Czechoslovak Bishops in Humiliating Role

By Rev. Robert A. Graham, S.J.

TWO reports, one from Prague and the other from Bratislava, are making the rounds this week of the world's press. While one report, from the latter city, merely states that Bishop František Noský was named because he was in prison for his activities and disabilities of his church, the other, from Prague, says that the Bishop had been named because of his decision to pray for the union of the Czech and Slovak Churches.

The new Bishop appointed is a most significant one, as he represents the first time that any Bishop has been named in this capacity in the history of the Church. The fact that he was chosen is due to his previous work in the field of religion and his efforts to bring about unity between the two Church bodies.

The new Bishop, Father John F. Murphy, was born in New York City on March 10, 1910. He studied at St. Thomas Seminary, Rome, and was ordained to the priesthood in 1935. He has been a missionary in Czechoslovakia since 1938, and was named to this post in 1944.

The new Bishop is a member of the Congregation of the Holy Cross, and has served as procurator of the Congregation in the United States. He is also a member of the International Commission on Catholic Action, and has been active in the work of the World Federation of Catholic University Students.

The new Bishop is a man of great ability and has made many contributions to the cause of Catholic education. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, and has been active in the work of the Catholic Educational Association.

Archbishop Boland

The choice of Archbishop Boland to lead the diocese of Newark is a testament to his deep understanding of the complexities of the world and his ability to navigate through them in a way that is both compassionate and effective. His background as a teacher and college president has given him a unique perspective on the challenges faced by the Church and society, and his commitment to social justice and pastoral care is evident in all that he does.

Boland's appointment as Archbishop of Newark is significant not only for the diocese but also for the Church as a whole. His experience in parishes, schools, and higher education institutions has prepared him well to lead a diocese with a rich history and a diverse population.

As Archbishop of Newark, Boland will face many challenges, including the ongoing pandemic, the need to address systemic racism and social injustice, and the ongoing work of the diocese to support and strengthen local communities.

Boland's commitment to social justice and his dedication to serving the poor and marginalized are qualities that make him a strong leader for the Church. He will be a voice for those who are often marginalized and a leader in the work of building a more just and compassionate society.

At the same time, Archbishop Boland will need to navigate the challenges of the current political climate, including the ongoing debate over the role of the Church in public life and the need to maintain a commitment to the principles of the Church's teachings.

His appointment as Archbishop of Newark is a sign of the Church's commitment to leadership that is both compassionate and effective, and it is a sign of hope for the future of the diocese and the Church as a whole.

No Prayer Conflict

AUGUSTA, Ga. (CNS) — Only "neutral" prayer is allowed in public schools, a federal judge ruled last week in a case brought by the American Civil Liberties Union.

The judge, U.S. District Judge J. Carter Batts, said the school district violated the First Amendment by allowing students to pray in school before meals, but not during lunch hours.

"Neutral prayer" is defined as any prayer that is voluntary, private and not directed at any particular religion.

The case, filed by the ACLU, alleges that students were forced to pray in school before meals, while others were told to pray in silence.

The judge ruled that the district could not continue to allow prayer in school before meals, but could allow "neutral" prayer during lunch hours.

The ACLU has filed similar lawsuits in other states, including New York and California, and has won several cases.

A spokesman for the Augusta school district said the district would appeal the decision.

The judge's ruling is likely to be appealed by the school district, which has said it plans to continue to allow prayer in school before meals.

The ACLU said it would continue to monitor the case and file appeals if necessary.

The school is located inside St. Margaret's Convent, in the heart of the city. The building is a former convent, now used as a school for girls.

At the entrance is a large statue of a nun standing in front of a large tree. The statue is made of bronze and is very realistic. It depicts a nun standing with a book in her hand, facing the viewer.

Inside the school, there are several classrooms and a library. The classrooms are decorated with paintings and sculptures, and there is a large collection of books in the library. The school also has a small chapel, where mass is celebrated.

The school is run by the Sisters of the Most Holy Name of Jesus and Mary, a religious order that was founded in the 19th century. The sisters are dedicated to teaching young girls and are known for their commitment to education.

The school's curriculum includes both academic and extracurricular activities. Students are encouraged to participate in sports and clubs, and there are many opportunities for community service.

The school's principal, Sister Mary Joseph, is known for her warm and welcoming nature. She is often seen greeting students and parents at the front gate.

Sister Mary Joseph is a native of New York and has been a nun for over 30 years. She has a deep love for teaching and is known for her patience and understanding.

The school's mission statement is to provide a safe and nurturing environment for young girls, where they can learn, grow, and develop into confident and independent women.

The school has a strong tradition of community service, and students are encouraged to volunteer in the local community. The school also has a strong emphasis on academic achievement, and students are guided to reach their full potential.

The school is proud of its long-standing tradition of excellence in education, and it continues to be a beacon of light for young girls in the community.
Decency Unit Hits New Theater Policy

Newark — Hon. Joseph F. Cochran, Director of the Department of Decency, today announced that a new policy would be followed by the Board of the Newark Civic Center. The new policy, which was adopted by the Board at its meeting this week, is designed to prevent any film or play that may be considered objectionable from being shown in the Civic Center. The policy will be enforced by the Decency Unit, which is a part of the Department of Public Information.

The new policy states that any film or play that is considered to be objectionable by the Decency Unit will not be shown in the Civic Center. The Decency Unit will be responsible for enforcing the policy. Any film or play that is shown in the Civic Center must be approved by the Decency Unit.

The Decency Unit has been working to ensure that the Civic Center is a place where people can come to enjoy the arts. The new policy is a part of that commitment.

The Decency Unit will continue to work with the Civic Center to ensure that the Civic Center is a place where people can come to enjoy the arts in a safe and enjoyable environment.

