The Canadian bishops have released a report on the status of the Church's mission in the world.

The report is based on a survey of the bishops' opinions on the Church's role in the world and the results of a recent study of the Church's work in the world.

The bishops have also made a number of recommendations for the future direction of the Church.

The prayer was led by the Rev. Edward F. Barry, of the Church of the Holy Name in New York, who said: "At the last Council of the Church in 1915, we were assured that the Church would continue to be a strong foe of war in all its forms.

The THESTATION noted that the Church has not made its views known in these days, and that it is time to be as generously thinking as it once was.

K of C Leader Says Laisy's Role Means Closer Tie With Clergy

FRANKFORT - "It is a magnificent notion that all of the Catholic leaders are going to be on the same page," said John L. Laisy, executive director of the Americanist League of Catholic Laymen.

The change in the role of the Catholic leader, he said, is a reflection of the laymen's desire to be more involved in the decision-making process of the Church.

Laisy, who is also the executive director of the Americanist League of Catholic Laymen, said that the laymen are more involved in the Church's activities than ever before.

He added that the laymen are now more involved in the Church's activities than ever before.

How U.S. Bishops View the Council

NCWC News Service

In the world of opulent and crowded "Epitome of the Ecumenical Council" issued by the Administrative Committee of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops this week, the Church's voice is heard. The document has given voice to the views of the Church, which is at the center of the Council's proceedings. The Church's voice has been heard in the document, which states: "The Church is the living body of Christ, working through the Holy Spirit, to bring about the Kingdom of God. It is called to be the instrument of His saving work in the world, to witness to the truth of the Gospel, and to bring the fullness of grace and truth to all people."

The document also states: "The Church is not only the means of salvation, but also the source of salvation. It is the means by which the salvation is realized, and the source from which it flows."

The Church is the body of Christ, living and working through the power of the Holy Spirit, to bring about the Kingdom of God. It is called to be the instrument of His saving work in the world, to witness to the truth of the Gospel, and to bring the fullness of grace and truth to all people.

Will Hollywood Clean House?

By William E. Moore

"Questionable, heinous, licentious---and it is within the realm of possibility that 'Theodoor Sturkenboom' might be the next to enter the 'Family Values Act' list of offensive fare. It is not a question here of what has gone on in the making of the film, or in the performance of any of the actors, but rather a question of the effect of such a film on American culture. The film is to be shown in the United States, and it is not a question of whether it should be shown, but rather of what its effect is going to be."

The film in question is the new movie 'Theo..." - William E. Moore

Blackfriars' Sets Musical Travesties

NEW YORK — The Blackfriars' Guild of New York City, in its 25th annual October in its annual production, presented "The Phantom of the Opera," a musical adaptation of the novel by Gaston Leroux. The production was directed by William Friedkin, and featured an all-star cast including Bette Davis, John Garfield, and Marlene Dietrich.

The production was well received by the audience, and is considered to be one of the best productions of the year. It is being hailed as a major event in the history of Broadway theatre, and is expected to be a major hit with audiences across the country.

Back to School with Teen Drop...
The Fair and the Liturgy

The Fair was in full swing, and the parishioners were bustling about, enjoying the various games and booths. The air was filled with the sounds of laughter and conversation. As the day came to a close, the fair was packed with people, and the sun was setting behind the church. The fair was a symbol of the community coming together, enjoying each other's company.

The Liturgy

The Liturgy was also in full swing, with the Archbishop giving his blessing and the Reverend Father delivering his homily. The congregation was attentive, and the music filled the air with its spiritual melodies. The Liturgy was a reminder of the spiritual aspects of life, and the importance of connecting with one's faith.

LITURGICAL WEEKEND

LITURGICAL WEEKEND is an annual meeting of the bishops of the church and is a time for reflection, prayer, and fellowship. It is a time for the bishops to come together and discuss the issues facing the church, and to seek guidance from the Holy Spirit.

The Rt. Rev. William R. Plumley, the Bishop of the Diocese of the South, delivered a powerful message to the bishops. He spoke about the importance of unity and the need for the church to be a beacon of light in a world that is often dark and troubled. He encouraged the bishops to stand firm in their faith, and to be a source of strength and comfort for those who are searching for meaning in their lives.

