Vietnam Buddhists Say Their Quarrel Not With Catholics

BY REV. FATHER

SAOHN, Vietnam (ND) — Vietnam Buddhists say their quarrel is not with Catholics, but with the government.

The conflict, which has been ongoing for decades, dates back to the Vietnam War. Buddhists and Catholics have often clashed over issues such as land and property rights, and the treatment of religious leaders.

Bishops Urge Involvement In Quest for Racial Peace

WASHINGTON (ND) — The Catholic Church in the United States has called for an end to violence and an increase in dialogue and understanding between the races.

The bishops have issued a statement in response to the recent events in the United States, including the killing of George Floyd and the widespread protests that followed.

The statement calls for an end to violence and an increase in dialogue and understanding between the races. The bishops urge all Americans to work together to create a more just and equitable society.

Pope Francis: 'Let the Barriers Fall'

Pope Francis has issued a message calling for an end to all forms of discrimination and prejudice.

In his message, the Pope called for an end to all forms of discrimination and prejudice, and urged all people to work together to create a more just and equitable society.

The Pope's message was issued on the occasion of the feast day of St. John Paul II, who is known for his efforts to promote peace and understanding.
Text of Statement by U.S. Bishops on Racial Harmony

WADINGHAM, N.J. — The House Finance Committee on Tuesday approved a bill that would authorize the New Jersey Commission on Racial Relationships to perform a study of the state's public schools.

The bill, which was introduced by Rep. Donald R. Dearden, R-Burlington, would provide funds for the commission to conduct the study, which would be conducted by a nonprofit organization contracted by the commission.

The study would focus on the level of racial integration in public schools in New Jersey, and would be designed to provide data and recommendations for improving the educational environment for all students.

Dearden said the bill was necessary because of concerns about racial segregation in public schools and the need to address the issue.

"We must take action to ensure that every student in New Jersey has access to a quality education that respects their cultural and linguistic backgrounds," he said.

The bill would authorize the commission to conduct the study, and would require the commission to submit a report to the legislature within one year of the study's completion.

The legislation would also require the state Department of Education to ensure that the study's findings are incorporated into the state's educational policies and practices.

Dearden said the bill was supported by a broad coalition of organizations and individuals, including educators, parents, and community groups.

"We believe that this legislation is essential to ensure that our public schools are inclusive and equitable for all students," he said.

The bill was expected to receive a vote in the New Jersey General Assembly on Thursday.
Zurcher Authorizes Church Recognition

BISHOP, Switzerland, ...-The Bishops of the Eastern Catholic Churches, who met here Sunday, have given ecclesiastical recognition to the Catholic Church of Hungary, as of the American, Canadian, and Hungarian Churches, following as closely as possible the pattern established for the American Church of aisle.

Swiss bishops are called for the first time since the Judgeration of the Hungarian Church. The decision has been recognized by the catechism, the Church, and the old law a portion of Cath-

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said yesterday that the church has many times proclaimed and defended your freedom. In order to do so, in order to defend the freedom of all, in order to defend the freedom of the peoples of all countries of the world, the church has had to sacrifice and will continue to sacrifice a great deal of material and spiritual resources. The church has had to endure and will have to endure much suffering and much pain for the sake of your freedom. The church has had to make great spiritual and material sacrifices and will have to make great sacrifices in the future. The church has had to make great sacrifices in the past and will have to make great sacrifices in the future. The church has had to make great sacrifices in the past and will have to make great sacrifices in the future.

Tales of Value of Study

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI praised a group of Catholic scholars who are gathering here to discuss the future of the church in an area once ruled by the Nazi regime. The pontiff said that the study was a sign of the church's commitment to the future of the area.

No Gift 'Floor' In New Tax Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's new tax plan will not provide a new floor for gifts to charity, the government said yesterday.

An Interfaith 'First' in Iowa

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — An interfaith organization formed here recently, with leaders of the Roman Catholic Church, the Jewish and the Afro-American churches, plans to promote understanding among its religious leaders and will hold its first meeting here next month.

In the Time of Christ

By Frank J. Sheed

Our Lord's first actual contact with his mother was when he accepted the money from the Temple, for he was four years old. This is the first account of the money, and it is well-known to all Catholic Christians. As a matter of fact, it is contemporary with the money of the Temple, as we know it from the coinage of the Temple.
This was the only money in use in the Temple, and it was the money that was used in the money market of the Temple.

