Congo Massacre Confused as Disaster

LEOPOLDVILLE, Zaire (CNS) — It is unlikely that the massacre of 40,000 people in the Democratic Republic of the Congo is the work of the military and police forces of the Zairean government.

The massacre was carried out by a group of soldiers who had been trained by the United States and other Western countries to fight the rebel forces of the Zairean government.

The massacre was carried out in the town of Kasai during the fighting between the Zairean government and the rebel forces of Joseph Kabila, the leader of the Movement for the Liberation of the Kasai (MLK).

The rebels used rocket-propelled grenades (RPGs) and machine guns to carry out the massacre.

The massacre was witnessed by a team of United Nations (UN) observers who were on a mission to monitor the situation in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

The mission was led by an American special envoy to the Democratic Republic of the Congo, General Wesley Clark.

Clark, who was a former United States Army general, was appointed by the United States government to monitor the situation in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

Clark was concerned about the situation in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, and he wanted to ensure that the United States government was providing the necessary support to the Zairean government to fight the rebels.

Aim of Sacred Art: Spiritual, Personal Development

The Rev. Dr. John C. Wilson

At the center of our faith, there is the image of the crucified Christ. This image is not just a visual representation of the sacrifice of Christ on the cross, but it is also a symbol of the spiritual journey that we undertake as followers of Christ. The crucifix is a reminder of the cost of our salvation, and it is a call to us to live a life of sacrifice and devotion to God.

In this context, the aim of sacred art is to help us understand and connect with the spiritual truths that are contained in the imagery of the crucifix. The use of art in religious practice is not new, and it has been an important part of many traditions for centuries. In the Catholic Church, for example, the use of sacred art is a way of teaching and inspiring the faithful.

In our current culture, where we are often distracted by the busyness of daily life, the use of sacred art can be a source of renewal and inspiration. It can help us to slow down and reflect on the deeper meaning of our faith.

The use of sacred art in our personal development is a way of acknowledging the spiritual truths that are contained in the images that we see. It is a way of connecting with the divine and finding a sense of peace and serenity.

In conclusion, the aim of sacred art is to help us understand and connect with the spiritual truths that are contained in the imagery of the crucifix. It is a way of teaching and inspiring the faithful, and it is a way of acknowledging the spiritual truths that are contained in the images that we see.

The meeting was called to discuss the recent papal encyclical on the question of the infallibility of the church and the teachings of the Bible.

Business Is Business

Rand notes from the news lately indicate that all 18 of the firms in the business world — if ever the day comes — will have to be按名定期名称 — be on the “squeak-food” list in the business world. This is an unfortunate situation, for the future of the nation depends on the success of these firms. The key to the future of this country lies in the hands of the business community. The future of this country lies in the hands of the business community. The future of this country lies in the hands of the business community.

Perhaps the most spectacular and fascinating business scandal involved the recent investigation of the American Stock Exchange; which led the board of directors of the exchange and other key officials. As the SBC observed in its report, the recent investigation revealed that the rules were flouted and responsible people, through arrogance or apathy, chose to ignore the situation. Last week in the American Stock Exchange, 13 members of the board were expelled for such indignities.

These instances of study dealing affect all of us in our professions. Indeed, because money is comparatively plentiful, signal to signal the public, we live in healthy public habits. Such habits have taken in the old business, the new business, and the old business. Here tragically, these stock transactions of the recent era show. A recent study showed a chief finger at the major banking house through the Los Angeles Board of Advisors. It urged the national bankers to remove and restore confidence and to produce representative codes of conduct. The council recommended: “sufficient—

‘Yielding to Breathe Free’

“Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses, yearning to breathe free. The wretched refuse of your tender shoes shod on your feet. Come to me, you that labour and are heavy laden and I will refresh you. I am the door; the door which is opened shall be opened to you, and the door which is shut shall be shut to you.”}

World Christianity Depends on Laymen

By REV. FREDERICK A. MOORE, C.M.

The apostolate of the Catholic Church is a lay apostolate. Catholic education is a lay apostolate. Church in the home is a lay apostolate. Parish activities are a lay apostolate. Laymen are the backbone of the Church. They are the lifeblood of the Church. And yet, they are often unjustly neglected and slighted.

The Church needs the laity more than ever before. The Church needs the laity to carry on the work of the Lord. The Church needs the laity to build up the Kingdom of God. The Church needs the laity to spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ. The Church needs the laity to bring the love of God to all men.

Laymen are needed in every phase of the work of the Church. They are needed in the schools. They are needed in the parishes. They are needed in the missions. They are needed in the hospitals. They are needed in the colleges. They are needed in the seminaries. They are needed in the convents.

Laymen are needed to teach the children. Laymen are needed to instruct the young. Laymen are needed to comfort the sick. Laymen are needed to comfort the dying. Laymen are needed to comfort the bereaved. Laymen are needed to comfort the poor. Laymen are needed to comfort the hungry.

Laymen are needed to build the Church. Laymen are needed to keep the Church clean. Laymen are needed to keep the Church open. Laymen are needed to keep the Church alive. Laymen are needed to keep the Church growing. Laymen are needed to keep the Church strong.

Laymen are needed to pray for the Church. Laymen are needed to give to the Church. Laymen are needed to work for the Church. Laymen are needed to fight for the Church. Laymen are needed to defend the Church.

Laymen are needed to love the Church. Laymen are needed to serve the Church. Laymen are needed to protect the Church. Laymen are needed to guide the Church. Laymen are needed to lead the Church.

Aid Latin America

Marchers Ask Curbs on Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A wave of concern at the highest levels, with concerted efforts to prevent the spread of communist ideas, has been achieved.

The government, in a series of measures, has taken steps to control the influence of the communist movement, including

- Increased surveillance of suspected individuals
-收紧对共产主义组织的审查
- Increased enforcement of existing laws against communism

The efforts have been thus far effective, and the communist threat appears to be contained.

TV or Jamboree?

Badwood: What's this? Is TV to blame? Is it the jamboree or is it both? It seems to me there are two possibilities: the jamboree has the upper hand, but it could also be TV... or both.

Little Guys Lead 'Big Guys'

Barringer: St. Peter's is the best team in the nation, but if we were to have a jamboree, they wouldn't be included in it. They're too small. However, if we had a TV show, they could be featured. It would be interesting to see how they would do against the best teams in the country.
