Politics at the United Nations Organization: Relevance and Reform

Hugh T. Dugan
Seton Hall University

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarship.shu.edu/diplomacy-syllabi

Recommended Citation
https://scholarship.shu.edu/diplomacy-syllabi/151
SCHOOL OF DIPLOMACY AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
SETON HALL UNIVERSITY

“POLITICS AT THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION: RELEVANCE AND REFORM”

DIP 6202

Autumn 2017
Hugh T. Dugan

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The course’s goal is to provide to the student capacity and fluency in gauging indicators of the UN Organization’s potential capacity to realize the principles and objectives of the UN Charter within today’s increasingly transnational landscape. This approach will suggest measures to increase the Organization’s effectiveness and efficiency which the student would take forward from the classroom.

PEDAGOGICAL PURPOSES

The course will promote students’ understanding of global issues from a range of perspectives so as to develop viewpoints on how international cooperation might better address those issues. The course will encourage important citizenship skills such as participation, cooperation and collaboration, negotiation, diplomacy, conflict resolution, and stewardship of international machinery.

This course seeks to assist the student in developing the following:

- An understanding and appreciation of the opportunities and constraints posed by inter-governmental conference diplomacy in an era of continued globalization and related developments and trends in global governance.
- A capacity to engage with United Nations stakeholders so as to contribute to the implementation of the UN Charter’s purposes.
- Effective and efficient composition of thought in writing and speaking on these matters.
- A grasp of networking within UN-relevant spheres beyond the classroom.

OVERVIEW

Well-intentioned, principles-based institutionalized activities for international cooperation, in particular those of the United Nations Organization, must be stewarded constantly in order to remain relevant to contemporary developments and therefore vibrant and poised to address critical matters breaking on the horizon.

To this end, this course will describe the evolution of the international public sector, specifically the United Nations Organization, and develop and analytical framework for understanding whether and how to improve the United Nations Organization’s performance within contemporary international affairs.

It is designed (1) to develop in the student the capacity and facility to evaluate the relevance of the United Nations Organization to international trends and developments, and (2) to assess whether the United Nations Organization contributes effectively and efficiently to the realization of the United Nations Charter’s three main pillars: peace and security, economic and social development (poverty alleviation), and the human rights.

This entails understanding contemporary globalization dynamics and assessing the relevance of the international public sector designed to address them. The course will review international matters since World War II as the threshold event leading to the creation of the United Nations Charter and its international machinery, the United Nations System including its flagship United Nations Organization. The course will study this machinery’s purposes, protocols, and processes for assessing its outputs and outcomes. Various United Nations entities will be surveyed so as to identify their purposes, governance structures, programs of work, leadership opportunities, resources’ effectiveness and efficiency, and accountability mechanisms. The class will analyze operations and processes for enabling efficiency and effectively in several United Nations Organization entities.

OBJECTIVES

To develop an analytical framework and the professional fluency to discuss with academics and practitioners the state of the world in terms relating to more effective and efficient international public sector management of evolving topics and trends relevant to the principles of the United Nations Charter, specifically to

- Understand the core mission of the United Nations Charter and its elaboration of international machinery to that end.
- Examine the United Nations System, Organization, and actors: a clear mapping of the United Nations system since its creation as well as its different working bodies and agencies. This includes its historical foundations, current structures, operations and functionalities, the nature of representation in the United Nations Organization, and its capacity for addressing contemporary issues.
- Develop critical analytical skills regarding the elaboration and stewardship of this international machinery as a function of the key issues of peace and security, development in the economic and social spheres (including humanitarian matters), and human rights.

- Re-imagine international machinery for international cooperation (specifically, the United Nations Organization) by surveying challenges encountered by it and considering enhanced approaches for international cooperation into the future given trends in globalization and global governance matters.

To describe and explain causes and nature of major questions in the international system (e.g., economic development, conflict, the environment, human rights).

To encourage students to develop critical analysis on the future of global governance given high uncertainties on the international scene.

To debate future perspectives for international cooperation.

To examine related questions from the perspectives of other nations.

To develop an understanding of the United Nations’ historical and current role in the international political system.

To explore the challenges faced by the United Nations, both political and structural.

To examine the United Nations Organization structure in detail, and to understand the roles of the various United Nations entities.

To study the policies of other nations and groups of nations at the United Nations Organization to better understand the process of deliberations and agreements by United Nations membership and their translation into programs and activities by the United Nations entities’ secretariats.