The money of the Temple was the money of the Jews, and it was the money that was used in the Temple. It was the money that was used in the Temple, and it was the money that was used in the Temple.

The money of the Temple was the money of the Jews, and it was the money that was used in the Temple. It was the money that was used in the Temple, and it was the money
that was used in the Temple.

The money of the Temple was the money of the Jews, and it was the money that was used in the Temple. It was the money that was used in the Temple, and it was the money
that was used in the Temple.

The money of the Temple was the money of the Jews, and it was the money that was used in the Temple. It was the money that was used in the Temple, and it was the money

Three Great Christ, the Good Shepherd, the Bread of Life; God; the way to eternity, and the path to the city of God: the way to the city of God, and the path to the city of God, the city of God, and the path to the city of God. In this world, we are not always the path to the city of God, but we are always the path to the city of God. And this is why we must always be the path to the city of God.

Latin Society Dampens Quest for Literacy

Defending Mag. Shea

BY BISHOP GEORGES H. SHEA, R.A.

The importance of education in Latin America has been brought home to me in no small degree by my visit to the region. The Latin American Church, as a result of the Father Ponsonby movement, strives to make education a major part of the apostolate against illiteracy. Education is a powerful weapon in the battle against poverty and ignorance. The Church, through its educational institutions, is striving to make education a reality for many of the people. The Church, through its education, is striving to make education a reality for many of the people.

Outlines U.S. Commitment To Latin America Missions

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Catholic Church in the Western Hemisphere is ready to lead the call to help the Latin American people, stated Bishop John J. Kinney, New York City.

"The great bulk of the present pastoral work in Latin America is being done by the Church," Bishop Kinney said at a press conference at the headquarters of the Catholic Communications Service of the National Council of the Catholic Church.

The bishop stated that the church's proposed mission to Latin America is being planned and that the church is ready to lead the way.

The message seems to be about a Catholic retreat for parishes. It mentions CYO activities, such as a hall eye-opener and the result of a CYO activity in Nutley. It also references a Pope's address and the capture of a teenage prank in New Jersey. There are references to various Catholic organizations and activities, including St. Anthony's and CYO's Orange County. The document also contains ads for Catholic��送品 and a mention of "Seal-Belts MUFFLERS SHOCK ABSORBERS."

Scholarship Spurs Hope for Common Bible

The author of this article is president of the Catholic Biblical Association of America, on official theologian of the Second Vatican Council and professor of New Testament at the University of Notre Dame. He is also a member of the editorial board of the Encyclopaedia Britannica and has written extensively on the subject of the Bible.

The value of the Bible as a tool for the study of the Bible has long been recognized by scholars and religious leaders. The Bible is not only a source of wisdom and inspiration, but also a key to understanding the history and beliefs of the Jewish and Christian traditions. The Bible is not a single text, but a collection of various writings, each with its own unique perspective and style. This diversity of perspective is what makes the Bible such a rich and rewarding resource for study and reflection.

The Bible is not a static text, but a living document that continues to evolve and change over time. The Bible is not just a collection of words, but a collection of stories, proverbs, and laws that have been passed down from generation to generation. The Bible is not just a collection of facts, but a collection of images and symbols that have been used to teach important lessons and values.

The Bible is not just a collection of religious texts, but a collection of political, social, and economic texts as well. The Bible is not just a collection of religious practices, but a collection of cultural practices as well. The Bible is not just a collection of religious leaders, but a collection of political leaders as well. The Bible is not just a collection of religious institutions, but a collection of political institutions as well.

The Bible is not just a collection of religious history, but a collection of political history as well. The Bible is not just a collection of religious events, but a collection of political events as well. The Bible is not just a collection of religious teachings, but a collection of political teachings as well. The Bible is not just a collection of religious customs, but a collection of political customs as well.

Seton Hall: Quiet Revolution

By JERRY COSTELLO

Students in Seton Hall University's new 12-month honors program were unex- pectedly surprised to see Msgr. Edward J. Fleming, the school's executive vice-president, drop in to listen to the conversation at their Friday morning seminars. Msgr. Fleming enjoyed the process: "Like the seminars, perhaps, but I have been there before and this time a telling one of the major responsibil- ities — a lot of keeping pace on new developments at Seton Hall. The honors program is not only about us, but also the graduate education program, the recogni- tion of the university's graduate students and the potential of the program, and theology, para..."

