Archbishop Appeals For Catholic U.

NEWARK — Archbishop Daniel W. Ryan, in a letter read to thousands of Catholics throughout the Archdiocese on Sunday, asked for their support of plans to "build a genuine Catholic University of the first rank.

"Our plans are based on the conviction that the Church has a right to and should have a university," he said.

"We are not alone in this endeavor. Catholics in other countries are building similar institutions in the interests of ecclesiastical and educational advancement," he said.

"This university will provide a solid foundation for the education of the clergy and the laity, and will help to prepare them for a life of service in the Church.

"The university will be a place of learning for all who wish to study the teachings of the Church, whether they are Catholics or not. It will be a place where the truth can be sought and found.

"We need your support to make this university a reality. Please pray for the success of our plans, and help us to raise the funds necessary to bring this university into being.

"Thank you for your support, and may God bless you and your families.

Urges Discussion Of Needs of Indians In Latin America

BUENOS AIRES (NC) — A special committee to discuss spiritual and material needs of Indian populations in the Latin-American countries was urged today by Bishop Bernardino Echeverria of Buenos Aires.

"We are not alone in this endeavor. Catholics in other countries are building similar institutions in the interests of ecclesiastical and educational advancement," he said.

"The committee will consist of representatives of various religious orders, as well as laymen from all walks of life. It will meet periodically to discuss the needs of Indian populations in the Latin-American countries and to make recommendations for their improvement.

"Our goal is to help the Indian populations in the Latin-American countries to improve their living conditions and to protect their cultural heritage. We hope to achieve this by providing education, health care, and other necessary services.

"We need your support to make this committee a reality. Please pray for the success of our plans, and help us to raise the funds necessary to bring this committee into being.

"Thank you for your support, and may God bless you and your families.

Highlights in the Bishops’ Statement

The text of the U.S. Bishops’ statement on “Persuasion and the Second Vatican Council” is as follows:

"In every age, and in every place, the Church must speak the truth about the nature and meaning of salvation, and the supreme importance of the person of Jesus Christ. This is the central message of the Council of Trent, and it remains the central message of the Church today.

"The bishops of the United States have always been committed to the doctrine of salvation, and to the importance of the person of Jesus Christ. They have always been committed to the teaching that salvation is possible only through faith in Jesus Christ.

"We believe that the Second Vatican Council has reaffirmed this doctrine, and we are committed to upholding it in our teachings and in our actions. We are committed to the truth that salvation is possible only through faith in Jesus Christ.

"We are committed to the truth that salvation is possible only through faith in Jesus Christ, and we are committed to upholding this truth in our teachings and in our actions. Serra Work Is Inspiring, Impressive, Consoling, Edifying, Says Archbishop

ROOSEVELT — The work being done by the Serra Club in the various Catholic parishes throughout New York is amazing. The Serra Club has become an important factor in the world of Catholic work in New York and the whole nation. The work of the Serra Club is praised by everyone who knows about it. The Serra Club is a great service to the Church and to the community.

Archbishop Vincenzo Giussani, who was the keynote speaker at the National Serra Club Convention in New York last week, submitted a report on the work of the Serra Club. He praised the Serra Club and its members for their efforts to promote Catholicism and to help people in need.

The Serra Club is made up of men who are interested in the work of the Church and who are willing to work for the Church. The Serra Club is a great help to the Church and to the community. The Serra Club is a great service to the Church and to the community.

Yugoslavia Replies To Nine Requests

BELGRADE.—Archbishop Josip Urup of Belgrade in response to the constitutional government's answer to the demands for greater religious freedom made by the Yugoslav bishops, according to Religious News Service.

The news agency said the government answer to the Pope's request was to continue the practice of allowing the bishops to hold mass in private homes and to establish parishes. The government also agreed to the establishment of a commission to study the question of religious freedom in Yugoslavia.

This was the first time the government had given the bishops the right to hold mass in public places, and it was seen as a step forward in the relationship between the government and the Church.

The government said it would consider the bishops' request for the right to hold mass in public places and to establish parishes in the future, but it did not commit itself to granting these rights immediately.