COURSE MODALITIES

The class meeting will begin with a discussion of current events relevant to the United Nations Organization, and then proceed to a lecture/discussion of that week’s topic. The first few meetings will consist largely of lectures and class discussion. At this stage (by late September), the goal will be to ensure that all students have a basic grasp of the subject matter, after which the class will shift to a more seminar-like format emphasizing student participation and presentations of memos on select topics (to be formulated and assigned). Class time will fly by or it will drag by, depending upon students’ level of preparation and participation.

In addition to the assigned readings, the class will discuss topics from current events vis-à-vis the United Nations Organization. Every student is expected to contribute to this discussion by researching and presenting one such topic to the class (20 minutes) in a Topics should be defined ahead of time in consultation with the professor. Examples include reforms related to:

- UN Organization institutional design and configuration,
- UN Organization administrative matters (e.g., Secretariat human resources management, internal oversight measures),
- UN Organization membership arrangements (e.g., reform of the Security Council membership, revitalization of the General Assembly, selection process of the next Secretary-General),
- UN Organization funding (e.g., Member States’ dues and assessments scales),
- Wider participation of non-governmental organizations and other non-state actors in Organization considerations (e.g., the development of the UN Global Compact for businesses, accreditation of NGOs through the Economic and Social Council).

These memos would be polished and compiled and submitted for consideration by the editors of the School’s Journal of Diplomacy and International Relations.

The final examination will be in essay format. The student will choose one of two questions during the first half of the exam time period. The same format will apply during the second half of the exam time period with two different questions from those posed earlier.

Out of courtesy to others and to avoid disruption, all personal electronic devices must be silenced during class time. Personal emails and texts may be reviewed during the mid-class break (10 minutes), not during class, so as to maintain effective classroom participation. Discussion in class will be on “Chatham House Rule” to facilitate both free exchange of views and confidentiality of classroom discussion as a learning environment. Therefore, students may not record or broadcast any part of the class time. If students must e-mail the professor, please note that most responses would be delivered in the subsequent class meeting for the benefit of all students: (Hugh.Dugan@Reagan.com).

PERFORMANCE METRICS

As this class only meets once a week, attendance is of paramount importance and absolutely required. Students should contact the professor about each absence to class. Un-excused absences will result in a reduced grade according to the circumstances.

Students will be tasked to read course materials, write one memo (single-spaced, three pages) and present it in class, sit for the final written exam (essay); and participate in class (which could include contributing to a blog or something similar). Participation is active involvement in discussion which includes careful listening, consideration, and respect for the opinions of members. Students will be evaluated and graded on these opportunities for demonstrating their facility with the subject matters.

This class is heavily participatory. Participation shall reflect your careful reading and consideration of each week’s material. There will be lectures by the instructor and speakers, but much learning occurs through active engagement rather than through passive listening. For this reason, your presence and active participation will be expected at all sessions.

Writing clearly and succinctly is an important skill for those who progress in careers in international public service. Therefore, it will be a key component of the course work for this class. In addition to writing the final examination (which will be in essay format), each student will write and present a concise memo on a topic to be decided.

Papers should utilize one of the Chicago Manual of Style citation formats: Author-Date or Notes and Bibliography. The guidelines for these formats are on the course Blackboard page.

Grading will be based on

- Class attendance: 10%
- Participation: 20%
- Memo and presentation: 25%
- Final Exam: 45%

READING MATERIALS

FIRST WEEK MATERIALS FOR DISCUSSION ON SEPTEMBER 8:

ISBN: 978-92-1-101279-8
http://issuu.com/unpublications/docs/basicfacts

Become familiar with the UN by reading

The United Nations at a Glance

History of the United Nations Charter
The United Nations Charter

Ensuring a Well-Managed United Nations
The Stanley Foundation, Conference Report, February 2006
http://www.stanleyfoundation.org/resources.cfm?ID=44

United Nations Secretary-General’s statement on priorities:

Video - Speech at International Peace Institute (September 2014) The Theory and Practice of International Order, Dr. Vike-Freiberga, formerly the president of Latvia and now the president of the Club of Madrid.
http://www.ipinst.org/2014/09/vike-freiberga-rethinking-the-united-nations

ADDITIONAL READING MATERIALS

Students are expected to stay abreast of current events, particularly international events (e.g., UN News website (read daily)).

Here is a sampling of other materials that will be referenced and suggested for reading. Particular reading assignments will be developed as the course proceeds on the basis of the first several meetings. Readings, or links to them, will be either posted to a website if possible. An extensive bibliography on UN reform and relevance will be distributed.