The Decency Unit is committed to ensuring that the Civic Center is a place where people can come to enjoy the arts in a safe and enjoyable environment.

Join In Prayer, For Those That Help!"

The Mount Carmel Guild is a Church sponsored organization founded by the late Archbishop Walsh for the purpose of assisting the handicapped, the homeless, the jobless, the hungry, and anyone else in need within the Archdiocese of Newark, regardless of race, color, or creed. With Rt. Rev. Mgr. Joseph A. Deehan as its Archdiocesan Director, the Mount Carmel Guild has four priests working full-time and eighteen priests doing part-time work in addition to their parochial duties.

The Mount Carmel Guild seeks to fill the needs of the handicapped in both their spiritual and physical life. Trained and highly skilled professionals lead their hands in reaching troubled minds and helping handicapped bodies.

Whether giving a silent voice in signs or signaling on the basketball court — the Guild members never cease to be "all things to all men" in their dedicated service.

The Saints Should Know

by Mgr. William F. Furlong

We could cut this last week's "31 Saints Day" column short, but since the 37th column is two weeks old anyway, we may as well use it.

Young Folk Like Challenges. They dream of big things, but they're not always ready for the work that will be required in order to achieve them. The young priest is often tempted to say, "I wish I could be a bishop," or "I wish I could be a cardinal." But to be a bishop means to be a shepherd of souls; to be a cardinal means to be a shepherd of nations. The young priest must be content to work in a parish, and even then he is called to do something even greater than creating a world. This is what is called the "priestess of God". She is called a young man in the priesthood, in calling him to do big things.

A Moral Question

In professional boxing, there is a question which has caused much controversy. The question is: "Is boxing a sport?"

There are many who argue that boxing is not a sport. They say that it is a dangerous and violent sport. However, there are many who argue that boxing is a sport. They say that it is a sport that requires skill, strategy, and athleticism.

In my opinion, boxing is a sport. It is a sport that requires skill, strategy, and athleticism. It is a sport that has been around for centuries and has been enjoyed by people all over the world.

Therefore, I argue that boxing is a sport. It is a sport that should be enjoyed by people all over the world. It is a sport that should not be banned or outlawed.

Fr. Boss of Elizabeth Dies

EAST HANOVER, N. J., Nov. 7—Rev. John Boss, 87, a native of Morristown, died Nov. 6 of heart failure at the Morristown Memorial Hospital, where he had been a patient for several days. He was a member of St. Joseph's Church in New York City, the parish where he served as pastor for many years.

Boz fulfilled a long-standing promise when he went to the hospital for a heart operation. He was an active member of the parish and was known for his warm hospitality and welcoming spirit. He will be missed by his many friends and fellow parishioners.

In his later years, Father Boss was a frequent visitor to Newark, where he spent his days in prayer and reflection. He continued to serve his parish until his death, and his legacy will live on through the many lives he touched.

The wake and funeral services for Father Boss will be held at St. Joseph's Church, Newark, on Monday. Services will begin at 11 a.m., followed by the funeral at 12 noon. The church will be open for visitors throughout the day.

A memorial mass will be celebrated at 7 p.m. on Monday, and a reception will follow. Donations in memory of Father Boss can be made to the St. Joseph's Church parish fund.

cemetery Note—Mgr. William P. Lewis, chancellor of the Passaic Diocese, announced the funeral arrangements for Father Boss. The service will be held at St. Joseph's Church, Newark, at 11 a.m. on Monday. The church will be open for visitors throughout the day.

Parents Guild Formed in Montvale

PARK RIDGE—Mrs. J. A. Negri, president of the Mothers Guild of St. John the Baptist Parish, and Msgr. John J. Beauchamp, pastor, announced the formation of the Montvale Parents Guild. The guild will meet monthly, and its purpose is to promote the welfare of the children in the parish.

In addition to the monthly meetings, the guild will also organize various activities and events to bring the parents and children of the parish closer together. The guild is open to all parents of children attending the St. John the Baptist School.

The first meeting of the guild will be held on Tuesday, December 5th at 7 p.m. in the school auditorium. All parents are encouraged to attend and participate in the formation of the guild.

colley Note—Mrs. Negri expressed her gratitude to Msgr. Beauchamp for his support and guidance in the formation of the guild. She also thanked the parents who have already expressed interest in joining the guild.

Collegians Stage "Calamity Jane"

CALDWELL — The Collegians, of Caldwell College, will give the musical "Calamity Jane" this weekend. The show is being presented to raise funds for the benefit of the College scholarships fund and the planned new housing facilities.

The production of the musical is directed by Dr. J. James Dwyer, director of music at the College.

The cast includes many members of the Caldwell College drama group.

It's important to get the right size — with anything you buy. Think that's especially true when you're buying a new waist band for your home. If it is too snug there won't be enough room to move about comfortably. Be sure you always have enough water, wherever you want it. Choose a water heater that's big enough. (Think twice before you use electric water heaters.)

The WHOPPING TEENAGER

This loud, loud teenager in town can make you feel like an old man. Many people who suffer from this condition have been treated without success. However, a new treatment has been introduced that promises to be successful.

This treatment involves the use of a new drug that is effective in reducing the intensity of the loudness. It works by blocking the production of a hormone that is responsible for the loudness.

In addition, the treatment includes the use of a special device that helps to focus the patient's attention on the source of the loudness and helps to reduce the loudness of the teenager.

The success rate of this treatment is very high, with most patients reporting a significant reduction in loudness after just a few sessions. It is a safe and effective treatment that has been well-received by both patients and parents.

In conclusion, the WHOPPING TEENAGER is a condition that can be successfully treated with a new drug and a special device. With proper treatment, you can enjoy your home once again.
