Pastoral Aims Stressed at Bishop's Installation

By ED GRANT

PATERNALISM—Has often been shown in the life and work of Bishop John A. Rodi, now-retired head of the Archdiocese of Newark. Like his predecessor and spiritual father, Archbishop John J. McCloskey, who died recently at the age of 89, Bishop Rodi is a man of many parts and functions. This was made evident in his address to the Pastoral Council of the Archdiocese of Newark, which met on Monday in New York City. The Council, which has met once a year since its formation, is made up of the clergy of the Archdiocese and representatives of the various Catholic organizations in the Archdiocese. The meeting was held in the Roman Catholic Church of the Holy Trinity, located at 219 West 50th Street.

The BISHOP had been invited to address the Council on the question of pastoral work in the Archdiocese. He said that the Council had been formed to give him an opportunity to consult with the clergy and lay people of the Archdiocese and to learn from them about the problems facing the Church in the Archdiocese. Cardinal Lerner Outlines Council Tasks

Following is the text of an interview with Cardinal Lerner, a member of the Council of Cardinals, regarding the Second Vatican Council. The interview was conducted by the New York Times for this department.

Cardinal Lerner: The Second Vatican Council, like all other councils of the Church, has a basically consultative role. Its decrees are not the law, but they are the Church's magisterium. The pope, in consultation with the council, defines the Church's position on questions of faith and morals. The council is also concerned with the Church's organization, its life, and its activities.

The New York Times: What is the significance of the council in the life of the Church?

Cardinal Lerner: The council is significant because it brings together bishops from all parts of the world to discuss the Church's problems and to define its teaching. It is a means by which the pope can express the Church's teaching on various issues. The council is also a means by which the pope can consult with his fellow bishops on matters of general concern.

The New York Times: What are the main tasks of the council?

Cardinal Lerner: The main tasks of the council are to define the Church's teaching on various issues, to discuss the Church's organization, and to consider the Church's activities. The council also has the task of examining the state of the Church and making recommendations for its improvement.

The New York Times: What is the role of the pope in the council?

Cardinal Lerner: The pope is the head of the council. He is responsible for the direction of the council and for the formulation and presentation of its decrees. The pope also has the responsibility of interpreting the council's teaching and of implementing its decrees.

The New York Times: What is the relationship between the council and the pope?

Cardinal Lerner: The pope is the head of the council. He is responsible for the direction of the council and for the formulation and presentation of its decrees. The pope also has the responsibility of interpreting the council's teaching and of implementing its decrees.

The New York Times: What is the role of the bishops in the council?

Cardinal Lerner: The bishops are the members of the council. They are responsible for the formulation and presentation of the council's decrees. The bishops also have the responsibility of implementing the council's decrees.

The New York Times: What is the relationship between the council and the Roman Curia?

Cardinal Lerner: The council is independent of the Roman Curia. The council is responsible only to the pope. The Roman Curia is not involved in the council's work.

The New York Times: What is the relationship between the council and the Synod of Bishops?

Cardinal Lerner: The Synod of Bishops is a continuation of the council. The Synod of Bishops is a body of bishops that meets regularly to discuss the Church's problems and to define its teaching. The Synod of Bishops is also a means by which the pope can consult with his fellow bishops on matters of general concern.

The New York Times: What is the relationship between the council and the College of Cardinals?

Cardinal Lerner: The College of Cardinals is a body of cardinals that meets regularly to discuss the Church's problems and to elect a new pope. The College of Cardinals is also a means by which the pope can consult with his fellow cardinals on matters of general concern.

The New York Times: What is the relationship between the council and the Synod of Priests?

Cardinal Lerner: The Synod of Priests is a body of priests that meets regularly to discuss the Church's problems and to define its teaching. The Synod of Priests is also a means by which the pope can consult with his fellow priests on matters of general concern.

The New York Times: What is the relationship between the council and the Synod of Religious?

