and the Sisters God wants them to be.

Love Will Do It
Pentecost Sunday, June 5, is National Youth Adoration Day. One of the official prayers for the day is: "Come, Holy Spirit, fill the hearts of Thy youth and kindle within them the fire of Thy Divine Love." Love — that is all our young people need to protect and strengthen a vocation to the priesthood or religious life. How could anyone, with an intense love for God, say "No" to Him?

St. Therese of the Child Jesus Said:
"Far more by suffering and by persecution than by eloquent discourses does Jesus wish to build up His kingdom."

St. Vincent's Heads Field For St. Lucy's Contest

NEWARK — St. Vincent's Cadets of Bayonne head a seven-corps field for the fourth annual Moonlight Serenade to be presented by St. Lucy's Drum Corps on June 4 at Newark Schools Stadium.

Others in the contest include St. Brendan's of Clifton, St. Vincent's of Madison, Our Lady of Loreto of Brooklyn, the Selden Cadets of Selden, L.I., the Audubon All-Girls corps and the Paterson Cadets.

In addition to the competition itself, an exhibition will be given by the St. Lucy's corps, under the direction of Cosmo Alina and Thomas Campione.

Also on tap for this weekend is the fifth annual Drum Corps Pageant at Downing Stadium, Randall's Island, N.Y., on June 4, with the Blessed Sacrament Golden Knights and Our Lady of Lourdes of Paterson due to compete in one part of a doubleheader contest for junior corps.

BLESSED SACRAMENT annexed its third victory in a row on May 29 when it won the Presidential Trophy at the fourth annual Preview of Champions, which drew 15,000 people to Roosevelt Stadium, Jersey City. St. Patrick's Cadets were the hosts for this show.

The victory was an important one for the Knights as it was scored over the Chicago Cavaliers, who were runners-up for the junior American Legion title last summer. Blessed Sacrament counted heavily in marching and maneuvering and the drums to defeat their mid-west rival, 86.90-86.40.

In the senior division of the competition, the Hawthorne Cavaliers were returned the winners, 86.90-86.40 over the New York Skyliners' after an error was discovered in the original count. St. Patrick's gave an exhibition, showing off their brand new uniforms.

Blessed Sacrament Gives Pin Awards

EAST ORANGE—Awards were presented for the Blessed Sacrament Holy Name Bowling League on May 23 at the annual banquet at Stash's.

APOSTATES, heretics, schismatics, Freemasons, the excommunicated, deliberate suicides, those who have ordered their bodies cremated and public sinners are denied ecclesiastical burial.

Four Unbeaten In Essex Loop

MONTCLAIR — Four teams maintain unbeaten records as the Essex County CYO grammar school baseball league nears the halfway mark of its season.

St. Ann's (Newark) and Blessed Sacrament (Newark) have won four and three games, respectively. In Division I; St. John's (Orange) tops Division III with a 3-0 record, followed by Our Lady of Lourdes (West Orange) with 4-1 and Immaculate Conception (Montclair) is tops in Division IV with a 5-0 record.

Only in Division II are there no perfect records, but Our Lady of Sorrows (South Orange), St. Leo's (Irvington) and St. Paul the Apostle (Irvington) all have but one defeat on their escutcheons.

Film Review Roundup

By William H. Mooring

Wild River

Excellent (No rating yet)
An old woman's stubborn devotion to her river-island home provides the backbone of this absorbing drama and sparks a memorable tour de force in acting that cannot fail to win Jo Van Fleet fresh legions of admirers as well, most likely, as an Oscar nomination for her performance.

Scripter Paul Osborn lights with personal interest and meaning a page of American history: the Roosevelt government's 1933 plan to "tame" the turbulent Tennessee River with a system of dams. Producer-director Elia Kazan has made the most of smoldering political controversies; indeed has often risked place to score point, either about New Dealism or old scores between Negroes and whites. The romantic sequences, in high emotional key, are handled with discretion. For mature audiences here is a pungent mixture of action, argumentation and character analysis.

Pay or Die

Good (Adults, Adolescents)

This violent, highly colored study of organized crime goes back to the early 1900s when the vicious Black Hand society terrorized New York's Italian quarters. Police Lt. Joseph Petrosini, himself an Italian immigrant (well played by Ernest Borgnine) takes up the investigation. Following threats to assassinate Enrico Caruso and brutal attacks upon Petrosini's wife he is permitted to go to Palermo. There he discovers the connections between the New York crime ring and the Sicilian Mafia but is murdered before he can transmit his findings to the New York police. The story ends on the truculent boast of a New York crime boss that the organization shall continue, laden with sickening cruelty and revolting infamy, the picture, like the latest news on Mafia doings in this country, projects no hopeful conclusions. Still it kind of fascinates the senses.

