Church's Latest Liturgical Reform Stresses Proper Communion Time

By Rev. Frederick R. McKeever

NCWC News Service

Another significant step has been taken in the overall restoration of the liturgy initiated by Pope Pius XII in 1948 and continued by St. Pius X 50 years ago.

The latest fruit of the liturgical movement is the new Calendar for the Church calendar and the revision of the Missal for a 20th-century liturgy. It is to be expected that in the years to come, the liturgy of the Church will be further revised and simplified. It is hoped that the changes will be effectual in the years to come, and that they will be for the greater good of the Church and for the greater good of the faithful.

The new Calendar for the Church calendar is a reform of the liturgy of the Church, which is the body of Our Lord and of His Mystical Body the Church.

The new Calendar is to be used in the liturgy of the Church, and is to be used in all the schools of the Church, as well as in the homes of the faithful. The new Calendar is to be used in all the parishes of the Church, and is to be used in all the schools of the Church, as well as in the homes of the faithful.

Camden Starts $5 Million Drive for New High Schools

Camden—A frenzied program to provide modernized facilities and aid to secondary education in the city was announced last week by Archbishop Joseph J. Delaney, head of the Diocese of Camden. A total of $5 million will be spent to improve the schools of the city.

The new high school will occupy the former site of the Catholic Orphanage. It will be located on a new tract of land and will provide modern classrooms, shops, and laboratories. In addition to the new high school, there will be modernized facilities for the existing Catholic schools in the city.

Archbishop Delaney said that the drive was necessary to meet the educational needs of the city's growing population. He appealed to the community for support and pledged to continue the drive until the $5 million goal is reached.

The new high school will be named after St. Joseph, the patron saint of the city. It will be built on land donated by the city and will include classrooms, a library, a gymnasium, and a multipurpose auditorium.

Archbishop Delaney said that the new school will be a symbol of the city's commitment to education and will provide a modern learning environment for its students. He urged the community to support the drive and to ensure that every child has access to a quality education.
Fortunately for the community, the majority of churches and Sunday schools have been excepted from this law.

Christ's Actions Told Men Of His Deep Love For Them

By Frank J. Shrend, Crews,drop of our Lord's humanity upon earth, we may begin to understand His love for men. The Gospel

What would a child of four have to say about the character of a teacher? Perhaps he would say that the teacher was friendly, kind, gentle and patient. Perhaps he would add that the teacher worked hard and was the best teacher in the world.

Beloved Lay Teachers

Another school opening sentence points to the importance of the educational system. A lay teacher has long been important in the educational system, and this is true even when the teacher is not a religious teacher. In many schools they may even outeducation religious teachers.

On Wheels

If you don't have a car these days, you might want to get a bike. You see, this is the year the bicycle is back in fashion. It's not just for those who are interested in exercise, either. It's also great for getting around town and saving money on gas.

Peter Speaks

Stake in the School

School cannot be compared to a church. A church is not a school. The church is a place where people come together to worship and pray. School is for learning and education. It's a place where children are taught to read, write, and think. It's a place where they learn about history, science, and math.

The Quest Question

One War We Need

This is the title of the song by John Lennon. It's about the need for world peace. The lyrics go:

What you doing, that's all right. But what you doing, that's all right. But what you doing, that's all right.

Suggests Means to Curb Khruachev

By Louis F. Baden

In a recent interview, Mr. Khrushchev stated that he would take any steps necessary to maintain peace in the world. However, many people are concerned about the potential for conflict with the Soviet Union. The following suggestions may help to curb the influence of Khruachev and promote world peace:

A white marble, 24-story building, one of the tallest in Newark... almost 5 million square feet of office space, completely air conditioned... 2-story bronze-trimmed, glass-enclosed main lobby... beautiful and unique trees-lined corner garden areas, right in the heart of Newark! These are a few of the facts and figures about the new Prudential Plaza building, Newark's newest skyscraper. Impressive as these statistics are, they are not nearly as impressive, or as important, as what the new building stands for. Prudential Plaza is rock-hard evidence of Prudential's firm faith in the present progress and future potential of Newark. Prudential was born in Newark, in a small basement on Broad Street, in 1875. Pru grew up in Newark— with Newark. In recent years, in order to offer wider, more efficient service, we have opened Regional Home Offices around the country. Naturally, all have given us great pride. But none has given us the very special glow that accompanies the Formal Opening of the new Prudential Plaza on September 14—in the city where Prudential was founded 85 years ago.

TO OVER 35 MILLION PEOPLE—INSURANCE MEANS PRUDENTIAL
Visits on Way 'Round World

By Anne Mac Anderson

NEWARK—It might have been an easy way to get to England, but for Cardinal John J. Hughes of New York, in the days of the Clipper ships, it was a pretty long roundabout journey. He crossed the Atlantic in a sailing vessel, a small ship, or possibly a schooner, with a crew of three or four. He ate his meals on deck, and his only contact with civilization was when he anchored at the Atlantic islands—in the days before the Submarine U.S. Navy began to make those islands so familiar to him.

The trip was to be made from Ireland to New York, with several stops in the British Isles, and possibly in France or Spain. The journey would take several months, and the Cardinal would be able to spend his time in leisurely observation of the world and the people he would be called to serve.

In 1899, the Cardinal, then Bishop Hughes of New York, sailed on a mission to the British Isles. He was accompanied by several other bishops and priests and was expected to stay for several months. The purpose of the mission was to visit the Catholic churches and to meet with the laity to discuss the state of the Church in the British Isles.

The journey was not without its challenges. The ship was small and poorly equipped, and the weather was often rough. However, the Cardinal was determined to complete his mission and to serve the faithful.

On the return voyage, the Cardinal was once again faced with the same challenges. The ship was once again small and poorly equipped, and the weather was often rough. However, the Cardinal was determined to complete his mission and to serve the faithful.

In addition to his work as a bishop, the Cardinal was also an accomplished scholar and writer. He wrote many books and articles, and his work was well respected. He was a man of great wisdom and insight, and his words were often quoted by Catholic leaders around the world.

The Cardinal's journey was a testament to his dedication to his faith and his commitment to serving the faithful. He was a man of great courage and perseverance, and his story is one that continues to inspire people around the world.
Trees and Winds and Rain Made the Weeks’ Headlines

By June Dever

The winds were very much in the news in Newark and Passaic as the trees in both towns were blown down just as they were due to be harvested. These were pictures taken of the damage that the winds would have caused, but there were few reports of any damage being done to the trees.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS BACK 'Basic Aims' of NAACP

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (RNS) - Sixth documents by Negro students in the South and the "basic aims" of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People were endorsed by the National Federation of Catholic College Students.

The NPCS urged support for the NAACP's proposed Legal Defense and Educational Fund. "We feel that as Catholic students we have an obligation to support the civil and human rights of all people," said Howard Oldham of St. Louis University. "The NAACP is a solid organization..." Other resolutions called for Negro voters to be allowed to vote in the South and again presented the "equal value" for Negro missionaries in the South.
