Missal, Breviary, Liturgy Calendar Reforms to be Effective Jan. 1, 1961

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Pope John XXIII announced here today that 1961 will be the first year in which the new liturgical calendar and liturgical books, as prescribed by the Second Vatican Council, will be used in the Universal Church.

Pope John XXIII declared that the reform of the Liturgy Calendar, which has been under discussion for several years, will be effective for the liturgical year beginning in 1961.

The Pope noted that the new calendar, which will replace the old one used since the Council of Nicaea in 325, will be based on the ancient Jewish calendar but will be adapted to the needs of modern times.

The Pope also noted that the new calendar will be used in all parts of the world, and that it will be used in all parts of the world in which the language of the liturgical books is Italian.

The Pope further noted that the new calendar will be used in all parts of the world in which the language of the liturgical books is Latin.

The Pope emphasized that the new calendar will be used in all parts of the world in which the language of the liturgical books is Latin in all its forms.

School Crises Next Problem In the Congo?

LEOPOLDOVILLE, Congo (S.R.) — The Belgian government has called for the submission of Church and state in this underdeveloped, war-ravaged country.

In its program introduced in the Senate here, the government has already asked to take over education, including missions schools.

The program has so far been discussed in Parliament. It is expected to be completed on time, according to the minister in charge of the subject.

Pomp, Religious Splendor Mark Eucharistic Congress in Munich

MUNICH, Germany — Pope John asked the "mystic worshippers" at Munich's Eucharistic Congress, the Catholic Church's greatest religious demonstration of the year, to pray for the "peace of an ecclesial family."

The Pope said it was the calling of "men of good will, of all lands and races, who want to see a new Europe in the hope of peace." But, he said, it would be impossible to achieve peace unless all nations cooperate.

The Pope's theme was "Peace through the Community of Christ."

It is believed that the celebration of the Eucharist at the Congress will mark the beginning of an international program of Catholic peace work. The Congress, which opens here Monday, is expected to attract more than 1 million pilgrims from all over the world.

The opening ceremonies, which will be held here Monday, will begin at 2:30 p.m. in the Munich Cathedral. The Pope will arrive here at 2:45 p.m. and will open the Congress with his homily, "Peace — the Community of Christ."

The celebration of the Eucharist will occur at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, and the Pope will lead the liturgy. The homily will be given by His Eminence Cardinal Casaroli, secretary of state of the Holy See.

The Congress will continue until Friday, when the Pope will leave for Rome. The Pope's departure will be marked by a solemn service at the Munich Cathedral.

The Pope's visit to Germany is expected to be a historic event. It is the first time a Pope has visited the country since World War II, and it is the first time that a Pope has visited the country since the war began.

Sees Little Hope Of School Aid

DETROIT NEWS — A Jewish legal scholar warned here that "Catholic parents and Catholic educators should not be counted on any further aid from us, for they will not be forthcoming for Catholic schools in this or any event in the near future."

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Detroit Board of Rabbis, Rabbi Fred F. Dreyfus, R. D., said that the Board no longer expects to make financial aid to private schools, that it was done in the past and was perhaps necessary then, but not today.

"Rabbis are becoming more critical of the educational program of the Board of Rabbis," he said. "We believe that there is a need of an educational program for boys and girls which will not be religious in kind but will be educational in kind, and not in a religious direction."

Dreyfus is the National Rabbi of the Board of Rabbis, and the Board has made much effort to educate the public about the Board's educational program.

The Board of Rabbis has established the "Rabbins Educational Institute," which is a new educational organization for the education of the people of the Board of Rabbis. Holy Father Would Organize Charity on a Global Scale

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy — Coordination of Catholic charitable activity on a global scale was urged by Pope John XXIII at an audience at the Vatican's summer residence here to delegates attending the Fifth General Assembly of the International Catholic Union of Charities.

The Pope said there is a need to "create a new family of charities, especially if our charitable activities are too small and in some cases too abstracted, our charitable activities are too small and in some cases too abstracted.

"Charities are those who put the love of God into the heart of the people," the Pope said in giving the third of his speeches at the conference. "Charities are those who put the love of God into the heart of the people."

To realise the Pope's intentions, the conference in Rome is to be held under the direction of Father Leo F. Casey, the director of the conference in Rome.

Religion Gets Less Than 5% Of Grants by Foundations

NEW YORK (AP) — Religious organizations received less than 5 percent of grants made by foundations in 1987. The trend is reflected in a report released Tuesday by the Foundation Center, a New York-based research group.

The report, "Grants and Giving, 1987," said that foundations gave $62 billion in grants, an increase of 1.4 percent over the 1986 total. The report, which covers grants made from July 1, 1986, through June 30, 1987, said that grants to religious organizations were $3.5 billion, or 5.6 percent of the total.