Say Purchasing Agencies Further Work of Church

NEWARK — Both Archbishop Boland and Bishop McNulty saw diocesan purchasing agencies furthering the work of the Church in luncheon talks to delegates attending the first national conference held by the agencies.

The conference was held May 25 and 26 at the Robert Treat Hotel with Cooperative Supply Services, an agency of the Newark Archdiocese and Paterson Diocese, as host.

The two prelates stressed that the savings effected by purchasing plans are important only insofar as they make it possible to provide more and better churches, schools and hospitals.

Ten diocesan agencies were represented at the meeting, attended by more than 40 delegates. Participants voted to hold another conference next May 12 and 13 in Buffalo. Chairman for that conference will be Rev. Cyril Trevitt, director, Buffalo Diocesan Purchasing Division.

New Pamphlets Provide Insight Into Catholic Education Picture

WASHINGTON — Five booklets being distributed by the NCWC Department of Education dispel some old notions about the Catholic school system in the U.S. and outline the magnitude of the challenge still facing Catholic educators.

The pamphlets deal with grade schools, high schools, colleges and universities, seminaries, and the role of the diocesan superintendent of schools.

SISTER MARY Richardson of the National Catholic Educational Association points out in the grade school pamphlet that Catholic schools originally were staffed by Sisters only as an emergency measure. The "emergency" that kept lay people off teaching staffs was the lack of money to pay them salaries, she said.

Today, she notes, the situation has changed to the extent that 29% of the grade school teachers are lay people. And one authority predicts that by 1971 they will outnumber the religious. The prediction is based on the 1945-56 increase in lay teaching personnel.

Sister Mary Janet, former curriculum consultant for secondary schools, reports in the pamphlet concerned with that level of education that the trend toward diocesan or regional high schools is still growing. In 1947, she said, more than 55% of the high schools were parish operated. By 1956 the figure had dropped to 45%.

Some dioceses, she said, have even taken existing parish schools and merged them into one larger unit.

PROF. JOHN P. Sullivan of Stonehill College, North Easton, Mass., wrote the college and university pamphlet, noting a 50-year Catholic college enrollment jump of 1,700% (16,040 in 1909 to 290,578 in 1959). Still, he estimates, Catholic colleges educate only two-fifths of all Catholics who go on to higher education.

The pamphlet on school superintendents, written by a committee of the National Catholic Educational Association, notes that their role is unique in America. Their status is not covered by Canon Law and consequently individual Bishops have developed the office along different lines to meet different situations.

Rev. J. Cyril Dukehart, S.S., another official of the educational association, wrote the reference-type seminary pamphlet. All pamphlets are available from the NCWC.

Highland Woods Opens New Section

MORRIS TOWNSHIP (PFS)—above sea level. Every home in the new section will afford the purchaser an outstanding view of much of the area from Morris town east and including the New York skyline.

Seven models, priced from $29,000, are being offered at Highland Woods, including a southern colonial style raised ranch with three bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, large family room and separate den; a traditional two-story home with four bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, two-car garage and 22 ft. sun deck; and a New England ranch with 3 1/2 ft. dining-living room, three or four bedrooms, three full baths and two-car garage.

The builders indicate that all homes can be modified and custom built to purchaser's specifications, and that every home will be completely oriented to the surrounding topography to achieve the most pleasing combination of home and homesite.

Lots are to be a minimum of one acre in size, with most of the stately trees left standing, according to the developers of the property.

David Cronheim Co. of Newark is exclusive sales agent.

St. Thomas Church Near Completion

OLD BRIDGE (PFS)—St. Thomas Church now near completion on property adjoining the 194-home Middlewood-at-Old Bridge community on Bentley Ave. off Route 18 will see its first Mass celebrated this Saturday, June 4.

The church and hall is expected to be completed and ready for services in July. An adjoining parochial school is being readied for the fall term.

Approximately 380 youngsters will receive Holy Communion at the first Mass. Father French is pastor and Rev. Francis M. Girard, assistant.

St. Thomas Church adjoins the Middlewood-at-Old Bridge community, being developed by Hedy Heights Construction Co. of Clifton.

The builder offers ranch, Cape Cod and split-level homes priced from $14,990 to $16,990 on fully-landscaped plots 65 by 100 feet and larger.

Value Realty Co. of Clifton is in charge of sales.

The developer of Middlewood is also completing a rectory and convent on property adjoining the church. Both buildings are expected to be ready for use this summer.

