Holy Father Canonizes 16th-Century Prelate

VATICAN CITY — televisión 1,500 spectators were among some 2,500 faithful who witnessed the canonization of Juan de Ribera, 16th-century Archbishop of Valencia, in St. Peter's Basilica.
The Spanish pilgrims include a descendant of the new saint, his daughter Maria de Ribera, who came to Rome to see the canonization of her father. She is the only female descendant of the Ribera family. The canonization took place in St. Peter's Basilica, where the remains of the saint were placed in a special altar.

Sixty-three years ago, on January 6, 1956, the Pope canonized the Franciscan friar, who had served as Archbishop of Valencia for 16 years and as Bishop of Barcelona for 13 years. The canonization was held in the presence of the Pope and his cardinals, who gave their consent to the canonization.

The canonization ceremony was the culmination of a process that began with the beatification of the saint in 1929. The process was handled by the Vatican's Sacred Congregation of the Causes of Saints, which is responsible for investigating and approving the miracles attributed to the saint.

The canonization is the highest form of recognition that the Church can bestow on a saint. It officially confirms that the saint lived a life of holiness and that he or she is now in heaven with God.

In addition to the canonization, two miracles were approved for the saint. One miracle involved the healing of a baby born with a birthmark that disappeared after the saint's name was recalled. The other miracle involved the healing of a woman who was cured of a serious illness after praying to the saint.

The canonization of Juan de Ribera is the latest in a series of canonizations that have taken place in the past few years. Other recent canonizations include Mother Teresa of Calcutta, Pope John Paul II, and Pope John XXIII.

The canonization of Juan de Ribera is also significant because it marks the second time that a Spanish saint has been canonized in the past year. The first canonization was that of St. John of the Cross, who was canonized in September 2015.

Panicked Parents

Parents on every side are. They know they need to know why the Church is being fought, and they don't like it.

But has the Church been logging? Do not let it be supposed that there was any organized conspiracy to attack the Catholic bishops. But there were many in the United States who knew, from experience, that the Catholic Church is a powerful and dangerous force, and that it is the Church of the future. It is not easy to say whether the Church is or is not the Church of the future, but it is clear that the Catholic Church is a powerful and dangerous force, and that it is the Church of the future.

In our defense we have the following facts:

1. The Church is a powerful and dangerous force, and it is the Church of the future.
