School Bill Too Inclusive, Catholic Church Charges

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Archbishop Patrick J. O'Hara, Secretary of the Department of Education of the Church, today said that the proposed school bill for the District of Columbia, introduced in the Senate by Senators S. Wadsworth (R-Wis.), F. N. Smith (R-Mont.) and S. M. Proctor (D-Miss.), was too inclusive.

"It involves God given as a religious entity," he said. "The bill would allow any church school to have religious instruction and any school teacher to be a religious entity. It would also allow any religious entity to teach in any school, whether public or private."

Pope Again Explains Purpose of Vatican Council to Cardinals

By STEPHEN J. SCHLAFSTEIN

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Pope today explained the purpose of the Vatican Council to a group of American cardinals. The meeting was held at the Papal Summer Palace of Castelgandolfo, near Rome.

Pope John XXIII, who is presiding over the council, said that the purpose of the council is to promote peace and understanding among Christians of all traditions.

He said that the council is a opportunity for the Church to reaffirm its commitment to the values of peace and understanding, and to work towards a world in which all people can live in harmony and dignity.

The Pope also emphasized the importance of the council in promoting the spirit of ecumenism, and in encouraging dialogue and cooperation among Christians.

He said that the council is an opportunity for the Church to work towards a world in which all people, regardless of their faith, can live in peace and harmony.

The Pope concluded his remarks by expressing his hope that the council will be a time of reflection, prayer, and dialogue, and that it will lead to a world in which all people can live in peace and harmony.

The Pope remarked that the council is a time for the Church to renew its commitment to the values of peace and understanding, and to work towards a world in which all people can live in harmony and dignity.

Warn on Effects of Tourism

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — The Holy See has expressed concern over the social and religious implications posed by tourism.

The Vatican declined to give further details on a letter written on behalf of Pope John by Cardinal Carlo Maria Viganò, Apostolic Nuncio to the U.S., to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, about the implications of tourism.

The document, according to a Vatican official, states that the Holy See is concerned about the social and religious implications of tourism.

A further official said the letter was addressed to the United Nations, but declined to give further details. The Vatican has not yet decided whether to release the letter.

Peace at Clemson

Without killings, without bloodshed, without a single bomb dropped, the nation was relieved in the School of Architecture at Clemson College, South Carolina.

The nation breathed a sigh of relief, the question of a Negro college in the South, which had been so controversial, was apparently resolved.

Without the presence of Harvey, the College was more peaceful, more in harmony, more serene, and more Christian.

We have nothing but praise for the authorities who saved the peaceful atmosphere. The only controversy resulted from the students and the staff, who, in the name of freedom, were daily denying to others the privilege of prayer.

Harvey Gaunt was not accepted by the 8,200 students at Clemson, largely because he would not have acquired deep roots. Their institutions of religious tradition were unappealing.

The gymnastics of the College would be the turning point, but we were afraid that the religious elements can still create major storms.

Another Parochial Aid Ally?

In recent weeks, attempts to introduce federal aid to parochial schools have been underway. Although there was no negative reaction, the issue was not pursued further.

AND NOW COMES another voice -- the Council of Protestant Colleges and Universities which met in Atlantic City last week. The council called for a $1 billion tax credit for 500,000 students.

The council, which is concerned with the religious education of children, has recommended the establishment of a national center for religious education and training.

The council's statement was issued in part to counteract the influence of the Catholic church in the field of education.

Valentines, Good or Bad

Valentine's Day is the day of a star who was shot in the eye by a girl in New York City, according to the National Catholic Daughters of America.

The day is celebrated in various ways, such as sending cards or flowers, depending on the person's preference.

We may disagree about whether the custom is good or bad, but there is no doubt that this day is a popular one.

One may choose to celebrate by exchanging cards, gifts, or spending time with loved ones.

Bride-to-Be Criticizes 'Big Wedding' Demands

BY REV. JOHN E. THOMAS, S.J.
Assistant Professor of Sociology, St. Louis University.

