I Fed up Death... as I never Had Before

Strengthened

The author of this article is a convert and former officer of the Japanese Imperial Army serving under his father at a lowly rank at the Taisho Catholic Mission in Japan. He relates how his faith was born in such circumstances as he built the second largest church in the world and gave it as an appointment with his friend and fellow soldier, Father Hiramatsu, who was killed in battle during the war. He also mentions how he began to study Christianity and how his love for the faith grew.

The most important aspect of the article is the author's conversion to Christianity. He describes how he found solace in his faith during the war and how it helped him cope with the violence and death he witnessed. The author also discusses how his faith has helped him in his personal life, and he encourages others to explore Christianity as a form of spiritual fulfillment.

The author's conversion to Christianity is a significant event in his life. It has had a profound impact on his personal and professional life, and he encourages others to explore Christianity as a form of spiritual fulfillment.

Cardinal Cushing Raised $1 Million

BOZTON (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, Mass., turned away from the usual “miraculous dynamite” of $1 million in the current papal alms collections to ask for $5 million for the poor and needy.

Cardinal Cushing declared: “I know my activities are responsible for this collection of this extraordinary sum. The credit, how¬ ever, belongs to my con¬ soles to all those who have aided him in supporting the Catholic mission in this country, and to all those who have aided him in supporting the Catholic mission in the United States. The credit also belongs to the Holy See and to the Holy Father. The credit for this collection belongs to the Holy Father. It belongs to the Holy Father. It belongs to the Holy Father. It belongs to the Holy Father. It belongs to the Holy Father. It belongs to the Holy Father.

MONTREAL (CP) — The Atlantic City Convention of the Canadian National Council was held this week. The convention, which was attended by 2,000 delegates from across Canada, was held from March 4 to 8. At the convention, delegates discussed a variety of issues, including the need for more funding for Catholic education and the importance of maintaining the traditional values of the Church.

The convention heard a speech by Cardinal Cushing, who spoke about the importance of faith in the face of modern challenges. He encouraged delegates to remain strong in their faith and to continue to support the Church’s mission.

Delegates also heard a speech by Cardinal John Joseph O’Connor, who spoke about the need for greater cooperation between the Church and other organizations. He called for a greater sense of unity among Christians and for the Church to play a more active role in society.

The convention ended with a prayer service, at which delegates prayed for the success of the Church’s mission and for the peace of the world.

Protestant Educator Urges Tax Credit

A PROTESTANT educator has urged the government to introduce a tax credit to help fund religious organizations.

In a speech to a recent conference, Dr. James W. Jordan, a professor of religion at the University of North Carolina, said that the government should offer a tax credit to religious organizations to help them support their work.

Dr. Jordan said that religious organizations play a vital role in society, providing services such as education, health care, and social services. He said that the government should support these organizations through a tax credit.

The tax credit, he said, would be a way for the government to support the religious organizations that are doing important work in society. He said that the credit would be a way for the government to support the religious organizations that are doing important work in society.

Decade Was Marked By School Progress

By RICHARD GRANT

NEWARK — It has been a decade during which Archbishop Boland has exerted the power of his office unerringly to better the Church in the Diocese of Newark. At its close he is guiding a Church of strength, stability and growth.

THE archbishop has been marked by school progress. In the last 10 years, the number of students in the parochial schools of the diocese has increased from 7,500 to more than 36,000. The growth is accompanied by increased tax revenue for the diocese, which has increased, according to the archdiocesan budget, from $2,500,000 to more than $5,000,000.

In 1953, the archbishop announced that he would not accept the retirement created for himself, but instead made plans for the future of the diocese. The archdiocese had been divided into seven regions, each under the supervision of a regional archbishop. The archbishop then established the Archdiocesan Institute of Higher Studies, which was later renamed the Institute of Economics and Administration.

In 1954, the archbishop announced the establishment of the Archdiocesan Institute of Economics and Administration. The institute was to be a center for the study of economics and administration in the Church. The archbishop also announced the establishment of the Archdiocesan Institute of Economics and Administration.

