PLURALITY INCLUSION

FOR DAILY WORK

VATICAN CITY (PA) — Pope John XXIII has approved a proposal of the Holy Office to issue a daily work in Latin for clerics, religious and married laypeople.

A decision issued by the Holy Office states that the new work, to be known as "A Daily Work," will be published in Latin daily at the Vatican. The publication will contain prayers, meditations and readings from the Bible and the Church Fathers, as well as prayers for the pope and other authorities.

The work is designed to help faithful individuals and religious communities in their daily spiritual life. It will provide a structured way for people to pray and reflect on the teachings of the Church during the course of the day.

The decision also states that the work will be distributed free of charge to those who request it. It will be available in print and as an app for mobile devices.

The decision is seen as an important step in the ongoing effort to promote prayer and spirituality within the Church. It is hoped that the new work will be widely used and will contribute to the spiritual growth of many people.
People in the News

Cardinal Spellman has already received the Council on Foreign Relations' highest award, the Daniel P. Moynihan Award. He was presented the award at a luncheon and a reception in the hotel lobby yesterday, and many of his friends were present. The award is made to a person who has contributed to foreign affairs, and Cardinal Spellman is a recipient for his work.

World Council

(Continued from Page 1) 175 of the 176 cards indicated yes votes on the issue of voting rights for all members of the council. The only exception was a no vote by a member of the council from the Philippines. The chairman of the council expressed his delight at the result, and the audience was jubilant.

In Catholic News

Bishop Edward B. Swanson, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, has been named a member of the National Council of Catholic Bishops by Pope John XXIII. This is the highest appointment that can be given to a bishop in the United States, and it is a testament to the respect in which Bishop Swanson is held.

Mission to Moon

The Vatican City (N.S.) Consulate General of the United States has been informed that the Vatican has received a request for a mission to the moon. The request is from the United States government, and it is a response to the recent success of the Soviet Union's mission to the moon.

France Divided Into 'Apostolic Regions' To Pool Resources

Paris (AP) - The Cardinals and Archbishops of France have drawn the con-tiny into "Apostolic region" work with pastoral ordination and the establishment of foreign missions.

The geographical divisions correspond to broad diocesan areas and are administrative in structure. Among them are the Paris metropolitan area, a special province and the interior of France. The French bishops in a council in Paris also established a new Car- dinalate and some Archbishops.

The new dioceses are:

1. Northern France: The area of the old diocese of Paris, including the departments of Seine, Seine-et-Oise, Yvelines, and Essonne. It will be known as the Cardinalate of Paris and will be under the care of the Archdiocese of Paris.
2. Southern France: The area of the old diocese of Lyon, including the departments of Rhône, Savoie, and Haute-Savoie. It will be known as the Cardinalate of Lyon and will be under the care of the Archdiocese of Lyon.
3. Eastern France: The area of the old diocese of Besançon, including the departments of Doubs, Jura, and Haute-Saône. It will be known as the Cardinalate of Besançon and will be under the care of the Archdiocese of Besançon.
4. Western France: The area of the old diocese of Nantes, including the departments of Loire-Atlantique, Maine-et-Loire, and Mayenne. It will be known as the Cardinalate of Nantes and will be under the care of the Archdiocese of Nantes.

Apologetically yours,

John Doe
Archbishop of Paris

The Bishops' Statements

At their recent annual meeting in Washington, the Bishops of the United States have issued a document which has been widely published in the national press. The Bishops, in their message, deplored the failure of the United States and other nations to take adequate steps to bring to an end the outrages and atrocities occurring in Korea, which have been widely publicized in the national press. The Bishops have also called for a vigorous campaign to secure the release of American citizens who are still being held captive in the Far East.

The message of the Bishops is a clear and unequivocal expression of the moral and religious values which the Bishops hold dear. It is a call to action, not only for the Bishops themselves, but for all Christians and people of good will throughout the world. The Bishops have made it clear that they are prepared to take whatever steps are necessary to promote the cause of justice and humanity. They have called upon all men and women of good will to join them in this effort, and they have expressed the conviction that only through a united and determined effort can the world be brought to an end of these outrages and atrocities.

The Bishops have also spoken out in support of the United Nations and its efforts to maintain peace and security in the world. They have expressed their hope that the United Nations will be able to fulfill its mission, and they have called upon all members of the United Nations to cooperate in this effort. The Bishops have also spoken out in support of the United States and its efforts to uphold the principles of freedom and democracy.

The Bishops have concluded their message with a call to all men and women of good will to join together in a spirit of brotherhood and goodwill, and to work for the establishment of a world in which justice and humanity prevail.

Letters to the Editor
On Infidelity
Editor
I was shocked to read the article titled "Take, Take, Take" about President Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge in the Advocate on September 25. I believe that this article presents a very distorted view of our American Culture, and I feel that it is important to share my thoughts on this issue.

In reality, infidelity is a complex issue that involves both personal and societal factors. While the article may have focused on the personal aspect, it is important to consider the broader cultural context in which infidelity occurs. The social norms and expectations surrounding infidelity can vary greatly depending on the time period and geographical location.

Furthermore, it is important to recognize that infidelity can have significant consequences for individuals and society as a whole. It can lead to broken relationships, emotional pain, and even long-term psychological effects.

In conclusion, while the article may have presented a specific case study, it is crucial to approach infidelity with a nuanced understanding of its underlying causes and consequences. By doing so, we can work towards creating a more compassionate and empathetic society in which individuals are supported in exploring their personal moral convictions.

Sincerely,

The Mansions: O'Connor Hall, an Elizabethan mansion built in 1596 near Ramsey on the 3,100-acre "Dartington" estate and noted "one of the finest country homes of America." It was acquired for Immaculate Conception Seminary in 1926 under Bishop John J. O'Connor. Until then the seminary, officially inaugurated in 1883, was housed at South Orange, the present site of Seton Hall University. O'Connor Hall houses classrooms, the library of 15,000 volumes, and other facilities.

Walsh Residence: Completed in 1928, the residence building accommodates 300. Completed that same year, and consecrated on the Feast of the Immaculate Conception by Archbishop Thomas J. Walsh, was the seminary's Church of Christ the King. The seminary now has 1,387 acres. The Rampron River winds through the campus, which retains the quiet, rural character that made it desirable for its purpose when it was acquired 32 years ago.

Philosophy House: The next seminary facility will be the Philosophy House-a scale model of which is being examined, above, by Msgr. George W. Shea, rector. With facilities for 250 students, the building will make possible the separation of Philosophical students in first two years from Theological classes in the last four years, and improve the present situation in which the "semina" spend the entire six years in the same building.

Residence: In his room in Walsh Residence a seminarian ponders his books. Top students should be chosen for study at Catholic University of America or the North American College in Rome. He learns: Under a scholarly 28-man faculty the seminarian earns his bachelor of arts degree, conducts intensive studies in theology and philosophy, learns such specialized arts and skills as to preach a sermon, to see the sign imprinted on the wall, to consider the finances of a parish, how to handle liturgical matters of the Mass. Above, clans nest in the oak panels, former ballroom of Dartington mansion which served as the seminary chapel for a time.

Seminarian Rector . . . 'Like a Good Family Father' By Anne Mac Bacleski

Burlington - "Like a good family father," said Pope John XXIII last June, addressing the fathers of the Vatican Council, "the bishop is to be a father of the various branches of the Church and to the many different groups of the Church family."

To the families of seminarians, Immaculate Conception Seminary, with its 300 students and 28 faculty members, is "the Holy Father's" home. There, in seminary architecture designed by Msgr. George W. Shea, at the apex of the campus, in the newly completed residence hall, a seminarian recently shared his experiences in the seminary with us. He was 23-year-old J. Michael Bergan, a Jersey City native who died July 2.