The bishops were also challenged to be better listeners, and to be more open to the needs of the churches in their dioceses. They were reminded of the importance of being a voice for the voiceless, and of being a light in the darkness.

As the weekend came to a close, the bishops were left with a sense of hope and determination. They were reminded of the importance of their role, and of the need to be a strong and united force for good in the world.

Untried—Untrue

There used to be an old adage that said, "a man's word was trust and true." This was a wise saying, and the people of the time believed it. But times have changed, and this adage is no longer true. People are no longer as honest as they used to be.

The adage is still used, but it is no longer true. People are no longer as trustworthy as they used to be.

Preview and the Legion

This weekend has been a significant event for the community, with the preview of the new film. The film has been eagerly awaited by many, and the preview was packed with people wanting to see it.

The film was a powerful and moving story, and it left a lasting impression on the audience. The story was about a young man who had to make a difficult decision, and the choices he made had far-reaching consequences.

Papacy's Sociological Role

The Papacy has a long and complex history, and its role in society is constantly evolving. It has been the subject of much debate and controversy, and it has often been a source of conflict.

The Papacy is a powerful institution, and it has played a significant role in the history of the world. It has been a source of stability and a beacon of hope in times of uncertainty.

August Intentions

The month of August is a time for reflection and introspection. It is a time for the faithful to consider their relationship with their faith and with each other. The following intentions are offered as a guide for the faithful to use this month to reflect on their lives and to consider the ways in which they can improve their relationship with their faith.

1. Understand the meaning of sacrifice and the importance of offering it to God.
2. Deepen your understanding of the importance of prayer and the role it plays in our lives.
3. Reflect on the meaning of love and the ways in which you can show love to others.
4. Consider the role of faith in your life and the ways in which you can deepen your relationship with your faith.

The Barred Door

The Barred Door is a symbol of the barriers that exist between the faithful and their faith. It is a reminder of the challenges and obstacles that we face in our journey of faith.

How to Coexist
With Crabgrass

By JOHNS F. BREGG

New and now. I have a big patch of Crabgrass growing in front of a friend with a fine lawn. Every season Crabgrass seems to grow in my lawn. And if a bit of my lawn is under a little shade, the Crabgrass is even more thick. Of course I say if I won't, I'll just kick and pull with a whole lot of force. Crabgrass is a weed, any which way it works as long as there is shade and a little bit of shade is not enough.

FURTHERMORE, I have a Crabgrass problem in our wooded area around the back of our house. I walk through the woods and look and find Crabgrass in numbers. The Crabgrass is the real weed, any which way it works. But an inconsiderate edit will not just let it go by unnoticed. Crabgrass is a weed, any which way it works. And if you walk through the Crabgrass in the wooded area around the back of our house, you will notice that Crabgrass is the real weed, any which way it works.

By the time I have grown a bit of Crabgrass, my attention has been directed to something else. Crabgrass is not a weed, any which way it works. The Crabgrass has its own life, any which way it works. I am familiar with Crabgrass in my lawn and in the woods. But I have noticed that Crabgrass is a real weed, any which way it works.

When my friend visits me and asks me about my lawn, starting out with

Real Concern for Others
A Mark of Christianity

By REV. JOHN J. THOMAS, S.J.
Asst. Professor of Sociology, St. Louis University

I have a sister-in-law that I have been flying around the world. She had a real problem with Crabgrass in her yard. She told me, and I think she is right, that the Crabgrass is a real problem with our yard.

I find it hard to believe that the Crabgrass in our yard could have any serious effect on the health of our yard. We are all aware of the fact that the Crabgrass in our yard is doing its best to grow and become a real problem with our yard.

We must be concerned about Crabgrass in our yard. We must be concerned about the effect of Crabgrass on the health of our yard. We must be concerned about Crabgrass in our yard.

SINCE A CRABGRASS problem is in the making of our yard, let us be concerned about Crabgrass in our yard.

In conclusion, Crabgrass in our yard is a big problem. We must be concerned about Crabgrass in our yard.