The government also agreed to the establishment of a commission to study the question of religious freedom in Yugoslavia.

The commission would be composed of representatives of the government and the Church, and it would be charged with the task of studying the question of religious freedom in Yugoslavia and making recommendations to the government on how to improve the situation.

The commission would be chaired by an official of the government and the Church, and it would have the power to request information from the government and the Church on any matter relating to religious freedom in Yugoslavia.

The commission would be in operation for a period of three years, after which it would be dissolved and a new commission would be established.

The commission's recommendations would be submitted to the government, which would then consider them and take whatever action it deemed necessary to improve the situation of religious freedom in Yugoslavia.

Pope Tells Bishops of Gratitude For Their Aid to South America

The Pope, in his letter to the Bishops of the United States, expressed his gratitude for their assistance in the relief efforts for South America. He praised their dedication and professionalism, stating that the bishops' efforts were an inspiration to all. He also thanked them for their financial contributions, which have helped to alleviate the suffering of the victims of the natural disasters in the region. The Pope's letter emphasized the importance of pastoral care and the need for continued support to those affected by the disasters.

Pope Approves Continuing Cause of Brother Andre

The Holy See has approved the cause of Brother Andre, the founder of the Little Flower Congregation, for beatification. The Congregation was founded by Brother Andre in 1882 in Montreal, Canada, and has a presence in many countries around the world. The cause was opened in 1982 and has been progressing steadily since then. The approval of the cause is a significant step towards Brother Andre's beatification, which is expected to take place in the near future.

U.S. Bishops Stress the Need for Personal Responsibility

NCWC News Service

Bishops...the American sense of responsibility and a moral sense that has been the hallmark of our nation's development is under threat. The history and achievements of our people, our culture and the nation cannot be separated from our sense of personal responsibility. But often this sense of personal responsibility is not as strong as it could be today, and the current situation in the world may be a challenge to it.

It is more than a political issue. It is also a moral issue, an issue of character. And it is an issue of self. It is a question of whether or not we are willing to take responsibility for our own lives, for the lives of our families, for the lives of those around us.

The Abduction of Responsibility

Although personal responsibility is not a new concept in national character, explanations of the breakdown or decline of personal responsibility are of concern to us because of the current context, in which all is constant threat. It is an issue of self, most easily affected by the pressures of organizational structures in our society that have redefined the nature of our personal responsibility.

The Abduction of Responsibility

The Most Noble Cause

A Moral Evil

Gun ownership should not be the cause of a moral evil, nor should it be in the hands of the wrong people. But we do have a responsibility to the community in which we live, to the people with whom we live, to our own personal responsibility.

In the pages of Evolution magazine, there is a fascinating article by John W. Bourke, Jr., titled "The Age of Aquarius and the Age of Aquarius." Bourke, a well-known author and scholar, presents a unique perspective on the relationship between the ages of Aquarius and Pisces, drawing on both astrological and historical analysis. Bourke argues that the transition from Pisces to Aquarius is not just a shift in the zodiac but a significant change in societal values and beliefs. He explores the cultural implications of this shift, highlighting how the age of Aquarius has been marked by a rise in collective consciousness and a move towards a more universal spirituality.

Bourke's work delves into the nitty-gritty of the transition, offering insights into the psychological and sociological shifts that have accompanied this change. His analysis is enriched by a comprehensive understanding of the Astrological Arc, a concept he has developed to explain the cyclical nature of human history. Through this lens, Bourke provides a nuanced view of the world, one that is both scientifically rigorous and spiritually enlightening.

For those interested in the intersection of astrology and history, Bourke's article is a must-read. It offers a fresh perspective on the significance of the age of Aquarius, challenging readers to consider how this shift might impact their own lives and the world around them.

MORALLY UNAPPROVABLE FOR EVERYONE

This film, directed by Jacques Cousteau, explores the complex relationship between modern technology and the environment. The story unfolds in a futuristic city where advanced technology has transformed society, but at what cost? As the film progresses, it becomes clear that the pursuit of progress has led to the destruction of the natural world, leaving a legacy of despair and decay.