Why must a girl be forced by society to have a large church wedding? If she doesn't have a formal dinner, wedding band, carriage, bridesmaids, 1800 wedding dress, she is considered cheap. Before the wedding, most bride-fathers finance the wedding from their savings and others. Yet the Church is constant on the Nuptial Mass, so the real trouble, I'm beginning to think is an obsession in many a heart, comparing persons, possessions, and property.

The faithful exaggerate these consistencies and necessities, and the result is such that the church becomes the subject of ridicule, not uncommonly, among the Protestants, in some parts of this country.

Most of us would agree that the Church has a right to express an opinion on certain things, but not on marriage, which is a matter of personal concern to the individual. It is difficult to see this if we consider what a personal institution it is.

The Church teaches marriage is a sacrament and not a personal institution. It is the nature of marriage that it is a sacrament. In order for it to be a sacrament, the Church must have the right to express an opinion on it.

Reviews of Current Films

By William E. Moore

Times of Year (Flash adult). The situation is analogous to that of "The Red Forest," where a group of young men are cut off from the outside world by the war. A small band of young Vietnamese survive the war and, when they finally emerge, find that the world has changed. The group is led by a young man who has been away from the war for a long time. He is a disillusioned and bitter individual who has lost his faith in the cause of the revolution. The war has left him with a sense of hopelessness and despair.

In addition to the spiritual aspects of the novel, there are scenes of intense action and drama. The war itself is depicted as a brutal and bloody conflict, and the underlying spiritual forces are not easily discerned. The novel is a powerful and moving account of the struggle for freedom and the human spirit in the face of adversity. It is a deeply moving and memorable work of literature.
Atlanta Archdiocese Reviving More Active Role for Deacons

ATLANTA, Ga. (NC) — Commissioners who met yesterday at Holy Trinity Church to discuss ways to revitalize the Deaconate in the Archdiocese of Atlanta have decided that deacon seminarians will soon be able to distribute Holy Communion, lead liturgical assemblies and serve in other roles not usually performed by the altar servers.

"AN 'ACTIVE', enthusiastic, leading role of the deacons has always been provided for in the liturgy," said Father John R. McElroy, auxiliary bishop of Atlanta, in an interview. "But in recent years it is as if the deacons had disengaged themselves from the actual work of the Church. Now, the Church has determined that a full, authentic, liturgical role for the deacons will be restored."

The 15-member Commission, which is made up of deacons, priests, religious and lay people, is preparing a plan for the assignment of the deacons in the archdiocese. The plan will be presented to the archbishop for approval.

The commission has been meeting weekly since last month to discuss ways to revitalize the Deaconate. The group has decided that deacons will be assigned to parishes in the archdiocese and will be responsible for leading the liturgical assemblies and serving in other roles not usually performed by the altar servers.

"The deacons have always been a part of the Church," said Father McElroy. "But they have been marginalized in recent years. Now, the Church has determined that the deacons should be returned to their rightful place in the Church."

The commission is also considering ways to train deacons to perform their new roles. The group will be meeting with schools of theology to discuss ways to train deacons to perform their new roles.

The commission has also been meeting with the archbishop to discuss ways to revitalize the Deaconate. The group will be presenting its plan to the archbishop for approval.

Why Do We Pull Up the Covers?

By June Driver

Last week in a North Jersey little girl had the littlest spelling bee and was able to share her knowledge and skills with a larger audience. She wrote words, studied them, and prepared for the big day. Her teacher, Mrs. Mary Thompson, had spent weeks preparing her for the competition.

The little girl, who lives in a rural area, had been preparing for the spelling bee for weeks. She practiced every day, and her parents were proud of her efforts. Mrs. Thompson was impressed with her dedication and hard work.

There was a lot of excitement and anticipation in the little girl's family as the day approached. The spelling bee was held in the local school auditorium, and the little girl was one of the younger participants. She was determined to do her best and make her family proud.

The little girl's mother and father were there to support her, and they were amazed by her ability to spell words that they had never heard before. They were proud of her and the effort she had put into preparing for the event.

In the end, the little girl won the spelling bee and became the youngest winner in the history of the event. She was thrilled with the victory, and her family was overjoyed. The little girl's mother and father were proud of her accomplishments and her dedication to learning.