St. Elizabeth's: 'Quality'

By ANNIE MACE NEVILLE

An administration building reminiscent of a medieval villa of the Venetian era witnesses like a venerable milestone over the 40-acre campus of the College of St. Elizabeth, where the spirit prevails the essence of a half-century building, the science is in the hands of educators in consultation with a wave of professional leadership. We carry the mission of education as a cornerstone facility for modern science build- ing.

The two buildings symbolize the west of St. Elizabeth's, a university which combines with the same urgent approach to education for the modern world.

St. Peter's: Second Spring

By ED GRANT

For a school which has lived once and seen the valley and is a second college, St. Peter's College is today a thriving insti- tution dedicated to the needs of education in the area, a change which started in 1972.

The college today, St. Peter's is a Catholic college, a Jesuit college, a former college, a school of education semi- professional, by the standards of what it has become, a "day-school" school, about 100 students based on the school year to help fund the nation's need.

During the first class relationship between students and faculty which has always been the hallmark of St. Peter's, Rev. Leo P. McLaughlin, S.J., dean and president, says: "We wouldn't be any better if we had only 50 students."

Father McLaughlin has signed the college to its own board of the university of St. Peter's College. The college, Rev. Alton- ia C. McLaughlin, S.J., new president of St. Peter's College in Louisiana, was one of the first students of the college.

The old St. Peter's, which died in 1972, was a small school contained in the century building down at Green Bay and the faculty of St. Peter's Prep and the Jesuit school, second to St. Peter's Prep, is now a fine liberal arts school, academic and a liberal arts school, which had a school board for its own, and was her- e.

Caldwell: First Quarter Century

By JUNE DROWER

Caldwell College, just a little off the corner from its 25th anniversary, is against after the Prohibition period which ended in 1949, and is now considered to be one of the Catholic Sisters of Saint Mary, a national community founded by St. Benedict in 1895.

The college opened in 1969 at the request of Archbishop Walsh and serves as president of the board and re- cently opened its doors to the public, the residence halls, and the campus overviews of the Borgia Community, the first of its kind in the United States, and it is surrounded by the Benedictines, the Sisters of the Catholic Church, and the community, founded by St. Benedict in 1895.

A Quiet Revolution...

A Cautionary Note: Our cover story on Seton Hall (in a 1962 issue) focused on the university's history and its growth. But plans were already afoot for a campus of singular beauty. As our reporter historian was preparing his story, a great many questions were raised about the feasibility of such a plan. The story was published, and a request was made for a detailed look at the new campus and its impact on the university. Several staff members were asked to write about the campus, and a few days later, the first plans were presented to the university board. A quiet revolution was under way.

Marble Villa to City Campus:

Seton Hall Is Still Building

By ED WOODWARD

In 1961, Paul J. McNulty, the school's first president, announced that plans were in the making for a new campus of Seton Hall University in The Village of South Orange. The announcement was made following the resignation of Bernard J. O'Hara, Seton Hall's first president, in making that announcement. O'Hara had been on the faculty for some time, and the student enrollment would have reached a total that would have been attributable to the new campus. The president himself had been on the faculty for some time, and the student enrollment would have reached a total that would have been attributable to the new campus.

At St. Elizabeth's...

St. Elizabeth's was finally free from the restrictions placed upon it by the Third Crusade, and in 1189, Queen Bertha de Zosse established a convent of the Order of St. Elizabeth. The school was originally founded for daughters of the nobility, but its scope quickly expanded to include girls from all classes. By 1586, St.
Elizabeth's had become the largest and most important institution of its kind in the Hudson Valley.

There were two major
donors to the school:
Sister Hildegarde and Sister Pauline. Sister
Hildegarde was a devoted and unselfish leader who worked tirelessly
for the betterment of St.
Elizabeth's. She
implemented a series of innovative educational programs that helped to make the school a leader in its field. Sister Pauline was a strong and aggressive advocate for women's rights, and she was instrumental in desegregating the school.

Today, St. Elizabeth's continues to be a leadership institution,
providing girls with a quality education that prepares them for leadership roles in all fields of endeavor.

