President Tells of Need For Private Charities

Declares Parochial Grades Excel in English, Manners

NEW YORK — President Eisenhower hailed Catholic scholarships as a "great bulwark against collapse into materialism and utter dependence on the welfare state."

In an address to the National Catholic Welfare Conference at the Waldorf-Astoria here, the President said: "...the United States has gone too far in its welfare state. We need a radically different welfare state."

"It may be that the United States has gone too far in its welfare state," the President said. "I believe that a great bulwark against collapse into materialism and utter dependence on the welfare state is the United States Catholic Charities and other private charitable organizations."

The President said that the United States needs to develop "a radically different welfare state" that will provide "a bulwark against the collapse into materialism and utter dependence on the welfare state."

"We need more private charitable organizations," the President said. "We need more Catholic Charities organizations and other private charitable organizations to provide a bulwark against the collapse into materialism and utter dependence on the welfare state."

Urges Cooperation In Lay Apostolate

The Holy See has called for greater cooperation in the work of the Catholic Church in Africa and its African and Asian students studying in the United States.

The letter was signed by Cardinal Tardini, prefect of the Congregation for the Evangelization of Peoples, and was addressed to all the bishops of the United States.

FATHER HAK was made a lay apostolate for the work of the Catholic Church in Africa, and has been named as the apostolic delegate to South Africa.

In his speech to the delegation, Father Hak said, "The work of the Catholic Church in Africa is the responsibility of all Catholics, both clergy and laymen." He also said that the Church must work together with all the other organizations and institutions in Africa to promote the cause of the Gospel among all the peoples of the continent.

Three Days of Meeting

The meeting of the delegates was held in Rome, and was attended by representatives of the Congregation for the Evangelization of Peoples, the Congregation for the Oriental Churches, and the Pontifical Council for Justice and Peace.

The delegates discussed the work of the Catholic Church in Africa, and agreed to cooperate in the promotion of the cause of the Gospel among all the peoples of the continent.

African Race Crisis

Result of Christians' Failure To Practice What They Preach

LONDON (N.C.)—Archbishop Suhr, who has recently returned from a visit to South Africa, said that the racial crisis in that country is the result of Christians' failure to practice what they preach.

"The situation in South Africa is not one that can be solved by any external force," said Archbishop Suhr. "It is a crisis that can only be resolved through the active participation of all the people of South Africa, both black and white, in the work of the Church."

To Build New Hall at St. Leo's, Irvington

IRVINGTON — Prospective erection of a new hall at St. Leo's parish here, and plans for a fund drive to finance construction were announced this week by Msgr. John O. Burcham, pastor.

The new hall will be an integral part of the high school program, as required by the New Jersey Catholic Conference. This school, which has 100 students attending, will also be known as Archbishop Holmdel High School. It will be a part of the Diocese of Trenton and will be affiliated with the Diocese for Social, Recreational, and Sports Activities.

The fund drive will be held at 7:30 p.m., when members of the parish will gather for a meeting at the school. Rev. John G. Johnson, assistant pastor, will preside.

Religious Leaders Fill the Air with Election-Year Statements

NEW YORK — The Catholic Bishops of New York announced a statement urging political leaders to respect the rights of non-believers, and said that they would consider it a "grave sin" not to do so.

The statement was made at a press conference held here today by the New York Catholic Bishops, who are also the leaders of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States.

"It is vital," the statement said, "that political leaders respect the rights of non-believers, and that they do so in a way that is consistent with the principles of democracy.

In SAN FRANCISCO, the Archdiocese of San Francisco announced that it would not support any candidate who did not respect the rights of non-believers.

The statement was made at a press conference held here today by Archbishop John J. O'Connor, who is also the leader of the Roman Catholic Church in the Western United States.

Bishop Curris will be the principal speaker of the Metropolitan Cathedral of St. Peter’s, Washington, D.C., on the occasion of the 90th anniversary of the consecration of St. Peter’s Cathedral.

The setting was different—outside St. Peter’s Church in St. Paul, Minnesota, rather than in the Metropolitan Cathedral in Washington, D.C. But the theme of the event—and the message—remained the same.

The bishops of the United States have been joined in prayer and in action to promote the sanctity of life and the protection of the unborn since the 1973 Supreme Court decision in Roe v. Wade.

In his homily, Bishop Curris said, "The bishops of the United States have been united in prayer and in action to promote the sanctity of life and the protection of the unborn since the 1973 Supreme Court decision in Roe v. Wade."
False Idea of ‘Catholic Vote’ Major Source of Prejudice

The candidacy of Senator Kennedy for the Democratic nomination has brought up a lot of false information about the doctrines and the ‘official position’ of the Church on this policy at the level of the clergy in the United States. Now that he is campaigning, the bishops have a duty to check this false information and to tell their priests and people at home that the Church is not in favor of any policy which will be detrimental to the public welfare.

The person who is leading the way in this field is Dr. James M. O'Neil, a number of books on Catholic and political subjects. Dr. O'Neil's latest book, "The Catholic Vote," is the one in which he attacks the "official position" of the Church on this question.