The little girl's victory was a result of her hard work and determination. She had practiced every day, and her parents were proud of her efforts. Mrs. Thompson was impressed with her dedication and hard work, and the little girl had proven that with hard work and determination, anything is possible.
Pirate Relay Team Goes After Double

NEW YORK — Same old University's ten-mile relay team went out to defend its title in the annual New York A.C. games run in Hoboken, N.J. tomorrow. It is the first of a metropolitan, inter-association meet.

The Pirate team, which featured George (Budd) Swain and John J. Flaherty, will be among the favorites.

Pirates, Swain and Flaherty will be in the state's best relay, with the New York A.C. team and the University of Pennsylvania team.

The relay, which is one of the most popular events of the season, was started in 1943. The Pirate team, which has won four of the last five meets, is expected to take home the title this year.

Pontiff Offers Prayer For All Missions

"O Lord, look on these little children of yours - priests, bishops, and men who serve out of love: crown them with the glory of your face. In the midst of the frightening events that have taken place in the world, let them know that you are their refuge and their strength. Help them in the exercises of their priestly vocations and let them be an example of service to all men. Amen."

Bishop Stanton at St. Joseph's

The Bishop stated that the Pontiff will make an appeal on behalf of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith on Feb. 17. This appeal is to be made public on Mar. 11.

As Long As You Live

"At the end of his life, St. Francis de Sales wrote, 'A man is not tidy before he is tidy and is not tidy after he is tidy.' Through the grace of God, a man may not only be tidy but also be tidy."

Brotherhood! Of Blood

ALGERIA (NC) — At a conference in New Orleans on the theme of brotherhood, by restoration and community, the United States Conference for Blood Donations, held in New Orleans, was attended by the Blood Donor Foundation of the United States.

There was an appeal issued by the United Center on Charleston to organize a "blood drive" through the Charleston center on Charleston.

Archbishop Daniel, Auxiliary Bishop of Charleston, and Father Francis, president of the United Center Blood Donor Foundation, who gave blood at the center, described the activities from the Charleston center.

A similar appeal was issued by the United Center on Charleston to organize a "blood drive" through the Charleston center.

IT IS TRUE that every effort should be made to maintain the population of the United States. It is not true that every effort should be made to maintain the population of the United States.

Not with Jesus at one's side, with this grace in one's soul, each day becomes light, nor is one's hope for tomorrow is a much smaller number of other children eligible for adoption in the United States.

The United States Department of Justice, in its 1972 report on the adoption of children by the states, said: "the number of children eligible for adoption in the United States is far larger than the number of children eligible for adoption in the United States."
NEW YORK — A good many of these people begin to feel that the system of education in the United States is not working as it should be. The problem of education is one of the most important problems facing the nation today.

How to Keep a Building Young

BY JOSEPH E. THOMAS

There's a need for a new building and a new custodian to take care of it. Here's how it's done.

An architect, a general construction contract, and a few people in between agreed that if such a building were to be made and the new building was made, it would be the work of a great opportunity.

THEY AGREED that the new building would be Of Belleville, and James Tyr

somebody out there.

ALL THREE AGREED that it would be a new building and a new a custodian,

TRACY AGREED that was a custodian,

Morris Catholics Spent $4.5 Million on Building in ’62

New new buildings were dedicated by the Archdiocese of Newark. The newly industrial buildings were more than twice the previous year’s total — and at least 10 more are in various stages of planning or construction.

St. Mary’s in Westfield, a Church of the Holy Cross Parish in Rahway, will be completed by spring. Plans for a new parish church in Bernardsville are being made.

DECEMBER 31, 1962

It was a banner year for the Catholics of Morris County, as a total of 11 new buildings were completed or dedicated.

February 14, 1943 THE ADVOCATE New Jersey
A Church Specially ‘Theirs’

By Anne War Buckley

Churches often have a close bond with their parishioners. When the people of the Parish of Saint Patrick in New York City felt the need for a new church building, they turned to their own hands to build the structure within which their church would be housed. The building committee was comprised of a group of parishioners who, through hard work and dedication, were able to construct the church with their own hands. The church was dedicated in 1935, and it has since become a symbol of the strength and resilience of the parishioners who built it.

