Course Summary:

The Catholic Peacemaking course offers an introduction to the understanding and practice of Catholic peacemaking as experienced through the centuries. Students will integrate the knowledge of four areas of exploration:

- 1- Catholic contributions to a contemporary understanding of peace
- 2- The appreciation of the changing context in which this understanding has evolved, especially through the encounter with relevant Catholic Peacemakers
- 3- The identification of peace as a relevant contemporary challenge that must be confronted by each Catholic and by the Church as a whole
- 4- Consistent with a contemporary Catholic understanding of peace, the elaboration of responses by the students, on one side, to the yearning for peace of poor and oppressed peoples, and on the other, to perceived threats to peace

Each student will present on an historical case with a focus on magisterium pacis.

Student Learning Objectives

By the end of the course, students will know the key concepts, models, theories, and debates involved in the study of catholic peacemaking; the institutional evolution of Catholic contribution to international politics, including international organizations, and international law; and exposure to the social science research process.

Expectations and Grading:

One five-page critical review paper on the magisterium pacis topic agreed at the beginning of the course. Paper is due by email at andrea.bartoli@shu.edu at 9:00 AM on the morning of the assigned class session (20%). Assignment done individually.

One five-page “Catholic peace-maker profile” to be presented in the final thirty minutes of a class session. Paper is due by email at andrea.bartoli@shu.edu at 9:00 AM on the morning of the assigned class session (20%). Any presentation materials, PowerPoint, etc. should be posted to Blackboard prior to the start of class.

Participation in discussion demonstrably informed by the reading and assigned short memos (20%). Participation grade will also include such things as frequently commenting on the readings or class topics, and volunteering for small assignments in class, such as providing a brief definition or explanation of a term referenced in class.

Final paper of 15 pages on a topic of your choice. During the last three weeks of the class, presentation of argument to the class (Presentation 10%; Final Paper 30%).

Important Notes:

Plagiarism and other forms of academic dishonesty will be reported to the administration, and may result in a lowered or failing grade for the course and up to possible dismissal from the School of Diplomacy. See university and school standards for academic conduct here:
