7,000 Attend Pope's First General Audience

VATICAN CITY (NC) Pope Paul VI urged priests and religious of the Catholic Church to lead the world in faith and prayer on Sunday during a meeting in St. Peter's Square. The Pope said the Church is a "sacred treasury of love and mercy." The Pope's remarks were the first made in Latin America, as the Church is being recognized as a major force in the region.

The Pope said that the Church is a "sacred treasury of love and mercy." He added that the Church is a "source of hope and guidance for all people." The Pope also stressed the importance of faith and prayer in our daily lives. He said that "faith is the foundation of all moral values and the source of all human progress." The Pope's message was received with enthusiasm by the large audience in St. Peter's Square.

In his remarks, the Pope called for a renewal of the Church's mission, particularly in the areas of education, health care, and social justice. He emphasized the importance of dialogue and cooperation between different cultures and religions. The Pope also called for a greater role for women in the Church and society.

The Pope's message was received with enthusiasm by the large audience in St. Peter's Square. The crowd included many Catholic leaders from around the world, as well as representatives from other religious traditions. The Pope's address was broadcast live on television and radio, reaching millions of people around the world.

The Pope's words touched the hearts of many who were present at the meeting. "This is a moment of great hope and inspiration," said one attendee. "Pope Paul VI has shown us the way forward in these difficult times."

The Pope's address was a powerful reminder of the Church's role in shaping our world. As he said, "The Church is a source of hope and guidance for all people. We must continue to work for a world of peace and justice."

The Pope's message was a call to action for all people. As he said, "We must work together to build a better world. The Church can be a force for good in our world. Let us join together in prayer and action to make the world a better place."
So the tax revenue was used to support the church and the community. This created a conflict between the church and the state, which is why the leadership of the city passed a law to regulate the distribution of religious literature. This law was challenged in court, but the Supreme Court ruled in favor of the church.

As a result, the church continued to distribute religious literature, and the local government was forced to comply with the First Amendment of the United States Constitution. This decision set a precedent for the protection of religious freedom in the United States.
The Hostile Polish Bishops

Poland is about 90% Catholic. And it is returning to the path of history that the spirit of which is the idea of Papal, and not the spirit of which is the idea of anti-Catholicism. In this connection it is interesting to note that the Polish Constitution of 1921 states: "The Church is free in Poland, and the law has no authority over it."

RECENTLY THE Archdiocese of Chicago wrote to the Catholic bishops of Poland requesting that they write to the Pope and express their solidarity with the Pope in his struggle against communism. The Archdiocese also stated that the bishops should write to the Pope if they felt that the Polish government was trying to impose its will on the Church.

The Polish bishops have not yet responded to this request. However, it is clear that the Polish bishops are not willing to support the Pope in his fight against communism. This is because they believe that the Pope is wrong.

In the 19th century, the Church in Poland was a powerful force that opposed the government. However, after World War II, the Church was suppressed by the Communist government. This has led to a situation where the Church is not able to offer any resistance to the government.

The Polish bishops are therefore not in a position to support the Pope in his fight against communism. This is unfortunate, as the Church is an important institution in Poland and should be able to offer support to the Pope.

 Forgiveness of Sins

R. F. D.... has taken issue with the Washington Post on the subject of education. "There are only two schools of thought in the world of education," he says. "There are those who think education is a matter of training for employment and there are those who think education is a matter of training for life."

The "public school" established by the National Education Association has been in operation for some time. Here we can judge the quality of the education given by the public school. We can also judge the quality of the education given by the private school.

Her Negro Pupils Won Her Heart

B. JUNE ROVER BAYONNE "Somebody Elses's problems aren't my problem," said the little Negro girl, as she sat on the steps of Bayonne City Hall waiting for her next class to begin. "I'm not interested in them."

She was a third-grader and the problem was one of the most common to schools throughout the country - the segregation of the races. For years, Negro children have been excluded from the Bayonne Catholic schools. But now, thanks to the efforts of one woman, they have found a place where they can learn.