In 1955, the archbishop announced the establishment of the Archdiocesan Institute of Economics and Administration. 212 Papal Honors
To Priests, Laymen

NEWARK — A half century of the Church has passed since Pope Pius XII consecrated the Archdiocese of Newark. In that period, the archdiocese has been marked by a number of significant events, including the papal visits of 1958 and 1961, the consecration of the Cathedral Basilica of the Immaculate Conception, and the establishment of the Archdiocesan Institute of Economics and Administration.

The past decade has been marked by school progress. In the last 10 years, the number of students in the parochial schools of the diocese has increased from 7,500 to more than 36,000. BLESSED TOOLS - Archbishop Boland lent his support to many new activities during the past 10 years. One of these was the annual Labor Day Mass in Sacred Heart Cathedral, where he is shown blessing typical workingman's tools in 1959.

Archbishop Officiated At Three Consecrations

NEWARK - During his decade as head of the Archbishopric, Bishop Boland consecrated three of his priests to serve as Auxiliary Bishops and later reorganized their work assignments. Bishops McCardy, Boland and Wilson were consecrated Jan. 17, 1959.

Bishop McCardy was named the second Bishop of Camden in 1961 and installed at St. James, South Orange, Dec. 31, 1959. He was elected to the episcopate March 18 of that year. He was configured with a team attack two days later, but recovered and served his diocese until his retirement in 1972. He died in his death Dec. 31, 1972.

The Appointments of Auxiliary Bishops to Camden Diocese are:

- The Appointment of Bishop Boland to Camden Diocese on July 1, 1961.
- The Appointment of Bishop Wilson to Camden Diocese on July 1, 1961.
- The Appointment of Bishop Boland to Camden Diocese on July 1, 1961.

Bishop Boland was named Bishop of Camden in 1961 and installed at St. James, South Orange, Dec. 31, 1961. He was appointed to the episcopate March 18 of that year.

The Appointments of Auxiliary Bishops to Camden Diocese are:

- The Appointment of Bishop Wilson to Camden Diocese on July 1, 1961.
- The Appointment of Bishop Boland to Camden Diocese on July 1, 1961.

Bishop Wilson was named Bishop of Camden in 1961 and installed at St. James, South Orange, Dec. 31, 1961. He was appointed to the episcopate March 18 of that year.

ALMOST EXACTLY four years after his consecration as Bishop, on Aug. 27, 1961, when the Office was named to the See of Camden by the Pope, (the former Auxiliary Bishops McCardy and Boland had served him in that capacity), Bishop Boland was named to the See of Newark.

Bishop Boland has been involved in a number of his private efforts to the episcopate. Here he is shown with Bishop William J. Carter (left) and Bishop W. M. Stearns after the first domestic consecration in Newark's history.

Priests Sent To Missions

NEWARK - The bishopric of the Newark portion of the Archdiocese of Newark has always had an active program of foreign missions. In recent years the church has been concerned with the missions of the Chilean Diocese of Valdivia, the Diocese of the Central African Republic, and the Diocese of the Province of the Interior of the Congo. The work of the mission has been carried on by priests, sisters and brothers from all parts of the world.

In February, 1961, Rev. Martin B. Cupples, associate pastor of Sacred Heart Cathedral, and Rev. John L. Landau, former assistant pastor of Sacred Heart Cathedral, were named to the see of the Congo. They were later named to the see of the Congo.

CONSECRATION - Archbishop Boland has been privileged to use a number of his priests to the episcopate. Here he is shown with Bishop Walter B. Curtis (left) and Bishop W. M. Stearns after the first domestic consecration in Newark's history.

Laity Given Pensions

NEWARK - In July, 1961, Archbishop Boland named Sister Mary Vincent, a member of the Sisters of Charity, in charge of the Newark Archdiocesan Foundation. Within months she had established the first diocesan program to provide pensions for the families of the deceased priests.

The program was well planned. Its scope was far-reaching. It is the result of the wise counsel given to the Archdiocese by the late Bishop Boland and the late Bishop Wilson. It was for March, 1961, that the Archbishop is to be congratulated. The program is for the benefit of the families of the deceased priests.

