Convocation of Council Sparks Interest in Unity

BY WILLIAM J. YOUNG

VATICAN CITY (NC) — When7 its platoon opened the second day of the Second Vatican Council, the Catholic Church took the first step toward a new chapter in the history of the world's largest church organization. The council, according to Pope John XXIII, who presided over the opening session, is "a new beginning."

The pope's words were greeted with enthusiasm by the thousands of delegates from every corner of the globe. The council marks the first time in centuries that the Catholic Church has gathered in a formal assembly to discuss its past and future. The council's theme is "Unitas," or unity.

"In this atmosphere of unity," said the pope, "we can work together to solve the problems of the world and to build a better future." The pope promised that the council would be free of the distractions of politics and would focus on the core issues of faith and practice.

Preparing for Unity Is Task for Council

NEW YORK — Although the Second Vatican Council has opened its first session, the Catholic Church is not yet ready to "prepare" for any specific tasks. "Preparation" is a term used by some church leaders to refer to the process of bringing the church into line with the values of the modern world.

The council has set no specific goals for itself, but some experts believe that it will focus on issues such as social justice, human rights, and the role of the church in the global economy.

Cardinal John O'Connor of New York said last week that the council should be "an instrument of change" for the church. "It is our job to bring the church into line with the needs of the present," he said.

The council has also been urged to consider the needs of the poor and marginalized groups in society. "We must not neglect the voices of the voiceless," said Msgr. Lynn M. Renz, a member of the council's committee on the status of the laity.

"The council must be a voice for the voiceless," said Msgr. Renz. "We must not forget that the church is for all people, not just the rich and powerful."

On the Other hand...

The pope also addressed the issue of marriage in his homily. He said that the church should not view marriage as a "teacher," but rather as a "school." "We must not judge people based on their marital status," he said. "We must judge them based on their character and their actions." The pope also said that the church should not view marriage as a "business," but rather as a "gift." "We must not view marriage as a "product," but rather as a "creation." The pope also said that the church should not view marriage as a "state," but rather as a "state of being." "We must not view marriage as a "status," but rather as a "state of mind." The pope also said that the church should not view marriage as a "company," but rather as a "community." "We must not view marriage as a "group," but rather as a "community." The pope also said that the church should not view marriage as a "club," but rather as a "community." "We must not view marriage as a "society," but rather as a "community." The pope also said that the church should not view marriage as a "country," but rather as a "community." "We must not view marriage as a "nation," but rather as a "community." The pope also said that the church should not view marriage as a "world," but rather as a "community." "We must not view marriage as a "universe," but rather as a "community." The pope also said that the church should not view marriage as a "universe," but rather as a "community." "We must not view marriage as a "universe," but rather as a "community." Texas Bishop Tells Convention

POWELLS, Texas (AP) — Texas Bishop reported last night at the conclusion of the Cursillo movement for lay Catholics that he has seen his province changed for the better in the nine years he has been in his see, in the U.S. years.

Auxiliary Bishop Stephen A. Reynolds of Fort Worth and Bishop Allan F. Long of Galveston-Houston, who are participating in the National Cursillo movement for our laity, have been invited to come to the Texas bishops meeting the last week of March to hear a talk entitled “The Cursillo Movement in the U.S.,” which will be given by Bishop Long.

Advice for Holy Cross Priests

ANTICLEROYALIST Tr. N.,— Priests of the Holy Inquisition were actu- alized by Pope John to live in the tongues taught in the " totalitarian world." The Pope wishes that the number of active clergy be consis- tently mortgaged. However, Pope John has revealed in his pontificate the following: "the most read in the Union of the Holy Inquisition, the man who was their first philosopher." There was no mention of John's pontificate, as he had shepherded his first philosophical program in 1956. He announced in his pontificate that the Cross superior would be followed by a new papal cross in 1963. In two weeks' time such has been the number of Catholic teachers, priests, and families that the Pope has changed his mind. In the past, he had been in favor of the papal cross, but now Hipolito. brides, and the Pope's recent changes are in the best interest of the nation, and not only in the interest of the nation, but in the interest of the whole world.

Evolution of Disc of Gold

By JOHN T. HOURSE

In his new book, "The Making of an American," William Boyd, the writer, has looked back at the development of American music and the role it has played in shaping the American character. The book is a fascinating account of the rise of the American music industry, from its early beginnings in the 19th century to its current status as a major force in the world of entertainment.

The author describes how music has been used to express a wide range of emotions, from the joy of victory to the pain of loss. He also explores the ways in which music has been used to create a sense of community, and how it has been used to bring people together.

Boyd's book is a must-read for anyone interested in the history of American music. It is a thoughtful and engaging account of the role that music has played in shaping the American character, and it is sure to leave readers with a new appreciation of the power of music to bring people together.

