Pope Urges Prayers For Peace in October

Cuba’s Catholic Radio, TV Broadcasts Stopped by Castro

Havana, Cuba—Government suppression of a Catholic radio station here is reported to have extended to a television station and newspaper, both under governmental control.

The action by the regime of Fidel Castro, who has come to power with the support of the Cuban Communist party, was announced by the government-owned daily, the Granma.

The Granma, whose editor-in-chief is adviser to Premier Fidel Castro himself, said the station’s radio program had been cut off effective immediately.

The station had been operating since March and had broadcast news and cultural programs over the airwaves.

The station was one of many that had been established by the government since the revolution began.

The Granma said the move was taken because the station had not been able to provide the public with information that was in line with the government’s policies.

The government has been accused of suppressing all forms of dissent.

The Granma also reported that the government had taken control of all newspaper publishers, including the Granma.

The move will likely be seen as a further attempt by the government to control the media and压制 opposition voices.

The government has previously banned publications and arrested journalists who have spoken out against its policies.

The move is likely to be seen as further evidence of the government’s determination to control all aspects of Cuban life.

40 Americans Aiding Ecumenical Council Preparatory Commissions

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Among the thousands of priests and lay persons from around the world who are attending the Council on the liturgy, there are some 40 Americans serving on the preparatory commissions for a council that many believe will be the most important since Vatican I.

These Americans are part of a new trend in the Church which is seeking to bridge the gulf between the ecclesiastical and the secular, to bring together people of all walks of life in a common effort to solve some of the pressing problems of today and tomorrow.

The mood of these Americans, who are attending the Council as representatives of their countries, is one of excitement and hope. They are full of ideas and are eager to share them with their colleagues from other parts of the world.

The work of the preparatory commissions is a crucial phase in the preparation for the council, which is scheduled to begin in the fall of 1963. The commissions are divided into two parts: the first part deals with the liturgy, and the second part with the general topics.

The American contingent includes representatives from all over the country, from the East Coast to the West Coast. They are of various ages and from different backgrounds, but they all share a common goal: to contribute to the work of the council in a way that will be meaningful and helpful.

For instance, the commission on the liturgy is charged with the task of preparing a new liturgy for the Church. This is a complex and difficult task, but the Americans are determined to do their best. They are studying the liturgy from a variety of perspectives, and they are trying to find ways to make it more meaningful and relevant to the people of today.

The American contingent is also working on a number of other topics, such as the role of the Church in the world, the problem of the diaconate, and the question of the ordination of women.

The work of the preparatory commissions is not easy. It requires a great deal of time, effort, and dedication. But the Americans are determined to do their best, and they are confident that their work will be of great benefit to the Church and to the world.

The American contingent is making a valuable contribution to the work of the council, and they are to be commended for their efforts. Their work is an example of the best that the Church has to offer, and it is a witness to the power of the spirit to overcome the barriers of the world.
Some Protestant Worries About a Catholic President

By James M. O'Neill

In the previous issue, the Reverend Louis C. McMann, editor of The Advocate, published a thoughtful commentary on the relationship between the Catholic and Protestant churches. It is not in his essay about the the influence of the Catholic Church in America, but rather his discussion of a specific aspect of that influence: the possibility of finding an office "official position" in American life, and (nominally) Catholic churchmen filling such positions. His article has sparked a great deal of interest, and it is one of the harshest criticisms of the Catholic Church that has been published in recent years.

The Catholic Church is, of course, a very influential institution in American life. It is a major player in the political process, and it is involved in virtually every aspect of American society. It is a powerful force in the realm of education, and it is a major player in the world of business and finance. It is a major player in the arts, and it is a major player in the world of science and technology.

The Catholic Church is also a major player in the world of religion. It is the largest religious organization in the world, and it is a major player in the world of theocracies. It is also a major player in the world of secular politics, and it is a major player in the world of the secular Enlightenment.

Richard Walsh to Speak for N. J. Institute of the Press

ducer, and director of the radio and television department, National Council of Catholic Bish's, will be guest speaker at the first quarterly dinner-meeting of the recently organized National Catholic Radio-Television Club, which Walsh helped found, at the Lakeside Inn, Thursday, Oct. 24, at 6:15 p.m. at the Hotel Robert Treat.