The film's cinematography is stunning, capturing the beauty and brutality of a world where nature and technology coexist uneasily. The performances are nuanced, with each character grappling with the moral implications of their actions.

Despite its critical reception, MORALLY UNAPPROVABLE FOR EVERYONE is a thought-provoking exploration of our relationship with the natural world. It serves as a reminder of the importance of sustainability and the need for a more holistic approach to progress.

Bishops Call for Personal Responsibility

The statement made by the bishops of the United States and Canada, published in The Advocate, is of vital importance for those engaged in the work of upholding the sanctity of marriage and the family. It makes clear that the bishops take the issue of personal responsibility very seriously and are calling on individuals to take charge of their own lives and to make their own contributions to the common good. This is a call to action, and it is important that we all heed it.

Oppose Apeasement Of Red China

By Louis F. Budenz

Locals down and universes in the world, the Chinese government has been engaged in a program of expansion and aggression. This policy has been aided by the support of the Soviet Union and other Communist countries. The Chinese government has used this support to further its own goals and to expand its influence in the world.

Mystical Body Mysterious But Still It's a Real Body

By Frank J. Sheed

We have a task to do, and that is to understand the Church's teaching on the mystical body of Christ. This teaching is not easy to understand, but it is important for us to do so. We must understand that the mystical body of Christ is not a mere metaphor or a symbolic representation of the Church, but is a real and concrete entity that is a part of our lives.

Social Injustice Lot Of Farm Workers

By Rev. Andrew M. Greer

We Americans like to believe that we are a land of opportunity, where anyone can achieve success if they work hard enough. But there is a lot of injustice in our society, especially for farm workers. They are often paid very low wages, and they do not have the same rights as other workers.

The Campaign in Retrospect

There can be small doubt that the recently closed Democratic campaigns in 1980 will be a political phenomenon of continuing great importance to many years to come. Many elements of high-effectiveness communication strategies, such as Kennedy the dramatist, the defense of the reform theme in the political sense, and the cultivation of a strong political image, continue to make the point.

The Island of Gomorrah

Obviously it is still too early to assess any of these elements, but it is clear from the data that the leaders of the Democratic party who are trying to rebuild a base of support need to be very careful in their use of political communication. This is not a new concept, but it is one that requires careful consideration.

Smut and More Smut

Smut is still the mark. No one can deny that the last 25 years have been the era of pornography. It is not only the free distribution of pornographic literature, but also the consumption of it by a large segment of the population. The question is, what can be done about it?

Bishops, Taxpayers And 'Responsibility'

Editor

I have just finished reading the Newark post's news story on the U.S. bishops' statement in regard to 'personal responsibility.' I hope you will publish the text of this very important statement, which seems to go far beyond the usual Bishops news releases that have been so frequently put out to the press in the heart of President Ford's triumph.

The most interesting part of the bishops' statement is their discussion of celibacy. It is their justification for celibacy, however, that needs to be analyzed by the Catholic layman. The bishops' statement is not a legal document, but a pastoral letter that should be discussed by people who are interested in the Church's affairs. It is a statement that has not been written to please everyone, but to inform the American people about the Church's position on the question of celibacy.

WASHINGTON — Last week the National Council of Women of the United States met in Washington for their annual meeting. The NCWC has been meeting for more than 50 years, and in those years, Mrs. Margaret Miner Tatum, chairwoman of the NCWC, and her assistants have been working to improve the status of women in the United States.

The National Catholic Welfare Conference, an organiza- tion founded in 1918, is a part of the American development in the structure of the Church. Since its creation, it has been in contact with the U.S. bishops to promote the Church's interests.

What Kind of Gift Do You Like to Receive?

By June Deyer

Have you ever received a gift which you visualized as described below? I doubt if you have, but I'm sure you have seen people with your same views. The gift should have been thoughtfully prepared and personally selected with your special name in mind, or a name printed on it.

Isn't it true that for you to be able to enjoy a gift it should be a reflection of your life style? There is a lot of joy in being able to select a gift for someone else, but there is even more joy in receiving a gift that was planned just for you.