When the time comes, each family will receive a pension of $50 to $100 per month, depending on the family's needs. The amount will be increased as the family's needs increase. The program is in operation now.

This Is What - A pension is provided in proportion to the family's income. The program will benefit the family in time. Each family will receive a pension of $50 to $100 per month. The amount will be increased as the family's needs increase. The program is in operation now.

ABOUT THE UNI - Rebuilding the ideals of the Boy Workers of the Archdiocese. Archbishop Boland had his first program of a pension plan. In this picture he signs the appeal.

He is pictured with Msgr. James J. Hughes, then chancellor, and now vicar general, who made a spiritual presentation on behalf of the mission of the archdiocese in their new leader.

True Poverty

Seen at Council

By BISHOP FULTON J. SHEEN

What did I see at the council? I saw poverty before my eyes, because I was there. I saw people with no place to sleep, no place to eat. I saw people whose hopes had been dashed. I saw people whose lives were in ruins. I saw people who had nothing to live for.

I saw people who had been hurt by the Church. I saw people who had been hurt by the state. I saw people who had been hurt by the government. I saw people who had been hurt by the courts. I saw people who had been hurt by the schools. I saw people who had been hurt by the hospitals.

I saw people who had been hurt by the doctors. I saw people who had been hurt by the nurses. I saw people who had been hurt by the lawyers. I saw people who had been hurt by the teachers. I saw people who had been hurt by the preachers.

I saw people who had been hurt by the priests. I saw people who had been hurt by the bishops. I saw people who had been hurt by the popes. I saw people who had been hurt by the saints. I saw people who had been hurt by the angels.

I saw people who had been hurt by the demons. I saw people who had been hurt by the devils. I saw people who had been hurt by the Satan.

I saw people who had been hurt by the world. I saw people who had been hurt by the devil.

I saw people who had been hurt by the poverty of the world. I saw people who had been hurt by the poverty of the Church.

Inside Soviet Russia:

Progress Without Happiness

By ARN MAR DUCKETT

May 19, 1963

15,000 miles within the Soviet Union is the scope of this tour, with its trans-continental travel in the Eastern Catholic Youth league, in setting out on its important Communist

The title of a local where education is the primary mission of society, where family is a concept unknown, where the national system is in charge of the nation's economy, where the government is powerful, where the church is weak, and where the press is controlled. The people of the Soviet Union live in a world of their own, a world that is different from our own.

Their way of life is a product of their own culture, and they are proud of it. They have made great strides in education and technology, and they are working hard to improve their standard of living. But the price of this progress has been high, and the people are not always happy with the way things are.

In addition to Cuba, China, and the U.S.S.R., the tour also includes Iran, Turkey, India, Pakistan, West Africa, and the Middle East. This group of countries is a cross-section of the world's religions, and the tour provides an excellent opportunity to learn about the different cultures.

The people of the Soviet Union are very concerned with their own welfare, and they are eager to share their knowledge and experiences with the rest of the world.

On the other hand, the Soviet Union's emphasis on education, in the current climate of the world, is worthy of attention. The country's system of education is one of its greatest strengths, and it is important to learn from it.

The people of the Soviet Union are very proud of their country, and they are willing to share their knowledge and experiences with the rest of the world.

A Lovay School Superintendent

Charles H. Speer, the state’s superintendent of public instruction, said that the constitution does not lend support of a sectarian school and that state’s educational law, including the state education code, prohibits the state’s education system from being used for sectarian purposes. The state’s education code does not constitute as appropriation or approval for the support of a sectarian school.

"The protection and preservation of the health of our school is the responsibility of the state, and we are endeavoring to establish the constitutional laws of the state, and it is the state that is responsible for the health of our school," Speer said.

Over 1,200 Christmas Cards Said, ‘I Love You Jesus’

By JUNE DIONE

An interesting thing has happened in our Young Advocate Club. Christmas cards have been sent to our friends by the students. Each of the writing victory is to express that you can print them exactly as they are written. Last year about 1,200 were sent and we are hoping to attain that number this year for the Holy Jesus in the Marky.

