Lenten Reminder

One of the most dramatic and salutary events recorded in the Old Testament is the observance of Lent, a period of 40 days of fasting and prayer by the disciples of Jesus. During this time, Christ fasted for 40 days, and as a result, the disciples who observed Lent were strengthened and prepared for their mission. The observance of Lent is a sign of repentance and preparation for the coming of Christ. It is a time when Christians reflect on their relationship with God, acknowledge their sins, and seek forgiveness. The observance of Lent is a tradition that has been observed for centuries, and it is still observed today by many Christians around the world. The observance of Lent is a time of reflection, prayer, and fasting. It is a time when Christians focus on their relationship with God, and seek to live a more virtuous life. The observance of Lent is a time when Christians are reminded of the importance of repentance and forgiveness. It is a time when Christians are reminded of the importance of living a life that is pleasing to God. Mom's Own TV Guide

Shot Up by Westerners

By REV. JOHN L. THOMAS, R.J.
Archdiocesan Professor of Sociology, St. Louis University

Here we brought TV into our family circle, I'm considered a "crank". You see, my family and I have always been against TV. We think it has too much violence and that it teaches children bad habits.

My wife and I decided to make a list of all the shows we watch and see if we could improve our programs. We found that there were several shows that we enjoyed, but we also noticed that some of the shows were not appropriate for our family.

We talked to our priest about this and he suggested that we write to the network asking them to change the content of some of the programs. We did this and we received a letter back from the network saying that they were considering our request.

Since then, we have been enjoying our TV shows again and we feel that we are making a positive contribution to our family life by being involved in the decision-making process regarding TV content.

The great thing about TV is that it can be a great tool for family entertainment and education. We just need to be aware of what we watch and make sure that it is appropriate for our family.

TUESDAY and Thursday have been declared "typical" days and the service is not considered to be of any particular importance unless it is of interest to the public.

Not only do the testimonies of the early churchmen have certain value, but the materials which they record are often of great significance. The service will be followed by a half-hour choral service. We hope this service will be of value. It is the morning of the Lord's resurrection, and it is fitting that the service should be followed by a half-hour choral service. Pope Lauds Response Of Women Religious Washingtofn Post, Dec. 31—Pope Pius XI has expressed his appreciation of women religious who have responded to his call for rallying to the defense of religion and the observance of Sunday specified in an appeal which he made last year. The Pope's appreciation was announced in a letter addressed to John Joseph O'Brien, Archdiocese of Boston, and printed in the Catholic Sentinel.

The letter was not sent to Curia officials, but was addressed to the Archdiocese of Boston, the Pope's representative in the United States, because it was felt that the letter should be circulated to the diocesan press in the United States.

The letter reads: "The Pope wishes to express his appreciation of the great number of women religious who have responded to his appeal for a defense of religion and the observance of Sunday. The response was so great that the Pope felt it necessary to send a letter of appreciation to the Archdiocese of Boston, the representative of the Holy See in the United States, in order that the letter might be circulated to the diocesan press.

Pope Bullard has said that the letter is a "little token of appreciation" for the women religious who have responded to his appeal. The Pope has also said that he will continue to send similar letters of appreciation to other diocesan representatives in the United States.

The letter also expresses the Pope's desire that the women religious who have responded to his appeal should continue to do so in the future, and that they should be encouraged to participate more fully in the defense of religion and the observance of Sunday.

The Pope has also expressed his desire that the women religious should be given every opportunity to participate in the work of the Church, and that they should be encouraged to do so.

The Pope's letter was printed in the Catholic Sentinel, the official organ of the Archdiocese of Boston, and was also printed in the Catholic Herald, the official organ of the Archdiocese of New York.

Pope Pius XI has also said that he will continue to send letters of appreciation to other diocesan representatives in the United States, and that he will continue to encourage the women religious to participate in the work of the Church.
Newark—The road to the basketball championship was paved with gold for all but a handful of schools. At the end of the season, Seton Hall and St. Patrick's had two of the most impressive records in New Jersey. But when it came to the major awards, both schools were at a loss for words.

The Hall, however, was able to throw a monkey wrench into the plans of the Knights of Columbus, who were looking to have their team selected as the state champion. The Hall, which has won 20 games in 25 years, will win the state title, as usual. The Knights of Columbus, who have won the state championship in the past, are also invited to the tournament, but their record is not as impressive as the Hall's.

The Pirates, on the other hand, have won the state championship three times in the last five years. They are the team to beat in the state tournament, and their record is impressive. The Hall, however, has been a consistent force in the state tournament, and their record is equally impressive. The Pirates, however, have the edge in the record department, and their record is better than the Hall's.

Pope John Forbids Efforts to Supplant Latin

The authority whose pronouncements on Latin are most closely followed by Catholics around the world has ruled that Latin must remain the language of the papal liturgy.

The Pope, delivering his weekly audience to a throng of believers in St. Peter's Square, said that the liturgy of the Church must be conducted in Latin because it is the language of the Bible and the Church's ancient tradition.

"Latin is the language of the Church, the language of the Gospel," the Pope declared.

The Pope also stressed that the liturgy must be carried out with precision, sobriety, and a sense of reverence.

"The liturgy is a source of grace, a source of life," he said.

The Pope's statement comes as part of a broader effort to preserve the traditional Latin liturgy and to prevent the use of vernacular languages, which have been increasingly adopted in recent years.

"The liturgy is a source of grace, a source of life," the Pope said. "It is a source of unity, a source of strength.

The Pope also called for a renewal of the liturgy, emphasizing the need for a return to the traditional Latin texts and the use of sacred music.

"We must return to the liturgy of the Church, the liturgy of the ancestors," he said.

The Pope's words were met with enthusiastic support from the faithful, who cheered and applauded as he spoke.

"The liturgy is a source of grace, a source of life," the Pope concluded. "It is a source of unity, a source of strength."