The church was designed by the architect Joseph S. McNamara, who was also the architect of the nearby Church of St. Patrick. The building committee, led by Msgr. William P. Lawlor, worked closely with McNamara to ensure that the church was built to their specifications. The building was constructed in a period of just six months, during which time the parishioners were involved in every aspect of the project.

The church was dedicated on June 7, 1935, and it is still in use today. It is a symbol of the strong bond between the parishioners and their church, and it serves as a reminder of the important role that churches play in the lives of the people who belong to them.

The church is located at 231 Greenwood Avenue, Midland Park, N. J., and it is open to the public. For more information, please call 562-6727.

Union in Boom Category With 11 Buildings

For the first time in its 56 years The Advocate has been published in Rahway, Union County, New Jersey, and we are proud to take this occasion to acknowledge the number of buildings completed in one year. During 1963 there were four new structures completed for the Archdiocese of Newark, each at a cost between $300,000 and $730,000. Each of these buildings will contribute to the growth of the Catholic population in the diocese and will be the result of careful planning and construction.

CHURCHES

St. Joseph, Rahway

St. Joseph, a parochial church in Rahway, has been dedicated to the service of the Catholic community in the area. The church was designed by architects Bollard and Associates and constructed by the firm of Kastel. The church is a modern structure with a capacity of 1,000 people. It is expected to accommodate the growing population of the area.

St. Rose, Elizabeth

St. Rose Church in Elizabeth is another example of modern church architecture. The church was designed by architects Kastel and constructed by the firm of Kastel. The church is a modern structure with a capacity of 1,500 people. It is expected to accommodate the growing population of the area.

St. John the Baptist, Elizabeth

St. John the Baptist Church in Elizabeth is another example of modern church architecture. The church was designed by architects Kastel and constructed by the firm of Kastel. The church is a modern structure with a capacity of 1,500 people. It is expected to accommodate the growing population of the area.

Schools

Linden K-12 School

The Linden K-12 School is another example of modern educational architecture. The school was designed by architects Kastel and constructed by the firm of Kastel. The school is a modern structure with a capacity of 2,000 students. It is expected to accommodate the growing population of the area.

Linden High School

The Linden High School is another example of modern educational architecture. The school was designed by architects Kastel and constructed by the firm of Kastel. The school is a modern structure with a capacity of 2,000 students. It is expected to accommodate the growing population of the area.

Catholics of Essex Complete 60 Buildings in 6 Years

The construction of new buildings for the benefit of the Roman Catholic Church in Essex County has been a significant undertaking in recent years. This article highlights the completion of 60 buildings within a six-year span, showcasing the commitment of the community to expanding and improving facilities for religious and educational purposes.

The projects have included the expansion of existing buildings and the construction of new ones, catering to the growing needs of the parishioners. These buildings have been designed to accommodate various activities, ranging from religious services to educational programs, ensuring that the spiritual and educational needs of the community are met.

The list includes contributions from several organizations and individuals, demonstrating the collaborative effort involved in such undertakings. The financial support from parishes, congregations, and other community members has been crucial in making these projects a reality.

The completion of these buildings not only enhances the religious and educational opportunities available to the community but also reflects the dedication of the Catholic community in Essex County to preserving and promoting the faith.

For more information on the completed projects or to learn about ongoing developments, please contact the Catholic Diocese of Newark or visit their official website.
COOPERATIVE SUPPLY SERVICES
Purchasing Agency for Catholic Institutions in the Archdiocese of Newark and the Diocese of Paterson, New Jersey

It has been a pleasure to cooperate with the priests, religious and lay people who are in charge of purchasing for our Catholic institutions in the Archdiocese of Newark and the Diocese of Paterson. We are very grateful to them for the confidence they have placed in us in allowing us to purchase equipment and commodities for them.