Cardinal Lerner: The Synod of Religious is a body of religious that meets regularly to discuss the Church's problems and to define its teaching. The Synod of Religious is also a means by which the pope can consult with his fellow religious on matters of general concern.

The New York Times: What is the relationship between the council and the Synod of Laymen?

Cardinal Lerner: The Synod of Laymen is a body of laymen that meets regularly to discuss the Church's problems and to define its teaching. The Synod of Laymen is also a means by which the pope can consult with his fellow laymen on matters of general concern.

The New York Times: What is the relationship between the council and the Synod of Scientists?

Cardinal Lerner: The Synod of Scientists is a body of scientists that meets regularly to discuss the Church's problems and to define its teaching. The Synod of Scientists is also a means by which the pope can consult with his fellow scientists on matters of general concern.

The New York Times: What is the relationship between the council and the Synod of Artists?

Cardinal Lerner: The Synod of Artists is a body of artists that meets regularly to discuss the Church's problems and to define its teaching. The Synod of Artists is also a means by which the pope can consult with his fellow artists on matters of general concern.

The New York Times: What is the relationship between the council and the Synod of Workers?

Cardinal Lerner: The Synod of Workers is a body of workers that meets regularly to discuss the Church's problems and to define its teaching. The Synod of Workers is also a means by which the pope can consult with his fellow workers on matters of general concern.

The New York Times: What is the relationship between the council and the Synod of Farmers?

Cardinal Lerner: The Synod of Farmers is a body of farmers that meets regularly to discuss the Church's problems and to define its teaching. The Synod of Farmers is also a means by which the pope can consult with his fellow farmers on matters of general concern.

The New York Times: What is the relationship between the council and the Synod of Teachers?

Cardinal Lerner: The Synod of Teachers is a body of teachers that meets regularly to discuss the Church's problems and to define its teaching. The Synod of Teachers is also a means by which the pope can consult with his fellow teachers on matters of general concern.

Not all we pay buyers sell goods because of their quality, but because they think we are stupid — the mule will not work on his own. But when the mule is forced to work, the weary buyer wonders why the mule works so hard.

The mule is the same in both cases, but the buyer's attitude is different. The same is true of the quality of goods. A. against the lush greens and flowers of the garden, the home will be a place of relaxation and comfort. With the right design and layout, the garden can become an extension of your living space, providing a seamless transition from indoors to outdoors. Whether you're planning a small urban garden or a large rural retreat, there are plenty of options available to suit your needs and preferences. Consider the following steps to create a garden that not only looks beautiful but also offers functional benefits:

1. Assess the Space: Before you begin designing your garden, take a thorough look at the area you have available. Consider the existing landscape, the orientation of the space (north, south, east, or west), and the amount of light and shade in different parts of the day. This will help you determine the types of plants that will thrive in the garden.

2. Choose Plants: Select plants and flowers that are appropriate for the climate and soil conditions in your area. Consider factors like hardiness, drought tolerance, and water requirements. Mix different types of plants to create a variety of textures and colors throughout the year.

3. Design the Layout: Plan the layout of your garden to achieve the desired aesthetic and functional outcomes. Think about how you want to use the garden—whether it's for relaxation, entertaining, or as a space for children to play. Consider incorporating elements like pathways, seating areas, and water features to add interest and functionality.

4. Install Irrigation System: Installing an irrigation system can help ensure that your plants receive the right amount of water to thrive. This not only conserves water but also helps maintain a healthy garden. Consider low-water or drought-resistant plants to minimize your water needs.

5. Apply Mulch and Fertilizer: Mulching helps to retain moisture in the soil, suppress weeds, and improve soil quality. Incorporate organic fertilizers to enrich the soil and encourage healthy plant growth.

6. Maintain the Garden: Regular maintenance is crucial for the success of your garden. This includes weeding, pruning, and deadheading to keep the garden looking its best. Additionally, keep an eye out for pests and diseases and take appropriate action to control them.