The report also said that grants to medical and education institutions accounted for 39 percent of the total, while grants to the arts and humanities were 29 percent. Grants to community agencies, charities and public services were 8 percent.

The report said that the trend toward giving to education and the arts was consistent with the trend in the 1980s, when foundations gave more than half of their grants to education and the arts.

Federal School Aid Again?

There is no reason to believe — any reason to fear — that the coming weeks will see Congress in the position of having to pass a number of bills, each of which contains one or more provisions that are likely to be actively contested by some section of the population. The issue of Federal School Aid is the most likely of these to be considered by the House. Congress is not expected to act on it before the end of the session, and even if it does, its chances of becoming law are remote.

In the meantime, some of the states that have already passed school aid acts are finding that the funds provided are not enough to meet the needs of their schools. Some of the larger cities, for example, are finding that the funds they receive from the State are not enough to cover the cost of educating their children. Others are finding that the funds are insufficient to carry out the educational programs that they have planned.

One of the problems is that the funds are not distributed equally among the states. Some states receive more than others, and some receive less. This is because the formula used to distribute the funds is based on the number of children in each state, and some states have a larger population than others.

Another problem is that the funds are not adequate to cover the cost of education. The cost of education has gone up in recent years, and the funds provided by the State are not enough to meet this increase.

There is no reason to believe that Congress will pass a school aid act that is as generous as the one that was passed last year. The present administration is not likely to support such a bill, and it is not likely to be passed by the House of Representatives.

The main problem is that the funds are not adequate to meet the needs of the schools. The state legislatures are not likely to pass acts that will provide more funds, and the federal government is not likely to provide adequate funds.

As a result, the schools will continue to be underfunded, and the quality of education will continue to be poor. The only way to solve this problem is to find a way to increase the funds available to the schools. This can be done by increasing the tax base, by increasing the tax rates, or by finding other ways to generate revenue.

Religious Anarchy

Some time ago a prominent journalist, who is also a well-known author, was asked to write an article on the subject of religious anarchy. He said that he was not qualified to write on the subject, and that he did not believe in religious anarchy. He said that he believed in the authority of the Church, and that he believed in the possibility of a religious community.

This is an interesting statement, because it is not true. The Church is not an authority in the sense that it is a government, and it is not possible to form a religious community.

Erinn’s Letter

Editor:

It is difficult to understand why William J. Buckley was so recently accorded an honorary degree by St. John’s University, New York. I am sure that the administration of St. John’s University, as well as the students, must have known that Mr. Buckley has a rather colourful past.

I am concerned about the intentions of Mr. Buckley at the university. If he is given an honorary degree, it will be a rather strong signal to St. John’s University, as well as to other educational institutions, that they should give up their principles of social justice and give in to the political pressure.

I believe that St. John’s University should take a stand and not give in to this political pressure. It should stand up for its principles of social justice and not give in to the pressure of the political.

Flag Day is in June. Independence Day is in July. Armistice Day is in November. The end of May is Memorial Day and the end of April is Easter Sunday. These are the times our flag is in the air in America. But we have other American flags that would not look out of place in the month of May. We have the Washington Monument Flag, the Betsy Ross, the Lincoln, the Revolutionary War, and the Stars and Stripes flags.

The very first flag ever created in America was 13 stars and stripes, each star representing a state, and 13 red and white stripes, each stripe representing a colony. On June 14, 1777 they replaced "Betsy Ross, the flag of the United States of America" and became the national symbol of our country. The flag was originally raised by John Paul Jones at the Battle of the Brandywine and is the first Beaufort of the Congress flag. The flag has never been changed since that time. At new states are added to a new star would be added to the flag.

The first of this year we added a new star to the flag when Illinois joined the Union on April 30, 1818. We have more than 40 flags in our country, each state having their own flag. The first state to have its own flag was New Hampshire in 1784.

The very first verse of our national anthem was written by Francis Scott Key on September 13, 1776, while he was aboard the British ship "Guerilla" in the Chesapeake Bay. The lyrics were not published until 1817.

We hope you have enjoyed this little history lesson and will think back over the years to the 13 stars and stripes that we are so proud of. Would you care to learn more about the flag? If so, please contact our local historical society or your local library.

Church running with reasonable efficiency, and it is only fair that the parents of the children be asked to contribute their share. A few well placed letters could be written to the Board of Education concerning the above matter. People of this city, especially parents of children attending the public schools should rise to the occasion and support the Church in this matter.

The point of Mr. Butler's letter is that a large part of the population of the city is not taxpaying, and that the city is being held up to pay for services which are not desired by a large number of our taxpayers.
This is a situation that can be changed, but action must be taken by those who have the interest of the city at heart.
