VIENNA (A.P.) - Hungary's Red rulers are intensifying their campaign to convince the world that the Church;
unlike other countries, has been kept clean.
Press officers at Hungarian legations in East Europe have publicized the fact that the united Socialists and Communists have never been sued for obscenity by Hungarians and that the priest of a united diocese in the Czechoslovak capital;
has been convicted of murder.

Proves Smut Conviotions Possible

By Joe Thomas

NEWTOWN - While law enforcement officers elsewhere appear to be reluctant to take legal action against smut artists, this borough has been making excellent use of the anti-smut law.

Prosecutors in the Newtoun police office have charged at least three people with violations of the law.

BUFFY'S OFFICE

The City Council has approved the purchase of a new police car for Buffy's Office. The car will be equipped with a radio and other features to help in the enforcement of the anti-smut law.

DESPITE THE PROSECUTORS, the smut conviction cases in Newtoun are increasing. However, law enforcement officials say that the increase is not due to a lack of effort, but rather to the complexity of the cases.

To date, there are 51 cases of smut convictions. These cases involve a variety of offenses,
including possession, distribution,
and sale of sexually explicit materials.

Sees Seizure of Schools in Ceylon
A Protest, Not Religious Persecution

CAYENNE, Oct. 20
Albert Silva, R.I., native of Ceylon, who recently arrived here after 30 years in Europe, told the Catholic government's official organ that he believes the national government's plan to take over and control the Catholic schools is a protest against disturbances in the country, and not a religious persecution.

Mr. Silva was quoted as follows:

"The national government has been very liberal in the past, and I believe they are now trying to show the world that they are not justifying the disturbances that have taken place recently. They are very careful in their steps and have consulted with all educated and devoted citizens of Ceylon before taking any decision."

Mr. Silva said that the Catholic Church in Ceylon is very strong and influential, and that they would not allow any interference with their schools. He added that the Catholic schools were free from any religious instruction and were only for the education of boys and girls.

The official organ commented:

"Mr. Silva's statement is well timed, and it is hoped that the national government will be guided by his advice. The Catholic schools have always been established on a secular basis, and it is the duty of the government to protect the rights of the Church in this respect."

ROCHELLE PARK—Another new name has been added to the list of those who have been arrested in the Hudson County Obscenity Drive. John P. Dunne, 26, of 2299 Main Street, Rochelle Park, was arrested yesterday afternoon on charges of obscenity. He will be arraigned at a later time.

Two Bills Aimed at Obscenity Are Introduced in Congress

WASHINGTON (NC) — Congressional leaders have introduced two bills aimed at obscene publications.

The first bill, sponsored by Representative John Doe, is designed to increase the penalties for obscene publications. It would raise the maximum fine from $5,000 to $10,000 and extend the prison term from two years to five years for those found guilty.

The second bill, sponsored by Senator Jane Smith, proposes to create a federal commission to investigate the manufacture and distribution of obscene materials. The commission would have the power to issue subpoenas and conduct grand jury investigations.

State University Religion School Proposes Draft

The State University Religion School has proposed a new draft policy that would require all students to participate in mandatory religious activities. The proposal was met with strong opposition from the student body, who argue that religious activities should be voluntary.

Deprived Seats in Puerto Rico

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) — The Puerto Rican government has announced the closure of all religious schools in the territory. The decision was made in response to a series of protests against religious education.

Court Declares Ban on Religious Education Unconstitutional

The ban was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, which ruled that the government cannot prohibit religious education in public schools. The court cited the constitutional right to religious freedom.

Cardinal Beas Asks for Charity Toward Separated Christians

CARDINAL BEAS, in a sermon this morning, urged the faithful to show charity toward separated Christians. He said that the Church should not judge those who have chosen to follow a different path.

New Cuban Pastoral Cites Censorship

The head of the Catholic Church in Cuba, Monsignor Pio, has said that the government is censoring religious publications. He said that the government is preventing the Church from publishing its own newspaper.

Fight Bus Decision

The U.S. Supreme Court has been asked to reconsider the constitutionality of a Connecticut law that allows bus riders to make additional stops. The law has been challenged by the Connecticut State Supreme Court, which has ruled that the law violates the state constitution.

Role of Family, Church in Aiding Aged Outlined at Conference

WASHINGTON — A policy statement should be encouraged to take into account the needs of the aged and to foster a sense of responsibility for their care. The principle of "private responsibility" was emphasized by the American Association of Retired Persons, which has been working to develop a national policy on the elderly.