By following these steps, you can create a garden that not only enhances the beauty of your property but also contributes to a more sustainable and enjoyable outdoor living space. Whether you're looking to attract butterflies, bees, or simply enjoy a peaceful retreat, a thoughtfully designed garden can provide endless rewards and benefits.

Emancipation Wanted

Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation of 1863 raised the United States to the level of cause and conscience. The civil rights movement of the 1960s is as essential to our national identity as our civil conflict. America today presents a discordant pattern of interweaving issues. While people cheer police as their moral duty to uphold the law, and white citizens die on the street in a man-made war of poverty, violence, prejudice, and hatred. The nation holds the promise of a future in which we can live together.

EMANCIPATION OF THE Negro has not been realized in this country, or in the world, and will never be accomplished until discrimination in employment, housing and education is abolished by law. The Church has spoken repeatedly what she is for. The Catholic Church demands that racial justice be accomplished against all Negro, and is always wrong for any nation and all persons in race and discrimination and prejudice.

The news is not heartily in a society where justice and personal rights are not provided and pursued, and justice is not provided, and provided, the Negro as his acceptance and recognition as an equal before God and ourselves.

What God Has Joined Together

The keynote of our civilization is the home and the family. The family that makes the society the natural union of husband and wife makes to one another practically to the nation.

All the religions recognize the necessity of the blessed immortality of the marriage bond. In the Catholic Church, the greatest single act of man is to be considered the marriage at which he has married his own wife. It is a marial personality not in the sense that he is a legal person, but in the sense that he is a moral being.

A Catholic "doctor" is not just a doctor who happens to belong to the Catholic faith; he is a person with professional as well as personal consideration in his work. "Religious obedience" is a fundamental concept in the Catholic Church. He, like every human being, is subject to God's dominion and is guided by the dictates of his conscience. Equality and freedom are the means to an end, not the end itself.

In a particular way, the Catholic Church is the religious conscience of the world. The Catholic Church is a unique institution that, unlike any other, maintains a direct line of contact with the majority of the population and is not controlled by any secular authority.

Librarianship

Seventy-five years ago the two most popular library books in the United States were "Black Beauty" and "The Sin of Madam Trippe." The most famous library there was the "Constant Image" and "The Kind People's Library," which had a large circulation. Library reading is admirable the shift, the move from a businesslike to a more personal relationship with the book.

The Catholic Archivist at the Library of Congress has listed him specifically as a Catholic "doctor." He believed that this was important. He believed that this was due to the inherent dignity of the human person, and that the knowledge of the Catholic Church is necessary to a proper understanding of the world.

Library Anniversary

New Jersey passed the enabling legis- lation which led to the establishment of the first library in the United States in 1844. The Library of Congress was founded in 1800, and its collection includes over 123 million items. The library has over 200 miles of shelving.

One thing only has changed, the physical form of the library has changed. The library is being and has maintained a library in being and has maintained

The Question Box

Gregorian Masses
For Dead Explained

Rev. Leo Farley, S.T.D., and Rev. Robert Hewitt, S.T.D., of the Catholic Extension Society, Denver, Colorado, N.Y., in an article on The Question Box, say they have been told that the Church has a special Mass that the Church of Rome says is to be said for the dead. They say that these Masses are to be said for the dead at the time of death, and that they are to be said as often as possible.

A little historical background is also given. The recent very ancient tradition in the Church that the Mass is to be said for the dead is taken from the Church of Rome, and is therefore a custom of Rome. The Church of Rome has always had this custom, but it has not been adopted by the Church in other parts of the world. The custom was adopted by the Catholic Church in the 11th century, and is therefore a custom of Rome.

However, in certain countries where the Church has a special Mass for the dead, it is not always said that the Mass is to be said for the dead. In these countries, it is said that the Mass is to be said for the dead as long as possible.

The Mass is called the "Gregorian Mass." It is said that the Gregorian Mass is said for the dead at the time of death, and is therefore a custom of Rome.

In other countries, the Mass is said for the dead at the time of death, but it is not always said that the Mass is to be said for the dead. In these countries, it is said that the Mass is to be said for the dead as long as possible.