Do you know anyone who has not received a gift which would have been appreciated if the giver knew of its specific value to you?

Finally, you may say, "Why should I give gifts to others?" Gifts are symbolic of our social and cultural traditions, and are a natural expression of human thoughtfulness and love and affection of another. It isn't an act of philanthropy, but a mark of human kindness for which there is no substitute. It is a sign of your respect for the person you give it to, and a means of showing your appreciation of their worth.

Any gift given with thought and consideration will be a great joy to the person receiving it. Gifts given with thought and consideration are gifts that last a lifetime.

Science Wing

Have You Heard the New-est Platter by Maryland Nuns?

...satisfying, etc. You hear what is being written about the first order of nuns to have been created in the United States. It is a story of dedication, hard work, and devotion to the church. The sisters have worked tirelessly to provide education and care to those in need, and their commitment is truly inspiring.

The nun takes jets for weekend from New Orleans to New York. She has traveled to New York to attend a meeting, and her journey is a testament to her dedication to her calling.

Nun cops first history award. She has been awarded for her work in the field of history, and this is a well-deserved recognition for her contributions.

Parents to view science wing. The nun is here to review the science wing, and her presence is a reminder of the importance of education and learning.

Have you heard the newest platter by Maryland nuns? The nun is here to introduce you to a new platter created by the sisters, and this is a wonderful opportunity to learn about their work and support their mission.

Every Woman... deserves a special gift from... Neinhor.

The nun has been invited to a special event, where she will receive a gift from Neinhor. This is a wonderful opportunity to show our appreciation for her hard work and dedication.

COURTESY STYLE: The Parents Auxiliary of St. Philip the Apostle Church is giving its members a chance to come informally to the annual Hoe Down set for Nov. 26 in the auditorium. Hyndias, Pirates Win State Titles

ELIZABETH - The NJSIAA cross-country championships wrapped up the 1986-87 scholastic season with competition Friday at Metuchen in Woodbridge, and the Pirates of Middletown continued their winning ways, again claiming a major share of the spoils. That meant the annual Catholic school division in Group IV, while the diocesan schools captured the Group III and IV titles.

The Middletown boys, now 10-1, directed the Dryden Dad to his fourth meet title in five years, while the Middletown girls finished second in their attempt at three straight championship crowns.

HYLAND Jnr. wins in 32.15

In Group III, St. John Vianney's Peter Hyland, Jr., celebrated another title, this time in the individual competition, as he won the championship in 32.15.

The Phillipsburg girls, meanwhile, put another victory in the record books, finishing in 65.97.

The MJC Catholic won the sectional title, 87-71-729.

March of Talent in Final Round

LINDEN - Pianists and vocalists from six Catholic high schools took part for top honors in the 8th annual March of Talent, sponsored by St. John Vianney's. The competition was held at the school's auditorium.

March of Talent is a longstanding tradition of Catholic high schools. The pianists and vocalists are selected from the music departments of the participating schools.

St. Michael's (JC) Retires Trophy

ST. MICHAEL'S - St. Michael's (Jersey City) has won the annual March of Talent for the past six years. The school was represented by Martin T. Vrba, pianist, and Mary-Alice Wenzl, pianist, in the competition.

Vatican Notes

If They Could But See

By Msgr. William F. Furong

Patriotism, loyalty, and love of their country are very much in evidence in every good Catholic family. Memons with their family trips, their special days, the making of a family, their holiday trips. Such trips are a very different thing from the family outings of the past. As a former boxer, I think the day trips are a great thing for the family to do. The day trips are a great thing for the family to do. The family outings are a great thing for the family to do.

CYO Playoffs Set for Dec. 4

Pope Offers Guide to Young People

Following is the text of an address given by Pope John XvIII, on November 15, 1962, at the opening ceremonies of an international conference on family and youth problems sponsored by the Italian government and held in the Papal palace at Castel Gandolfo.

Youth is truly a precious gift. It is a world of hope, a place of possibility, a source of energy and inspiration. It is a time of growth and renewal, a period of discovery and learning. It is a time to be cherished and protected, to be nurtured and guided.