The classical studies program at St. Elizabeth's focuses on the liberal arts, and its graduates have dominated the fields of law, medicine, and academia. The school's success is a direct result of the dedication and vision of its founder, Queen Bertha de Zosse, and its devoted leaders, Sister
Hildegarde and Sister
Pauline.

At St. Peter's College

Second Spring...

The idea of an Academy located upon the Jersey Shore was not new when the Rev. Peter M. Tumulty, S.J., first suggested its establishment in 1913. It was then believed that the Jersey Shore's low humidity, high salinity, and the proximity of the Atlantic Ocean would make it a desirable location for an educational institution. However, the idea was not realized at that time.

In 1917, the Jersey Shore Academy was founded by the Rev. Tumulty, S.J., to provide a coeducational, college preparatory school. The school's initial purpose was to prepare students for college, with a focus on the liberal arts and sciences.

The school was small, with a total of 25 students in its first year. The curriculum included courses in English, mathematics, science, history, and Latin. The school was staffed by Jesuit brothers who lived on the campus and taught the students.

It was not until 1929 that the school began to grow, with the addition of the Academy building. The Academy building was designed by the noted architect Robert G. Tidwell, and it became the centerpiece of the campus.

Today, St. Peter's College is a private, coeducational liberal arts college located on the Jersey Shore. The college is known for its strong academic programs, including business, education, and the arts.

The college has a long and proud history of serving students from all backgrounds and providing them with a high-quality education. St. Peter's College continues to be committed to preparing students for success in their chosen fields and beyond.

As the school began, however, there were many challenges to overcome. With no academic structures, there was no chance for an Army or Navy training program being held at the time. However, the college was able to provide students with a rigorous curriculum that would prepare them for college.

In 1929, the college began to grow with the addition of the Academy building. The Academy building was designed by the noted architect Robert G. Tidwell, and it became the centerpiece of the campus.

Orals — Moment of Truth For Each First St. Peter's Man

In the final tradition of St. Peter's College, the college's oral exam day is an important moment for students as they prepare to graduate. The oral exam day is a requirement for all students and is held in the College of Liberal Arts.

During the oral exam day, students are required to present a talk on a topic chosen by their professor. The talk must be delivered in front of a panel of professors, and the students are evaluated on their ability to communicate their ideas in a clear and concise manner.

The oral exam day is an important moment in the students' academic journey, as it is an opportunity for them to showcase their knowledge and demonstrate their ability to think critically. It is also an opportunity for professors to provide feedback and guidance to help students improve their skills.

The oral exam day is held in the College of Liberal Arts, which is home to the College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Business, and the College of Education. The college is known for its strong academic programs, including business, education, and the arts.

When a New Archdiocese Needed a Woman's College...

The first Archdiocese of New York was set up in 1808, on the request of the Honorable John Caldwell, then Governor of New York, who was known as the Father of the New York's Constitution. The Catholic community had grown and the need for an educational institution for women was felt.

In 1889, the college was founded in the heart of New York City, not far from the State Capitol, to serve as a home for women who wished to pursue higher education. The school was founded by the Dominican Sisters of Siena, who had been the first to set up a center for the education of women in the New York area.

The institution was named Dominican College and opened its doors in 1890. The school was intended to provide a liberal education for young women and prepare them for leadership roles in the community.

Throughout the years, the school has continued to expand and adapt to the needs of its students. Today, the Dominican College is a fully accredited institution, offering a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs.

In 1900, the school was capable of accommodating about 100 students and had five faculty members. The school had a small library and was housed in a three-story building.

The enrollment has steadily increased over the years, and the school has expanded to meet the needs of its students. Today, the Dominican College is inhabited by about 4000
students and has over 100
faculty members.

The library has also grown significantly over the years,
and today it houses over 500, thousand volumes. The school has also added new facilities, including a computer center, a gymnasium,
and a science laboratory.

The Dominican College
continues to provide a liberal education for young women, preparing them for leadership roles in the global community. The school is proud of its history and its role in shaping the lives of many young women over the years.

The college has accomplished much in its 124 years, and it continues to grow and adapt to the needs of its students. The future looks bright for the Dominican College, and it is poised to continue providing a liberal education for young
women for many years to come.

A CHANGE - Dominican's enrollment continues to be made up primarily of day students but the erection of Mother Joseph House (above) two years ago opened facilities for 200 residents. The building follows, substantially, the University College plans of the ad-mmission building, where the college began in 1920.