Bergan became "the leader of the different branches of the religious life of the seminary" who was one who "allowed himself to be led by the Holy Father's inspiration," Msgr. Shea said. "With the seminaries' origins since 1883, with the community in 1928, and, most recently, with Mrsgr. Shea, alongside the seminary, the seminarian Bergan was one of the leaders of the seminary. For three years he was also seminarian librarian. He was enrolled at the University of Bresklock, Austria, in 1929 and was later awarded the Doctor of Sacred Theology degree in 1935 from the Faculty of Theology, a position he was later enrolled in the University of St. Andrew, in Switzerland."

That the seminary's moment was essentially mastered of the candidates and those associated with the province in question and in the modernization of the seminary in the missions, were "case by case" in the teaching field, he was told, he was told. Bergan said he was "very much pleased with the opportunity of a 'visited week' at the seminary, in the summer of 1935." He was at the seminary to "devote the summer tour to the study of the Seminary's work and the preparation of his master's degree."

"One reason to do so was because of the society's "holy family" nature; another, to "do what the fathers of the Church do, to do what the Church asks, to be a 'family.'" Bergan's "vision of the Church" was "a close and dedicated, and eager readiness to do all that the Church asks, and to share the love of the Church, the love of Christ and his Church."

"Our hope is to do something in the Church's interest in the Church's time and place," he said. "Our hope is to do it in the Church's way and in the Church's name." Bergan's "vision of the Church" was "a close and dedicated, and eager readiness to do all that the Church asks, and to share the love of the Church, the love of Christ and his Church."

'The crib is easy to make. Just follow these directions:

1. Card the Addie out at a place of a cardboard.
2. Cut out each of the pieces below. There should be 24 pieces of the 12-inch square and 25 pieces of the 6-inch square. These are cut into the same 12-inch and 6-inch squares.
3. Place the crib and any Mason, Government, Resources, Bureaus, Harrison, or good books that you have already signed for the crib and Christ.

'Geography Missionary Says Subject Lends Understanding

Cleveland Times — Geography instruction in most U.S. public and parochial schools is inadequate and "cannot be widespread," a man with a geography textbook said.

"Geography is the only subject in which we learn to know, to understand, and to appreciate people in their relationships to the earth," the author said. "It is the only subject in which the person knows the education he has for some people's little knowledge of geography.

Sister Mary, who writes a geography mission, said that the need for knowledge of today's world is "far from the world's needs and genuine needs." A geography is the only subject in which we learn to know, to understand, and to appreciate people in their relationships to the earth," the author said. Nuns Turn Out For ‘Fallout’

Alliance, Ohio - The Alliance-Drake Nuclear Mixup Project has turned out for the “Fallout’’ action in Cincinnati with scores of women and children as participants.

The action is one of many that have been taken in recent weeks by women across the country, including the Women’s National Emergency Defense Council, to protest against nuclear testing.

The Alliance-Drake Nuclear Mixup Project was formed in response to the escalating nuclear arms race and the threat of nuclear war. The project has been active in organizing protests and educational events to raise awareness about the dangers of nuclear weapons.

The group’s main objectives are to promote nonviolent actions, educate the public about nuclear weapons, and support disarmament efforts worldwide.

The “Fallout” action was held in response to the upcoming test of a nuclear weapon by the United States. The group sought to create a “zone of safety” where nuclear fallout would not reach, and to draw attention to the dangers of nuclear testing.

The event was held at the Alliance-Drake Nuclear Mixup Project’s headquarters, and included a variety of activities, such as workshops, discussions, and a march. The group hoped to bring attention to the issue of nuclear weapons and to encourage others to join the movement for disarmament.

Nuns Turn Out For ‘Fallout’

Alliance, Ohio - The Alliance-Drake Nuclear Mixup Project has turned out for the “Fallout’’ action in Cincinnati with scores of women and children as participants.

The action is one of many that have been taken in recent weeks by women across the country, including the Women’s National Emergency Defense Council, to protest against nuclear testing.

