President Seeks No Need For Vatican Relations

On the Inside...
Cardinal Leiter, at WCC Rally, Warns of Unity Difficulties

MONROE, N.Y. (RNS)—Presenting day behind closed doors of international councils must be followed by resolution that the world will not be mere "a Cardinal of the Church" in an empty gallery of men and women, a Cardinal of the Church who is the first stone in a Cathedral built on the foundations of love and justice.

During the three-day Assembly of the World Council of Churches here, the Catholic Church's official representative said that if the world is to witness the fulfillment of the Second Vatican Council, it must start with an understanding of the role of the Church as a "career of pilgrimage" to unity.

The archbishop from New York also told the council that the Church is called to be a "laboratory of social science" and a "school of prophesy" for the world, and that it must work toward unity with other religions.

Cardinal Leiter, who is also a member of the Vatican's Joint Commission for Relations with Non-Christians, said that the council must "think on the second plane of the Church's history." He added that the council must "have the courage to be wrong in order to be right in the future."

Because It Is Right

The result of the Negro's struggle against AmericanJim Crow legisla tion is more evident than the result of the conflict against King II in 1787. The current domination of the country is a protest against the denial of the rights of the freeborn and constitutionally upright rights: The Boston Tea Party and other similar acts were protests against "taky with no representation.

IF WE CAN UNDERSTAND the feelings of the colonists and the drive for representation to gain freedom, do we not find it as difficult to understand the sites, the picketing, the marches that the Negro has been making, what the law of the land says is his right by the ballot?

The revolt of the Negro began by protests that grew into violent manifesto and finally into the shedding of blood and the destruction of property. When the British soldiers moved in to put down the riots and to protect properly, the war began with the shot heard round the world.

The revolt of the Negro began in a peaceful way. In the main it is still a peaceful protest, but blood has been shed.

Intolerance in Vietnam?

Probably the strongest repre- sentation held on especial interest for many Americans outside the State of Vermont was: "Viet Nam is a Catholic country and the Church is being ignored in the American press and preconceived biases are not left out. To what extent the religious repression seen in the French press is said to be based on the fact that the Catholic Church does not tolerate other religions, a statement which is being made.

FROM THIS DISTANCE the story may be a little more clear. Herbert von Karajan, the conductor, is invited to a trip to the country. He is told that if he goes, he will have to go to the country itself where he will be greeted by the people, and he will have to work for the country.

It is in the midst of this atmosphere that the radioactive isotope is most evident. In the midst of this atmosphere, the picture is the same. The only difference is that the percentage holding among other highbrow citizens is much higher. It is not a picture to take over.

The Bishop

Rev. John Neumann, fourth Bishop of Philadelphia, was on leave before his death. He was seen last at the convention of Oct. 13, because of the death of his father.

BORN IN BOHEMIA, now part of Czechoslovakia, in 1811, John Neumann studied at the University of Prague, and on arriving here in 1836 was ordained and given charge of the 900-acre mission near Niagara Falls. His church had been burned, and the people were on food. He built a school and taught his people four hours a day. He also opened a hospital to help his people.

In 1841, when he was called to be a Redemptorist, following his profession, the Bishop began missionary work. After five years, the Bishop was appointed to be a bishop in Vermont and became Bishop of Vermont. In 1852, the Bishop was appointed to be the Bishop of the Diocese of Philadelphia. In 1855, the Bishop was appointed to be the Archbishop of Baltimore.

Why Christ Hid His Divine Nature

BY FRANK J. SIECK

Jesus hid His divine nature and was a man who lived among us. The Bible does not tell us exactly why He hid His divine nature, but it does tell us that He did hide it from the world.

Jesus did not want to have His glory and divinity known to the world. If He had revealed His divinity, He would have been crucified by the Jewish people. He did not want to have His glory and divinity known to the world, because He knew that the world would not accept Him without His divinity.

The Bible says that Jesus hid His divine nature, but it does not tell us why. It is possible that Jesus hid His divine nature for a reason that we do not know. It is possible that Jesus hid His divine nature for a reason that we will never know. It is possible that Jesus hid His divine nature for a reason that we cannot know.

In Defense
Of Fr. Kueng

Editor:

I was disturbed by the recent attack on Fr. Kueng in the Advocate. This is not to say that I am sympathetic or agree with his positions, but I do not feel that these censures were warranted. In my opinion, the error of which he is accused in the current article is that when he was a Jesuit, Fr. Kueng thought that he was a Jesuit. Now this is a very serious error to make, but I do not think that this is enough reason to bar him from the Society.

However, I do think that the Advocate has a responsibility to be fair in its coverage of this issue. The current article does not provide enough context or background information to fully understand the situation. I would like to see more articles discussing the larger issues at stake, rather than simply attacking Fr. Kueng's personal beliefs.

Sincerely,

Opening Jobs for N. J. Negroes

By ANNIE MAE BUCKLEY

STATE—During a period of widespread unemployment, the State of New Jersey has created new jobs for Negroes in the city of Newark, according to Governor Karcher. The Governor's statement comes in the wake of the recent inclusion of the city of Newark on the list of Unemployment Insurance areas.

The Governor indicated that more than 1,000 new jobs have been created in the city of Newark for Negroes. He said this was due to the fact that the city of Newark has been declared a Unemployment Insurance area, which means that unemployed Negroes can receive unemployment benefits.

The Governor further stated that these new jobs will help to alleviate the hardship experienced by many Negro families in the city of Newark. He added that the creation of these jobs will also help to stimulate the local economy and to promote industrial growth in the city of Newark.

The Governor's statement comes at a time when the city of Newark is experiencing a high level of unemployment. According to recent reports, the unemployment rate in the city of Newark is over 10 percent, which is much higher than the national average.