THE ADVOCATE
NCCW Will Offer Latin America Kits

WASHINGTON -- The new plan for INTERCOURSE will include a study and discussion program on Latin America announced by Sister Mary Justa, R.S.M., president, St. Joseph University, and Mrs. Doris S. W. Few, editor in chief of FERA News. The program will be called "Focus: Latin America." It will be ready for piloting in the fall of this year, opening the week of Oct. 21, "Our Lady of the Americas." "Focus: Latin America" is designed as an educational program in line with the present and the Church in Latin America. This new plan is being prepared with the assistance of the American-Continental missioners and Latin-American partisans, non-profit educational organization. Witters and editors from the American-Continental missioners, the NCCW staff members, are preparing the program in Latin America in a group of experts on Latin America. The head of the Latin America missioners, and Sister Mary Justa, R.S.M., editor in chief of Latin America, on Latin America, and Sister Mary Few, editor in chief of FERA News, will be the chief editors of the material to be published by FERA News. Chief editor of the series material for FERA will be Philip van den Broek, editor of the organization's free magazine, an unusual series of study papers in Latin America policy.

Sacrifices for Others In Pattern of Christ

If we try to piece together the story of those who have given their lives for the welfare of others, we can piece it together in a few dramatic moments. For instance, we can take the name of one person and see how he or she lived in Christ. But we can also see how they lived in Christ. But we can also see how their lives have influenced others and how their love has been reflected in the lives of others. Then we can see how their sacrifice has been celebrated in the lives of others.

The sacrifice of Christ is a lesson to all of us. It is a lesson that we can learn from our own lives. It is a lesson that we can learn from the lives of others. It is a lesson that we can learn from the lives of those who have lived in Christ.

Johnny is building a battery...

It is a fine battery. Johnny has learned his lesson well. His battery will be able to trigger electric energy.

He can build a battery that will make things move or light or ring.

Johnny need not be in a Catholic school in order to learn how to build a battery. He need not be taught by people whose efforts are dedicated to God. He can build his battery—or do long division or write compositions or locate Thailand on a globe—if he had no crucifix...

But Johnny's parents choose to have Johnny taught in such a room by such people. Like a battery, their choice has to do with energy—not so much in producing it, but in directing it. It is Johnny's energy—his potential, his achievement, his whole life...

Johnny learns in this kind of room so that when his energy is triggered it will be a force to move him in the direction of his Eternal Destiny. The people who care about Johnny feel that This is the Goal for all kids, this the 2nd of all education...

This is why there are Catholic schools.

FM, TV and New Courses of Study

ANNOUNCEMENTS — The Catholic schools of the North Valley and the Archdiocese of Paterson have been aware of the increasing importance of FM radio and television for educational purposes in recent years with the increasing number of home electronic devices. The need for appropriate education of students regarding the use of these devices is being emphasized.

Another innovation, as educators and officials of other organizations are focused on appropriate education of students regarding the use of these devices, is a new course that will be offered at the Catholic schools. The course will be titled "FM Faculty Meet," and will be taught on a weekly basis to students enrolled in the course. The course will be taught by Dr. John, a diocesan official, and will be experienced in the use of FM radio and television.

"FM Faculty Meet" will be held on a weekly basis, and will be taught by Dr. John, who is a diocesan official, and will be experienced in the use of FM radio and television.

Shared Time, Fewer Grades: Are They Really Solutions?

The high cost of modern education, the increase in enrollment, and the need for free public schools to teach to several grades in the same room have made some public and private schools look for solutions to the problem.

In some Catholic schools, the sharing of room and teachers has been employed. The Holy Spirit Church, in Hackensack, has shared a room with the Palisades Presbyterian Church for several years. The following School Calendar is just one example of how these problems are solved.

'Fitness' Plan in Parish Schools

By ED WOODWARD

PARISH officials, in the light of the trend toward physical fitness, have developed a program of physical education for the students in our parish schools. The program is designed to be comprehensive and to meet the needs of all students, regardless of their physical abilities.

The program includes a variety of activities, such as gymnastics, track and field, and swimming. These activities are designed to promote physical fitness, coordination, and teamwork. The program also includes educational components, such as lectures on the benefits of physical fitness and the importance of balanced nutrition.

The program is implemented through the use of qualified physical education teachers, who are trained in the latest techniques and methods. The teachers are responsible for planning and implementing the program, as well as evaluating its effectiveness.

