Disasters' Lessons

Tragedy, whether in land or sea or in the air, becomes too frequent and too great to be endured. In every great disaster there is a loss of life and property, and the cost of relief and repair is tremendous. The world has a right to expect that those in power will take steps to prevent such disasters in the future.

Civilian American Sum

The month of January entered not only a new cycle of events, but also a new cycle of justice. The people of the United States, moving forward under the leadership of their President, began to feel the real force of law and order.

Who Is Going to Tell Us Just What Christ Meant?

On a blizzard in Galilee, we are taught what Christmas means to all people. We are taught that love, sacrifice, forgiveness, and redemption are the essence of Jesus' mission. We are taught that the true meaning of Christmas lies in the love and sacrifice of Jesus.

Strange Role of the 'Revisitors'

By Louis F. Ribicoff

For those who wish to revise the Constitution, it is important to examine the reasons why certain provisions have been included. The Constitution was not a document of the times, but a document of the ages. It was the product of the wisdom of the Framers, and it was the result of their understanding of the needs of the people.

'He Who Has Ears . . .' Fill It With Good!

"He who has ears to hear, let him hear." This is the teaching of the Lord Jesus. And it is a teaching that we must daily put into practice. We must listen to the Word of God, to the teachings of our holy fathers, and to the guidance of our spiritual directors. We must listen to the wisdom of the ages, to the experience of the saints, and to the counsel of our wise counselors.

BETHLEHEM TODAY: "Shepherd's Fleece" with the town of Bethlehem in the background looks today very much as it must have at the time of the Birth of Christ when the angel appeared to the shepherds who were "keeping the night watch over their flock" either in this spot or some other like it nearby.

Town of Bethlehem Has Changed Little Since Time When Christ Was Born There

By Rev. Patrick O'Connor

BETHLEHEM, N.J.-- (AP) -- In the town today, only the general plan and the name of the place have changed. The people are still having their sheep, and the town is still the place where the birth of Jesus Christ was celebrated.

The town today is still known as the place of the shepherds of the sheep who were shepherding in the field in the time of the birth of Christ. The names of the streets and the buildings have changed, but the general plan of the town remains the same.

The town is still surrounded by hills, and the fields are still green and fertile. The town is still the home of the shepherds, and the sheep are still being tended by the shepherds.

The town is still a place of pilgrimage for Christians from all over the world, who come to visit the site where Jesus Christ was born. The town is still a place of worship and devotion, and the people still live their lives in accordance with the teachings of the Bible.

The town is still a place of peace and tranquility, and the people still live in harmony with nature. The town is still a place of beauty and wonder, and the people still enjoy the beauty of the fields and the hills.

The town is still a place of history and heritage, and the people still tell the story of the birth of Jesus Christ. The town is still a place of wonder and awe, and the people still marvel at the beauty of the fields and the hills.