The Governor's creation of new jobs for Negroes in the city of Newark is a welcome development. However, more needs to be done to help all unemployed individuals in the state.

The Governor's statement is also a reminder that the fight against unemployment is a major issue in the state of New Jersey, and that more needs to be done to help those who are out of work. The Governor's statement is a step in the right direction towards achieving this goal.
Support of Civil Rights Called

'Catholic Duty by Prelate'

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Archbishop of Cincinnati has urged his diocese to support a proposed New York City legislation that would enact tougher penalties against the burning of crosses and racist epithets to promote racial betterment.

"It is fully recognized that some who are not incensed by the destruction of crosses and racist epithets believe that such acts are right and should be continued," said Archbishop James A. Mclntyre.

"If the church is to be an effective part of our national life, it is an elementary part of national life," he said.

ARCHBISHOP JACKSON in the city's Catholic Social Action Committee, said the Roman Catholic Church has always been opposed to racial discrimination.

"The railroad, as a social justice and moral question, is the most important," he said.

CAPODICHINO (AP) — City officials in this city of 5,000,000 have issued a statement that all citizens, regardless of their race, shall have equal rights to marry, own property, vote, and serve on juries.

"We shall conduct justice and mercy," said Mayor Joseph O. Ryan.

"The law shall be just and impartial," he said.

"The law shall not discriminate against any race," he said.

KC Exclusion Policy is Targeted

CHICAGO — The Catholic Interracial Council of Chicago has resolved to use "direct action without" if necessary, to achieve representation. The council has been involved in the political life of the city for 15 years.

"There is an increasing realization that the national policies of the Catholic Church and the society to which we belong are of immense importance," said President Kevin O'Brien.

"It is only through the use of direct action that we can achieve representation," he said.

\[ \text{A Daily Prayer For Race Justice} \]

Your own prayer and reminder of all by the Blood of Your Divine Son, who has shed his life through love for the world. Amen.

"But we are told that the civil rights movement is a part of the economy of the nation," said the Archdiocese.

"The time has come for us to act," he said.

\[ \text{Race Relations Talk Listed} \]

CINCINNATI — The Archdiocese will hold a talk on "Race Relations" on Tuesday, May 15, at 8 p.m. in the chapel of the University of Cincinnati.

"The talk will be given by Dr. Robert C. Taylor, an expert in race relations," said the Archdiocese.

I Was Thinking...

The Housewife Can Help

By KITTY B. BEALL

Several years ago we moved from our old white neighborhood to one where the "countryside" is creeping in. To our surprise, we found that a large number of the younger members of our family had never had any contact with our community neighbors, which were just across the street.
Several weeks ago a young neighbor father came to our front door and asked if we had any children who could help with their yard work.

Our community is on reports of rural schools being indebted to us for support, our attitude toward the neighboring of children is highly important. We should recognize our responsibilities to the community and to the courts, and set a good example for our children to follow.

Our children in this community are surrounded by neighbors who are kind and helpful, and we should encourge our children to be good neighbors. We should also remind our children that they are part of the community and that they have a responsibility to others.

I do not think I am a perfect neighbor, but I am contented with the progress I have made. I remember when I first moved here, the rural areas were much different than they are today. I remember when I first moved here, the rural areas were much different than they are today. I remember when I first moved here, the rural areas were much different than they are today. I remember when I first moved here, the rural areas were much different than they are today.

I believe that our children should be encouraged to get involved in their community and to participate in activities that benefit their community. This will help our children to develop a sense of responsibility and to be good neighbors.

We have found our children are enjoying their time in this new neighborhood and are eager to be involved in our community. Our children are becoming more aware of the needs of others and are beginning to take an active role in our community. We are proud of our children and are happy to be part of this wonderful community.
Annie said you would be writing to us this week.

Thornton Blends Academic, Athletic Abilities

RADIANT - Gold and white accents have been everywhere this fall. Any St. Peter's College student can have an academic and athletic combination. Thornton is one of the students who fits the bill. It is a unique combination of these two aspects, which Peter's College is proud to have. Thornton, a junior in the School of Commerce, is a member of the track and field team. He is a member of the 400-yard relay team, which won the recent second-place finish in the Big Eight Conference Championships. Thornton has shown his talent in the academic arena as well. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi honor society, which recognizes academic excellence. Thornton's performance in both academic and athletic pursuits is a testament to his dedication and hard work. The combination of academic and athletic success is rare, and Thornton's achievement is a shining example of what can be achieved with commitment and determination. If you are looking for someone who embodies the spirit of Peter's College, Thornton is the perfect candidate. His academic and athletic success is a testament to his potential and a source of pride for the Peter's College community.

Explain Position
On WCC

Dr. Hans Decker, Dean of the Orthodox Church's Commission for Faith and Order, has explained the position of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Orthodox Church, on the question of the World Council of Churches (WCC). Dr. Decker has stated that the Church of the Holy Trinity does not recognize the WCC as a legitimate or authentic body that represents the Orthodox Church.

Dr. Decker emphasized that the Orthodox Church maintains its traditional position regarding the authority of the Church of Greece in matters concerning the Orthodox Church. He also pointed out that the WCC has not been able to address the concerns of the Orthodox Church regarding the role of the Ecumenical Patriarchate in the Church's governing structure.

Moreover, Dr. Decker underlined the importance of the Orthodox Church's autonomy and independence. He stated that the Church of the Holy Trinity will continue to work towards the reunification of the Orthodox Church with the Catholic Church and other Christian denominations.

Dr. Decker concluded by expressing his hope that the dialogue between the Orthodox Church and the Catholic Church will continue and that the WCC will be able to find a way to address the concerns of the Orthodox Church.

Dr. Decker thanked the St. John's University Community for their hospitality and support during his visit to the United States.
