Pope Aids Victims of Quake

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has come out strongly in favor of helping the victims of the earthquake that hit Galveston, Texas, earlier this week.

The Pope expressed his sympathy for the suffering caused by the natural disaster and said that the Vatican would do everything possible to provide assistance to those affected.

The earthquake, which hit Galveston on the Gulf of Mexico, has caused widespread destruction and left many people homeless.

Pope Paul, who has been a strong advocate for humanitarian aid and international cooperation, said that the Church would work with other organizations to provide relief to those affected by the quake.

He called on other nations to join forces in assisting the victims of the disaster and expressed hope that the United Nations would take steps to ensure that aid reaches those in need.

The Pope's statement came as the United Nations announced plans to send a mission to the affected area to assess the situation and coordinate relief efforts.

He also urged the international community to support the efforts of the United Nations and other humanitarian organizations in providing aid to the victims of the earthquake.

Pope Paul's message was praised by many as a sign of the Church's commitment to helping those in need.

Backs National Service Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bishops of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference have endorsed the National Service Corps as a valuable program for helping rural communities.

The endorsement came during a meeting of the conference's executive committee, which met in Cleveland this week.

The bishops praised the Corps as a way to bring young people into the rural areas, which have been experiencing a population decline.

They said the Corps would help provide needed services and support for rural communities, and would help prepare young people for careers in agriculture and related fields.

No Unfair Methods Used, Christians in Israel Say

JERUSALEM (AP) — Leaders of Israel's Christian community have denied reports that they used unfair methods to influence the outcome of the recent election for the new Knesset.

The Christians said they had conducted their campaign in a fair and transparent manner, and had not engaged in any practices that would be considered unethical.

They said they had adhered to the rules of the election and had not sought to influence the votes of any individual or group.

They added that they had not used any means that would be considered unfair or manipulative.

They called on the public to support the new government and to participate in the democratic process.

The Christians' statement came as the election results were announced, with the new Knesset to be sworn in on Sunday.

A group of students from the University of Illinois, led by Brother John J. Schexnayder, S.C., director of the university's Black Student Council, staged a sit-in at the office of the Cardinal McIntyre, the Catholic Bishop of Los Angeles, to protest the discrimation.

The sit-in was called by the Knights of Columbus, who have been active in the struggle for Negro rights in California.

The Knights of Columbus, who are members of the National Catholic Conference of Cardinals, have been active in the struggle for Negro rights in California.

In a press interview, Brother Schexnayder said: "The Knights of Columbus are concerned about the situation here in Los Angeles, because the situation here is very serious. Race and Religion

The First National Conference on Race and Religion at Chicago concluded with the note that it would be misleading on the local level across the nation. That note is to be realized in Newark on Aug. 11 in the Catholic High School.

WE HAVE THE GREATEST NATION OF AFRICANISTS. It seems that the Catholic Church has its greatest number of Africanists in the nation of this country. The greatest number of Africanists in the nation is in the Chicago area. The conference will be held in the Catholic High School.

THE DOCTRINAL principles included in the document were from the American Church. The Fathers of the Church have always maintained that there is no way of saving the soul of a man without the Church. But the Church must be reformed in order to meet the needs of modern society.

School Integration

With the opening of school in September, the beginning of the year's work by the State Board of Education and the integration of the school system in English-speaking and black schools, there are some new factors. However, it is clear that the integration of the school system is a positive move towards equality.

The school system has been functioning over the years through a district, with each district having its own superintendent. In recent years, the system has sought to integrate the schools, and there is a positive change in the perception of the system.

The system has been functioning over the years and is willing to work towards integration.

The Mission of Fr. Kueng

The series of articles by Hans Kueng, as Father Daniel O'Connell, in The Advocate, has provided a new dimension of understanding and hope for the Church today. It is a hope which can only bring about the needed reforms in the Church, as Father Daniel has noted, in his article "Has the World Gone Mad?"

Mass Calender

In the article "The Mass and Its —", Father Daniel has pointed out the need for a new approach to the Mass. He has emphasized the importance of the participation of the faithful in the celebration of the Mass.

Eastern Church

THE EASTERN CHURCHES AND CATHOLIC UNITY, edited by David M. Hill, Jr., was published by the American Catholic Historical Association. The book is a collection of essays exploring the relationship between the Eastern Orthodox Church and the Catholic Church. The essays discuss historical events, ecclesiastical structures, and theological debates. The book is divided into several sections, each focusing on a specific aspect of the relationship. Overall, the book provides a comprehensive overview of the historical context and current state of the relationship between the two churches.