The N. J. Institute of the Press

At the same time, the National Catholic Radio-Television Club will present a 9:15 p.m. film for members of the Press Club of the National Catholic Press Association, the unsung heroes of the day, "Our Man in Havana," which starred Humphrey Bogart and was produced by Darryl Zanuck.

Walsh will be the featured speaker at the banquet held at the Lakeside Inn.

Walsh, who is a member of the Catholic Televised Festival of the Air, has been involved in the radio and television field since 1934. He is the last remaining original member of the original program Kings of the Air, which started in 1935.

Walsh was born in Egan, Minn., in 1909. He is the son of a butcher and was the first member of his family to go to college. He attended St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn., for two years before entering the University of Minnesota, where he received a bachelor of arts degree in journalism.

Walsh has been active in the National Catholic Press Association since 1942, and has been a member of the board of directors since 1957. He is also a member of the National Catholic Radio-Television Club, which he founded in 1949.

He is married to the former Mabel R. McManus, a former St. Olaf College teacher, and has two children, Richard and Francis.

Walsh's speech will deal with the role of radio and television in the service of the Catholic Church.

National Catholic Radio-Television Club will hold its annual meeting on Thursday, Oct. 24, at 6:15 p.m. at the Hotel Robert Treat.

The club, which was founded in 1954, is open to all members of the press who are interested in Catholic radio and television.

The club holds meetings on the third Thursday of each month.

Mr. Walsh writes the "Catholic Irene," a column for the Instrumental Press. He has also written for "The Catholic World," "The American Catholic" and "The Christian Century." He is a member of the staff of "The Catholic Telegraph," a newspaper of the Archdiocese of New York.

Pro-Reds Take Over Laos Catholic Center

VIENGTHAN, Laos (NS)--Pompey's Latin school has been damaged by shell fire and its most flourishing Catholic center has been taken over by pro-Communist agents.

The Catholic center, San Nixe, was captured Sept. 12 by representatives of Laos' neutralist government and pro-Western forces in the border region.

It was attacked during the night of Sept. 11-12 by a group of about 150 pro-Communist soldiers who left the nearby village of Sattor, about five miles away.

The Catholic center, which was founded by the First Indic Church in 1960, has been a center for the spread of the gospel in the area.

The pro-Communist group, led by a 24-year-old Red front leader, captured the center after a prolonged battle with the Laotian government forces.

The pro-Communist group then set fire to the center, destroying its contents and equipment.

Pro-Communist agents have taken over the center and are now using it as a base for further operations.

Supreme Court Expected To Rule on Sunday Laws

WASHINGTON (NC) — The U.S. Supreme Court in the next few months is expected to hand down significant rulings on Sunday sales, birth control laws, and movie censorship.

In addition, the court has been asked to rule — and the justices are poised to rule — whether Sunday sales, birth control laws, and movie censorship laws are constitutional.

The high court officially begins its fall term Oct. 1, but in recent months, the justices have been mulling over the cases.

The justices have heard oral arguments on the cases, and the court has been reviewing the briefs submitted by the parties.

The justices have been divided on the issues, with some justices favoring more speech restrictions and others favoring more freedom for individuals.

The justices are expected to issue their decisions on the cases in the coming months.
Loving the Poor

The girl, a native of Arkansas, was described as a typical middle-class schoolgirl. She was not only a good model, but also a good girl. She had been to college, and was planning to go to graduate school. She was a typical middle-class schoolgirl, but she was also a good model.

The Barones at St. Peter's

Teaches Social Ease to College Men

By Anna Mae Buckley

10 Oct. 1955

And it's true! The Barones of St. Peter's College, N.J., are an active and a theory about seven men have had their barons, the late Alpha Lamas to a new job. This is the second annual sponsored social dining event for men who might enjoy a more relaxed, intimate, and educational... but not necessarily new!

In the Barones' case, 100 guests were served dinner and a lecture by Mr. William J. Cleary, S.J., current director of the Center for the Study of the Family at St. Peter's College. Mr. Cleary, a graduate of Fordham University and a Roman Catholic priest, is known for his ability to reach the young on their level.

The lecture, "The High Price of Instability," was delivered in a humorous, engaging manner that kept the audience interested. Mr. Cleary's approach to the subject of social stability was both insightful and thought-provoking.

The Barones are a social dining group at St. Peter's College, and their purpose is to provide a setting for young men to socialize and learn about the importance of social stability in their lives. The group meets regularly to discuss various topics related to this theme, and members are encouraged to participate in activities that promote a sense of community and belonging.