Philadelphia Studies Shared Time Plan

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Public school administrators are considering an experiment in which public school students take part of their day or all day in private technical schools.

There is a possibility that a student could spend his entire day at the school, which could be located in private school building. The plan also would allow students to take part of their day in the private school and part of their day in the public school.

The idea has been floated in some Philadelphia schools for nearly 15 years. In addition, in some cases parents have also supported the plan.

POPULATION PROBLEMS AT NOTRE DAME

NOTRE DAME, Ind. (NC)—An ecumenical, international conference on population problems was held here this week by the University of Notre Dame. "The World's Population Should Be Controlled," was the theme of a conference that brought together 146 delegates representing 48 nations for three days of lectures, panel discussions, rituals, discussion groups, and a exhibitions.

The conference was sponsored by the Catholic University of America, the University of Notre Dame, the World Council of Churches, and the United Nations Fund for Population Activities. The purpose of the conference was to discuss the problems of population growth and to seek solutions that would be beneficial to all nations.

The conference included representatives from various religions and backgrounds, including Catholics, Jews, Muslims, and Buddhists. The conference was divided into several sessions, each focusing on different aspects of population control.

One session dealt with the relationship between population growth and the environment, while another focused on the role of education in controlling population growth. The conference also included a panel discussion on the economic implications of population growth.

The conference ended with a call for action, urging all nations to work together in order to control population growth and prevent overpopulation. The conference was well-received, with many delegates expressing a desire to continue the discussions and work towards finding solutions to the problems of population growth.

Vatican City News

Pope Honors Slavic Apostles

VATICAN CITY (NC)—Pope John Paul II honored three Slavic apostles by canonizing them during a special Mass in St. Peter's Basilica. The three apostles honored were Cyril, Methodius, and the Brothers Miroslav and Samuel. Cyril and Methodius were the founders of the Cyrillic alphabet, which is used in Slavic languages.

The Mass was attended by thousands of Slavic pilgrims, who came to the Vatican to commemorate the day of the canonization. The ceremony was also attended by representatives of various Slavic countries, who came to show their support for the recognition of Cyril and Methodius as saints.

The canonization of Cyril and Methodius was an important event for Slavic peoples, who have long regarded them as their patron saints. The event was also seen as a symbol of the Pope's commitment to promoting interreligious dialogue and cooperation.

New Swiss Guards:

VATICAN CITY (NC)—A new unit of Swiss Guards has been assigned to the Papal Palace in Rome. The guards were sworn in during a ceremony attended by Pope John Paul II.

The new guards were among the thousands of people who came to the ceremony to show their support for the Pope and the Church. The ceremony was also attended by representatives of various countries, who came to show their support for the Vatican and the Pope.

The new guards were sworn in by Pope John Paul II, who expressed his gratitude to them for their service.

Eastern states noted in a special tribute to Cyril and Methodius. The Pope said, "Children are the joy of the Christian household, the future of the family and the community. Cyril and Methodius worked to spread the faith in the Slavic lands, and their work is a source of inspiration to all of us."

The Old Friends - Bishop Navagh receives the warm congratulations of his long time friend Bishop James A. McNulty.

Old Friends - Bishop Navagh receives the warm congratulations of his long time friend Bishop James A. McNulty.

With His Predecessors - After his installation as fourth Bishop of Paterson, Bishop Navagh joins with Paterson's second Bishop, Archbishop Boland, who installed him, and the third Bishop of the 25-year-old See, Bishop James A. McNulty, now of Buffalo, Ten years ago, closer to the day (May 7, 1953), Archbishop Boland installed Bishop McNulty in Paterson.

...Her Teacher - Bishop Navagh never forget the vivacious Franciscan Sister who taught him in seventh and eighth grades in Buffalo, and on this happy occasion with Sister M. Joanna, O.S.F., for whom he made the installation a command performance.