"I'm going to make sure that Negro children in Bayonne are given the same opportunities as other children," she said. "I'm going to fight for their rights, and I'm going to do it with my heart."

This woman is Mrs. Jane F. Hildreth, a member of the Bayonne Teachers' Union and a member of the Bayonne School Board. She has been working tirelessly for the past two years to integrate the Bayonne schools.

"I don't care what anyone else says," she said. "I know that I'm doing the right thing, and I'm going to do it, no matter what."

Mrs. Hildreth's efforts have not gone unnoticed. In the past two years, she has worked tirelessly to build a coalition of support for her cause. She has met with parents, teachers, and students, and has won their support.

"I'm proud of what we've accomplished," she said. "We've come a long way, and we're not finished yet."

But, despite her successes, Mrs. Hildreth knows that there is still much work to be done. She plans to continue her efforts until the Bayonne schools are truly integrated.

"I'm going to fight until the end," she said. "I'm going to make sure that every child in Bayonne has the opportunity to learn."

Women O.K. Civil Rights Program

WASHINGTON, D.C. (899) — The National Council of Catholic Women, an agency of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops, today concluded its annual meeting here with the issuance of a statement calling for a "full and immediate" right to vote for women in the United States.

The conference, made up of 5,000 members of the Catholic women's group, had met here for four days with the purpose of discussing the situation of women in the United States, and to seek for the advancement of the rights of women in this country.

The statement issued today by the council says: "We, the members of the National Council of Catholic Women, are here to express our united concern for the rights of women in this country and to extend our message of support to all those who are striving for a more equitable society for women in our land."

At the conclusion of the meeting, the council declared their support for the "two great goals of the New National Council of Catholic Women—equal rights for women and equal opportunities for all women." The council added that the themes of "equal rights for women" and "equal opportunities for all women" are "based upon the solid foundation of the Bible's Fatherhood of God and of the Motherhood of Mary, the Holy Mother of Jesus Christ, and the series of Church teachings which flow from the sacrifice of Our Lord Jesus Christ on the Cross." The council concludes that "the New National Council of Catholic Women, in carrying out these goals, will continue to cooperate with the New National Catholic Women's Congress in the development of a program of action, which we hope will result in the creation of a more just and equitable society for all our people." The council also declared that the "New National Catholic Women's Congress and the New National Council of Catholic Women are permanently assigned to the American Catholic Women's Mission in the United States, which is based upon the joint foundation of the Bible and the Rock of Our Lord Jesus Christ on the Cross, and that they are ready and willing to cooperate with this mission in the development of a program of action, which we hope will result in the creation of a more just and equitable society for all our people."

Sees Land Reform Possible in Brazil

The Portugese government has been asked to review its land reform policies in Brazil by the Portuguese Church. The Bishop of Portugal, Dom José Carlos, has called for a re-examination of the government's land reform policies, as he believes that they are not working as intended.

Dom José Carlos said that the government's land reform policies have not been effective in reducing inequality, and that the distribution of land has not been fair. He called for a more careful examination of the policies, as he feels that they are not achieving their goals.

The Bishop said that the government should focus on providing better education and opportunities for the rural poor, rather than simply redistributing land. He believes that this will improve the lives of the rural poor and help to reduce inequality.

The Portugese government has yet to respond to the Bishop's call for a review of its land reform policies.
Couple Buys Second Home From the Same Builders

A Kaplan Builder, L. O. C., or Emergency – a new home from the same source.

They returned to the U.S. recently, and decided to purchase a house from the same community in which they have bought two previous homes. The house they are looking at is in the Highlands of Pocono Farms Community, and Mrs. Thomas M. Lederer bought their first home in the same community in 1957. They moved to the U.S. in 1960

from Germany, where they had been living for ten years.

Lederer is a member of the same organization in Germany and they both enjoy the community very much.

The Highlands of Pocono Farms Community is located in East Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Lederer is looking at a new home to be built by the Kaplan Builder.

The new home will have three bedrooms, two baths,

and a finished basement.