The Barones' annual event, the Alpha Lamas, is a social dining gathering that celebrates the spirit of camaraderie and shared experiences among the members. It is a time for new members to be introduced to the group and for returning members to rekindle the bonds of friendship.

The Barones at St. Peter's College are an active and vibrant organization that serves as a valuable resource for students looking to explore the importance of social stability in their lives. Through their events and activities, the Barones strive to help young men develop a better understanding of the social fabric and the role they play in shaping it.

Fall Art Contest

Senior student, Jane Doe, won the first place prize in the art contest. Jane's artwork was a painting of a beautiful landscape.
Cancer Research: Sister Joanna is shown at work in the laboratory where she is conducting research on the new drug that was approved by the FDA. She has published several papers on the subject and has presented her research at several national conferences. She has also received several grants to support her research and is considered a leading expert in the field.

Thesis on Cancer Research: Wins B.S. for Caldwell Nun College: Women's History. The college for Women has earned its doctors in experimental medicine, and the students are required to complete a thesis project before graduation. Sister Joanna, who recently received her B.S. in the department of experimental medicine, is working on a project related to the efficacy of a new cancer drug.

Working Women Have Faults? New Orleans: Working women suffer from the same ailments as their male counterparts but are less likely to seek professional help. Some women even experience guilt over being unable to give their full attention to their husbands and children. Sister Joanna, who has conducted several studies on this topic, believes that society should provide better support and resources to working women so they can achieve a balance between work and family.
Crucial Contest on Tap for Immaculate, Seton Hall

In the crucible of the Catholic Conference, two teams stand at the crossroads of their seasons: Immaculate, the defending champion, and Seton Hall, always within striking distance. The matchup between these two will be as climactic as the pageantry that surrounds it. Seton Hall, at 2-0-1, has already won its share of battles, but their loss to Immaculate in their last meeting has left a burning desire to avenge that defeat.

Bracketing the two teams are a testament to their dedication and prowess. Seton Hall's recent victories over DePaul and Our Lady of Mount Carmel have kept them on the hunt for a title, while Immaculate's triumphs over Sacred Heart and St. Joseph's have cemented their place at the top of the standings.

The game is set for tomorrow at 8:13 at Trenton Catholic, promising to be a thrilling encounter. The stakes are high, and the crowd is expected to be electric, much like the atmosphere at St. Peter's Paul, where Immaculate's previous matches took place.

This contest is not just about winning; it's about showcasing the spirit of the Catholic Conference and the determination of its participants. Seton Hall, with a win, could potentially take the league by storm, while Immaculate, with another victory, might solidify their position as the dynasty of this season.

In the words of Coach John Doherty, "This is the game we've been waiting for. It's a chance to prove ourselves against the best, and we're ready for the challenge."

We're Proud of Alps Village...

You will too!!

Alps Village is an established and growing community which had its birth a few years ago. The basic ingredients of which any community be it here, there, or yon be anything from a small hamlet to a large city, need the ingredients as we have them. There is a simple reason for our success-

1. Location

Alps Village is located on the northern fringe of Fairleigh Dickinson University, minutes away from the campus. The immediate area is residential, with a large portion of the residents being D.F.U. students.

2. Convenience

Alps Village offers a convenient location to the University, with easy access to major highways such as Route 41 and 287. The village is also close to major employers in the area, providing easy commuting options for residents.

3. Affordability

Alps Village offers affordable housing options, with a variety of rental and ownership options available. The village is designed to be accessible to a wide range of budgets, allowing residents to choose the option that best suits their needs.

4. Community

Alps Village has a strong sense of community, with a variety of social events and activities available to residents. The village also has a dedicated community center, providing a space for residents to come together and engage in a variety of activities.

For originality and lasting beauty...

Alps Village stands alone!
Archbishop to Bless Essex Catholic Chapel

NEWARK — The recently completed, expanded chapel in Essex Catholic High School here, will be dedicated by Archbishop Basile on Friday, Oct. 2.

After blessing the altar, the Archbishop will celebrate the first Mass in the chapel, for the benefit of the student body and the Christian Brothers of New Jersey who administer the school, and the school community. The Mass is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., and will be followed by a reception and Benediction.

The new chapel, located in the heart of the new building, is the heart of the new expansion. It is equipped with state-of-the-art technology and includes a large screen and audio system. The chapel is also equipped with a new heating and cooling system.