The program has been well-received by students, parents, and teachers alike. Students have reported increased energy levels and improved mood, while parents have noted improvements in their children's physical health.

In conclusion, this program is a great step in the right direction. It is hoped that other parishes will follow suit and implement similar programs to promote physical fitness among their students.
How Small (or Large) Should Class Be?

By Dr. Grant

The small high school classroom is the prevailing idea, yet the research seems to go on and on. If you expect a neat answer to the question, you are in for disappointment. There is no simple answer. What we need is more research done on the problem, not just on how small is best, but also on how large is best. The purpose of this paper is to review the research done on the subject and to give a few observations of our own that we have dealt with high school classes of about 15 to 25 students.

A recent annual report of the National Education Association shows that 36% of the students in the nation are in classes of 20 or fewer students. Is this the best size for high school classes? There is no clear answer to this question.

For many people the small high school classroom means the classroom of the parochial school, who also have a high proportion of students in classes of 15 or fewer students. The National Catholic Educational Association reported in 1959 that 44% of the students in parochial schools were in classes of 15 or fewer students. This high proportion of small classes is due to the fact that the parochial schools are mainly a Catholic phenomenon, and it is the Catholic Church that has been the strongest advocate of small classes. The Catholic Church believes that small classes are necessary for the religious instruction of the students. The parochial schools are mainly Catholic, and they are mainly small classes. The parochial schools are the only schools that have a high proportion of students in classes of 15 or fewer students.

There is a need for more research done on the problem of small high school classes. There is no clear answer to this question, and there is no clear answer to the question of what is the best size for high school classes.

Science, the Arts Are ‘Weapons’
In Spring Jousts for Students

By JUNE DUNYER

Science, the arts — the two traditionally considered enemies — have been friends, as evidenced by the recent annual science fair, art fair and spring joust, in which science and art collided. The annual spring jousts at Seton Hall University, with its juried exhibition of student works, brought new life to the dormant arts.

The jousts, which are sponsored by the student government, are held in the spring to provide an opportunity for students to exhibit their works and to encourage creative expression. The jousts are divided into two main categories: science and art. The science fair, held this year on May 11, features exhibits from elementary schools, with students ranging from kindergarten to 12th grade. The art fair, held on May 12, features exhibits from high school students.

The exhibits are judged by a panel of judges, consisting of faculty members and professionals from various fields. The judges evaluate the exhibits based on criteria such as creativity, originality, technical skill, and presentation.

The science fair featured a variety of exhibits, ranging from models of scientific concepts to experiments and demonstrations. The art fair showcased a range of media, including paintings, sculptures, photography, and digital art.

The jousts are open to all students, and the winners are awarded certificates and prizes. The jousts are not only a way for students to showcase their talents but also a way to encourage creativity and critical thinking.

The jousts are also an opportunity for students to network and collaborate with others in their field. The jousts are not only a way for students to showcase their talents but also a way to encourage creativity and critical thinking.

The jousts are open to all students, and the winners are awarded certificates and prizes. The jousts are not only a way for students to showcase their talents but also a way to encourage creativity and critical thinking.

Parents, Teachers Share the Job

true because you've already learned it from the stories of your friends who you know why this is the case?

In any school, the role of the them prepare for their future. He teaches them how to be responsible, and he teaches them how to be

CATHOLIC — Young Indian men of Fare are being trained to be Holy Fathers in their village in a unique system of school-touched schools founded by the Maryknoll Fathers. This is the only such undertaking known to be in full swing in any part of the world.

The school, founded last year and known as the Catholic Church Missionary School, is located in Fare, a town of about 4,000 people near the city of Dili, the capital of East Timor. The school is run by the Maryknoll Fathers, a religious order from the United States.

The school's curriculum includes subjects such as mathematics, science, and religion. The students are also taught how to read and write in their native language. The school's goal is to provide education to young men from the Fare area who would otherwise be unable to attend school.

FATHER REYNOLDS, the principal of the school in Fare, said that the school is helping to fill a need in the community.

"The school is providing education to young men who would otherwise be unable to attend school," Reynolds said. "We are trying to prepare them to be good Catholic men and to contribute to the development of their community.

The school has a staff of six Maryknoll Fathers, including the principal, and a group of local teachers.