The book starts with an introduction by David M. Hill, Jr., outlining the significance of the Eastern Orthodox Church and its relationship with the Catholic Church. The introductory section sets the stage for the subsequent essays, providing a historical and theological context for understanding the relationship between the two churches.

The first section of the book, "Theological Foundations," explores the theological foundations of the relationship between the Eastern Orthodox Church and the Catholic Church. The essays in this section examine the historical development of the relationship, focusing on key figures and events. The essays also analyze the theological perspectives of the two churches, providing insights into the divergent and convergent elements.

The second section, "Historical Developments," delves into the historical developments of the relationship. The essays in this section examine major events and figures that have shaped the relationship between the two churches. The essays cover a wide range of topics, from the early missionary efforts to the modern-day ecumenical movements.

The third section, "Ecumenical Encounters," examines the ecumenical encounters between the Eastern Orthodox Church and the Catholic Church. The essays in this section explore the various initiatives and programs aimed at fostering dialogue and understanding between the two churches. The essays also examine the challenges and opportunities of these initiatives.

The fourth section, "Conclusion and Prospects," provides a conclusion to the book and offers prospects for the future of the relationship. The essays in this section reflect on the historical developments and propose ways forward for the relationship between the Eastern Orthodox Church and the Catholic Church.

Overall, "The Eastern Churches and Catholic Unity" offers a valuable resource for scholars and students interested in the relationship between the Eastern Orthodox Church and the Catholic Church. The book provides a comprehensive overview of the historical context, theological foundations, and current state of the relationship. It is a must-read for anyone seeking to understand the complex and dynamic relationship between the two churches.
Medical Missioner in Hong Kong

Sister Juliana Dusts Off Her Doctor’s Sign

By ANNE BAR BUCKLEY

ELIZABETH — A few years ago Dorothy Belden, R.D., discreetly accepted the risk of never again practicing medicine. The offer came when the decision of what her future would be made was still in the hands of her superiors. After nine years in the field, with three distinguished hospitals as her training grounds, Miss Belden was offered a position as a registered nurse in a Catholic hospital in the Philippines. She accepted, feeling a need for stronger spiritual foundation, and the opportunity to serve her country through more than purely physical means. Now it seems appropriate that Miss Belden should return to the field of medicine, this time not as a practicing physician, but in a capacity reserved for the religious sister.

Sister Juliana, a native of Elizabeth, New Jersey, and a former student of Sacred Heart School in Elizabeth, joined the Sisters of St. Joseph of Chatham, N.J., last year. She was assigned to work as a registered nurse in the clinic at a Catholic hospital in Hong Kong. In December last year, she was named assistant director of the hospital, with responsibilities for administrative work, as well as for the medical care of the patients. She is the first American nun to hold this position in a Catholic hospital in Asia.

The assignment means a great deal to Sister Juliana. "I'm a Catholic, and I feel strongly about giving back what I've been given," she said. "I want to make a difference in the lives of others." This desire to help those less fortunate has been a driving force throughout her life. She graduated from Sacred Heart School in Elizabeth, and from Seton Hall University, where she received herdegree in nursing. After receiving her degree, she worked as a nurse in Elizabeth, before joining the Sisters of St. Joseph.

Sister Juliana's work in Hong Kong has been both rewarding and challenging. "I've learned much about the culture and the people," she said. "I've learned to have patience and understanding, and to be willing to adapt to new situations." She has also been able to use her knowledge of the language to communicate with the patients. "I've always been interested in foreign languages," she said. "I've learned Chinese and Japanese, and I'm learning more as I go along." She has also been able to use her knowledge of the culture to help the patients feel more comfortable in the hospital.

Sister Juliana's work has been recognized by the hospital administration, who have praised her for her dedication and her ability to adapt to new situations. "She's a great asset to the hospital," said one of her colleagues. "She's always willing to help, and she has a great spirit." Sister Juliana's work has also been recognized by the local community. "We're grateful to have her here," said one of the patients. "She's made a big difference in my life, and I'm very grateful to her."
Nine Receive Habit
Of School Sisters

WILSON, Conn. — Nine New Jersey women received the Tau Cross and were tonsured in a ceremony held at Ave Maria Apos- tokus at St. Matthew's, Brooklyn, recently. The service was conducted by the Rev. Fr. John J. Gildea, O.P., the Prior of the religious community, in observance of St. Matthew's Day.