Chalet Manor Sells 14 Homes

ROCHELLE PARK (PFS)—Two more families have moved into their split-level dwellings at the 26-house Chalet Manor community on Passaic St. off Berdan St. here.

Sacred Heart Church and school are close by.

This brings total occupancies to seven at the tract which is being developed by Joseph Carletta of Rochelle Park. George DePalma of Paramus is in charge of sales.

Fourteen homes have now been sold, with additional deliveries slated for late in June and through the summer. The seven-room, 1 1/2-bath split-level homes priced at $21,790 are being erected on fully-landscaped plots in an area which has city sewers and all improvements.

The model has an exterior of cedar shingles and a stoop entry with ornamental iron rail. The walk-in level includes a living room with picture window, dining room with double-window, and a kitchen with breakfast area, built-in wall oven and counter-top range, birch cabinets, exhaust fan, Formica counter top, and a broom closet.

Up one level is the bedroom wing. Included here are three bedrooms and a ceramic-tiled bath with sliding-door medicine cabinet and a tub with shower.

The lower level of the house features a recreation room with a television nook, an adjoining lavatory, and a laundry room with tub and a door leading out to the yard.

City Tax Structure Important

NORTH BRUNSWICK (PFS)—One of the most important financial considerations a home buyer should investigate before purchasing a home is the tax structure of the community. The presence of a large manufacturing plant in a small residential community can be very advantageous to the resident in at least one very important place—his pocketbook.

A good example of this is the town of North Brunswick. Here residents are fortunate enough to have part of the huge new Johnson & Johnson plant facilities located in the town. The buildings are attractive, well-planned, beautifully landscaped, and in general add esthetically to the community.

In addition, however, the company pays a very handsome annual tax to the town. Thus, the owner of a $22,000 home in North Brunswick might pay the same tax as the owner of an $18,000 home elsewhere in the county, where there is very little industry; yet the residents of North Brunswick receive equal or better community facilities.

For example, buyers at Sutton Terrace, 43-home community located off Rt. 130 in North Brunswick, pay monthly taxes of approximately $23 on the Brunswick model, which is a bi-level ranch home priced at $21,990, whereas buyers in some other communities pay as high as $35 monthly plus an additional sewage tax of $3 or $4 on homes selling for $2,000 to $2,500 less.

Ranch Model Leading the Sales at Heritage Homes

FREEHOLD (PFS)—Currently, the leading seller is a three-bedroom ranch house with a raised hearth fireplace and a paneled living room wall, according to the builder of Heritage Homes here.

A U-shaped kitchen, an attached garage with direct access to both the full basement and the house proper, are some of the other features.

The front of the house is graced with Briar Hill Stone and cedar clapboard.

"Since we have opened this model," said Marvin Broder, the builder, "we have proven the saying again that a bargain is always easy to sell."

Profile Msgr. Oesterreicher, Blue Army in 'St. Jude'

NEWARK—The story of Msgr. John M. Oesterreicher, director of Seton Hall University's Institute of Judaic-Christian Studies, is featured in the June issue of The Voice of St. Jude, published in Chicago.

In another feature, a story on Fatima, a description of the Blue Army is given. The Blue Army was founded by Msgr. Harold V. Colgan, pastor of St. Mary's, Plainfield, and is headquartered in Washington, N. J.

"The Bridge Builder" chronicles Msgr. Oesterreicher's early conversion from Judaism, his ordination a few years later, his work for understanding between Christians and Jews in Austria and his escape from that country a few hours before the order for his arrest was issued by the Nazis.

Finally, the article covers his work in the U. S., principally at the institute where his writings and talks are aimed at eliminating prejudice among both Jews and Christians; always with the realization that "He over whom Christians and Jews are separated turns and ties us to them: He (Christ) is the bridge."

The Fatima story calls the Blue Army "the Fatima organization which has the greatest following both here and abroad" and lists among its activities publication of the magazine Soul, presentation of the TV series "Zero — 1960," maintenance of a center at Fatima, and sponsorship of pilgrimages.

Have you tasted the bread that was never meant to be sold?

It's called Monks' Bread and has long been the daily bread of the Trappists of the Abbey of the Genesee, a mainstay in their austere diet.

A tall, thin loaf, different and more delicious than any you've ever tasted, this healthful bread has become popular overnight. Actually this bread was never meant to be sold. But visitors to the Abbey of the Genesee were so enthusiastic about it that the Monks agreed to share it with the outside world.

Recently the Bond Bakers were given the privilege of baking Monks' Bread for you. Monks' Bread baked by Bond, following the Trappist recipe, is now at your favorite store in White, Whole Wheat and Raisin loaves. Do try it.