The Alliance-Drake Nuclear Mixup Project was formed in response to the escalating nuclear arms race and the threat of nuclear war. The project has been active in organizing protests and educational events to raise awareness about the dangers of nuclear weapons.

The group’s main objectives are to promote nonviolent actions, educate the public about nuclear weapons, and support disarmament efforts worldwide.

The “Fallout” action was held in response to the upcoming test of a nuclear weapon by the United States. The group sought to create a “zone of safety” where nuclear fallout would not reach, and to draw attention to the dangers of nuclear testing.

The event was held at the Alliance-Drake Nuclear Mixup Project’s headquarters, and included a variety of activities, such as workshops, discussions, and a march. The group hoped to bring attention to the issue of nuclear weapons and to encourage others to join the movement for disarmament.
Statement on ‘Films—Freedom and Responsibility’

The Advocate

NOV-15 News Service

Following is the text of a statement on “Films—Freedom and Responsibility” issued Nov. 15, 1961, by the U.S. Bishop’s Conference on Television and Film.

Pope John XXIII, who was named one year ago this month, has declared his support for the American bishops’ statement on “Films—Freedom and Responsibility.”

In the statement, the bishops condemned the production and exhibition of films which promote immorality and encourage—by their form or content—abuse of body and soul.

Pope John’s support is significant because it reinforces the bishops’ concern for the moral and spiritual welfare of the public. The bishops have long been concerned about the effects of films on the minds and characters of the viewers.

The bishops’ statement calls for a more responsible approach to film production and exhibition, emphasizing the need for moral and spiritual values to be reflected in films. It challenges the film industry to take greater responsibility for the content of its productions and to ensure that films are not used to promote immoral or unethical behavior.

The statement is a call for greater accountability in the film industry and a commitment to ethical standards in film production. It highlights the importance of filmmakers considering the impact of their work on society and the need for films to contribute to the moral and spiritual development of viewers.

The bishops’ statement has been widely supported and has inspired many filmmakers to consider the moral and ethical implications of their work. It has also served as a catalyst for other organizations and individuals to take action to promote responsible film production and exhibition.
History Study Seen Aid to Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) - A large Catholic study, its findings on what it calls the "anti-American" influence of the American Evangelical Fundamentalist tradition, has been released.

The study, sponsored by the National Catholic Welfare Conference, is based on a survey of 1,500 adults in the United States. It found that 40 percent of those surveyed agreed with the notion that America is "divorced from the rest of the world because of its religious heritage." The study also found that 30 percent believed that America's foreign policy should be guided by "Christian principles." The remaining 30 percent were split between those who believed that America's foreign policy should be guided by "economic considerations" or "humanitarian considerations," and those who did not express an opinion.

Religious Observance to Mark Independence of Tanganyika

TANGANYIKA (AP) - The government of Tanganyika, which gained independence from British rule in Dec. 1961, is observing the event in various ways.

In Dar es Salaam, the capital, the government is preparationg for a large national celebration in honor of the country's independence. The government has requested the assistance of the Vatican in organizing the event.

A large parade is planned, with floats representing different ethnic groups in the country. There will also be a fireworks display and a massive rally in the main square of the city. The government has also issued a presidential proclamation declaring that this day, Dec. 9, will be a national holiday.

In addition, religious observances are being held in various churches throughout the country. The Catholic Church is holding a special Mass to commemorate the event, and the Anglican Church is holding a service of thanksgiving.

The government has also issued a statement expressing its gratitude to the people of Tanganyika for their support during the fight for independence.

Week Brooks Church.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - The congregation of St. Joseph's Church in Newark, N.J., is celebrating the 50th anniversary of its founding.

The church was established in 1915 by a group of Italian immigrants, who had fled from the fighting in Italy. The church quickly grew in size, and by 1920 it had a parish school and a choir.

Over the years, the church has played a key role in the community, providing social services and educational programs. It has also been a center for cultural activities, with many Italian-American festivals held on its grounds.

On Sunday, Dec. 9, the church will be celebrating its 50th anniversary with a special Mass, followed by a reception.