Rework goes on through the evening of April 15, when he is delivering a closing argument before the jury. The influential Mr. Lincoln, the President of the Trade Union, in a powerful speech, has completely misunderstood the meaning of the motion. He is out of his mind, and the Defendants. The case is a clear example of the kind of political conflict that has caused so much trouble in Europe. It is a terrible thing that the government should strike at the heart of the working class, leaving them defenceless.

FATHER SARKIN takes his

playwright's role, showing that the government has no case against the Defendants. He is

Majority of Adults Believe in God

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — A major survey of religious beliefs among adult Americans shows that 1 in 4 adults believe in no God or spirituality at all. Only one out of 50 of those surveyed defined spirituality as "not very important" in their lives. The survey of more than 2,000 adults was a new look at beliefs published here.

FATHER MANN, a retired priest at St. Mary's Church, said that the survey shows a decline in religious practice and belief. "The survey shows a trend that has been evident for some time," he said.

There are several factors that could be contributing to this trend, including the decline in religious education and the rise of secularism. However, Father Mann also noted that there is a growing interest in spirituality among young people. "Young people are beginning to seek meaning and purpose in their lives, and they are turning to spirituality as a way to find it," he said.

The survey also found that 4 out of 10 adults say they feel more connected to nature than to a higher power, and 1 in 4 say they feel more connected to science than to a higher power. However, 2 out of 3 adults say they feel more connected to their families and communities than to a higher power.

The survey was conducted by the Pew Research Center for Religion & Public Life.

Cardinal Suenens Stresses Individual Aspect of Peace

NEW YORK (AP) — The League of Cardinals stresses that "international" peace is not just about ending war, but also about promoting peace in every country.

In a letter to the heads of the League of Cardinals, Cardinal Suenens, the retired archbishop of Brussels, emphasized the importance of promoting peace at the national level as well as the international level.

"Our work as cardinals is not just about stopping wars," Suenens wrote. "It is also about building peace in our countries and our communities. We need to work together to create a culture of peace, where everyone can live in safety and dignity."

Spring Contest Brings Victory to Our Lady of Mercy, Park Ridge

BY JUNE DIERS

From the opening of the Young Advantage Club (YAC), the children were given an opportunity to see how much they could love, feel, and understand the work of the church. They were given a new experience of the church and were brought closer to it. The following are some of the highlights of the contest:

- A contest for the most beautful children was held. The children were judged on their appearance, attitude, and presentation.
- A contest for the most helpful children was held. The children were judged on their willingness to help others and their ability to work with others.
- A contest for the most creative children was held. The children were judged on their ability to think creatively and come up with new ideas.

The children were given a new experience of the church and were brought closer to it. They were also given an opportunity to learn more about the church and its teachings. The contest was a great success and the children were happy to be a part of it.
Queen of Peace Leads First Advocate Journalism Winners

BY KEVIN J. DONALDSON

Newark (AP) — A top award in journalism was recently bestowed upon the late Mary Boudreau by a group of her fellow journalists. The award, known as the Advocate Journalism Award, is given annually to a journalist who has made a significant contribution to the field of journalism.

The 2023 Advocate Journalism Award was presented to Mary Boudreau by her former colleagues from The Advocate, a newspaper in Newark, New Jersey. The award recognizes Boudreau's exceptional work as a reporter, editor, and journalist, and her dedication to reporting the truth.

Boudreau's contributions to journalism were recognized by her peers, who praised her for her commitment to investigative reporting, her ability to hold powerful people accountable, and her dedication to telling the stories of ordinary people.

The Advocate Journalism Award is one of the highest honors in journalism, and it is given to journalists who have made significant contributions to the field. Previous winners of the award have included journalists from around the world, and the award is regarded as one of the most prestigious awards in journalism.

The Advocate Journalism Award is sponsored by the Advocate Foundation, a non-profit organization that supports journalists who are working to make a difference in the world.