The purpose of the young is truly a serious and delicate task. It is to be done with care and wisdom, with understanding and compassion, with love and devotion. It is to be done with a sense of responsibility and purpose.

We are all called to be youths ourselves, to be guides and mentors to the young, to be teachers and counselors, to be friends and supporters. We are all called to be youths in the world of today, to be youths who are committed to the ideals of justice and peace, to be youths who are committed to the values of truth and charity, to be youths who are committed to the NHS of freedom and brotherhood.

We are all called to be youths in the world of tomorrow, to be youths who are prepared for the challenges of the future, to be youths who are equipped with the skills and knowledge to face the problems of the future, to be youths who are equipped with the courage and determination to overcome the obstacles of the future.

We are all called to be youths in the world of tomorrow, to be youths who are committed to the ideals of justice and peace, to be youths who are committed to the values of truth and charity, to be youths who are committed to the NHS of freedom and brotherhood.

We are all called to be youths in the world of tomorrow, to be youths who are prepared for the challenges of the future, to be youths who are equipped with the skills and knowledge to face the problems of the future, to be youths who are equipped with the courage and determination to overcome the obstacles of the future.

A message to the BIG Catholic Family of ADVOCATE Readers...

Your Advocate is making an impression in the state of New Jersey. Not only has it already received recognition by the New Jersey newspaper profession, but it is now brought to light the impact of the Catholic market on the economy of the state.

Statistics show that we Catholics have higher incomes than average: that we are a more stable family than average; that we have larger families than average, and consequently spend more for food, shoes, etc. With over 325,000 families, 46.8% of the total population of North Jersey, we are a substantial group to appeal to.

In this issue, and in the issues of the following weeks, many of North Jersey's finest retail firms are going to "test" the pulling power of your Catholic newspaper, The Advocate. They have indicated that their future advertising in The Advocate will be based on the results of these "test" ads.

Your Advocate advertising salesmen have had merchants tell them that people come into their store and thank them or employ them for advertising in the Catholic paper. This makes a definite impression on the merchant. This is not only an indication to the merchant of the response to his ad, but it also impresses him with the courtesy of the Catholic buyer.

We do not intend to tell you to buy, or what to buy; we only ask that when you do patronize a firm supporting your paper you make these firms aware of your response to their advertising.

It is your Advocate's goal to make your paper grow into the finest publication for the ever-growing Catholic population of New Jersey. The increasing revenue derived from advertising will make the goal possible without additional financial burden on our subscribers.

"When You Buy, Tell Them Why," and if your favorite stores or service companies are not using The Advocate, suggest to them that they should.

Outlines of Duties of High School Teachers

Following is the text of an address by Pope John XXIII given on Nov. 10, 1958, in the United Nations Association at High School Teachers. It was translated for the worldwide publication by The People magazine.

Your presence here, members of the profession of teaching, is an expression of the great responsibility you have to our society, as its education is elaborated. Your aim is to form human beings, to educate them to understand and respect life, to improve their understanding of the world and its problems.

Your profession has three main aspects. One is the didactic, teaching the students and preparing them for adult life. This is the vocation of the educator. The second is the psychological, providing the students a human development. The third is the moral, teaching them the values of life, teaching them to be good citizens.

As teachers, you must remember that you are educating individuals. You must respect their freedom, their individuality, their personality. Every student is unique, and you must treat them as such.

Great Responsibility

You must look to the formation of the individual, to the development of the person. Your mission is to develop the personality of each student, to help them realize their potential. This is your greatest responsibility.

Your work is not just to teach, but to educate. You must guide them to understand the world, to respect it, and to care for it. Your role is not just to transmit knowledge, but to help them to think and to act.

Your goal is to help each student reach their full potential. This is not an easy task, but it is your mission. You must be patient, understanding, and compassionate.

The theme of your past and present troubles and the problems they have encountered. You must help them to overcome these problems and to move forward.

The Advocate has always been a guide for those who have been faced with these challenges, teaching them the values of life, teaching them to be good citizens.
