COURSE DESCRIPTION

The purpose of this course is to explore the changing role and influence of the European Union (EU) as an international actor on the global stage. The focus is on the EU's external relations with non-member states and non-state actors and its emerging role in world affairs. Since the EU is less than a unitary state actor and more than a conventional international organization, particular attention will be given to the elements of its international “actorness”, decision-making processes, specific policy instruments and impact through an examination of such selected policy areas as security and defense, trade, the environment, development and humanitarian assistance.

More specifically, the aims of the course are to enable students:

- to develop a conceptual, and practical understanding of the European Union as a distinct and unique international actor in world politics;

- to be cognizant of the role of EU members and non-Union members in the development and exercise of the EU external authority;

- to become familiar with academic and political debates about the workings of EU institutions and decision-making processes through the EU articulates and exerts its external authority;

- to comprehend the problems facing the Union at the beginning of the twenty-first century, especially the implications of enlargement for its international role in the future.
LEARNING OUTCOMES

By the end of the semester, students will:

- have a firm grasp of the “actorness”, capabilities and limitations of the EU as a global actor in international relations;
- recognize and apply relevant theoretical approaches to the study of the EU’s international activities;
- be able to demonstrate a sound factual and theoretical knowledge of the legal and institutional framework and decision-making processes of the EU in relation to its external policies and comment critically on the various forms of EU’s relations with the external world;
- be able to locate and use effectively the major sources of information for the study of the EU., including the websites of the EU and other relevant authorities and international organizations.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Attendance and Participation: (10%) Attendance is extremely important because the course will be interactive in nature. Participation in the class discussions is critical to student learning and to exhibit that the required material is being read. Students should read and reflect on the readings ahead of time in order for class sessions to have the most value. Students can also participate by asking questions, circulating emails, organizing study groups, exchanging writing or introducing new ideas and resources. Excessive absences may result in a failing grade.

Panel discussion: (20%) During the semester, we will have 12 panel discussions on the assigned readings. Your task will be to critically assess and present on the required readings providing weaknesses and strengths of the arguments, models, concepts and theories. The panelists should also prepare questions for the class. Panels will be composed of 2 class members. Panelists should prepare a presentation of NO more than 30 minutes (15 min each). The rest of the class will engage in discussion and questions following presentations.

Group Research Project: (25%) Students in this class will be divided into small groups of 4-5 people. Each group will conduct a research project to explore a specific aspect of EU foreign policy and/or role in international affairs and be approved by the instructor. It must describe and explain that particular component of EU policies/roles in terms of one of the conceptual and theoretical models discussed in class. Each group will present the group’s findings in writing to the instructor before presentation (2 page outline) and through an oral presentation to the class.
Individual final paper: (35%) This 15-page paper must critically analyze a particular component of EU policies/roles using class readings and outside sources and applying conceptual and theoretical models discussed in class. This paper should be based on your research project question. Details will be discussed further in class.

Suggestions for topics for research project/final paper (you can also pick your own topic):

Has September 11 changed the nature of the debate about EU security policy?
Is the European financial crisis reshaping/undermining the Union?
What is the political impact of the EU on the Middle East peace process?
What is the role of human rights and democracy in EU relations with developing countries?
How important is sustainable development in EU relations with developing countries?
What kind of development policy can the EU have in a globalizing world?
What does the EU role in the former Yugoslavia tell us about the development of ESDP?
Is the EU role in the Middle East peace process building a visible international identity?
Is the EU’s relationship with the ACP countries best characterized as “development policy” or “neo-colonialism”?
What is the role of the EU in the G8?
What is the relationship of the EU with WTO? The UN? Other international regional organizations?
What role does the EU play in international peacekeeping?
What are the prospects of a closer association between the EU and its Mediterranean neighbors?
Are the “transatlantic partners” pillars of the Atlantic community or rival blocs in a multipolar world? Are they likely to evolve toward “devotion” or “divorce”?
How important is China in EU external relations?

For all written assignments it is expected that you will cite your class texts, supplemental readings, and other sources. Papers should be double-spaced, spell-checked, and legible. It should be in 12 point characters in the 'Times' font. Please use Word document format and Chicago Manual citation style. They should be your own work and must not be copied or otherwise plagiarized from another source whether it be an internet site or another student. Plagiarism or academic dishonesty of any kind will result in a failing grade in this course.

CLASS POLICIES & PROCEDURES

- You are responsible for completing individual and group assignments on time.
- If an emergency prevents you from attending class, you should let the instructor know ahead of time when possible and contact a group member to find out what you missed. You are responsible for all announcements, assignments, and date