There is no question that Dr. O'Neil's book is a dangerous one. It is a book that is likely to do a lot of harm to the cause of Catholicism. It is a book that is likely to do a lot of harm to the cause of the Church. It is a book that is likely to do a lot of harm to the cause of the United States.

Government Aid To Parochial Schools?

Like any liberal American, I'm seeing the institution of religious schools as a good thing. On the other hand, as an American, I'm seeing the constitutional, what conditioned, is the law of the land. And what law is the land? It is the law of the land. The law of the land is the law of the land. The law of the land is the law of the land. The law of the land is the law of the land.

The question is: does the law of the land make it impossible for the government to give aid to parochial schools? The Red Destroyer

A few weeks ago The Advocate published a new series of articles that examined the role of the Red in American society. The articles were written by several different authors and focused on the influence of the Red on various aspects of American life, including politics, labor, and the arts. The series was intended to provide a comprehensive overview of the Red movement and its impact on American society.

The gift consists of the original charter of the New World Catholic Church, the original copy of the Act of Incorporation, and the Act of Union, which was signed on November 13, 1787.

In the gift, Archbishop Robert and Robert Stanislaus presented the original documents to the Archdiocese of Detroit as a symbol of the long and distinguished history of the Catholic Church in America. The documents are of particular significance as they represent the foundation of the Catholic Church in the United States and the legacy of the early Jesuits who came to America in search of a new home.

The gift was presented in a ceremony attended by Archbishops Robert and Robert Stanislaus, who are both members of the Congregation of the Jesuits. The ceremony also included the presentation of a plaque to the Archdiocese of Detroit, which bears the words "In Memory of the Jesuits who came to America in 1755." The plaque is a tribute to the memory of the Jesuits who came to America in search of a new home and who played a significant role in the history of the Catholic Church in the United States.

The gift of the original documents is an important part of the history of the Catholic Church in America and a reminder of the long and distinguished history of the Jesuits in the United States. It serves as a symbol of the enduring legacy of the Jesuits and their commitment to the service of the Church and the needs of the people of the United States.

St. Peter's, St. Benedict's Ready to Lead Independents

Newark — St. Mary's, St. Cecilia, Bergen Catholic Turn Grid League Ra's Upside Down

Newark — St. Mary's, St. Cecilia, and Bergen Catholic turned the North Jersey football world upside down last week in decisive playoff game finishing implications on the league race. Independent surprise in as much as St. Mary's, the last year's runner-up, knocked off the defending Lady Saints 13-0. Bergen Catholic, a two-time winner in the past four years, was defeated by the Lady Saints 20-0. St. Mary's win ended Bergen Catholic's six-game winning streak, which started when the Lady Saints were defeated by the Lady Saints 13-0 in the final game of the regular season. Bergen Catholic's loss was their second in a row, and they now find themselves in a three-way tie with St. Mary's and St. Benedict's in the top half of the league.

The Lady Saints' victory over Bergen Catholic was the result of superior defense, with St. Mary's holding Bergen Catholic to a total of 175 yards in offense. The Lady Saints scored on a 12-yard pass from Joe Kinnon to Pat McFaddan in the first quarter and on a 15-yard run by Kinnon in the second quarter. The Lady Saints' defense was led by Joe Green, who intercepted a pass and returned it for a 50-yard touchdown. St. Mary's defense also forced four turnovers, including two fumbles and two interceptions.

Bergen Catholic's only scoring chance came in the second quarter, when they drove to the Lady Saints' 16-yard line, but their quarterback was intercepted by Joe Green. Currently, the text appears to be a mix of real estate advertisements and other unrelated content. It includes information about real estate properties, such as homes for sale in different locations, with details on prices, features, and locations. For example, there is an ad for a property in Woodbridge, New Jersey, priced at $29,000, and another for a property in Cape Cod, Massachusetts, priced at $25,900. The text also contains instructions and directions for properties, with details on how to reach them. There are mentions of building materials and construction, such as "Battazzi" and "architects," indicating the use of specific materials in the construction of homes. The text is a mix of both natural language and fragmented text, possibly due to the extraction process from the image.

Movie Trade Paper

Predicts 'Sick' Films Will Kill Industry

NEW YORK (N.C.) — A leading movie industry trade paper, warning that a continued trend of anti-religious films will have a disastrous result — a final death knell for the movie industry.

In a front page editorial, Motion Picture Daily defined the situation currently existing in Hollywood as: 'A trend toward the spread of anti-religious propaganda. All signs indicate that a rise and will continue to rise until it reaches a pitch where the industry will collapse.'

The editorial was signed by the editor, A. H. S. Davis, who stated that the motion picture business is threatened with a death knell unless the trend is stopped.

The editorial stated that: 'Thus far, the trend has been accelerated by the administration of the great studios, but it is a trend that is spreading to all parts of the country. The studios have been warned that their prospects of the future are not bright unless they take steps to stop the spread of anti-religious propaganda.'