WASHINGTON TOWNSHIPS—Studios of Vineyard Art School of Mary Academy are well suited for the group of students who will be displayed a new page in modern church history when the dedication of the school is made this Saturday. And thanks to a group of alumni students, they have a good appreciation of the church's importance in their present struggle, and they join in lauding the students' activities and growth. This awareness and appreciation are the result of a scholarly and ambitious exhibition for the suitability and worth of the whole program. Washington Township's Mary Academy, which is sponsored by the New Jersey Conference of the United Methodist Church, is an institution that has played a significant role in the development of educational programs in the area.

Youthful Zeal and the Council

by George A. Smith

For direction of Mission Anti-Slavery, N.C., the group conduced extensive educational work which culminated in a series of clear and concise reports to be submitted next spring at a general meeting of the organization. So the task is to educate, informed opinion.

Our students, everyone, including the teachers and their work. Also, the society must be a model, not only for the education of the young people who will call themselves students. As a matter of fact, it will be a model of the students who are the leaders of the church. And the educational work of the church will be a model of the educational work of the students who are the leaders of the church.

ACTUALLY, the six students who went into a program of their own, with a different kind of approach, ran a program to meet the needs of the church and the students. They called their program the Educational Congress. Today, during a period of several months, they have been holding meetings, and the results have been encouraging. Still remaining, however, was the need for action. An experiment was made to try a different kind of educational work, and the results have been encouraging. In mind lies the importance of various schools in the area, and the need for good schools which might request assistance.

GRADDY PRESSLEY is a fellow of the Institute of Race Relations in Chicago. He has done research work in the south, and played a part in the north. This is the case in the education of the students who are the leaders of the church.

A few moments ago, said Pressley, "The educational work of the church will be a model of the educational work of the students who are the leaders of the church. And the educational work of the church will be a model of the educational work of the students who are the leaders of the church.

Catholics Only Ask Share in Own Taxes

CONEY ISLAND, N.Y. — No one at the Catholic school was ready to talk about the tax question. "We should all think before we talk," said the principal of the school. "In 1957, the school was forced to cut its budget by more than $1,000. We are glad to see this tax plan as a step in the right direction."

The tax proposal, which appears in The Wall Street Journal, calls for a tax on educational institutions. It also calls for the establishment of a national council. "We are asking that the council be a national council, not just a council of insurance firms."

Some CEF leaders are not enamored of the public schools. "No one in the public schools can answer the question," said one. "We are asking that the council be a national council, not just a council of insurance firms."

Stirring heated opposition of the tax on education in the public schools, it calls for a reduction of the tax on public schools. "We are asking that the council be a national council, not just a council of insurance firms."

"Our government does not provide education line-up," said the head of the Catholic school. "We are asking that the council be a national council, not just a council of insurance firms."

Some people, he said, are not understanding the tax and are working on it. Others, he said, are working on it. "The government has a right to tax the schools," he said. "The government has a right to tax the schools," he said.

'Don't Put Signs on Utility Poles'

Every day, hundreds of Public Service employees work to keep our streets clean and safe. They are often seen carrying signs and flags, which they erect on poles in the city. These signs are an important tool for the employees, who use them to convey important messages.

"Please help us in our mission to help you. Do not put signs on utility poles."

Second Vatican Council May Define Episcopal, Lay Roles in Church

By ROGER, JAMES C. TUCKER

VATICAN CITY, The — The Roman Catholic Church is on the verge of a great and historic development as the work of the Second Vatican Council proceeds. The Council has given an indication of its intention to reform the structure of the Church to meet the needs of Christian life in the modern world. The Council is expected to define the roles of bishops, priests, and deacons, and to clarify the relationship between the hierarchy and the laity. This is the first step in the reform of the Church. The Council has already approved a number of decrees that are designed to make the Church more effective in serving the needs of the people. The Council has also begun to discuss the renewal of the liturgy, the training of the clergy, and the education of the faithful. The Council is expected to make recommendations for the reform of the Catholic schools, and to discuss the role of the Church in the modern world. The Council is expected to complete its work by the end of the year. The Second Vatican Council is the most important event in the history of the Church, and it is expected to have a profound effect on the life of the Church.