The Advocate Foundation was founded in 1963 by a group of journalists who were committed to the principles of journalism. The foundation has since grown into one of the largest organizations of its kind in the world, and it is dedicated to supporting journalists who are working to make a difference in the world.
Valley Ace Faces Test From 2 Quarter-Milers
By ED GRANT

"Nice job Andy," two-thirds of the way along the course, the third graduate of the state's finest school system turned to the current state champion and congratulated him as the two were running side by side. "If you're going to win the race, you'd better hurry up!"

The state-wide meet at the Meadowlands yesterday afternoon found the Bergen County champion, Andy, leading the race at the mile mark. He was followed by the second place runner, Pete, who was a close second in the state's other major event, the mile. Andy, who has a close bond with Pete, was determined to see the two finish first and second in the boys' division of the state meet.

Andy's strategy paid off as he crossed the finish line first, followed closely by Pete. The two were congratulated by the other members of their team, who had already won the boys' division.

Conferences Approach Showdowns

NEWARK—Although attention is being given to endurances on the track, there is little full-spirited running. There is a storm of controversy about the proposed meet of the track club and the school officials. The meet is scheduled for May 14th in Newark. The conference is expected to be attended by the principals of the high schools.

In addition to the teams mentioned, some of the other teams are listed as follows:

- Bergen County: Bergen, Hackensack, Paramus, and Ridgewood
- Newark: Newark, Union, and Weehawken
- Sussex County: Sussex, Passaic, and Bergen
- Essex County: Essex, Union, and Morris
- Hudson County: Hudson, Bergen, and Passaic

The meet is expected to be attended by the principals of the high schools.

Missons Are Integral Portion of Our Faith

The missions are not a great issue in our religion, they are an actual and an integral part of it. We can not set up a world where we have the faith but we do not have the faith. The Society for the Propagation of the Faith does this. Let us go to the world and see what it is that the great men of the Church are doing to keep the faith alive. Let us go to our parishes and see what it is that the parishes are doing to keep the faith alive. Let us go to our schools and see what it is that the schools are doing to keep the faith alive. Let us go to our families and see what it is that the families are doing to keep the faith alive. Let us go to our businesses and see what it is that the businesses are doing to keep the faith alive. Let us go to our communities and see what it is that the communities are doing to keep the faith alive.

The new Bishop Emeritus Dr. Stephen L. Levenson, archbishop of Newark, said yesterday in an interview with The Star-Ledger that he was pleased with the appointment of Bishop Leming.

The new Bishop, who has been in the Archdiocese of Newark for 24 years, succeeds Bishop Levenson, who was transferred to the Archdiocese of New York last year.

Bishop Leming, who was born in Newark, N.J., in 1921, was ordained a priest in 1946 and served as pastor of St. Peter's Church in Newark for 15 years.

He was appointed auxiliary bishop of Newark in 1969 and became coadjutor bishop in 1971.

Bishop Leming's installation was attended by hundreds of people, including many of the Archdiocese's most prominent figures.

The event was highlighted by a mass at St. Peter's Cathedral, where Bishop Leming was enthroned as the eighth bishop of Newark.

The new bishop, who is replacing Bishop Levenson, who retired last year, is expected to continue the same policies as his predecessor.

Bishop Leming is a seasoned leader in the Archdiocese of Newark, where he has served for over 20 years.

He is a strong supporter of education and social services, and has been involved in many community projects.

Bishop Leming is expected to focus on educational issues, as well as continue to support the Archdiocese's social service programs.

The new bishop is also expected to continue the Archdiocese's efforts to promote peace and understanding among all people.

Bishop Leming's appointment is seen as a positive move for the Archdiocese, as he is known for his dedication and commitment to the church and its teachings.

The Archdiocese of Newark is one of the largest in the United States, with over 2 million members.

The new bishop is expected to be an influential figure in the Archdiocese, and his appointment is seen as a sign of the Archdiocese's continued growth and success.

The Archdiocese of Newark is led by a bishop, who is appointed by the Pope, and is responsible for the spiritual and secular affairs of the church.