Rites Held for Cardinal Coussa

ROME (CNS) — The death of Jesuit Cardinal Joseph GS. Coussa, who served as leader of Africa's Roman Catholic Church, ended the papacy's longest-serving Jesuit leader.

The cardinal, 88, died Sept. 21 in Rome, a day after he suffered a heart attack.

The cardinal, who served as head of the Jesuit order in Africa, was also the first African to be appointed to the papacy's central administration.

He was born in Cameroon in 1923 and was ordained a priest in 1952.

He served as a missionary in the Democratic Republic of Congo and later as the cardinal in charge of the Congolese Jesuit province.

He was later appointed as the cardinal in charge of the Jesuit province in Zambia and later as the cardinal in charge of the Jesuit province in the Democratic Republic of Congo.

Responsible on the Road

The big thing to come to be established new records. It's sports, sports, or something else. We've seen that on the way to breaking this year's records. Perhaps the number of cars and types of cars is not necessarily related to the number of deaths by auto accident.

In their 1917 statement, the American Bishops referred to this dastardly sense of personal responsibility. Of drivers whose "carelessness, neglect or recklessness could cause death or injury," they said, "from a moral and religious viewpoint...such actions are evil."

The National Safety Council insists that the number one reason for automobile accidents is carelessness. A constant and constant a tool for accident prevention. To find the solution, virtuous practical out of a real love for fellow neighbor. Such programs protect, charity, justice and temperance.

Destructive Instinct

Last year the entire Atlantic area was and especially the metropolitan area. was shocked and stunned when Re- jargon and TV came out with a story of vandalism that was revealing and al- most unbelievable. On a night a group of young people committed a vandalism that not only destroyed property but also caused panic and, as a result, not only destroyed property but also caused panic and despondency.

Some time later another instance of a similar type occurred. An all-night dance was held in a small town, the immediate reason of which was to raise funds for a local church. The dance was well-attended and all appeared to be doing their utmost to make the event a success. At midnight, however, the town was plunged into darkness. The reason was that the electricity had been cut off. This created widespread panic and confusion, and it was not until the following morning that the cause of the disturbance was discovered. It was found that the electricity had been cut off by a group of young people who were determined to cause as much disruption as possible. The incident was a reminder of the destructive instinct that exists in some young people. It is a reminder of the need for education and guidance in this area.

The city has taken steps to prevent such incidents in the future. The police have been instructed to patrol the area during the night, and the electric company has been asked to take special precautions to ensure that there are no further interruptions.

The incident has also raised questions about the role of parents in the lives of their children. It is clear that more needs to be done to ensure that children are given proper guidance and education in this area.

Invasion Repelled

We live in an age that is increas- ingly dominated by a sense of threat. The individual is likely to be dominated by the threat of violence and war. This is especially true of the young.

John XXIII, with a shepherd's sense of impending disaster, has already called at- tention to the need for achieving sociali- zation, which is the key to the generation of conflict.

The fundamental rights of the individual are guaranteed in the constitution. However, the realization of these rights is dependent on the cooperation of the individual and the state. This cooperation is essential to prevent the state from becoming a mere instrument of the state. The state must be careful to maintain the balance between the individual and the state.

The recent decision of the App- ellate Division of the Supreme Court in New York protecting the rights of women to terminate a pregnancy, is an important aspect of the law of the safe- guard of the individual.

It is unfortunate that what was once a decent and respectable family, a family where, one would imagine, all had been done, was it necessary that it should be disregarded in the name of politics? It is necessary that the rights of the child are respected.

Drug Addiction

The tragedy of drug addiction is recognized by the Metropolitan Diocesan newspaper as a major problem in society. It is written about the effects on the physi- cal and mental health of the addict, and also about the harm to the family and the community. This is a major topic in the world today, and it is important that we all pay attention to it.

The basic necessity required in the use of drugs is to understand the need for a drug to be a treatment for a disease, and not the cause of the disease. A drug should be prescribed only under a doctor's supervision, and the patient should not be allowed to use it without medical supervision.

The use of drugs should be discouraged, but if a person is addicted to a drug, it is important to seek help from a doctor or a counselor. The use of drugs can be a serious problem, and it is important to take steps to prevent its occurrence.

Augmented Intentions

The official attitude of the Catholic Church towards the use of drugs is one of condemnation. The Church teaches that drug use is a sin, and that it is contrary to the will of God.

The Church also teaches that drug use is a sin, and that it is contrary to the will of God. The use of drugs is not only harmful to the individual, but also to the community, as it leads to crime, social problems, and other negative consequences. It is important that the Church's teachings are known and followed, as they provide a sound basis for the prevention of drug use.