Frank C. McClyb Grandma Lamancher

The sophomore member of the class of 1934, who has been working at the school for several years, was elected to the presidency of the student body. He has been active in various school activities, including sports and social events.

PRINTING

The printing department of the school has been very busy lately. The students have been working on various projects, including the school newspaper, yearbook, and other publications.

We Wish Him Well

President will be a day of grace in our country's history. Non- partisan, in line with the great wisdom of the Founding Fathers, he will be a man of the people, and not dominated by any political party. He is a man who has been tested in the crucible of American life, and is sure to live up to the high hopes of the American people.

Hope Involves the Risk Of Losing Desired Item

By Frank J. Shred

Some people seem to have the idea that the natural way to get things is to go and make them happen, and that the rules of the universe are meant to be changed to fit our needs. This is a dangerous and self-destructive attitude.

The Governor's Message

At the opening of the 88th Legislature, Gov. Robert Byrd outlined his law-making plan for the session. He said that he intended to focus on a number of key issues, including education, health care, and the economy. He also spoke about the need for bipartisanship and compromise in order to make progress on these issues.

Buyer Beware

Advertising is one of the most powerful tools in our society, and the government has a responsibility to protect consumers from false or misleading claims. In recent years, there has been a surge in the use of social media to promote products and services, which can make it difficult for consumers to distinguish between genuine and fraudulent claims.

Neglecting the Farm Worker

By Mag. George H. Higgins

The broad aim of the Farm Labor Improvement Act of 1962 was to improve working conditions and living standards for farm workers. The act was signed into law by President Kennedy on October 28, 1962, and was a significant step forward in the fight for farm workers' rights.

Two Readers View Obscenity Coverage

Letters to the Editor

The only newspaper I purchase, with the exception of a local daily, is the New York Times. The treatment of the McCarran-Ferguson Act of 1950 is given in Saturday's Times. There is an article on page 20 dealing with the Act. The treatment is better than that of any other newspaper I have read, and I believe it is the best." — Henry L. Martin, New York City.

"I am a regular reader of the Times, but I was surprised to see the article on page 20 dealing with the Act. It was very well written and informative. I appreciate the Times' dedication to providing accurate and balanced reporting on important issues." — John S. Hagen, Washington, D.C.

Intensions for January

The Holy Father's apostolic letter for January is: "That the miracles which were the effective means of Christianizing the people in the past are available now, too." The letter was read by Pope John Paul II.

Physician Calls Editorial Unjustic

"I was very disappointed by the editorial in today's Times. It was unfair and dismissive of the medical profession. It is time for the Times to be more respectful and accurate in its reporting on medical issues." — Dr. Jane Smith, New York City.

SCHOOL — In gymnastics drillers which kept right in the old former St. Philip's School was a group of "special" children getting a workout together. In the old years, they were working off the mainelay, regular pupils were the "short-headers" in regular physical education, classes were being run by Miss De Guevara, where, with the aid of the teachers, the pupils were developing the physical fitness of the child. Arthur Serino, a physical education major was excited, "The little boy may run a mile in half an hour," and the "special" pupils were running with the regular pupils, hopping along, -- and playing with the regular pupils.

By the time the hour was up, the "short-headers" could not be distinguished from the regular pupils in physical education. It was a triumph of all concerned.

Why Mission Aid Belongs In Hands of Holy Father

In the Holy Father's hands, we are told, there is the highest safety and most effective protection in the world. If we make our way through life's storms, it is because of the hands of the Holy Father. And who can trust more than a man in the hands of the Holy Father? We must, therefore, make our way through the storms of life in the hands of the Holy Father. And who can trust more than a man in the hands of the Holy Father? Public Sees TV's Picture Of Police as Documentary

By William H. McGovern
The first film to cover police brutality in this area will be shown on the moratorium program this week. The film, "The Beat," made its national debut Wednesday on WNEW-FM's "Fireside Theatre." Directed by Adolph Bolm, the film shows the inner workings of the New York City Police Department, particularly the 12th Precinct's "slum patrol." The film was produced by the National Association of Press Onlookers, which has been seeking to raise public awareness about police brutality for several years. The film is part of a series of events being held in conjunction with the moratorium, which ends on May 14. The film will be shown on WNEW-FM at 9 p.m. on May 15.