In helping them to extend their purchasing dollars a bit further, thereby allowing them to help more who come to them for assistance, we feel we are participating in the great charity that they are performing. We pledge that we shall try at all times to do the most that we know to do.

A School's Second Life

BY NO GRANT ROUSHEL

ROUSHEL — in a brief three and a half years, Roselle Catholic has risen from the ashes of a three-story brick building to become a modern, two-story school. It is the result of a gradual development that has been going on for some years. In the fall of 1959, the Roselle Catholic students were housed in a temporary building on St. Joseph Ave. in Roselle. This building was designed by architects and was built to accommodate the growing student body. It was not large enough to house all the students, so additional classrooms were added in later years. The school has undergone several renovations and additions since then, including a new gymnasium and a new library. Today, Roselle Catholic is a thriving school with over 250 students enrolled. The school offers a variety of programs and extracurricular activities, including athletics, music, and theater. The school is proud of its students and their accomplishments, and is dedicated to providing a quality education for all its students.
Hudson Completes 2, 10 More in Works

Only two new buildings were completed last week for the Catholics of Hudson County in 1963, but 10 more buildings were approved last week in all parts of the state. These projects were approved in Union City and at an auditorium-gymnasium in New Jersey Episcopal Church. The latter was the only project to be approved during the institution's 75th anniversary.

Altenburg's last project, a parish hall in the city of New Jersey, was completed last week. Hammond organ was also installed in the new building. The organ was a gift from the parish, which also donated $10,000 toward the cost of the building.

The church's new building includes a large auditorium-gymnasium, a kitchen, and a music room. The organ is located in the music room, which is adjacent to the auditorium-gymnasium.

The church is located in the heart of the city and is a popular destination for concerts and other events. The organ is not only used for church services, but also for community events and performances.

By ANTONETTE TUMANELLI

A total of 29 high school projects made constructive progress in 1962. The largest represents a new high school to be built and to be named after the late St. Joseph's Academy principal, Mrs. Josephine Contant...

The 29 figures shown as new under construction are the year's total of 14 projects, and 15 per cent of those proposed. The new high school building projects is a total of 20 million dollars under construction, an 18 million in the planning stage, and a total of 40 million dollars under consideration. These figures are for the new high school buildings, excluding the 10 million dollars under construction, 1.5 million in the planning stage, and 5 million under...
Old and New in Lyndhurst

By ED WOODWARD, LYNDHURST

The new church of St. Michael's Parish is expected to be completed in 1963. This church is part of a 150-year-old history of St. Michael's Parish, and the new church has been constructed on the same site as the old church.

The old church was built in 1813 and served the community for over a century. It was located on the corner of Park Avenue and 7th Street, and was known for its beautiful acoustics and community center. Today, the church is a historical landmark and a symbol of Lyndhurst's rich heritage.

The new church, however, is a modern structure designed to meet the needs of the growing community. It features a large auditorium, a modern kitchen, and a community center. The construction of the new church was a significant project for the parishioners, who raised the necessary funds through various fundraising events.

The new church will be dedicated on Sunday, February 14th, 1963. It will be the centerpiece of the community, and a symbol of the continued commitment of the people of St. Michael's Parish to serve the community.

New Convents: How Sisters Live

By JUNE DUYER

Convents are famous for the one who wants to create a world where religious people can live their lives in peace and quiet. Convents provide a haven for those who wish to escape the hustle and bustle of modern society.

But what makes a convent unique? What sets them apart from other religious communities? This article will explore the different aspects of convent life and how they contribute to the overall experience.

The atmosphere in a convent is serene, with little noise or disturbance. The sisters spend their days in prayer, study, and work. They may engage in various activities, such as teaching, nursing, or serving the community.

Another unique aspect of convent life is the importance placed on simplicity. The sisters live in modest surroundings, with basic necessities and little奢华. This helps them focus on their spiritual growth and maintain humility.

In addition, the convent community is close-knit. Sisters work together as a team, with each member contributing their unique talents and abilities. This fosters a sense of unity and cooperation.

Overall, convent life offers a peaceful and tranquil environment where religious individuals can pursue their spiritual goals and serve others.