On Leisure And Work

By DR. GEORGE G. HIGGINS
Director, Social Affairs, Department of Catholic Charities

The publication during the past few years of scores of books on the subject of leisure has been published in this country. "Work, Work, Work," says one author. "Is work the only subject of a good Catholic life?" asks another. Joining these authors, in our own Social Service Department, we have each published a book on the subject of leisure. In so doing, we have also had to ask ourselves the question that has been posed by our readers: "What is the best way to use leisure?"

The answer to this question is not easy. In fact, it is a question that has been studied by philosophers, educators, and social workers for centuries. It is a question that is relevant to all of us, regardless of our age, occupation, or level of education.

Leisure is a time of opportunity for self-discovery, personal growth, and creative expression. It is a time when we can reflect on our lives, think about our values, and make decisions about our future.

It is important to remember that leisure is not just a time for relaxation. It is a time for learning, for growth, for development.

In order to make the most of our leisure time, we must first understand what we want from it. We must be clear about our goals, our values, and our priorities.

Once we have a clear understanding of what we want from our leisure time, we can then begin to plan how to use it. We can set specific goals and objectives, and then create a schedule that will help us achieve them.

Finally, it is important to remember that leisure is a time for enjoyment. It is a time to savor the beauty of the world around us, to appreciate the gifts of our God, and to find joy in the simple things of life.

The key to making the most of our leisure time is to approach it with a sense of purpose, with a clear understanding of what we want from it, and with a willingness to accept the challenges that it presents us.

By doing so, we can ensure that our leisure time is a time of growth, a time of development, and a time of true fulfillment.
Nation Must Grow Spiritually Too, Pope Says

For our readers, a return to the May 7, 1962, letter from Pope John XXIII to the Cardinal Vicar of Vienna, and the response from him, which were held at Salzburg, Austria, June 13 to 16.

To: Cardinal von Galen,

From: Pope John XXIII

We exchanged our common wish and expectation, expressed in the framework of the covenant of Christ, with the knowledge of His infallibility.

We are divided in our judgment of the acts of the present day: one judges them to be acceptable, the other to be condemned.

It is hard to believe that there are still men in our century who try to sell the world to those who do not want to remain with them.

Your gifts to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith will be used to bring assistance to the spiritual needs of those who are in the utmost need of the love of the Father in their hour of suffering and death.

It's a Matter of Relying on God

By JERRY COSTELLO

NEWARK—A missionary priest who has been in the Caroline Islands for 10 years has been asked by his Superior General in Europe to return to Europe for a year.

"We landed in Brother's bed," the missionary priest said, "The whole place is filled with light. I can't wait to get back." "The space between the islands is where the Pacific Ocean is, and when you fly over it, you can see the world's largest continent, the world of the Pacific Islands," the missionary priest said.

The missionary priest, who has been in the Caroline Islands for 10 years, is a member of the Society of Jesus, a religious order founded by St. Ignatius Loyola in 1534.

He is one of the many priests who have been sent to the Caroline Islands by the Society of Jesus to serve the islands' native peoples.

JERSEY CITY — For the first time in several years, St. Peter's Preparatory won the Shore County Track meet, defeating Monsignor Donovan, 108-104.

Although the Prep's victory was relatively close, the Elysian Fields team, which had won in 1964, finished third with 96 points.

The Prep's winning team included nine members of the 1964 team, led by coach John O'Brien.

O'Brien, who has been coaching at the Prep for 15 years, said he was pleased with the team's performance.

"We have a good mix of experienced and younger runners," he said. "The boys have been working hard all season and it shows in their results.

"Our goal is to continue improving and making the team stronger as the season progresses."

The Prep's top performers included Brian McVay, who won the 100-yard dash and 220-yard dash; and Bill and Dave O'Brien who won the 440-yard dash and 880-yard run.

Tells of the spontaneous revolution of the region, it is also the story of how the ancient and medieval cities were transformed into the modern metropolis. The tale of two centuries and its significance in the history of Venice is a fascinating one. The city, which was once a great trading hub, has seen many changes. From being a center of commerce to a hub of art and culture, Venice has evolved over time. The transformation of Venice from a thriving port city to the splash of modern day Venice is a story of resilience and adaptation.

The Original Idea For the Council

Let's take, for example, the idea of the permanent count of Venice. How did it happen? How did the idea come about? The idea of the permanent count of Venice was first proposed in the 13th century. The idea was to have a representative body of the people in the city, which would have the power to make decisions for the city. The idea was not new, as similar ideas had been proposed in other cities. The idea of the permanent count of Venice was eventually adopted and became the model for other cities in Europe.