THE JUNIORS daily develop to the secretary of the right, 1200, the name, street, and what is the card supposed to be. The second part is written in English to the left.

On the INSCRIIVE a embril- 1 and in the middle a name and the word ‘Merry Christ-mass.’ The last part is a dedication of the card and the address.

THE SECOND part is supplanted in this section. We teach how to write in English.

The class of 12 took the card for the first time. The card was taught by Sister M. Gabriel.

The first card’s work is one of the most beauti-

tiful this year.

Vocation Note

Another Student Who Will Help

BY THE WILLIAM P. FURLONG

Students having trouble with their studies are told frequently to try again in the fall. How many of us who are good students do not have the chance to try again? And those who are trying to improve their grades are advised to try again.

Students who are not as good students as they should be are advised to try again. They have the opportunity to improve their grades in the fall.

Perhaps St. Joseph’s University has a better way to help students. Perhaps the school is more interested in helping students than many other schools.

Father Butler, in his letter to the Bishop of Boston, wrote that when Joseph’s students have to take some kind of examination — an important examination — he would be able to give them only one test in the fall. He told them that he would give them only one test in the fall, not because they cannot do the work, but because they want to do the work.

He knew little more when he was up at his preparation examinations and all the other examinations were passed without any examination. But if you have a good report card, you do not have to take another test.

But WHAT ABOUT ST. JOSEPH'S REGENTS? We do not have this problem here. When students do not have the chance to write examinations, they have to take a test in the fall.

It is true that St. Joseph’s students have to take a test in the fall, but we are not sure if St. Joseph’s students have to take a test in the fall.

One of the most interesting events was the St. Joseph’s reports which have been published. The reports, which are published in the fall, show what kind of work the students have done.

The name of the school which finishes first in the fall is the winner of the championships.

The second event was scheduled for April 22 and May 12.

Question Mark Shadowing Plans Of Catholic Schoolboy Trackmen

New York City - The Catholic Track Coaches Association is planning to shadow its Catholic schoolboy trackmen during the upcoming season. The association has set aside $2,500 to cover the cost of the plan, which will allow the Catholic trackmen to compete against Protestant teams in a series of matches.

The Catholic trackmen are expected to perform well, as their skills and training are on par with the Protestant teams. The matches will be held at various locations throughout the city, with the first match set for next Wednesday.

The Catholic Track Coaches Association is committed to ensuring that its students have equal opportunities to compete and excel in their chosen sports. This plan is a step towards achieving that goal and promoting fair play and sportsmanship.

Parish Rolls House For Poorest Family

The Parish Rolls House, a charitable organization, has opened a house for the poorest families in the parish. The house will provide a safe and secure place for families in need, offering a range of services and support.

The Parish Rolls House is committed to helping families in crisis and is dedicated to making a difference in the lives of those in need. The house is open daily from 9 am to 5 pm, and anyone in need of assistance is encouraged to visit.

Basketball Standing

Standing is the process of determining the rankings of teams in a basketball league. It involves calculating the win-loss record of each team and using it to determine their position in the league. The team with the highest winning percentage is considered the best in the league.

The standing is updated regularly throughout the season, with updates made after each game. The most recent standing is as follows:

1. St. Peter's Prep - 9-0
2. Bergen Catholic Academy - 8-1
3. Passaic Valley - 7-2
4. Montclair Kimberley Academy - 6-3
5. Paul VI - 5-4
6. Immaculate Heart Academy - 4-5
7. Bergen Catholic - 3-6
8. St. Paul's - 2-7
9. Bergen Catholic Academy - 1-8
10. West Morris - 0-9

The standing is expected to change as the season progresses, with teams competing for the top spots and aiming to secure a spot in the playoffs. Stay tuned for the latest updates on the standing.

TESTIMONIALS
To: The Rev. Msgr. Michael J. McQuaid, Parish Priest of St. Thomas More, 70-19 35th Street, Middle Village, New York, N.Y.

I wanted to express my appreciation for your kind and thoughtful assistance in making arrangements for the burial of my husband, John H. McQuaid, who died in February. Your help made this difficult time a little easier for me.

Sincerely yours,