Sisters

The newly tonsured sisters are Sister Teresa Marie Monihan, Sister Maria DeMaria, Sister Rosemary O'Flaherty, Sister Margaret Edgerton, Sister Mary Ellen, Sister Karen Murphy, Sister Mary Ann, Sister Helen O'Grady, and Sister Mary Patrice.

The ceremony was followed by the traditional Sister's Vespers and coffee and refreshments served to the religious sisters and their guests.

BOOK FOR YOUTH

The Irish Fought for Freedom Too

BOOK FOR YOUTH

THE IRISH FIGHTED FOR FREEDOM TOO, by Robin McKiernan, John Shafer, Inc., 365 pages, $2.50.

This story of the history of Ireland is a rich source of information on the heritage of the Irish race and the part they played in the development of modern Ireland. It is written in an easy-to-read, interesting, and informative style, and is designed to appeal to all ages.

It is divided into two main sections: the first part deals with the early history of Ireland, including the influence of the Roman Catholic Church, the English and Scottish invasions, the establishment of the English Parliament, and the rise of the Irish republic; the second part covers the period from the end of the 19th century to the present day, including the establishment of the Irish Free State, the partition of Ireland, and the development of the Irish economy.

The book is designed for use in schools and libraries, and is an excellent resource for anyone interested in the history of Ireland.

Cathedral Captures Junior Lead

NEWARK — Junior Matt McGloin scored the first goal for the 1983-84 edition of the Cathedral boys' soccer team. McGloin scored the first goal in the team's 2-1 victory against St. Joseph's Preparatory School on July 31, 1983. The goal was McGloin's first career goal for Cathedral.

Cathedral's Angel Castellanos scored the second goal early in the second half. The game was played in front of a large, enthusiastic crowd at St. Joseph's.

The win sent Cathedral to the state championship game against St. Joseph's, where they will face a tough challenge. Cathedral, under the guidance of Coach John Pippenger, has been strong this season and is looking forward to the state title game.

Cathedral's Angel Castellanos scored the second goal early in the second half. The game was played in front of a large, enthusiastic crowd at St. Joseph's.

The win sent Cathedral to the state championship game against St. Joseph's, where they will face a tough challenge. Cathedral, under the guidance of Coach John Pippenger, has been strong this season and is looking forward to the state title game.

Summer Job Gives Walsh Outfielder Chance to Meet Nat. League Stars

BY ED MOWARD

In an unusual attempt to attract the attention of older baseball fans, the National League has sponsored a series of "Summer Job" promotions. The idea is to give young players a chance to meet professional baseball players in their summer jobs.

One such job is at the New York Giants. Peter Walsh, an outfielder for the Pirates, has been working there for the past three weeks. He has been given the task of working with the Giants' hitting drives. He has been working with the hitting drives since he was a child, and he has been able to give them some valuable advice.

"He has been very helpful," said one of the Giants' hitting drives. "He has given us some great advice on how to hit the ball. He has been working with us for the past three weeks, and he has been very effective."

Walsh was given the job by the Giants' hitting drives, who were looking for someone to help them improve their hitting. They have been struggling with their hitting all season, and they have been looking for someone to help them. Walsh was the perfect choice, as he has been working with the hitting drives for the past three weeks.

"I have been working with them for three weeks," said Walsh. "I have been giving them some advice on how to hit the ball. I have been working with them all season, and I have been able to help them improve their hitting."

Walsh has been working with the hitting drives since he was a child, and he has been able to give them some valuable advice. He has been very effective, and the Giants' hitting drives are very pleased with his work.

"We have been very pleased with his work," said one of the Giants' hitting drives. "He has been working with us for the past three weeks, and he has been very effective. He has given us some great advice on how to hit the ball."

Walsh is looking forward to working with the Giants' hitting drives for the rest of the season. He has been working with them all season, and he is very looking forward to helping them improve their hitting.

"I am looking forward to working with them for the rest of the season," said Walsh. "I have been working with them all season, and I am looking forward to helping them improve their hitting."

Walsh is hoping that his work with the Giants' hitting drives will help him improve his own hitting. He has been struggling with his hitting all season, and he is hoping that his work with the Giants' hitting drives will help him improve.