The UN’s homepage (bookmark this for ready reference):

Glenn, Jerome C., The 2015-2016 State of the Future
https://themp.org/
Review the website, purchase is optional necessary.

Recent speeches by the United Nations Secretary-General

Agenda of the 70th Session of the UN General Assembly
UN document A/70/150 of July 2015

United Nations Association of the USA, A Global Agenda

Claude, Inis L., Jr., Swords into Plowshares, 4th ed., chapters 1-4, 7-9, 11-12, 14, 18-19.

http://www.stanleyfoundation.org/resources.cfm?ID=142

Luck, Edward, “The Secretary-General in a Unipolar World” (in The United Nations Secretary-General in World Politics, edited by Simon Chesterman)

WEEKLY PROGRAM (Class sessions are on Mondays)

August 28: Introduction to the course.

September 4: Holiday, no class

September 11: An overall framework for examining the politics at the United Nations Organization as regards its relevance and reform.

September 18: Leadership in the UN since the Cold War: Key member states, significant blocs, and Secretariat (including selection process of the Secretary-General).

September 25: The structure, purposes, and financing of the UN system: different frameworks for understanding the way the UN functions.

October 2: UN Reform eras, with a focus on the views of the Organization’s major founder, host country, and largest financial supporter, the United States.

October 9: Holiday, no class

October 16: Types of Reform: Administrative, Institutional, Membership, and Financial, among others.

October 30: UN Membership reform matters: elections to UN bodies, Security Council membership expansion proposals, and revitalizing the Organization’s parliamentary process.

November 6: Major Global Conferences and Goal Setting.

November 13: Non-state actors and the case for a new multilateralism: Growth of civil society and NGO participation, terrorism and other disruptions, observers in the General Assembly (e.g., the International Olympic Committee), and the private sector (e.g., the UN Global Compact) (Student presentations).

November 20: Globalization and the UN’s role with respect to critical emerging issues; Evolving institutional factors (Student presentations).

November 27: (Student presentations).

December 4: Global governance – how would the UN Organization fit in?

December 11: Views on the future of the UN Organization.

December 18: Written Exam.
ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Plagiarism and other forms of academic dishonesty will be reported to the administration, and may result in a lowered or failing grade for the course and up to possible dismissal from the School of Diplomacy. See university and school standards for academic conduct here:

http://www.shu.edu/offices/student-life/community-standards/community-standards.cfm

http://www.shu.edu/academics/diplomacy/academic-conduct.cfm

POLICY ON INCOMPLETES

Incompletes will be given only in exceptional cases for emergencies. Students wishing to request a grade of Incomplete must provide documentation to support the request accompanied by a Course Adjustment Form (available from the Diplomacy Main Office) to the professor before the date of the final examination. If the incomplete request is approved, the professor reserves the right to specify the new submission date for all missing coursework. Students who fail to submit the missing coursework within this time period will receive a failing grade for all missing coursework and a final grade based on all coursework assigned. Any Incomplete not resolved within one calendar year of receiving the Incomplete or by the time of graduation (whichever comes first) automatically becomes an “FI” (which is equivalent to an F). It is the responsibility of the student to make sure they have completed all course requirements within the timeframe allotted. Please be aware that Incompletes on your transcript will impact financial aid and academic standing.

ACCOMMODATIONS

It is the policy and practice of Seton Hall University to promote inclusive learning environments. If you have a documented disability you may be eligible for reasonable accommodations in compliance with University policy, the Americans with Disabilities Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and/or the New Jersey Law against Discrimination. Please note, students are not permitted to negotiate accommodations directly with professors. To request accommodations or assistance, please self-identify with the Office for Disability Support Services (DSS), Duffy Hall, Room 67 at the beginning of the semester. For more information or to register for services, contact DSS at (973) 313-6003 or by e-mail at DSS@shu.edu.
Why an education in diplomacy and international relations?

When foreign affairs are ruled by autocracies or oligarchies the danger of war is in sinister purpose.

When foreign affairs are ruled by democracies the danger of war will be in mistaken beliefs.

The world will be the gainer by the change, for, while there is no human way to prevent a king from having a bad heart, there is a human way to prevent a people from having an erroneous opinion.

That way is to furnish the whole people as a part of their ordinary education, with correct information about their relations to other peoples, about the limitations upon their own rights, about their duties to respect the rights of others, about what has happened and is happening in international affairs, and about the effects upon national life of the things that are done or refused as between nations;...

...so that the people themselves will have the means to test misinformation and appeals to prejudice and passion based upon error.

-Secretary of State Elihu Root, "Foreign Affairs", I, 5 (September, 1922).