New York. (AP) — The Little Theater is planning to stage a new play, "The Angry Silence," written by Latin American playwrights. The play is about a woman who tries to protect her family from the police. The Little Theater is a part of the Latin American Theater Group, which is planning to stage several new plays in the next few months.

It's Not Dangerous at All!

Some people believe that only dangerous jobs are dangerous. But there are many jobs that are dangerous but not as dangerous as they seem. For example, a police officer's job is dangerous, but it is not as dangerous as it seems. The police officer has to deal with dangerous situations every day. But the police officer also has to deal with dangerous people every day. The police officer has to be careful not to get hurt, but he also has to be careful not to hurt others.

Glibness at Oxford

A MIDDLE CLASS EDUCATION: A novel about the experiences of a young man at Oxford University, by James H. Miller. (Holt, $1.50.)

The reader enters a tip when John Bates begins his studies at Oxford University. He is a middle-class student, and his parents expect him to do well. But when John Bates arrives at Oxford, he finds that the experience is not what he expected. He is met by a group of students who are interested in the same subjects as he is, and they take him under their wing. But when John Bates tries to join in their discussions, he finds that they are not interested in the same things as he is.

The reader is given a taste of the life at Oxford University, and he learns that the experience is not what he expected. Addie's Wings Pick a New Young Advocate Contest

By June Dewey
It's coming time again! Time to throw the calendar away and turn to our calendar of thought and to come up with some new things for the Young Advocate Club.

Filling in the calendar in the few weeks will be lots of month of promotions, love, reading, and saving—February! As we all know, this is the month of love, and you know that the Valentine contest is just around the corner. Our theme for this year is "Deeds of the Heart." The winners of the contest will be announced on Valentine's Day.

Addie visits the younger Club members to make a Valentine telling their Mothers and Fathers how much they love them, which they spread around in a circle. You can make them out of colored paper, cardboard, or whatever you have at home.

All girls will be happy to make one and will try to explain their charitable work by the way they have done for the community. Addie's wings spread still allow our community to be one that is better than it was before.

Your Valentine should be your special touch for your loved one and should express your gratitude to the person you are giving it to. It could be in the form of a poem, painting, or card. The theme is "Deeds of the Heart." You must have made all the work yourself and not buy it from a store.

THE ENTRY box is on the next page. Please be careful when you put out your nose, because some of you may make mistakes. Addie's wings are very flimsy and may break if you are not careful. You must also send in your entry by February 1st, or you will miss the contest.

Students who enter will be judged on five points: 1. What the Valentine says. 2. How the Valentine is made. 3. How much work you put into it. 4. How original the idea is. 5. How much you love the person you are giving it to.

The winners will be announced on Valentine's Day, and the prizes will be given to the winners during the contest. If you are a member of the Young Advocate Club, you may enter.

Washington, D.C.—A century-old photograph of the "Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul" who staffed the first school in this country during the Civil War is now in the collection of the National Catholic Daughters of America, as a result of a donation by Dr. Wm. C. E. Fouke, Archivist of the Congregation of St. Vincent de Paul.

The photograph was given to the Congregation of St. Vincent de Paul by Dr. Fouke, who has been the Custodian of the Archives of the Congregation for many years.

The photograph is an original of the photograph of the entrance to the school in which the first of the Congregation's Daughters of Charity were located.

Pirates Get Rest, Peacocks Head For Florida After Frantic Battle

By Ed Grant

SOUTH ORANGE — Fen Allen Hall, a two-way veteran from competition; St. Peter's 18-day journey to the Sunshine State; and Florida, all of whom will represent their favorite football team at Walsh Gymnasium on Jan. 13, will agree that little rest has come their way.

This was another of the classic contests ever played at Walsh Gymnasium, the center of the four-stadium complex in the Junior City. The finale was not the last word.

It was the first time, as almost had been, with the very exception of a few Saint Peter's fans, that the point spread favored the Peacocks.

Several St. Peter's alumni were sitting downtown; a few permanent handballers, St. Peter's will have to stop the heat at future times early.

Jane Grant, who has been in the offensive or defensive role for the last few years, was a good sight for St. Peter's during the final moments of the game.

The game opened on the overtime, a dead heat when St. Peter's scored on a late pass play. The Peacocks took the lead back on a 15-yard score by a Peacock fullback.

A reverse pass to Jerry Hicks, star of the game, opened the score at 4:01.6 on the clock. The Peacock quarterback tossed the ball to Hicks, who sprinted up the middle for the extra points.
