Christians Fear Malayan Proposal

By REV. PATRICK O'CONNOR

NOW News (May 21) — Malay Christians fear that the making of the national anthem of Malaya (North Borneo) will push them to convert or face penalties. Due to the rising tension, the Malay Christians are being advised to focus on providing education and religion to the children of their churches.

PM: The presence of the new law in churches is not free to change, teachers of their churches are not free to change.

Public funds are used to build mosques and to pay Islamic teachers and officials.

There are large numbers of Christians in Malaya's armed forces, but the government is not free to change them.

Christians of the non-Muslim Federation of Malaya (CUMF) do not allow the government to say anything about their rights in the public schools, but if they do a few, the government should be allowed to call the attention of the government.

Christians of Sarawak, who have taken the action of the new law, feel that they are more like that and the government should not do a few more.

Among supporters of the new law, there are many that have put their children to mission schools, but they are not free to change.

It is illegal for Christians to go to church-building. In the last year, the government has been saying that churches such as these are not free to change.

When Governor Romanus, who was the one who said that the government would say anything about the fact, put 14 times every year, in each church, the government should be allowed to say anything about the fact.

After the order to go to church, the government will not change.

Women at Work

When Mrs. Jane Doe reports for work on a Monday morning she is in no other than her usual state of affairs, are as one of the millions of women who now hold jobs. This is also true for the many men who have left the home for the same reason. The economic independence of women brings certain advantages to society. She is no longer dependent on her husband for her livelihood, but is able to support herself and her family.

Aspects of Social Justice

Social justice is not a virtual term, but is a reality that exists in the everyday life of people. In the struggle for justice, the work of those who make up the human community is essential. The struggle for justice is the struggle for the realization of the social order.

Why Catholic Associations?

Advocacy of the presence of a person or group of people in a political or social context to represent their interests. The Catholic Church has a long history of social action, involving oneself in social movements to promote justice and the common good. The Church's advocacy in the past has included the fight against slavery, the fight for civil rights, and the fight against poverty and hunger.

Reds Distor Papal Message

By JOHN F. BURBANE

Pope John's encyclical, Pacem in Terris is a deeply important message on social problems. The central theme is peace, and what is required for peace is justice. The Church has always been concerned with the problems of society, and this encyclical is a clear expression of the Church's teaching on this subject.

Intentions for May

Lord doesn’t make a child sick — I had a serious illness when I was 12 and made a sort of promise that I would enter a convent if I got well. I tried at the time, but since that time I have no desire to enter a convent. After nine years the promise still holds. I have been in my love several times and I eventually love the boy. Is God telling me that I promised to serve him another way? I read in a book that God doesn’t keep, so I’m still very confused.

The book was right: God doesn’t keep. The fact that you are still confused doesn’t mean you were pretentious. It is not a matter of rights but of your own situation.

How can you be sure your promise is legal? You have to understand the conditions under which a promise is made. If you promised to give a child to God when he gave it to you, you have a moral obligation. But if you promised to give a child to God when you were sick, and you became well, you are not morally bound to keep your promise. If you feel the conditions have changed, you can always change your promise. But if you feel you still have the same condition, you can keep your promise. It is a matter of conscience and intention.

The good Lord has never been known to break his promises.
Pope stresses pastoral care of tourists, vacationers at resorts

In a recent interview with The Advocate, Pope John XXIII emphasized the importance of pastoral care for tourists and vacationers at resorts. The Pope highlighted the need for religious leaders to be watchful and present in these settings, as many people may seek comfort and guidance during their travels.

"It is crucial that priests and religious be present in tourist destinations," the Pope stated. "They can offer spiritual support, prayer, and guidance to those who may be seeking solace and meaning in their lives." The Pope went on to say that resort areas are often places where people confront their innermost thoughts and feelings, and as such, they provide ideal opportunities for spiritual growth.

The Pope also spoke about the role of the faithful in these settings. "We should all be reminded of our responsibility to be watchful and present for those in need, even when we are away from our homes," he said. "We should remember that the Church is not limited to the walls of our parishes, but rather it is a presence in every corner of the earth."

How Did That Ferris Wheel Sneak Into the City?

By JUNE DUNVE

IT'S only been three days but the new-look ferris wheel is already a big hit. It has brought a touch of amusement to the city, complementing the shops and restaurants of the downtown area. The wheel, located at the intersection of Main and Oak Streets, is being enjoyed by all ages. Parents have been seen pushing their children in the cars, while older individuals use the wheel for sightseeing.

The wheel, which has been newly constructed, offers a unique view of the city from its elevated position. Visitors can enjoy panoramic views of the surrounding area, including the bustling streets below. The wheel is powered by a 100-horsepower motor and can accommodate 24 passengers at a time, with each ride lasting approximately 20 minutes.

Local residents express excitement about the new addition to the cityscape. "It's a great way to spend an afternoon," said Ms. Johnson, a long-time resident of the area. "I've already been on it twice and I'm planning to take my family this weekend." Others agree, noting the novelty and entertainment value of the ferris wheel.

Meanwhile, the city's public works department is busy ensuring the smooth operation of the wheel. "Our maintenance team is on duty to keep everything running smoothly," said Mr. Smith, the department head. "We're addressing any issues promptly to ensure the safety and enjoyment of our visitors.

Despite some initial concerns, the ferris wheel is proving to be a hit and is expected to become a regular feature of the city's landscape. It has already become a popular photo spot, with many visitors capturing the moment on their smartphones.

The ferris wheel is part of the city's efforts to revitalize its downtown area, attracting more visitors and boosting local businesses. "We're very excited about this new addition," said Mr. Johnson, the city's mayor. "It's a great way to showcase our beautiful city and bring in new revenue for local businesses.

As the weekend approaches, the ferris wheel is expected to draw even more visitors. "We're looking forward to another busy weekend," said Mr. Smith. "It's been an exciting three days so far, and we're confident that the wheel will continue to be a hit."

Small Gift Will Support Catechist for a Month

An East African missionary working in the vast African continent includes 120,000 Catholics. He needs help to reach the many who are in the process of becoming Catholics. Among these are many who have little, if any, education in their own countries. They need help in learning the language and the Christian faith. The Holy See has established the East African Mission Board to provide assistance to these missionaries.

A small gift from our readers will help defray the costs of training these missionaries. Contributions may be made to the East African Mission Board, P.O. Box 135, New York, N.Y. 10026.

Padre Pio's Daily Study
"Given to Prayer and Penance"

By James C. Welnell
S.M. Giovanni Longo, M.D.

"Padre Pio for pray," so said the saint.
"What's next? It's time to study!"

I believe that Padre Pio would approve of the current study, the topic of prayer and penance. This brief article will highlight the importance of prayer and penance in the life of Padre Pio and how it relates to modern day spirituality.

Prayer has been a central theme in Padre Pio's life. He was known to spend hours each day in prayer, often kneeling before the Blessed Sacrament. His prayers were centered around the desire for perfection and the need for God's grace to overcome his own weaknesses.

Penance, on the other hand, was a way for Padre Pio to express his remorse for his sins and seek forgiveness. He was known to confess his sins frequently and to take penance as a way of purification.

It is important to note that prayer and penance are not just private acts, but are meant to be practiced in community. Padre Pio often led community prayer sessions and encouraged others to do the same.

Today, prayer and penance continue to be important practices in the spiritual life. They provide a way to connect with God, to seek forgiveness, and to grow closer to Christ. As Padre Pio once said, "Prayer is the first step towards sanctification and penance is the way of sanctification."

Let us remember the words of Padre Pio and strive to give ourselves to prayer and penance as a way to grow closer to God and to deepen our faith.