"I am hoping that my work with the Giants' hitting drives will help me improve my hitting," said Walsh. "I have been struggling with my hitting all season, and I am hoping that my work with the Giants' hitting drives will help me improve."
American Contributors Lead Mission Rolls

The Church in the U.S. contributed a million and a half dollars to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith last year. This was the second largest contribution ever made by any country to the Society, which works for the spread of the Gospel among heathen in countries where the Catholic Church has not yet been able to carry its work.

The Society for the Propagation of the Faith, also known as the Missions, is a religious organization devoted to the propagation of the Gospel among the heathen. It was founded in 1717 by Pope St. Benedict XIII and is headquartered at the Vatican.

The contributions made by the Church in the U.S. are used to support Catholic missions and missionary work around the world. The Society for the Propagation of the Faith is one of the largest and most respected Catholic charities in the world, and it has a long history of successfully spreading the Gospel to parts of the world where the Catholic Church was previously unable to establish itself.

Pennsylvania Bus Bill Advances

WASHINGTON, Pa.—Pennsylvania State Representatives approved a bill providing for the establishment of a parochial-press seat on the Pennsylvania Board of Education. The bill, sponsored by Representative William W.冤and, was passed by the House of Representatives on 101 votes and by the Senate on 39 votes.

The legislation, styled as a constitutional amendment, was introduced by Representative W. W. Wood, chairman of the House Education Committee, and by Senator J. W. Johnson, chairman of the Senate Education Committee. The bill provides for the establishment of a parochial-press seat on the Pennsylvania Board of Education, to be appointed by the Governor.

The bill is in keeping with the decision of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court in the case ofPeople's Institute v. Commonwealth, decided in 1951, which upheld the constitutionality of the Pennsylvania Board of Education. The Board of Education has been held to be a public body, and its members are elected by the people of the state.

The new seat would be designated to represent the parochial-press element in the education of the state. The parochial-press seat would be filled by the Governor, and its duties would be to advise the Board of Education on matters relating to the education of parochial-press institutions.

The bill was passed by the House of Representatives on the same day, after a lengthy debate. The Senate debate lasted for several hours, during which time several amendments were proposed. The amendments were defeated, and the bill was passed with a majority vote of 39 to 0.

The Governor is expected to sign the bill into law, and it will become effective immediately.

Report on Schools

National CD Study

Cities Fire Hazards

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Nearly 10 percent of the nation’s public schools are in “serious” or “moderate” fire hazards, according to a study of the National Fire Protection Association. The study found that nearly one in five public schools has fire hazards that could result in a fire.

The study also found that nearly half of the schools are in “serious” fire hazards, such as lack of fire alarm systems, lack of fire extinguishers, and lack of fire drills.

The study recommends that school boards take immediate action to correct these hazards, and that the federal government provide financial assistance to help schools in need.

The study was conducted by the National Fire Protection Association, and was funded by the United States Department of Education. The results were presented to the National Association of School Boards.

SOUTH GRANGE—South Grange College has announced the following events:

- Concert: The college will present a concert featuring the music of Grieg, Tchaikovsky, and Beethoven, on March 25, at 8 p.m.
- Other Events: The college will also host a film screening of “The Sound of Music” on March 26, at 7 p.m.

The events are free and open to the public.

Court Test For R. I. Law

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) The Rhode Island State Board of Education will hold a hearing on March 24 to consider a challenge to the state’s law mandating the teaching of Bible in public schools.

The challenge was filed by the American Civil Liberties Union, which argues that the law violates the First Amendment.

The hearing will be held at 9 a.m. in the State House, and will be open to the public.

Mass Graduation For 200 Nurses

NEwaukee, Wis.—Nearly 200 nurses will graduate in a single ceremony at St. Patrick’s Hospital on May 3. The nurses are graduates of the hospital’s School of Nursing.

The ceremony will be held at 8 p.m. in the hospital’s Auditorium.

The nurses will be joined by family members and friends for the special occasion.

News

There was some speculation in the community that the bill would not pass, but the House of Representatives did pass it on a vote of 101 to 0.

The Senate debate lasted for several hours, during which time several amendments were proposed. The amendments were defeated, and the bill was passed with a majority vote of 39 to 0.

The Governor is expected to sign the bill into law, and it will become effective immediately.
